[THE INDIAN] TRAMWAYS ACT, 1902
(Act IV of 1902.)

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

"By the Indian Railway Companies Act, 1895 (X of 1895) it is provided that Railway Companies registered under the Indian Companies Act, 1882 (VI of 1882), may under certain conditions, pay interest on their paid-up share capital out of capital during construction, and it is proposed by this Bill to take power for the Governor-General in Council to apply the same provisions to companies formed for the construction of tramways not differing in structure and working from light railways. It is believed that legislation to this end will remove what is recognised as a tangible obstacle to the consideration in London of many remunerative light railway projects in India which, for administrative reasons, it is desired to control in this country under the provisions, not of the Railways, but of the Tramways, Act"

[THE INDIAN] TRAMWAYS ACT, 1902.
(ACT IV OF 1902)[a]

[14th February, 1902.]

An Act to apply the provisions of the Indian Railway Companies Act, 1895, to certain Tramway Companies.

WHEREAS by the Indian Railway Companies Act, 1895, the Railway Companies therein mentioned are authorised to pay interest on their paid-up share capital out of capital in the manner and on the conditions prescribed by the said Act;

AND WHEREAS it is expedient to apply the provisions of the said Act to Companies formed for the construction of tramways not differing in structure and working from light railways ;

It is hereby enacted as follows : —

[a] For Statement of Objects and Reasons, see Gazette of India, 1901, Pt. V, p. 105; for Report of the Select Committee, see ibid., 1902, Pt. V, p. 27.

Short title and extent.

1. (1) This Act may be called the Indian Tramways Act, 1902 ; and

(2) It extends to the whole of British India.[a]

[a] The expression 'the whole of British India," in its application to the Dominion of India, means 'all the Provinces of India'—see I O., Art. 4 (2) ; and in its application to the Dominion of Pakistan, means 'all the Provinces of Pakistan' —see P. O , Art. 4 (2). [15-8-1947]

Application of Act X 1895 to Tramway Companies.

2. The [a][Central Government] may, by notification in the [b][Official Gazette], direct that the provisions of the Indian Railway Companies Act, 1895, in so far as the same are applicable, shall apply to any Company formed for the construction of a tramway under the Bengal Tramways Act, 1883, or the Indian Tramways Act, 1886, and thereupon it shall be lawful for the Tramway Company mentioned in the notification to pay interest upon its paid-up share capital out of capital in the manner and subject to the conditions prescribed by the said Indian Railway Companies Act, 1895.

OBJECTS AND REASONS.

" In accordance with the suggestion made by the Government of Bengal, we have inserted in clause 2 a reference to the Bengal Tramways Act 1883 (Beng. Act III of 1883), so as to cover companies formed for the construction of tramways under that Act. There are in the Statute book several other enactments authorising the construction and regulating the working of tramways but each of these—see, for example, the Bombay Tramways Act, 1874 (Bom. Act I of 1874)—deals entirely with a special concession granted to certain individuals, the Bengal enactment being the only local Act drawn on general lines like the Imperial Act of 1886 The Bengal case, therefore, alone requires to be provided for."—S. It is clear that the amendments introduced by the sections mentioned in it will not affect anything done before the 1st of April 1930 in any proceeding pending in a Court on that day. As to whether those amendments are retrospective in operation so as to apply to cases where the act was done before the 1st of April 1930, but the suit was instituted after that date, see Notes under the respective provisions amended.

1. "Herein."
2. "Affect."
3. Clause (a).
4. Clause (b)—Right to partition.
5. Clause (c).
6. Clause (d).
7. Escheat.
8. Muhammadan law.
9. Hindu and Buddhist laws.

1. "Herein."— [1] "Herein" refers to any of the provisions of this Act. (Vol 1) 1914 Cal 618 (621) (DB). [But see ('11) 9 Ind Cas 840 (840) Cal).]

2. "Affect". — [1] A provision of the Act will apply to Muhammadans also when there is no rule of Muhammadan law inconsistent with such provision. ('07) 30 Mad 197 (198, 199) (DB). (Section 51 applied to Mahomedans)

[2] It was held in ('01) 28 Cal 744 (747) (DB) that the word "affect" means "validate or invalidate the transfer," that S. 111, cl. (d) did not affect the transfer itself but merely stated the result of a transfer when made. This view had not been followed in later cases of the same High Court. See ('36) 163 Ind Cas 829 (830) (Cal)✠(Vol 1) 1914 Cal 618 (622) (DB) ✠ (Vol 6) 1919 Cal 642 (643) (DB).

3. Clause (a). — [1] The clause applies so as to save the provisions of existing enactments at the time the Act came into operation. If a subsequent enactment is inconsistent with a provision of this Act the special provision will prevail over the general. ('02) 25 Mad 244 (255) (FB).

4. Clause (b)—Right to partition.—[1] A right to a partition of joint property is an incident of such property. ('79) 4 Cal 55 (59) (DB). (Joint property subject to trust but not dedicated to idol, can be partitioned.)

[2] The right to partition may be exercised independently of the provisions of this Act as to writing being necessary in case of certain transfers. ('98) 25 Cal 210 (213) (DB)✠ ('10) 34 Mad 72 (73) (DB).

5. Clause (c). — [1] "Right or liability" means a substantive right or liability and not a matter of procedure. ('91) 13 All 432 (456) (FB) ✠ ('86) 12 Cal 583 (589) (FB) ✠ ('01) 25 Bom 101 (103) (DB).

[2] The Act is not retrospective in operation in so far as any substantive right or liability created by the legal relation is concerned, but will be retrospective in so far as the provisions relate to procedure. (Vol 6) 1919 P C 1 (3) : 42 Mad 589 : 46 Ind App 109 (PC) ✠ ('87) 14 Cal 636 (640) (FB) ✠ (Vol 22) 1935 All 706 (710) : 58 All 63 (FB) ✠ (Vol 21) 1934 Pesh 30 (31) (DB) ✠ ('89) 11 All 367 (371) (DB) ✠ ('92) 15 Mad 290 (291) (DB).

[3] An oral mortgage, sale or gift before the Act is valid and enforceable after the date of the Act. (Vol 3) 1916 P C 41 (43) : 38 All 494 : 43 Ind App 264 (PC) ✠ ('02) 4 Bom L R 25 (27) (DB) ✠ ('02) 12 Mad L Jour 387 (388) (DB).

[4] A written mortgage executed before the Act is not rendered bad after the Act because it did not comply with the requirements as to attestation. ('11) 39 Cal 227 (230) (DB)✠('95) 17 All 252 (261, 262) (DB).

Interpretation clause.

3. In this Act, unless there is something repugnant in the subject or context,—

"immoveable property" does not include standing timber, growing crops or grass :

[5] The incident of non-transferability which attached before the Act to ordinary tenancies of agricultural lands and to tenancies of homestead lands and the rights and liabilities flowing from such an incident are not affected by the Act. (Vol 3) 1916 Cal 827 (828) (DB) ✠ (Vol 1) 1914 Cal 665 (666) (DB) ✠ (Vol 15) 1928 Pat 431 (433) : 7 Pat 341 (DB).

[6] The assignment of a mortgage after the date of the Act will be governed by this Act even though the mortgage itself was made prior to the Act. ('86) 12 Cal 505 (508) (DB) ✠ ('88) 11 Mad 56 (60, 61) (DB).

[But see (Vol 1) 1914 Low Bur 207 (207) (DB).]

[7] Even in matters of procedure enacted in some sections of this Act, such provisions cannot operate to revive rights which became extinct, or to take away rights which had been obtained before the Act. ('89) 16 Cal 693 (701) : 16 Ind App 85 (PC) ✠ ('87) 14 Cal 599 (604) (DB) ✠ ('12) 8 Nag L R 136 (137) ✠ (Vol 1) 1914 All 350 (350) (DB) ✠ ('96) 19 Mad 382 (384) (DB) ✠ ('86) 12 Cal 436 (437) (DB) ✠ ('06) 29 Mad 421 (423) (DB) ✠ ('99) 23 Bom 119 (121) (DB).

[8] In so far as there was no enactment governing the particular case, the rights of parties before the date of the Act should be decided according to the Common law, or in its absence according to justice, equity and good conscience. ('15) 22 Cal L Jour 74 (75) ✠ (Vol 19) 1932 P C 158 (161) : 59 Ind App 236 : 7 Luck 257 (PC) ✠ (Vol 22) 1935 Bom 41 (42) : 59 Bom 194 (DB) ✠ ('10) 37 Cal 815 (821) (DB). (Law of fixtures recognised by English law does not find place in Common law of India.)✠(Vol 6) 1919 Cal 529 (531) (DB).

[9] The Courts may also apply the general rules of this Act to cases before this Act. (Vol 6) 1919 P C 1 (3): 42 Mad 589: 46 Ind App 109 (PC)✠('99) 26 Cal 39 (45): 25 Ind App 179 (PC) ✠ ('01) 24 Mad 47 (56) (FB).

6. Clause (d).—[1] Where a party is adjudged an insolvent, a sale by the Official Receiver to a party is governed by this Act. (Vol 29) 1942 Oudh 424 (424, 425): 18 Luck 433 (D B). ((Vol 26) 1939 Oudh 55 : 14 Luck 404, Overruled,) ✠ (Vol 14) 1927 Mad 1 (2, 3) : 50 Mad 135 (F B). (S. 43 applied—Krishnan J. dissenting.)

[2] A transfer by the Official Liquidator of a company which has been wound up, is not one either by operation of law, or by or in execution of a decree or order of a Court. (Vol 4) 1917 Bom 151 (152) : 42 Bom 215 (D B).

[3] In some cases a transfer by a court sale has been referred to as a transfer by "operation of law". ('93) 20 Cal 236 (239) (D B) ✠ ('81) 7 Cal 107 (118): 8 Ind App 65 (P C).

[4] A transfer under a compromise sanctioned by the Court is not a transfer "by a decree of Court". (Vol 3) 1916 Cal 644 (645) (D B). (The word "not" appears to have been omitted by clerical mistake.)

[5] Illustrations of transfers to which this Act does not apply:

(a) Purchase of debt at an execution sale is not affected by S. 135 ('92) 15 Mad 382 (383) (D B)✠ ('11) 1 Mad W N 133 (134) (D B).

(b) Assignment by Court of a security bond executed in favour of a Court is a transfer by order of Court and is valid even if made without a registered instrument. (Vol 30) 1943 Pat 218 (223): 22 Pat 114 (DB)✠(Vol 18) 1931 All 389(390): 53 All 786 (FB).

(f) Sections 2 (d) and 5 prevent S. 53 operating in case of transfer under order or decree of Court. (Vol 29) 1942 Mad 632 (633): I L R (1943) Mad 47 (D B).

[6] The principles underlying the provisions of the Act may be applied to transfers by operation of law or by or in execution of a decree or order of a Court. (Vol 29) 1942 Mad 632 (633, 634): I L R (1943) Mad 47 (D B). (Principle of S. 53 applied)✠(Vol 17) 1930 Rang 132 (133): 7 Rang 734 (D B). (Doctrine of lis pendens) ✠ ('01) 28 Cal 744 (747) (D B). 7. Escheat.—[1] On the death of a Hindu dying without heirs, his estate escheats to the Crown, by operation of law. (1860) 8 Moo Ind App 500 (523, 524) (P C). (Escheat is subject to the trusts and charges previously affecting estate.)

8. Muhammadan law. — [1] Where there is no rule of Muhammadan law inconsistent with the Act, the Act will apply. (Vol 17) 1930 All 462 (465) : 52 All 710 (D B). (Provisions of S. 53 in no way offend any rule of Muhammadan law.)

[2] The "Muhammadan law" is only the law so far as the laws of India have directed it to be observed and not Muhammadan law in force under Muhammadan Governments. ('70) 4 Beng L R 134 (169) (F B).

[3] Legislature in passing this Act did not intend to alter the Muhammadan law of pre-emption. (Vol 10) 1923 P C 41 (44): 48 Ind App 475: 45 Bom 1056 (P C).

9. Hindu and Buddhist laws. — [1] Under the section prior to the amendment in 1929, the rules of Hindu and Buddhist laws were also saved from the operation of the provisions in the second chapter of the Act.

[3] If it is proved, that a person signed the document before the executant executed it, he cannot be said to be an attesting witness. (Vol 13) 1926 Cal 637 (638) (DB) ✠ (Vol 10) 1923 Nag 45 (46) ✠ (Vol 3) 1916 Oudh 185 (186) (DB) ✠ ('80) 5 Cal 738 (739) (DB) ✠ ('09) 5 Nag L R 3 (4).

CHAPTER II.

OF TRANSFERS OF PROPERTY BY ACT OF PARTIES.

(A) Transfer of Property, whether moveable or immoveable.

"Transfer of property" defined.

5. In the following sections "transfer of property" means an act by which a living person conveys property, in present or in future, to one or more other living persons, or to himself, [a][or to himself] and one or more other living persons; and "to transfer property" is to perform such act.

[a][In this section "living person" includes a company or association or body of individuals, whether incorporated or not, but nothing herein contained shall affect any law for the time being in force relating to transfer of property to or by companies, associations or bodies of individuals.]

1. Scope.
2. Act not exhaustive of all kinds of transfers.
3. "Living persons."
4. "Conveys."
5. "Property."
6. Legal and equitable estates.
7. "In present or in future."

1. Scope. — [1] Definition of the expression "transfer of property" given in this section does not apply to the expression used in other Acts. (Vol 10) 1923 Bom 107 (113).

[But see (Vol 20) 1933 Cal 467 (468) : 60 Cal 379 ✠ (Vol 11) 1924 All 508 (508).]

[2] Definition does not exclude properties outside British India. (Vol 19) 1932 Bom 642 (643) : 57 Bom 234.

[3] There is nothing to suggest that the words "transfer of property" are intended to confine the operation of the Act to transfers by contract; the "transfer" may also be of a non-contractual character. ('95) 22 Cal 185 (202).

[4] Transfer of property under various provisions of the Act can be effected only in the way required by law and not in any other way. ('01) 24 Mad 377 (384) : 28 Ind App 46 (P C).

2. Act not exhaustive of all kinds of transfers. — [1] Act is not exhaustive of all modes of transfers. (Vol 14) 1927 Sind 206 (208) (DB)✠(Vol 6) 1919 Mad 1113 (1115) (D B)✠('09) 34 Mad 442 (449) (D B).

3. "Living persons."—[1] Joint Hindu family is a juristic person. (Vol 21) 1934 All 553 (556) (D B).

[2] Hindu math is a juristic person. ('04) 28 Bom 215 (223) (S B).

[3] Dedication in favour of an idol would be governed by the provisions of S. 123, T. P. Act. (Vol 18) 1931 Oudh 14 (14) (D B).

[4] Gift to a deity would be governed by the provisions of the Act other than those in Chapter II of the Act, though the deity may not be a living person, but S. 123 does not in terms apply to such gifts. (Vol 13) 1926 Nag 469 (470).

[5] Gift to God Almighty is a transfer governed by the provisions of the Act. (Vol 16) 1929 All 277 (278) (D B).

[6] Hindu idol is treated as a living being, but the question is not one arising under this section. (Vol 10) 1923 Cal 60 (62) (D B).

[See however ('08) 12 Cal W N 808 (811).]

[7] Juristic person is not necessarily a living person and the fact that for some purposes the law invests non-animate bodies with the rights of persons would not make juristic persons living persons for all purposes. (Vol 14) 1927 Mad 636 (638, 639) . 50 Mad 687 (F B) ✠ (Vol 6) 1919 Mad 809 (811) : 42 Mad 440 (D B) ✠ (Vol 17) 1930 Pat 610 (612) (D B).

[8] Transfer of property to idol — Provisions of this Act do not apply. (Vol 33) 1946 Oudh 256 (257).

[9] Court is not a juridical person. (Vol 6) 1919 P C 55 (59) : 42 All 158 : 46 Ind App 228 : 22 Oudh Cas 212 (P C).

[10] Court sale is not a "transfer of property." (Vol 25) 1938 Oudh 84 (86) : 13 Luck 746 (D B) ✠ (Vol 16) 1929 All 800 (801) (DB).

[11] Expression "transfer" by itself is not altogether appropriate to indicate a sale in invitum by the Court. (Vol 15) 1928 Mad 571 (574) (D B).

[12] Auction-purchaser is not a person to whom the judgment-debtor conveys any property. (Vol 26) 1939 All 687 (688) : I L R (1939) All 885 (D B).

[13] Will is not a "transfer of property." (Vol 31) 1944 Oudh 65 (70) (D B)✠(Vol 11) 1924 All 508 (508) ✠ (Vol 9) 1922 Mad 457 (468) : 46 Mad 190 (F B).

4. "Conveys." — [1] Performance of an act by a person implies that the person conveying is entitled to the property sought to be conveyed, and is conveying it to a person who has no title to such property otherwise. (Vol 16) 1929 Oudh 334 (336) : 4 Luck 243.

[2] It is not necessary to constitute transfer of property that word "convey" should be used — It is sufficient if document shows transfer of ownership. (Vol 23) 1936 Mad 918 (919).

[3] Family arrangement in respect of property "is based on the assumption that there was an antecedent title of some kind in the parties, and the agreement acknowledges and defines what that title is." [4] Family arrangement by which each party takes a share of the family property is not a conveyance of property from a person who has title to it to a person who has no title to it. (Vol 14) 1927 Oudh 572 (573) : 2 Luck 662 (DB) ✠ (Vol 17) 1930 All 498 (502) (DB).

[5] Family arrangement is not a "transfer of property." (Vol 15) 1928 All 641 (643) : 51 All 79 (FB) ✠ (Vol 24) 1937 All 578 (580): I L R (1937) All 817 (FB)✠ (Vol 1) 1914 P C 44 (45) (PC).

[6] Existence of a dispute in præsenti between members of the family or the existence of a doubtful claim is not essential for the validity of a family arrangement. (Vol 31) 1944 Oudh 65 (72): 19 Luck 320 (DB). ((Vol 28) 1941 Oudh 185 and (Vol 24) 1937 Oudh 347, Not referred to) ✠ (Vol 30) 1943 All 101 (104, 105) : I L R (1943) All 411 (F B). ((Vol 13) 1926 All 194, Overruled.) ✠ ('09) 10 Cal L Jour 503 (510) (DB)✠('06) 4 Cal L Jour 323 (331).

[7] Arrangement merely for the maintenance of peace and harmony and the avoidance of future discord or for the preservation of the family property, is a valid family arrangement. (Vol 31) 1944 Oudh 65 (72) : 19 Luck 320 (DB). (Essential thing is that arrangement should be for consideration other than love and affection.) ✠ (Vol 30) 1943 All 101 (104, 105) : I L R (1943) All 411 (FB). [8] Object of arrangement to preserve family property, family peace and family honour — Quantum of consideration which moved parties to arrangement is not to be scanned with much nicety. (Vol 31) 1944 Oudh 65 (72) : 19 Luck 320 (DB) ✠ (Vol 30) 1943 All 101 (104, 105) : I L R (1943) All 411 (FB) ✠ ('09) 10 Cal L Jour 503 (510) (DB) ✠ ('06) 4 Cal L Jour 323 (331) (DB).

[9] Title of A to property X undisputed — No question of any claim by B to it — Arrangement between A and B by which X is transferred to B is not "family arrangement" but will be "transfer of property." (Vol 15) 1928 All 641 (643) : 51 All 79 (FB) ✠ (Vol 25) 1938 Oudh 97 (98) : 14 Luck 9.

[10] It is the substance of the transaction that must be regarded in arriving at a conclusion as to what the transaction really is. (Vol 16) 1929 All 788 (789) (DB)

[11] Settlement of disputed claims between persons who may not be members of the same family, by which the claim of one person is relinquished and the existing rights of the other are acknowledged, is not a "transfer of property." [9] Agreement not to divide the spes successionis does not contravene the provisions of cl. (a) of this section, but is otherwise not binding on the parties. ('10) 34 Mad 527 (532) (DB).

6. "The chance of a relation obtaining a legacy." — [1] Testator agreed with legatee that he would give him legacy — Breach of agreement may give legatee right to sue for damages, but will not give him any right or interest in property itself so as to be capable of being transferred. ('06) 9 Oudh Cas 55 (62) (DB).

7. "Any other mere possibility of a like nature." — [1] Possibility prohibited by the section must belong to the same category as the chance of an heir-apparent succeeding to an estate or the chance of a relation obtaining a legacy. (Vol 6) 1919 Mad 718 (726) (DB). (Words "of a like nature" are merely express statement of general rule of ejusdem generis applicable in interpretation of statutes.)

[4] Right which vendor of immovable property has in purchase-money agreed to be paid on execution is, so long as conveyance is not executed, a mere possibility and is not attachable under the Civil P. C. ('81) 3 All 12 (14) (D B).

[5] Right to offerings which future worshippers may give to a temple is not a mere possibility of a like nature to the chances referred to in the clause. cular kind of property. (Vol 27) 1940 Pat 516 (536) : 19 Pat 433 (DB).

[2] Section does not lay down any canon of construction but is a rule relating to the legal effect of a grant. (Vol 6) 1919 Mad 338 (338, 339) (DB).

[3] Object of the section is "to stabilize title and to remove, from the region of pure speculation, what passed in the mind of the transferor or the transferee at the date of the transfer." (Vol 16) 1929 All 465 (474) (FB).

2. Sales in invitum. — [1] Section does not, in terms, apply to transfers in invitum. (Vol 3) 1916 Mad 323 (325) : 39 Mad 283 (DB) ✠ (Vol 26) 1939 All 415 (417) : I L R (1939) All 607 (FB)

[2] Principles underlying the section are of general applicability and will apply even to sales in invitum. (Vol 18) 1931 All 62 (64) : 52 All 985 (DB).

[3] Sales in execution of money decrees — Question as to extent of property and interest of judgment-debtor therein sold depends upon what Court intended to sell and purchaser understood he bought ('04) 27 Mad 131 (141, 142) : 31 Ind App 1 (P C)✠('90) 17 Cal 584 (589) : 17 Ind App 10 (P C)

[4] Sale will pass to the purchaser all the legal incidents of the property sold (Vol 6) 1919 Oudh 432 (432) : 21 Oudh Cas 263✠(Vol 10) 1923 Pat 355 (356)✠ (Vol 21) 1934 Cal 610 (614) : 61 Cal 991 (DB)✠(Vol 27) 1940 All 427 (428) : I L R (1940) All 599 (DB) ✠ ('74) 22 Suth W R 522 (522) (DB).

[5] On the failure of the owner to pay Government assessment his estate or interest in the land is forfeited to the Government and what is sold is not the interest of the defaulting owner but the interest of the Crown subject to the payment of the Government assessment. (Vol 14) 1927 P C 135 (137) : 54 Ind App 218 : 54 Cal 669 (P C). (Interest of Crown will not include building put upon land by defaulting proprietor.)✠(Vol 1) 1914 P C 82 (83) (P C).

3. 'Unless a different intention is expressed or necessarily implied." — [1] It is the intention to the contrary that must be expressed or necessarily implied. ('76) 1 Bom 91 (94) (DB).

[2] Reservation of rights in a transfer cannot be inferred or necessarily implied apart from the terms of the document itself, except where the document is ambiguous, in which case the Court can consider extraneous circumstances. (Vol 4) 1917 Cal 663 (664) (DB).

[3] Words "from generation to generation" in a transfer import the transfer of an absolute estate. ('76) 1 Cal 391 (398) : 3 Ind App 92 (P C)✠('87) 14 Cal 296 (307) : 14 Ind App 7 (P C).

[4] Sanadi grant in inam, saranjam, etc., imports the grant ordinarily of the land revenue and not the grant of the land itself. (Vol 10) 1923 P C 6 (7) : 47 Bom 327 : 50 Ind App 49 (P C).

[6] Words "istemrari mokerrari" in a patta do not per se convey an estate of inheritance though it may be permanent during the lifetime of the grantee. ('86) 12 Cal 117 (130) : 12 Ind App 205 (P C) ✠ (1900) 27 Cal 156 (165) : 26 Ind App 216 (P C).

[7] Word "kayam patta" or "kayam saswata patta" do not per se convey an estate of inheritance though it may be permanent during the life-time of the grantee. ('92) 15 Mad 199 (201, 202) (DB) ✠ (Vol 3) 1916 Mad 500 (500) (DB).

[8] Word "mowrasi" denotes a heritable estate ('03) 30 Cal 883 (892) (DB).

[9] Word "malik" denotes a heritable estate. (Vol 15) 1928 Oudh 67 (72).

[10] Trees standing on land mortgagaged to A and subsequently land sold to B—No mention in sale deed of mortgage to A — Non-mention of mortgage in sale deed held did not amount to contrary implied intention. ('98) 22 Bom 610 (612) (DB).

4. Maintenance grants.—[1] A grant for maintenance is limited to the life of the grantee ('01) 25 Bom 563 (573) : 28 Ind App 198 (P C). (Deed clearly stating that grantee is to have absolute interest. Such interest cannot be controlled by mere fact that motive of grant was maintenance.)✠(Vol 31) 1944 All 17 (21) : I L R (1943) All 892 (DB). (Mere use of words "always", "for ever" or "made owner" (malik) does not per se create heritable estate.) ✠ ('01) 23 All 194 (205) : 28 Ind App 1 (P C). (Do.)

[2] Original deed of maintenance not forthcoming— Successive enjoyment of property transferred for several generations held justified presumption that grant though made for maintenance was intended to be absolute. (Vol 31) 1944 Oudh 65 (77) : 19 Luck 320 (DB) ✠ ('06) 4 Cal L Jour 399 (400) ✠ ('82) 4 Mad 371 (372) (DB).

5. Hindu law.—[1] If the donor does not confer upon the donee, who is a Hindu female, express power of alienation, such power may nevertheless be deduced from the terms of the gift if the words used are sufficient to confer upon her absolute ownership, unless the circumstances or the context show that such absolute ownership was not intended. (Vol 17) 1930 P C 239 (242) : 57 Ind App 282 : 11 Lah 645 (P C) ✠ (Vol 17) 1930 P C 253 (254) : 57 Ind App 291 (P C).

[2] Under Mithila school of Hindu law, a gift by a husband to his wife will convey only a life interest to the wife. This limitation does not apply to transfers for consideration, which have to be construed in the same way as any other transfer (Vol 15) 1928 P C 112 (114) : 55 Ind App 197 : 7 Pat 500 (P C).

[3] The amendment of S 2 of the Act by omitting the word "Hindu" must now be taken to abrogate the said rule of Mithila law.

[4] The principle laid down in S. 8 is not of much practical utility when the interpretation of a transfer by a Hindu in favour of a Hindu female is in question as the words "by necessary implication" in that section do attract the operation of the general notion of a Hindu that a Hindu woman ordinarily gets an estate for life and not an absolute estate. (Vol 22) 1935 All 43 (45) (D B).

6. Grant for an indefinite period.—[1] If a grant be made to a person for a period but the period is indefinite, it enures, for his life-time and passes no interest to his heirs, unless there are words showing an intention to grant a hereditary interest. ('78) 3 Cal 210 (212) : 4 Ind App 223 (P C). (This rule of construction will not apply if term for which grant is made is fixed or can be definitely ascertained)

7. "Transfer of property."—[1] Expression "transfer of property" will, for the purposes of this section, include transfers of interests in property. ('03) 30 Cal 556 (564) : 30 Ind App 71 (P C) ✠ (Vol 32) 1945 Pat 400 (402) : 24 Pat 268 (D B).

[2] Sale certificate issued to the purchaser is not an instrument of transfer of property, but merely evidence of the title of the purchase. (Vol 26) 1939 All 415 (430) : I L R (1939) All 607 (F B).

8. "Which the transferor is then capable of passing."—[1] On a transfer of property it is only the transferor's interest that will pass to the transferee. Vol 14) 1927 All 689 (690) (D B).

[2] Transferee cannot have a better title than what the transferor himself has in the thing transferred. ('09) 33 Bom 1 (22) : 35 Ind App 139 (P C).

[3] If the transferor holds the property only under limitations, the transferee cannot get it free from those limitations. (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 447 (448) (D B).

[4] Rights of third persons cannot be affected by a transfer by A to B, whether or not the deed contains an exception or reservation of such rights. ('80) 4 Bom 643 (649) (D B) ✠ ('02) 26 Bom 198 (200) (D B).

[5] Whatever a transferor is capable of passing in the property transferred will pass. (Vol 27) 1940 All 157 (458) : I L R (1940) All 667 (D B) ✠ (Vol 26) 1939 Mad 802 (803) (D B) ✠ (Vol 3) 1916 All 251 (252) D B) ✠ (Vol 4) 1917 Mad 61 (62) (D B).

[6] Person entitled to property in more than one capacity transferring "all his estate and interests" in property — Transferee will get all estates and interests vested in transferor, although not vested in character in which he became party to conveyance. ('04) 6 Bom L R 800 (816) ✠ (Vol 2) 1915 Bom 109 (109) : 40 Bom 69.

[7] When a person has power to convey the absolute interest in certain property only under particular circumstances, but only a lesser interest in the absence of such circumstances, a transfer by him in the absence of such circumstances can convey nothing more than the lesser interest. ('96) 18 All 146 (155) : 23 Ind App 1 (P C).

9. "In the property."—[1] Whoever is the owner of the soil, it is his even to the firmament and to the middle of the earth. (1900) 2 Bom L R 688 (689) (D B)✠ (1900) 2 Bom L R 114 (115) (D B). (Rule is not absolute and there are exceptions.)

[3] Lease of land granted by A to B, whether permanently or temporarily — Corpus of lease does not include minerals found in sub-soil in absence of specific words transferring them also. (Vol 30) 1943 Pat 31 (31, 32) (D B). (Lessee will not be entitled to fell or sell timber or to open or excavate mines and utilise minerals.) ✠ (Vol 18) 1931 P C 162 (163, 164) : 59 Cal 80 : 58 Ind App 228 (P C). (Do.) ✠ (Vol 18) 1931 P C 89 (90) : 58 Cal 1187 : 58 Ind App 125 (P C). (Do.)

[4] Lease granted by zamindar to certain persons in perpetuity of 'the entire zamindary including all interests therein"—Expression "including all interests therein" held did not increase corpus of subject of lease. (Vol 15) 1928 P C 234 (237) : 56 Cal 1 : 55 Ind App 320 (P C).

[5] Land leased to tenants for agricultural purposes —Property in shells dug up from land by tenants held did not pass to them. ('02) 25 Mad 669 (671) (D B).

[6] Grantee of land for her maintenance does not get any right to open up new mines on the land. ('05) 2 Cal L Jour 20 (26, 36) ✠ ('05) 1 Cal L Jour 517 (525) (D B).

10. Transfer of legal incident only—Effect of.— [1] Transfer of the rents and profits of a property to a woman for her life does not carry with it a gift of the entire property itself. (Vol 23) 1936 Bom 330 (332) : I L R (1937) Bom 18 (F B).

[2] Gift of the income of a property without any limitation would be a gift of the property itself. (Vol 8) 1921 Mad 563 (566) (D B) ✠ (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 250 (251) (DB).

[3] Transfer of a jungle does not carry with it the transfer of the entire land itself. (Vol 18) 1931 Oudh 177 (229).

11. "Easements annexed thereto."— [1] Transfer of a land or a house will pass to the transferee all easements which it had enjoyed over another property. ('74) 22 Suth W R 522 (522) (DB) ✠ ('85) 1885 Bom P J 20 (21) (D B)✠(Vol 21) 1934 All 447 (448) ✠ ('08) 35 Cal 889 (894).

[3] Easement which first comes into existence as a consequence of the transfer passes to the transferee by virtue of S. 13, Easements Act or of the principles underlying it, and not as "incidents" of the property transferred ('88) 1888 Pun Re No. 60, page 147 (149)✠ ('82) 8 Cal 956 (958, 959) (D B) ✠ (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 795 (796) : 38 Mad 141 (DB) ✠ (Vol 11) 1924 Mad 812 (813) ✠ (Vol 17) 1930 Pat 7 (11) (D B) ✠ ('12) 16 Cal L Jour 417 (420)✠ (Vol 11) 1924 Lah 724 (725) ✠ ('71) 8 Bom H C R 181 (185).

(27) : 40 All 470 : 45 Ind App 134 : 21 Oudh Cas 106 (P C).

4 "Created absolutely." — [1] Transfer of an absolute estate passes to the transferee an interest which is unlimited in estate and unfettered in respect of any condition or trust (Vol 21) 1934 Cal 379 (383, 384) : 61 Cal 106 (DB) ✠ (1869) 17 W R (Eng.) 1083 (1085) : 8 Eq 673 Irvine v. Sullivan

[2] Where A who is the full owner of certain property transfers a life estate therein to B, it cannot be an absolute transfer within the meaning of this section. (Vol 17) 1930 Cal 731 (732, 734) (DB).

[3] Principle of S. 11 applies as much to mortgages or leases as to gifts or sales. ('86) 8 All 452 (458, 459) (DB).

5. "But the terms of the transfer direct." — [1] Word "direction" would include the imposition of a condition. (Vol 13) 1926 Oudh 431 (440) : 2 Luck 507 : 26 Oudh Cas 176 (DB)

6. "Shall be applied or enjoyed by him in a particular manner"—[1] Absolute restraint added by way of a direction in a transfer which is absolute should be disregarded. [2] Partial restraint on alienation is not repugnant to the absolute interest created and is valid. (1875) 23 WR (Eng) 718 (719) : LR 20 Eq 186, In re Macleay ✠ (Vol 19) 1932 P C 158 (160, 161) : 7 Luck 257 : 59 Ind App 236 (PC).

[3] Condition that the donee of property and his heirs should reside in the property on pain of forfeiture of the gift would be void for repugnancy, if the main intention of the donor was to make an absolute gift. (Vol 7) 1920 Bom 73 (76) : 44 Bom 304 (DB)

[4] Direction in an absolute transfer to several persons jointly that they shall not divide the property at any time or for a limited period would be repugnant and void under this section. (75) 1 Cal 104 (107) : 2 Ind App 256 (PC).

[5] A making absolute conveyance of his property to B by sale for cash consideration but stipulating for payment by vendee of certain amount per annum from profits of property — Direction is restriction on enjoyment of right created absolutely in vendee and is unenforceable. (Vol 25) 1938 Oudh 17 (18) : 13 Luck 662

7. "As if there were no such direction"—[1] Direction which is invalid under this section does not cut down or defeat the estate created. (Vol 22) 1935 P C 187 (190) (PC)

8. Directions in decrees and awards —[1] Absolute under-proprietary rights conferred on party by compromise decree, which inserted condition restraining alienation of such property — Restraint held void on ground of repugnancy. (Vol 1) 1914 Oudh 213 (215, 216) (DB). (Affirmed in (Vol 5) 1918 PC 77 (81) : 21 Oudh Cas 180 (PC).)

9 Second paragraph —[1] Where A transfers property X to B and the latter agrees or covenants that he will enjoy X in a particular manner the agreement or covenant is valid. (Vol 19) 1932 All 788 (80) : 54 All 17 (DB) ✠ (1873) 21 W R (Eng) 798 (800) : L R 5 P C 327, Maclean v. Mckey ✠ (1898) 67 L J Ch 205 (205) : (1898) 1 Ch 424, Hobson v. Tulloch.

[2] Decree-holder of maintenance decree transferring portion of arrears of maintenance but stipulating that transferee shall not bring to sale property charged for decretal amount—Restriction held valid. (Vol 26) 1939 Mad 431 (431) (DB).

10. Direction restricting enjoyment in the case of transfers which are not absolute —[1] Transfers not absolute — Direction restricting enjoyment of property by transferee would seem to be valid and binding on transferee (Vol 17) 1930 Cal 731 (734) (D B). (Recourse to English authorities cannot be taken when there is no legislative omission)

11 Contracts restricting enjoyment.—[1] Where the agreement in effect tends to create perpetuity in property, it would be void. ('86) 8 All 452 (455, 459) (D B).

[2] Agreement between co-owners of property that they should not partition the property for ever or for an indefinite period would be unenforceable. ('09) 31 All 3 (4) (D B) ✠ ('06) 28 All 185 (186) (D B) ✠ ('83) 7 Bom 538 (539 540) (DB) ✠ ('01) 28 Cal 769 (786) (DB) ✠ ('99) 3 Cal W N 126 (128).

[3] Agreement between co-owners not to partition the property during their lifetime or for a limited period, would be valid and enforceable. (Vol 7) 1920 All 341 (344) : 42 All 30 (D B) ✠ ('01) 28 Cal 769 (786) (DB) ✠ ('99) 3 Cal W N 126 (128)

[4] Agreement restricting a person's enjoyment of property for ever or for an indefinite period would be binding on the actual parties to the agreement ('08) 12 Cal W N 793 (798, 799) (DB) ✠ ('81) 6 Cal 106 (115, 116).

[But see (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 1035 (1035) (DB) ✠ (Vol 15) 1928 Oudh 365 (368) (DB) ✠ ('83) 7 Bom 538 (539, 540) (DB)].

[1] Indian Succession Act, 1925 treats a clause of defeasance in the event of bankruptcy of the legatee as valid

[2] Bombay Native Share and Stock Broker's Association—Defaulting member can claim no interest in membership card and can pass none to assignee in insolvency — This section does not apply (Vol 19) 1932 P C 186 (191) : 59 Ind App 318 ; 56 Bom 374 (PC).

[3] To constitute an endeavour or an attempt to transfer 'there must be some act which, but for the clause of forfeiture would have the effect of assigning mortgaging or otherwise anticipating' the legacy (1857) 53 E R 152 (153) : 26 L J Ch 395, Graham v. Lee ✠ (1838) 48 E R 638 (641) : 7 L J (NS) Ch 107. Jones v. Wyse.

[4] General restriction on alienation does not cover the case of a transfer by operation of law. ('82) 6 Mad 159 (164) (D B) ✠ ('91) 20 Cal 273 (278) (D B) ✠ ('90) 17 Cal 826 (828) (D B) ✠ ('83) 7 Bom 262 (265) (D B).

[5] Voluntary procuring of execution by defaulting tenant against himself in order to bring about alienation desired—Alienation constitutes breach of condition against alienation ('82) 6 Mad 159 (164) (D B) ✠ (1799) 101 E R 1400 (1401) : 8 T R 300, Doe v. Carter ✠ (Vol 4) 1917 Cal 236 (238) (D B).

[6] Insolvency of the lessee is not a breach of condition against alienation. (1857) 53 E R 152 (153) : 26 L J Ch 395, Graham v. Lee

13. Where, on a transfer of property, an interest therein is created for the benefit of a person not in existence at the date of the transfer, subject to a prior interest created by the same transfer, the interest created for the benefit of such person shall not take effect, unless it extends to the whole of the remaining interest of the transferor in the property.

Transfer for benefit of unborn person.

Illustration.

A transfers property of which he is the owner to B in trust for A and his intended wife successively for their lives, and, after the death of the survivor, for the eldest son of the intended marriage for life, and after his death for A's second son. The interest so created for the benefit of the eldest son does not take effect, because it does not extend to the whole of A's remaining interest in the property.

14. No transfer of property can operate to create an interest which is to take effect after the life-time of one or more persons living at the date of such transfer, and the minority of some person who shall be in existence at the expiration of that period, and to whom if he attains full age, the interest created is to belong.

Rule against perpetuity.

[7] This section refers to the transferee "becoming insolvent" not "being adjudicated an insolvent" and cannot be restricted to conditions which would take effect only on adjudication. Any condition on transfer whereby the interest transferred would cease on the happening of an event on which the transferee is liable to be adjudicated insolvent is void. (Vol 32) 1945 Pat 162 (170, 177, 178): 23 Pat 871 (D B) (Condition in Kharposh grant, which cannot be regarded as lease to the effect that grant will stand cancelled if property covered by grant be sold in auction for debts of grantee is wholly void under S 12.)

[8] A clause for forfeiture must be construed strictly against the person who is trying to take advantage of it and effect should be given to it only so far as it is rendered absolutely necessary to do so by the wording of the clause. (Vol 22) 1935 Mad 163 (165): 58 Mad 378 (D B) ✠ (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 57 (58) (Clause of forfeiture on alienation by lessee does not come into operation by transfer of only part of lease land.)

[9] Lease contained clause of forfeiture on lessee's bankruptcy and permission to assign lease with consent of lessor— Lessee assigned lease with lessor's consent and became bankrupt— Held that there was no forfeiture of lease and that it was not affected by bankruptcy of first tenant. (1891) 60 L J Q B 776 (778): (1891) 2 Q B 394, Smith v. Gronow.

Section 13—Note 1.

[1] It is necessary that subsequent interest for the benefit of a person not in existence at the date of transfer should extend to the whole of the interest remaining in the transferor, after the prior interest is created. (Vol 31) 1944 Mad 22 (23) (Section does not mean that only one prior interest can be created before transferring any property to unborn person. ✠ (Vol 21) 1934 Oudh 35 (39): 9 Luck 329 (F B) (Case under S. 16) ✠ (Vol 15) 1928 P C 33 (35): 55 Ind App 74: 52 Bom 176 (P C)

[2] Child in the womb has been regarded by the Hindu law as well as the English law as a person in existence. ('72) Ind App Sup Vol 47 (70) (P C) ✠ (1935) 104 L J Ch 111 (115): 1935 App Cas 209, Elliot v. Joicey.

[3] Property cannot be transferred to unborn person under Muhammadan law. (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 997 (998) (D B) ✠ ('84) 9 Bom 158 (163) ✠ ('09) 36 Cal 431 (432) ✠ (Vol 14) 1927 Rang 242 (246): 5 Rang 252.

[4] Shia can create vested remainder in favour of an unborn person provided life estates are created in favour of persons in existence. (Vol 34) 1947 Bom 185 (187).

[5] This section is an attempt to import into and adapt for use in India what used before 1926 to be known in England as the "rule against double possibilities". The principle is that a person disposing of property to another shall not fetter the free disposition of that property in the hands of more generations than one. The rule is quite distinct from the rule against perpetuities, though their effects sometimes overlap. (Vol 32) 1945 Bom 395 (396): I L R (1945) Bom 493.

11. Power of appointment.
12. Muhammadan law.

1. Scope.—[1] Law has always regarded, as being against public policy, the creation of perpetuity. ('92) 15 Mad 424 (443, 444) (D B) ✠ ('36) 63 Cal 209 (213) (D B) (Perpetuity may arise by taking away from owner of property power of alienation thereof and by creation of future remote interests.)

[2] Every attempt to create a perpetuity is held void and of no effect. ('92) 15 Mad 448 (468, 470).

[3] The reason of the rule against perpetuity is "the mischief that would arise to the public from estates remaining for ever, or for a long time unalienable, or untransferable from one hand to another, being a damp on industry and prejudice to trade, to which may be added the inconvenience and distress that would be brought on families whose estates are so fettered." (1732) 24 E R 917 (918): 2 P Wms 686, Stanley v. Leigh.

[4] It is possible that the vesting may be postponed beyond the limits fixed by the section, the disposition will be bad, although the events on which the vesting depended actually happend within the prescribed limits. ('11) 38 Cal 603 (619): 38 Ind App 112 (PC).

2. Applicability to charges. — [1] Rule against perpetuity would not apply to a charge (Vol 5) 1918 P C 156 (157): 42 Mad 581: 46 Ind App 64 (PC). (Appeal from (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 664.) ✠ (Vol 15) 1928 Mad 713 (721, 722) (FB).

3. "Property."—[1] Rule against perpetuity will apply to all dispositions of property whether moveable or immovable. ('96) 20 Bom 511 (515)✠('05) 7 Bom L R (Jour) 73 (74).

4. "Which is to take effect." — [1] Words "which is to take effect" show that the rule applies only to the creation of future interests and the rule prescribes a time limit beyond which such interest shall not vest (1910) 1 Ch 12 (24, 25) : 79 L J Ch 150, South Eastern Rly v. Associated Portland Cement Manufacturers✠(Vol 15) 1928 Mad 28 (33) (DB)✠(Vol 18) 1931 Cal 651 (656) : 58 Cal 768.

[2] "My remaining moveable property shall be dealt with by my son G according as he may think proper and when the sons of my son G shall attain the age of 21 the same shall be divided and duly received by G and his sons in equal shares" : Held gift to G's sons was void. ('95) 20 Bom 450 (463) (DB).

[3] A transfer of property in favour of another, to take effect on the extinction of the transferor's line of male descendants, is against the law of perpetuities and cannot be given effect to. (Vol 13) 1926 All 283 (283) (D B).

[4] Where there is no question of any new interest to be created at a future time, the rule has no application. (Vol 29) 1942 All 254 (256) (DB)✠(Vol 28) 1941 Rang 305 (308) : 1941 Rang L R 410 (DB) ✠ (Vol 15) 1928 Mad 28 (33) (DB).

[5] A leased out his property for period of 50 years and while more than 21 years of period had still to run, executed lease of his reversion to B — Grant of reversionary lease to commence at period more than 21 years from date of grant held conferred vested interest not void for remoteness. (1918) 87 L J Ch 81 (84):(1918) 1 Ch 202, Mann, Crossman & Paulin, Ltd. v. Land Registrar✠(1893) 32 L R Ir 347, Redington v. Browne.

[6] Estate that is to arise within the prescribed period may be so limited as to determine on the happening of an event however remote. (1897) 66 L J Ch 616 (619) : (1897) 2 Ch 255, Wainwright v. Miller.

5. "One or more persons living." — [1] Transferor can create as many interests as he desires, in favour of persons living at the time of the transfer. (Vol 31) 1944 Oudh 65 (75) : 19 Luck 320 (DB).

6. "Who shall be in existence." — [1] Child adopted after a man's death in pursuance of a power given by him, is in contemplation of law begotten by that man. ('72) Ind App (Supp) 47 (67) (PC).

[2] Transfer of life interest to a person followed by a transfer to his wife and children does not offend the rule against perpetuities. (Vol 29) 1942 All 254 (256) (D B).

7. Minority. — [1] By deed of transfer interest therein created in favour of certain lives in being with remainder to unborn person upon his attaining age of 21 years — Interest held void. (Vol 12) 1925 P C 244 (248) : 48 Mad 906 : 52 Ind App 310 (PC).

8. Alternative limitations one of which is void under this section.—[1] If there be two alternative limitations one of which is bad as being too remote and the other valid the Court will disregard the invalid limitation and give effect to that which is legal. (1938) 107 L J Ch 417 (418):(1938) 1 Ch 952, In re Carryer's Will Trusts✠('09) 36 Cal 431 (432)✠(1900) 4 Cal W N 671*n* (677*n*).

[2] Several limitations some of which bad — Court will disregard invalid limitation and give effect to that which is legal. (Vol 24) 1937 P C 4 (7, 8) : I L R (1937) All 3 : 64 Ind App 5 (PC). (If one limitation is ulterior to or expectant upon another limitation which is void for remoteness former is also void although made to person in existence.)

9. Contracts if governed by rule against perpetuities.— [1] Rule against perpetuities has no application to personal contracts which do not create any interest in property. (Vol 30) 1943 Cal 417 (424, 425) : I L R (1943) 2 Cal 605 (FB). (Rule against perpetuities is branch of law of property and not of contract.) ✠(1910) 1 Ch 12 (25) : 79 L J Ch 150, South Eastern Railway v. Associated Portland Cement Manufacturers.

[2] Contracts for the sale of immovable property are not subject to the rule against perpetuities. (Vol 13) 1926 Bom 497 (501, 504) : 50 Bom 566 (FB) ✠ (Vol 14) 1927 All 170 (172) : 49 All 527 (FB) ✠ (Vol 3) 1916 Mad 298 (300, 301) : 39 Mad 462 (DB) ✠ (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 699 (704) : 49 Mad 387 (DB) ✠ (Vol 30) 1943 Cal 417 (426) : I L R (1943) 2 Cal 605 (FB) ✠ (Vol 15) 1928 Pat 637 (640) : 8 Pat 243. [3] A covenant to indemnify a transferee for the loss of the land transferred by securing him equivalent land, was held unenforceable as violating the rule against perpetuities. (Vol 15) 1928 Mad 894 (896) : 51 Mad 688.

10. Covenant running with the land.—[1] A covenant which runs with the land is free from any taint of perpetuity. (1901) 70 L J Ch 72 (76) : (1901) 1 Ch 54, Muller v. Trafford ✠(Vol 8) 1921 Mad 541 (541) : 44 Mad 230 (DB) ✠ (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 732 (733).

11. Power of appointment.— [1] Whatever estates may be created by a person seized in fee may equally be created under general power of appointment. (1885) 54 L J Ch 732 (734) : 29 Ch D 521, Rous v. Jackson.

[2] In the case of a special power of appointment, the question whether an estate or interest created by appointment under a special power, is too remote depends upon its distance from the creation and not from the exercise of the power. (1906) 75 L J Ch 592 (602) : (1906) 2 Ch 199, In re Thomson.

[3] If the interest is to be had under a power of appointment and if the exercise of the power is made contingent upon an event which may by possibility happen beyond the limits of the rule under this section the mere fact that the contingency has happened earlier and has rendered the exercise of the power practicable within the prescribed limits, does not validate the interest created under the power. ('08) 31 Mad 517 (521) (DB).

12. Muhammadan law. — Independently of this section the Muhammadan law does not favour a perpetuity, except in the case of wakf. (Vol 26) 1939 P C 185 (189) (P C).

15. If, on a transfer of property, an interest therein is created for the benefit of a class of persons with regard to some of whom such interest fails by reason of any of the rules contained in sections 13 and 14, such interest fails [a][in regard to those persons only and not in regard to the whole class.]

Transfer to class some of whom come under sections 13 and 14.

[a][16. Where, by reason of any of the rules contained in sections 13 and 14, an interest created for the benefit of a person or of a class of persons fails in regard to such person or the whole of such class, any interest created in the same transaction and intended to take effect after or upon failure of such prior interest also fails.]

Transfer to take effect on failure of prior interest.

[a] Ss. 16 to 18 were substituted by the Transfer of Property (Amendment) Act, 1929 (20 [XX] of 1929), S. 10.

[a][17. (1) Where the terms of a transfer of property direct that the income arising from the property shall be accumulated either wholly or in part during a period longer than—

[1] Before the amendment of this section in 1929, the interest failed "as regards the whole class."

[2] Transfer to the transferor's "son's son" or "son's daughters ' or to the "widows" of X, a Hindu, is a transfer to a class where the number is uncertain at the date of the tranfer. ('98) 22 Bom 533 (538)✠ (1834) 6 Sim 485 (492): 55 E R 676, Porter v. Fox.

[4] A transfer to all the grandchildren of the transferor "with the exception of one namely . . . ," the exception not being mentioned, is a transfer to a class comprising all the grandchildren. (1851) 9 Hare 37 (39): 68 E R 404, Illingworth v. Cooke.

[6] Transfer to an ascertained number of persons as a transfer to ' my grandchildren by my late daughter E. W." is not a transfer to a class. ('92) 15 Mad 448 (466).

[7] Transfer to X with his wife and his children or "to my brother for life and his surviving children and my niece", is not a transfer to a class. ('91) 15 Bom 543 (547, 548) (DB) ✠ (1863) 33 Beav 43 (48): 55 E R 282, Drakeford v. Drakeford.

[3] S gave away property to R for life and after her death, if there be any male descendants to them absolutely—If R would have only daughters they were to have it without any power of transfer — In absence of any issue male or female property to go to D — Gift to R's daughters held only of limited interest and as such void under S. 13 and gift over to D, held void under this section. (Vol 21) 1934 Oudh 35 (40) : 9 Luck 329 (F B).

1. Scope.
2. "For the benefit . . . . . to mankind."
3. Muhammadan law.
4. Transfer to several objects some of which fail.

Scope. — [1] Gifts of land for charitable purposes are not void merely because they may go on for ever. (Vol 28) 1941 Rang 305 (308): 1941 Rang L R 410 (DB)✠(1882) 52 L J Q B 193 (197): 7 App Cas 633, Goodman v. Saltash Corporation.

[2] Object of the rule (i. e., the rule forbidding the tying up of property) is to prevent the mischief of making property inalienable unless for objects which are in some way useful or beneficial to the community. (1876) 6 L R P C 381 (394): 24 W R (Eng) 174, Yeap Cheah Neo v. Ong Cheng Neo.

[3] Bequest to charity to take effect beyond the period allowed by the rule against perpetuities is valid where the property had been given in the meantime to another charity. ('13) 40 Cal 192 (214).

[But see (Vol 6) 1919 Cal 809(812):46 Cal 485(DB)].

[4] Exception provided by this section extends to all transfers for the benefit of the public " in the advancement of religion". (Vol 10) 1923 Cal 708 (713) (D B)✠ (Vol 28) 1941 Mad 188 (191) (D B).

[5] Provisions of this section are a useful guide in considering questions arising in places where the Transfer of Property Act does not apply. ('09) 33 Bom 122 (189).

2. "For the benefit . . . . . to mankind."

[1] A purpose must, in order to be charitable be directed to the benefit of the community or a section of the community. ('10) 32 All 503 (511) (DB). (Distinction between public purpose and one which is not public is often subtle). ✠ ('92) 15 Mad 424 (444) (DB)✠ (1924) 93 L J P C 173 (177): 1924 App Cas 496, Verge v. Somerville.

[2] If the intention of the donor is merely to benefit specific individuals the gift is not charitable even though the motive of the gift may be to relieve their poverty or to accomplish some other purpose in reference to these particular individuals which would be charitable if not so confined; on the other hand, if the donor's object is to accomplish the abstract purpose of relieving poverty, advancing education or religion, etc., without reference to any particular individuals and without giving any particular individual the right to claim the funds, the gift is charitable. ('10) 32 All 503 (511) (DB) ✠(1842) 49 E R 545 (547): 11 L J Ch 336, Nash v. Morley ✠ (1740) 26 E R 454 (454): 2 Atk 87, The Attorney General v. Pearce.

19. Where, on a transfer of property, an interest therein is created in favour of a person without specifying the time when it is to take effect, or in terms specifying that it is to take effect forthwith or on the happening of an event which must happen, such interest is vested, unless a contrary intention appears from the terms of the transfer.

Vested interest.

A vested interest is not defeated by the death of the transferee before he obtains possession.

Explanation.—An intention that an interest shall not be vested is not to be inferred merely from a provision whereby the enjoyment thereof is postponed, or whereby a prior interest in the same property is given or reserved to some other person, or whereby income arising from the property is directed to be accumulated until the time of enjoyment arrives, or from a provision that if a particular event shall happen the interest shall pass to another person.

[3] Objects which the English law would possibly regard as superstitious are sometimes allowable and even commendable according to Hindu and Mahomedan Laws ('81) 6 Bom 42 (50). (In deciding whether object is beneficial to public, customary law and common opinion among community to which parties interested belong must be taken into consideration.) ✠ ('75) 12 Bom H C R 214 (216) (DB).

[4] Intention to benefit the community is sufficient and it is not necessary to see in every case that if the object is carried out the community would in fact be benefited. (1895) 64 L J Ch 856 (858); (1895) 2 Ch 501, In re Fovseaux.

(Vol. 18) 1931 Cal. 651 (655): 58 Cal. 768.

5. Vested interest is transferable and heritable.—[1] A vested interest, even though there is no present possession is a transferable interest in law. 6. Postponement of enjoyment. — [1] Mere fact that a transferee is not entitled to immediate enjoyment does not necessarily make the interest a contingent one. (Vol 20) 1933 Mad 885 (886, 887) (DB) ✠ (Vol 28) 1941 Rang 239 (240) ✠ (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 371 (373) (DB).

[2] Provision for postponement will be valid where the right of enjoyment is given in the mean-while to some other person, or the transferee is under the age of majority and the enjoyment is postponed till he attains that age. 7. Direction to accumulate.—[1] Intention that an interest shall not be vested is not to be inferred from a direction to accumulate the income arising out of the property until the time of payment arrives. (1840) 48 E R 1164 (1167) : 9 L J Ch 226, Blease v. Burgh.

8. Condition subsequent. — [1] Interest may be vested though it may be defeated by a condition subsequent. (Vol 28) 1941 Rang 239 (240).

When unborn person acquires vested interest on transfer for his benefit.

20. Where, on a transfer of property, an interest therein is created for the benefit of a person not then living, he acquires upon his birth, unless a contrary intention appear from the terms of the transfer, a vested interest, although he may not be entitled to the enjoyment thereof immediately on his birth.

Contingent interest.

21. Where, on a transfer of property, an interest therein is created in favour of a person to take effect only on the happening of a specified uncertain event, or if a specified uncertain event shall not happen, such person thereby acquires a contingent interest in the property. Such interest becomes a vested interest, in the former case, on the happening of the event, in the latter, when the happening of the event becomes impossible.

Exception.— Where, under a transfer of property, a person becomes entitled to an interest therein upon attaining a particular age, and the transferor also gives to him absolutely the income to arise from such interest before he reaches that age, or directs the income or so much thereof as may be necessary to be applied for his benefit, such interest is not contingent.

9. Provision for gift over is not proof of intention to the contrary.—[1] Property given to donee in clear words —Inclusion of clause providing for divesting of property from donee would not come in way of property being vested in him on date of gift. (Vol 1) 1914 Mad 64 (66) (D B).

[2] Provision for gift over will not render the prior gift a contingent one. (Vol 17) 1930 P C 7 (8) (P C).

[2] Absolute gift to a wife subject to a condition that if she dies without issue the property would pass to other persons living at the date of the gift — Gift in favour of other persons is contingent—On happening of contingency ulterior transfer will become a vested interest by virtue of S. 21. Section 29—Note 1

[1] Clear words are necessary to divest an estate once vested. ('87) 12 Bom 137 (147).

[2] A clause of defeasance, in order to be operative, must contain express words or words of necessary implication of a gift over to a definite person or persons. ('05) 32 Cal 861 (869) (D B).

[3] Where the gift over clause is ambiguous it should be construed in such a manner as not to divest an interest already vested. (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 599 (605) (DB).

[4] Gift over clause unambiguous—Literal construction should be adopted. (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 599 (604) (D B) ✠ (1920) 36 T L R 674 (675) : (1920) 2 Ch 469, In re Evan's Contract. (A will declared that a person entitled under the will shall within specified time assume the surname and arms of the testator, without providing for gift over on failure to do so : Held, it was merely expression of a desire of the testator and not a conditional limitation.)

[5] Bequest in favour of A, subject to a proviso that if within a particular period from the death of the testator, A refused or neglected to take the name and arms of the testator, then the property was to go over to B—A was abroad and remained in ignorance of his rights for more than the prescribed period : Held that the words "refuse" or "neglect" presupposed the exercise of will on the part of A and that a mere "failure" or "omission" due to ignorance did not fall within the expression "refuse or neglect" and the bequest was therefore not defeated. (1926) 1 Ch 992 (1006) : 96 L J Ch 9 Re Quintin Dick; Cloncurry v. Fenton.

[6] A partition deed between A and B provided as regards certain land that its usufruct was set apart for the maintenance of their mother and then provided as follows: "We shall divide the properties after defraying the funeral expenses of our mother. The land of the person that does not contribute to the said expenses shall be enjoyed by the person who contributes." A did not contribute : Held that the clause as to contribution was one of defeasance, that the words "if either of them does not contribute", must be construed as meaning " if either of them refuse to contribute" and that the mere failure of A to contribute did not divest him of his vested interest. ('11) 12 Ind Cas 256 (257) (DB) (Mad).

[7] Gift with a condition that if the donee did not reside in the house given the house should pass to another person— Occasional use of house by donee by keeping establishment in it with intention of again using it as residence : Held gift over did not take effect as residence contemplated was not exclusive residence. ('74) 1 Ind App 387 (398, 399) (P C).

[8] A bequest was made to A on condition that if she should have no legitimate children, then the property was to pass to B. A had one legitimate child born alive who died before her. Held that since A had a child though subsequently dead, the event contemplated happened and that the gift over did not take effect. A had the estate absolutely. (1810) 33 E R 1041 (1042) : 16 Ves 413, Wall v. Tomlinson.

[9] A house was bequeathed to N on condition that he should reside in the house, otherwise he will cease to have any interest in the house which would go to somebody else — N sold the house and made it impossible for himself to reside in the house—Held condition was broken. ('11) 11 Ind Cas 634 (635) (DB) (Cal).

[10] Party alleging that there has been a breach of a condition subsequent must prove it. (1862) 10 W R (Eng.) 681 (681, 682), Wilkinson v. Dysen.

[11] Condition, such as is referred to in S. 28 becoming impossible of fulfilment through no act or default of the person who has to perform it — Condition will be treated as void — Transferee of prior interest will take estate absolutely. (1739) 26 E R 407 (408) : 2 Atk 16, Graydon v. Hicks ✠ (Vol 12) 1925 Lah 594 (595) (DB) ✠ (Vol 11) 1924 All 625 (638) : 46 All 575 (DB).

[12] A transfers property to B subject to a condition that on his failure to perform a particular act it shall pass to another person. B is not able to do the thing by reason of duress or imprisonment. The non-performance of the act will not divest the estate and the gift over does not take effect. ('93) 20 Cal 15 (17) (DB).

[1] A transfer to A for life with a subsequent disposition amounting to altering the legal course of inheritance would be invalid so far as the subsequent disposition is concerned. (Vol 18) 1931 P C 179 (181) : 58 Ind App 270 : 59 Cal 142 (PC) ✠ (Vol 20) 1933 Bom 34 (36) (DB).

[2] An ulterior disposition on the happening of a condition which is invalid for any reason would not take effect. ('99) 4 Cal W N 671*n* (677*n*). (Accumulation.) ✠ (1908) 77 L J Ch 265 (266) : (1908) 1 Ch 383

Condition that transfer shall cease to have effect in case specified uncertain event happens or does not happen.

31. Subject to the provisions of section 12, on a transfer of property an interest therein may be created with the condition superadded that it shall cease to exist in case a specified uncertain event shall happen, or in case a specified uncertain event shall not happen.

Illustrations.

(a) A transfers a farm to B for his life, with a proviso that, in case B cuts down a certain wood, the transfer shall cease to have any effect. B cuts down the wood. He loses his life-interest in the farm.

(b) A transfers a farm to B, provided that, if B shall not go to England within three years after the date of the transfer, his interest in the farm shall cease. B does not go to England within the term prescribed. His interest in the farm ceases.

Such condition must not be invalid.

32. In order that a condition that an interest shall cease to exist may be valid, it is necessary that the event to which it relates be one which could legally constitute the condition of the creation of an interest.

13. Acceptance of benefit.
14. Presumption of election from two years' enjoyment.
15. Impossibility of restoring status quo.
16. Transferor's disability and election.
17. Ratification is not election.

1. Scope. — [1] The doctrine of election is that where a deed or will professes to make a general disposition of property for the benefit of a person named in it, such person cannot accept the benefit under the instrument without, at the same time, conforming to all its provisions and renouncing every right inconsistent with them. (1918) 1 Ch 300 (303): 87 L J Ch 143, In re Macartney. (Known as approbate and reprobate.) ✠(1920) 1920 App Cas 860 (870, 879): 89 L J P C 195, Brown v. Gregson ✠ (1875) 45 L J Ch 660 (664, 666): 34 L T 221, Codrington v. Codrington✠(Vol 15) 1928 Oudh 67 (82) ✠ (1887) 34 Ch D 160 (163, 164): 56 L J Ch 82, In re Brooksbank; Beauclerk v. James.✠(1874) 44 L J Ch 6 (14) : 30 L T 409, Cooper v. Cooper.

[4] The principle of election enables Court to secure a just distribution of property in substantial accordance with the terms of the instrument. (1920) 89 L J P C 195 (198) : (1920) A C 860, Brown v. Gregson.

[5] Doctrine of election applies to all kinds of property and to all persons claiming property in any character. (1870) 40 L J Ch 5 (7) : 6 Ch 15, Cooper v. Cooper ✠ (1802) 32 E R 194 (197) : 7 Ves 480, Webb v. Earl of Shaftesbury.

[6] The doctrine of election will apply also to wills. (1794) 30 E R 846 (848) : 3 Ves 693, Willson v. (Lord) Townshed ✠ (1884) 26 Ch D 358 (363) : 53 L J Ch 571, Griffiths Boscawen v. Scott.

[7] Sections 180 to 190 of the Indian Succession Act deal with the application of the doctrine of election to wills. This section deals with the doctrine as applied to transfers of property. (Vol 28) 1941 Mad 430 (431) : I L R (1941) Mad 551 (DB).

[8] The doctrine of election is applied to cases between Muhammadans. (Vol 3) 1916 P C 27 (37) : 38 All 627 : 43 Ind App 212 (PC).

2. Crown grants. — [1] The doctrine of election does not apply to Crown grants. (1820) 37 E R 656 (660) : 22 W R (Eng) 157, Cumming v. Forrester.

3. Property transferred must belong to another. — [1] For the applicability of the section the property transferred must be one which the transferor has no right to transfer. (Vol 28) 1941 Mad 430 (431) : I L R (1941) Mad 551 (DB) ✠ (1869) L R 8 Eq 165 (174) : 38 L J Ch 392, Wallaston v. King.

4. "Professes to transfer property." — [1] Surrender by a Hindu widow to her immediate reversioners —Section has no application. (Vol 28) 1941 Mad 430 (431) : I L R (1941) Mad 551 (DB).

[2] Property not in fact belonging to a person— Intention to transfer it must be clear and manifest on

Exception to the last preceding four rules. — Where a particular benefit is expressed to be conferred on the owner of the property which the transferor professes to transfer, and such benefit is expressed to be in lieu of that property, if such owner claim the property; he must relinquish the particular benefit, but he is not bound to relinquish any other benefit conferred upon him by the same transaction.

Acceptance of the benefit by the person on whom it is conferred constitutes an election by him to confirm the transfer, if he is aware of his duty to elect and of those circumstances which would influence the judgment of a reasonable man in making an election, or if he waives enquiry into the circumstances.

Such knowledge or waiver shall, in the absence of evidence to the contrary, be presumed, if the person on whom the benefit has been conferred has enjoyed it for two years without doing any act to express dissent.

Such knowledge or waiver may be inferred from any act of his which renders it impossible to place the persons interested in the property professed to be transferred in the same condition as if such act had not been done.

Illustration.

A transfers to B an estate to which C is entitled, and as part of the same transaction gives C a coal-mine. C takes possession of the mine and exhausts it He has thereby confirmed the transfer of the estate to B.

If he does not within one year after the date of the transfer signify to the transferor or his representatives his intention to confirm or to dissent from the transfer, the transferor or his representatives may, upon the expiration of that period, require him to make his election; and, if he does not comply with such requisition within a reasonable time after he has received it, he shall be deemed to have elected to confirm the transfer.

In case of disability, the election shall be postponed until the disability ceases, or until the election is made by some competent authority.

[3] Intention to transfer implied in terms of deed — It must be plain by demonstration and by implications to be utterly improbable for transferor to mean anything otherwise. (1818) 3 E R 1428 (1438): 6 Dow 149, Rancliffe v. Parkyns.

[4] Use of general words—No case of election. (1760) 27 E R 259 (260) : 1 Edn 532, Forrester v. Cotton ✠ (1863) 33 L J Ch 511 (512) : 10 L T 255, Miller v. Thurgood. (Particularly so where transferor has partial interest in the property.)

[6] It is not necessary that the transferor should intend to put the party to election. (1875) 44 L J Ch 6 (16) : 7 H L 53, Cooper v. Cooper.

[7] Onus of proving the required intention rests on those contending for a case of election. (1818) 3 E R 1428 (1438) : 6 Dow 149, Rancliffe v. Parkins.

[8] Intention clear on face of deed to pass whole property —Burden of proving that transferor meant to transfer only what was left with him lies on those opposing election. (1792) 30 E R 464 (470) : 1 Ves Jun 514, Blake v. Bunbury.

[9] No extrinsic evidence admissible to show that transferor had an intention to pass what was not his. (1791) 30 E R 346 (346) : 1 Ves Jun 285, Stratton v. Best ✠ (1836) 48 E R 325 (328) : 5 L J Ch 260, Clementson v. Gandy.

6. "As part of the same transaction."—[1] The section is applicable only where the benefit and the burden come directly from the same transaction. (Vol 4) 1917 Oudh 210 (211) : 20 Oudh Cas 248 (DB)✠ (Vol 9) 1922 Mad 357 (358) (DB).

the transferor — He is not obliged to elect. (Vol 15) 1928 Oudh 67 (82) ✠ ('09) 1 Ind Cas 573 (583) (D B) (Cal).

[2] Hindu testator disposing of by his will certain ornaments described as "my own and my wife's ornaments" — He having other ornaments worn by her over which he had disposing power : Held that wife was not required to elect as regards her stridhan ornaments and other benefits under the will. ('89) 15 Bom 443 (452).

[3] "Owner" includes persons having not only vested but contingent rights and reversionary, remote and immediate interest. (Vol 15) 1928 Oudh 67 (82).

[4] Principle of election does not apply to creditors of the owner of property transferred. (1806) 33 E R 55 (59, 61) : 12 Ves 136, Kidney v. Coussmaker ✠ (1874) 44 L J Ch 6 (15) : 30 L T (N S) 409, Cooper v. Cooper.

[5] Where a testator purports to devise land X belonging to A to B who does not take any other interest under the will and also bequeaths a legacy to C, C will not be put to election by reason of the fact that subsequent to the testator's death he acquired an interest in X. (1886) 31 Ch D 466 (476, 477) : 55 L J Ch 401, In re Chesham (Lord) ; Cavendish v. Dacre.

3. Election binds party's representative only.— [1] A Hindu father elected to take under his father's will and for that purpose gave a release of ancestral property belonging to the family. His sons were held bound by his act ('96) 20 Bom 316 (337). (Reversed in ('97) 21 Bom 349 on other point.)

[2] Where there are several persons interested as co-owners in the property disposed of by the transferor and all of them receive benefit under the transfer, an election by one does not bind the others. (1868) L R 7 Eq 494 (496) : 19 L T 343, Fytch v. Fytch.

[3] Where one person is interested in the property as a tenant for life and the other as a remainderman, an election by the former does not bind the latter. (1799) 31 E R 321 (323) : 4 R R 307, Ward v. Baugh.

9. Rule cannot be applied to cure an illegality. — [1] Where A confers a benefit on B and professes to transfer the latter's property in such a way as to offend the rule against perpetuities, B cannot be compelled to make an election. (1905) 1 Ch 191 (199) : 74 L J Ch 62, In re Oliver's Settlement.

10 Cancellation of document not necessary.— [1] Owner of the property transferred electing to dissent from it — Document of transfer need not be cancelled. (1884) 4 L J Ch 39 (40), Weale v. Rice.

11. "Does or does not believe" — [1] If the transferor professes to transfer property which does not belong to him, and confers a benefit on the owner of the property, a case of election will be raised, irrespective of the question whether the transferor believed that the property was or was not his own (1806) 33 E R 273 (277) : 9 R R 175, Thellusson v. Woodford ✠ (1871) 6 Ch 339 (341) : 40 L J Ch 253, Wilkinson v. Dent

[But see (1760) 27 E R 259 (260) : 1 Edn 532, Forrester v. Cotton.]

[2] An assumption of power to give what the transferor knows not to belong to him is as much a ground of election as a disposition of what he has mistakenly conceived to be his own (1813) 35 E R 290 (294, 295) : 13 R R 58, Welby v. Welby.

12. Person taking under two capacities.—[1] A person received benefit under an endowment as a trustee. He claimed another estate against the trust in the capacity of an owner. It was held that he could do so (Vol 4) 1917 Oudh 210 (211) : 20 Oudh Cas 243 (DB).

13. Acceptance of benefit.—[1] A party is not to be taken to have made an election by acceptance of benefit unless he had knowledge of the circumstances of the transferor and of his own rights. (1791) 30 E R 372 (373) : 1 Ves Jun 335, Wake v. Wake ✠ (1861) 54 E R 879 (881) : 132 R R 251, Sopwith v. Maughan.

[2] An election made under a mistaken idea as to the value of the estates is not binding on the party. (1734) 24 E R 1081 (1083) : 3 P Wms 315, Pusey v. Desbouvrie.

[3] A party, with full knowledge of his rights making an election and deriving the benefits under a transaction will not be allowed to revoke. ('88) 12 Cal 60 (62) (DB).

14. Presumption of election from two years' enjoyment.— [1] The presumption under the rule can be repelled by evidence to the contrary. (Vol 12) 1925 Cal 724 (729) (D B). (Pardanashin lady — No evidence that will was explained to her or that she was called upon to make election — No presumption of knowledge from mere receipt of money under the will.)

15. Impossibility of restoring status quo. — [1] Mere receipt of money does not render it impossible to place the parties in the same condition as if the money had not been taken. (Vol 12) 1925 Cal 724 (729) (D B).

16. Transferor's disability and election.—[1] A transfer by a person under a legal disability cannot give rise to a case of election. ('11) 12 Ind Cas 591 (592) (Cal).

[2] A Hindu widow's inability to dispose of her husband's immovable property does not amount to a legal disability. It is only a limitation on her power of disposition imposed for some special purposes. Transfer by her, therefore, gives rise to a case of election. ('90) 14 Bom 438 (440, 441) (D B).

17. Ratification is not election. — [1] Where A purports to act on behalf of B, B may either ratify it or disown it B's act i- sometimes spoken as an election to ratify or disown A's act. (Vol 5) 1918 P C 196 (202): 42 Mad 523: 46 Ind App 72 (P C).

[2] A ratification is different from the doctrine of election referred to in this section. (Vol 26) 1939 Oudh 145 (152, 153): 14 Luck 595 (D B).

[3] A ratification must, in order to be valid, be made with knowledge of all circumstances. 1. Apportionment.—[1] Apportionment frequently denotes not division but distribution; and, in its ordinary technical sense, the distribution of one subject in proportion to another previously distributed. (1819) 1 Swan 337 (357) : 36 E R 412, Ex parte Smith.

[2] This section is based upon Ss. 2, 3 and 7, Apportionment Act, 1870, of England. (1900) 14 C P L R 84 (85).

2. Principle of section, if applies where section is inapplicable. —[1] In view of the following decision of the Privy Council, where this section is inapplicable, the principle of apportionment also cannot be applied. (Vol 10) 1923 P C 171 (173): 50 Ind App 276: 47 Bom 790 (P C).

3. "In the absence of a contract or local usage to the contrary."—[1] Where the terms of a transfer contain a clearly expressed intention that the right to receive payments should pass without being apportioned, the section does not apply and there will be no apportionment. (Vol 10) 1923 P C 171 (173): 47 Bom 790: 50 Ind App 276 (P C).

[2] Where it was provided that "the whole rent shall be payable on the Mahasankaranthi day" it was held that there was a contract to the "contrary." (Vol 3) 1916 Mad 323 (325): 39 Mad 283 (D B).

4. "Rents." — [1] Transferee is entitled to such portion of the rent only as is proportionate to the period between the date of the transfer and the date on which the rent is payable (1900) 14 C P L R 84 (85).

[2] Land annual rent of which is payable in two instalments, 10 annas on 1st of December and 6 annas on 1st of May transferred on 20th of February — 6 annas rent held accrued de die in diem over period from 1st of December to 1st of May, and transferee held entitled to that portion only of 6 annas share of rent as had accrued after 20th of February. (Vol 14) 1927 All 569 (570): 50 All 18 (D B).

5. "Annuities."—[1] In order to constitute an annuity the annual payments must be in the nature of income. (1858) 157 E R 678 (684) : 28 L J Ex 100, Foley v. Fletcher.

[2] Where the capital itself is repayable in annual instalments, it cannot be said that there is an annuity. (1903) 72 L J K B 215 (221): (1903) 1 K B 494, Scoble v. Secretary of State.

6 "Dividends."—[1]A share of profits will be a "dividend" when declared only in respect of share taken in a public concern. [2] A share of profits gained by an individual in a private partnership cannot be called a "dividend" and it will not be apportionable. (1878) 47 L J Ch 735 (737) : 9 Ch D 159, In re Cox's Trusts ✠ (1879) 28 W R (Eng) 28 (29) : 12 Ch D 655, Carr v. Griffith ✠ (1872) 8 Ch App 192 (196, 197): 42 LJ Ch 334, Jones v. Ogle.

[3] Profits arising out of the sale of new shares of a company and distributed amongst all the share-holders of the company are not "dividends." (1858) 27 L J Ch 621 (623) : 6 W R (Eng) 407, Hartley v. Allen.

[4] Shares transferred — No express reference made as to dividends thereon — Transferor is entitled to dividend of period prior to transfer—Fact that dividend was declared subsequent to transfer does not affect right of transferor. (Vol 17) 1930 All 615 (617) (DB) ✠ (1916) 85 L J Ch 598 (600) : (1916) 2 Ch 181, In re Muirhead; Muirhead v. Hill.

7. "Other periodical payments in the nature of income."—[1] Expression "periodical payments" must be taken to refer to payments ejusdem generis with rents, annuities, pensions and dividends. (1900) 14 C P L R 84 (85).

[2] Expression "periodical payments" refers to payments to be made at fixed periods and not periods variable at the discretion of individuals. (1872) 8 Ch App 192 (198) : 42 L J Ch 334, Jones v. Ogle ✠ (1863) 32 L J Ch 333 (337), In re Maxwell's Trusts.

[3] Directors of company entitled to certain share of company's profits once in five years unless special meeting of company directed otherwise —Payments held periodical and apportionable—Fact that period fixed could be changed held immaterial (1879) 12 Ch D 655 (664) : 28 W R (Eng) 28, Carr v Griffith.

[4] Payments to be 'periodical' must not only be declared at fixed intervals but must also be for or in respect of fixed periods. (1922) 2 Ch 442 (446) : 91 L J Ch 449, Jowitt v. Keeling.

[5] Agreement stating royalty payable at certain date but not stating when it is to be payable— Royalty can be held to be payable within reasonable time of coal being abstracted— Three months held reasonable. (Vol 27) 1940 Pat 609 (609, 610) (DB).

8. "Payable on the days appointed."—[1] Rent cannot, before it is payable, be attached under a garnishee order as a debt due. (1898) 67 L J C P 517 (518). Barnett v. Eastman.

[2] Company occupied premises under lease under which rent payable on usual quarter days—Lessor petitioned for winding up order in respect of his claim for apportioned rent — Lessor held could not present petition in respect of rent not yet due. (1889) 37 WR (Eng) Dig 45 (45) : 60 LT 665, In re United Club and Hotel Co.

[1] Transfer of a share in a tenure which has been left out to a tenant in its entirety does not of itself effect a severance of the tenure. ('80) 5 Cal 902 (905) (FB).

[2] Transfer of share in tenure let out to tenant in its entirety—Apportionment of the rent can be made only by arrangement between all parties including tenant and in absence of such arrangement by suit for apportionment. ('12) 14 Ind Cas 292 (292, 293) (DB) (Cal) ✠ ('80) 5 Cal 941 (945) (DB).

[3] Certain persons jointly leased property to X and subsequently became divided by partition decree—This section held would enable one of persons so divided to enforce against lessee forfeiture clause in lease so far as in favour of each of such owners in proportion to the value of his share in the property, provided that the duty can be severed and that the severance does not substantially increase the burden of the obligation; but if the duty cannot be severed, or if the severance would substantially increase the burden of the obligation, the duty shall be performed for the benefit of such one of the several owners as they shall jointly designate for that purpose :

Provided that no person on whom the burden of the obligation lies shall be answerable for failure to discharge it in manner provided by this section, unless and until he has had reasonable notice of the severance.

Nothing in this section applies to leases for agricultural purposes unless and until the [a][Provincial Government] by notification in the Official Gazette so directs.

(a) A sells to B, C and D a house situate in a village and leased to E at an annual rent of Rs. 30 and delivery of one fat sheep, B having provided half the purchase money and C and D one-quarter each. E, having notice of this, must pay Rs. 15 to B, Rs. 7½ to C, and Rs. 7½ to D, and must deliver the sheep according to the joint direction of B, C and D.

(b) In the same case, each house in the village being bound to provide ten days' labour each year on a dyke to prevent inundation, E had agreed as a term of his lease to perform this work for A. B, C and D severally require E to perform the ten days' work due on account of the house of each. E is not bound to do more than ten days' work in all, according to such directions as B, C and D may join in giving.

(B) Transfer of Immovable Property.

Transfer by person authorized only under certain circumstances to transfer.

38. Where any person, authorized only under circumstances in their nature variable to dispose of immovable property, transfers such property for consideration, alleging the existence of such circumstances, they shall, as between the transferee on the one part and the transferor and other persons (if any) affected by the transfer on the other part, be deemed to have existed, if the transferee, after using reasonable care to ascertain the existence of such circumstances, has acted in good faith.

Illustration.

A, a Hindu widow, whose husband has left collateral heirs, alleging that the property held by her as such is insufficient for her maintenance, agrees for purposes neither religious nor charitable, to sell a field, part of such property, to B. B satisfies himself by reasonable enquiry that the income of the property is insufficient for A's maintenance, and that the sale of the field is necessary, and, acting in good faith, buys the field from A. As between B on the one part and A and the collateral heirs on the other part, a necessity for the sale shall be deemed to have existed.

3. "Transfers such property for consideration." —[1] This section does not apply to an agreement to sell. ('01) 26 Bom 326 (336) (DB).

4. "Alleging the existence of such circumstances."—[1] If the transferee makes reasonable enquiry into the existence of the circumstances empowering the transferor to make the transfer and acts in good faith, the representations are binding on the persons who are affected by the transfer. (Vol 12) 1925 Lah 240 (241) : 5 Lah 511 (D B) ✠ (Vol 21) 1934 Lah 895 (896) (DB) ✠ ('96) 21 Bom 808 (815) (DB).

[2] Where no circumstances empowering the transferor to make the transfer are alleged, the transfer is not binding on the persons interested in the property. (Vol 8) 1921 All 137 (140) : 43 All 655 (DB).

[3] Representation by transferor of existence of necessity recited in instrument of transfer—Such recitals are evidence that such representations were made by transferor. (Vol 3) 1916 P C 110 (111) : 44 Cal 186 : 43 Ind App 249 (P C).

5. "After using reasonable care to ascertain the existence of such circumstances."—[1] Transferee must use reasonable care to ascertain whether the circumstances alleged as authorising the transferor to dispose of the property exist. ('80) 6 Cal 843 (847) : 8 Ind App 8 (P C) ✠ (Vol 4) 1917 P C 188 (189) : 40 All 171 (P C).

[2] What is material under the section is the use of reasonable care on the part of the transferee and not the actual existence of the circumstances. (Vol 25) 1938 Bom 388 (390) (DB) ✠ (Vol 20) 1933 Mad 639 (643) (DB) ✠ (Vol 10) 1923 Lah 660 (661) ✠ (09) 2 Ind Cas 366 (366) (Cal) ✠ ('66) 6 Suth W R 149 (150, 151) (DB) ✠ ('02) 4 Bom L R 587 (592) (DB).

[3] If the transferee uses reasonable care in making the enquiry and is satisfied on such enquiry that the necessary circumstances authorising the transfer exist, the absence of such circumstances, as a fact, will not affect the validity of the transfer in his favour. ('66) 10 Moo Ind App 454 (461) (P C) ✠ (1863) 1 Bom H C R 27 (30) (SB).

[4] Actual pressure on the estate, the danger to be averted, or the benefit to be conferred upon it, in the particular instance, is the thing to be regarded in deciding the sufficiency of the enquiry. (1856) 6 Moo Ind App 393 (423) (P C).

[5] Enquiry ought to be made from an independent source and not from one who is interested in upholding the transfer. (Vol 22) 1935 Lah 42 (44) (D B). (Nature of necessity for transfer and avenues of information available to transferee will have to be taken into consideration in deciding sufficiency of enquiry.) ✠ ('12) 35 Mad 108 (112) (D B) ✠ (Vol 22) 1935 Cal 94 (95) ✠ ('13) 20 Ind Cas 951 (952) (All) ✠ (Vol 10) 1923 Pat 197 (199) (D B) ✠ (Vol 9) 1922 Pat 122 (135) (D B).

[6] If the transferee satisfies himself that the purpose for which the transfer is made justifies the transfer, he is not bound to see to the application of money and will be protected even if the money is not applied to the purposes for which it was required. (1856) 6 Moo Ind App 393 (424) (P C) ✠ (Vol 14) 1927 P C 37 (41) : 49 All 149 : 54 Ind App 79 (P C).

6. "Acted in good faith." — [1] Where a person has acted honestly, he can be said to have acted in good faith. (1856) 6 Moo Ind App 393 (423, 424) (P C) ✠ ('76) 2 Cal 341 (351) : 4 Ind App 52 (P C).

7. Transfer by operation of law.—[1] A purchaser in execution of a money-decree against a Hindu father is not bound to go behind the decree, and show that he made an enquiry as to the nature of the debt. ('79) 5 Cal 148 (170) : 6 Ind App 88 (P C). (If purchaser has notice actual or constructive of character of debt and he purchases with such notice, he is not protected.) ✠ ('74) 1 Ind App 321 (332) (P C).

8. Onus of proof.—[1] Burden of proof will be on the transferee to establish that circumstances entitling transferor to dispose of property existed or he (transferee) took reasonable care to ascertain that they existed and acted in good faith. (Vol 14) 1927 P C 121 (122) : 54 Ind App 211 : 8 Lah 597 (P C) ✠ (Vol 1) 1914 P C 90 (91) : 42 Cal 876 : 42 Ind App 64 (P C) ✠ (Vol 1) 1914 P C 38 (40) : 36 All 187 (P C) ✠ (1864) 2 Bom H C R 348 (360) (S B) ✠ ('09) 31 All 176 (198) (F B).

[2] Where the mortgagee himself with whom the transaction took place, is setting up a charge in his favour made by one whose title to alienate, he necessarily knew to be limited and qualified, he may be reasonably expected to allege and prove facts presumably better known to him than to the infant heir. (1856) 6 Moo Ind App 393 (419) (P C).

[3] Lapse of time does not affect the question of onus of proof. It might give rise to a presumption of acquiescence or save the alienee from the adverse inferences arising from scanty proof, which might be offered on his behalf. (Vol 2) 1915 P C 57 (58, 59) : 43 Cal 417 (P C) ✠ (Vol 7) 1920 P C 64 (64, 65) : 47 Ind App 6 : 43 Mad 541 (P C).

9. Recitals in a deed— Evidentiary value of.—[1] Recitals in a deed as to the necessity, though evidence of the representation made by the transferor as to such necessity, are not by themselves to be relied upon as proof of existence of such necessity. (Vol 1) 1914 P C 38 (40) : 36 All 187 (P C). (There must be some evidence aliunde to substantiate facts recited.) ✠ (Vol 1) 1914 P C 164 (165, 166) (P C).

[2] Recital is clear evidence of the representation, and, if the circumstances are such as to justify a reasonable belief that an enquiry would have confirmed its truth, then when proof of actual enquiry has become impossible, the recital, coupled with such circumstances, would be sufficient evidence to support the deed. (Vol 3) 1916 P C 110 (111) : 44 Cal 186 : 43 Ind App 249 (P C) ✠ (Vol 5) 1918 Pat 469 (476) : 3 Pat L Jour 199 (S B).

6. Express or implied consent. — [1] Where a mother having an interest in property allowed her son to mortgage it as his exclusive property, attested the mortgage deed and stated therein that she had no interest in the property, the son was held to be the ostensible owner with the express consent of the mother. [2] Where the real owner gets the property mutated in the revenue papers in the name of another making statements before the mutation officer disclaiming his own interest in the property, he expressly consents to the ostensible ownership of the other person (Vol 18) 1931 Nag 194 (196) : 27 Nag L R 283✠(Vol 13) 1926 Oudh 131 (132).

[3] Where the person interested allows the name of another to be recorded in the khewat as owner and himself manages the property on such other's behalf, he will be deemed to have impliedly consented to the ostensible ownership of the other. (Vol 22) 1935 Oudh 437 (440): 11 Luck 376 (D B).

[5] Two Muhammadan sisters and their brother inherited the property of a deceased person. The sisters allowed their brother to take possession, and manage the whole of the property. The sisters were not ignorant of the state of the family and of such claim as they might have to a share in the succession. It was held that brother was the ostensible owner of the property with the implied consent of the sisters. (Vol 15) 1928 P C 202 (208): 3 Luck 372: 55 Ind App 303 (P C).

[6] A who was a Government servant sent money to his brother B and allowed him to purchase property in his own name and deal with it as his own — Held B was an ostensible owner with the consent of A. (Vol 31) 1944 Mad 299 (300).

[7] One cosharer though recognised as owner at first settlement was never in possession of his share and allowed other cosharers to be in possession for a period of 40 years and without objecting to transfers effected by them — Held, the other cosharers were ostensible owners by his conduct and acquiescence. (Vol 30) 1943 Oudh 398 (401): 19 Luck 216

8. Consent need not be to the transfer by the ostensible owner.— [1] The words "with the consnt express or implied of the persons interested in immovable property" have reference to the ostensible ownership and not to the transfer by such owner. (Vol 31) 1944 Mad 299 (301) ✠ (Vol 30) 1943 Mad 459 (463) ✠ (Vol 21) 1934 All 193 (196, 197) : 56 All 582 (D B). ((Vol 16) 1929 All 943 : 52 All 139, Dissent)✠(Vol 24) 1937 Pesh 58 (60) (D B) ✠ (Vol 23) 1936 Lah 816 (818).

9. Consent under coercion, fraud, misrepresentation and mistake. — [1] Different views have been held as to whether a consent by the person interested to the ostensible ownership of another given under a mistake of law or of fact is valid :

(a) In the undermentioned case it was held that the consent referred to in the section is an intelligent consent and that a consent given by a person under a mistake as to his legal rights is not an intelligent consent. ('06) 3 All L Jour 534 (536).

(b) The following case held that a consent is not rendered unintelligent by reason of the fact that it was given under a mistake (Vol 6) 1919 Oudh 398 (400, 401): 22 Oudh Cas 243 (D B).

11. Motive of consent immaterial. — [1] The consent of the real owner to the ostensible ownership of the transferor need not be with an intention to deceive the transferee in particular or anybody in general. (Vol 6) 1919 Oudh 398 (401) : 22 Oudh Cas 243 (D B)✠ (Vol 25) 1938 Lah 86 (87): I L R (1937) Lah 783 (D B).

[But see (Vol 5) 1918 Oudh 214 (217)]

12 Consent must continue up to time of transfer. — [1] The consent of the person interested to the ostensible ownership of another must continue up to the time of the transfer. (Vol 21) 1934 All 193 (197) : 56 All 582 (D B).

[See however (Vol 31) 1944 Mad 299 (301).]

[2] If a successor-in-interest or the heir of the real owner does not take any steps to assert his right and the ostensible owner transfers the property the transfer will be binding upon the successor-in interest or the heir of the real owner (Vol 28) 1941 Cal 318 (319) ✠ (Vol 8) 1921 Cal 549 (551) (D B).

13 Ostensible owner, if includes mortgagee.— [1] Where A executes a fictitious mortgage in the name of B and B transfers his mortgage right to C who has acted bona fide after taking reasonable care to ascertain that B had power to transfer his mortgage right, the assignment by B is not a transfer by an ostensible owner (Vol 17) 1930 Cal 92 (93, 94) (D B) (Per Mitter J., Jack J. contra.)✠(Vol 29) 1942 Mad 730 (730)

14. Ostensible owner having some interest in the property.— [1] If the ostensible owner possesses some interest in the property but is held out by the person interested as being the full owner, the transferee will be protected by the section. (Vol 15) 1928 Mad 778 (782) (DB) ✠ (Vol 4) 1917 Mad 775 (780) (DB).

15. Subsequent transferees from first transferee. —[1] The following case holds that the section in terms would apply not only to the first transferee from the ostensible owner, but also to subsequent transferees from the first transferee provided that such subsequent transferees had acted in good faith and with reasonable care, even though the first transferee himself had notice of the defect in the title of the transferor. (Vol 13) 1926 Cal 916 (918) (DB).

[2] The following case holds that the section does not apply in terms to subsequent transferees from first transfee but that the principle underlying the section would apply. (Vol 27) 1940 Cal 565 (568).

16. Transferee must have acted in good faith after making reasonable inquiry.— [1] The transferee will be protected only if he has acted in good faith after taking reasonable care to ascertain that the transferor had power to make the transfer. (Vol 25) 1938 Nag 142 (144) : I L R (1939) Nag 293 ✠ (07) 9 Bom L R 388 (392) (DB) ✠ (Vol 24) 1937 Pat 353 (357) ✠ ('11) 35 Bom 342 (348) (DB).

[2] A transferee who has acted in good faith, but has not taken reasonable care to ascertain that the transferor had power to transfer the property is not protected (Vol 23) 1936 Nag 214 (216) : I L R (1936) Nag 177 ✠ ('01) 1 Low Bur Rul 196 (197) (DB).

[3] A transferee who wilfully shuts his eyes and takes the transfer without any inquiry is not protected. (1881) 18 Ch D 93 (102, 103) : 50 L J Ch 834 In re Morgan ; Pellgrem v. Pellgrem ✠ (Vol 22) 1935 Rang 423 (426) (DB).

[4] A transferee who neither makes reasonable inquiries nor acts in good faith is not protected. (Vol 30) 1943 Nag 113 (114) ✠ (Vol 7) 1920 Pat 1 (20) : 5 Pat L Jour 521 (SB).

17. "Good faith."—[1] A transferee having notice of the real owner's title to the property cannot be said to have acted in good faith in purchasing the property from a person other than the real owner. (Vol 11) 1924 Lah 738 (741) (DB) ✠ (Vol 34) 1947 Mad 287 (296) (DB) ✠ (1864) 1 Suth W R 324 (324) (D B).

[2] Where a transferor is found in possession of the property, is recorded as owner in the revenue registers and holds the title deeds of the property, and the transferee deals with him in respect of it, there is nothing to show want of good faith on his part. ('04) 26 All 490 (493) (DB).

[3] Where the transferee who had dealings with the family of which the transferor was the managing member, was found to have colluded with the managing member in creating evidence destroying the interest of the other members in the property and took a mortgage of the property from such managing member alone without looking to the title deeds of the property, it was held that the transferee had not acted in good faith. (Vol 7) 1920 Pat 1 (20) : 5 Pat L Jour 521 (SB).

[4] Where a person purchased property fully knowing that his vendor had a title under a bogus sale-deed and with the intention of harassing the real owner, it was held that the transferee had not acted in good faith. (Vol 30) 1943 Nag 113 (114).

18. Reasonable care. — [1] The reasonable care required by the section is not reasonable care generally or with regard to every aspect of the transaction but has reference only to the ascertainment that the transferor had power to make the transfer. (Vol 15) 1928 Mad 778 (780) (DB).

[2] The degree of care required is that of an ordinary prudent man acting under the circumstances of the particular case. (Vol 30) 1943 Mad 459 (463) ✠(Vol 34) 1947 Lah 147 (150) (FB) ✠ (Vol 34) 1947 Bom 49 (53) ✠ (Vol 22) 1935 Rang 423 (425) (DB) ✠ (Vol 13) 1926 Cal 916 (918) (DB) ✠ (Vol 7) 1920 Pat 1 (20) : 5 Pat L Jour 521 (SB) ✠ (Vol 16) 1929 Cal 83 (86) ✠ (Vol 21) 1934 All 193 (197) : 56 All 582 (DB).

[3] The ordinary standard of diligence that would constitute 'reasonable care' for the purpose of ascertaining the transferor's power to transfer would be to inquire about the title of the transferor to the property, and to inspect the title deeds if any produced. (Vol 15) 1928 Mad 778 (780) (DB) ✠ ('09) 5 Low Bur Rul 125 (127) (DB). (Enquiry into title involves enquiry as to actual possession.)

[4] A transferee who does not make any enquiry into the title of the transferor cannot be said to have taken the reasonable care required by this section. (Vol 29) 1942 Oudh 313 (316) : 17 Luck 636 (DB)✠ (Vol 21) 1934 Pat 67 (68) ✠ (Vol 6) 1919 Mad Mad 50 (50) (DB) ✠ (Vol 2) 1915 P C 103 (105) (P C) ✠ (Vol 17) 1930 All 422 (425) ✠(Vol 17) 1930 All 847 (848) : 52 All 248 (DB)✠ (Vol 21) 1934 Bom 1 (5) (DB) ✠ ('12) 16 Ind Cas 825 (829) (DB) (Cal) ✠ (Vol 20) 1933 Oudh 166 (169) (DB) ✠ ('11) 12 Ind Cas 858 (858) (Low Bur) ✠ (Vol 16) 1929 Pat 305 (307) (DB).

[5] The mere fact that the transferee entrusted the enquiry to a solicitor and acted upon his opinion that everything was all right is not sufficient to constitute the reasonable care required, in the absence of proof that the solicitor properly discharged his duty. (Vol 27) 1940 Cal 565 (567) (DB).

[6] The mere fact that the transferee has satisfied himself that the transferor is in possession or that his name is found in the revenue papers or tax registers is not such an enquiry into title as to constitute the taking of reasonable care to ascertain that the transferor had power to transfer the property. (Vol 29) 1942 Oudh 313 (316) : 17 Luck 636 (DB) (Inspection of khewat) ✠ (Vol 34) 1947 Bom 49 (53) ✠ (Vol 19) 1932 Nag 165 (168) : 28 Nag L R 227 ✠ (Vol 16) 1929 Pat 305 (306) (DB) ✠ (Vol 17) 1930 All 521 (522) (DB) ✠ (Inspection of khewat.)✠(Vol 9) 1922 All 392 (393,394): 44 All 674 (DB). (House-tax register.) ✠ (Vol 14) 1927 Mad 1138 (1139) ✠ (Vol 14) 1927 Nag 41 (42) (Revenue papers) ✠ (Vol 21) 1934 Lah 885 (886, 887) : 16 Lah 313 (DB). (Municipal registers.) ✠ (Vol 7) 1920 Pat 1 (21) : 5 Pat L Jour 521 (SB) (Do.) ✠ (Vol 21) 1934 Oudh 165 (167) : 9 Luck 571 (Do.) ✠ ('01) 1 Low Bur Rul 196 (197) (DB). (Inspection of revenue records.) ✠ (Vol 17) 1930 Oudh 184 (191) (DB). (Revenue Records.)

[But see (Vol 27) 1940 Mad 523 (524).]

[7] If there is an instrument constituting the transferor the ostensible owner and the power to transfer is given or possessed thereunder and the transferor is in possession the transferee who rests satisfied with these must be deemed to have taken the reasonable care required and need make no further inquiries. (Vol 10) 1923 Cal 240 (245, 246) (DB) ✠ (Vol 15) 1928 Mad 778 (781) (DB) ✠ (Vol 3) 1916 Cal 745 (746) (DB).

[8] If there are indications in the title deeds themselves or there are other circumstances which put the transferee on notice or further inquiry the transferee cannot be said to have taken reasonable care unless he makes such further inquiry. (Vol 15) 1928 Mad 778 (780) (D B) ✠ ('09) 5 Low Bur Rul 125 (127) (DB) ✠ (Vol 2) 1915 Low Bur 104 (105).

[9] The question whether the transferee has taken the reasonable care required by the section in any particular case is one of fact (Vol 30) 1943 Mad 459 (463) ✠ (Vol 30) 1943 Oudh 398 (401) : 19 Luck 216✠ (Vol 22) 1935 Lah 410 (412) ✠ ('01) 23 All 442 (447) (DB) ✠ ('13) 1913 Mad W N 674 (676) ✠ ('02) 1 Low Bur Rul 196 (197) (DB) ✠ (Vol 7) 1920 Pat 1 (20) : 5 Pat L Jour 521 (SB) ✠ (Vol 21) 1934 All 193 (197) : 56 All 582 (DB) ✠ (Vol 27) 1940 Pat 480 (481) (DB).

[10] A executed a sale deed in favour of B and put him in possession. B on the same date executed an agreement to reconvey the property to A within a certain time. The sale deed and the agreement to reconvey really constituted a mortgage. C purchased the property from B after inspecting the sale-deed in favour of B. There were no indications in that deed to put him on notice or enquiry. It was held that he had taken the reasonable care. (Vol 15) 1928 Mad 778 (782) (DB).

[See also ('11) 10 Ind Cas 779 (780) (Rang).]

[See however (Vol 31) 1944 Mad 237 (238) ✠ ('86) 9 All 97 (103) (DB).]

[11] K, a Government lessee, sold the lease to B. B without getting the lease transferred to his name in Government papers sold it to C, who got his name recorded in Government papers. B subsequenly repurchased the lease from C but failed to get it re-transferred to his name in Government papers. Possession was with C. C afterwards came to an arrangement with the Government, surrendered the lease and received in lieu of it several other leases. D purchased one of these from C on looking into Government papers only. B sued for possession on the strength of his purchase. It was held that D was entitled to protection under this section. (Vol 16) 1929 Rang 17 (19); 6 Rang 643.

[See however ('01) 23 All 442 (447) (DB).]

[13] Hindu widow inheriting property from her husband allowing her husband's brother's name to be recorded as owner and otherwise showing her consent to his dealing with property as his own — No circumstances to put transferee on guard — Held reasonable care was taken. (Vol 31) 1944 All 42 (56) (DB).

[14] One brother sending money to another for the latter to invest in his own name — Latter purchasing property in his own name and then mortgaging it to pay off a debt — Held that the mortgagee was protected in spite of there having been some abortive criminal proceedings by the real owner against the ostensible owner for recovery of possession. (Vol 31) 1944 Mad 299 (302).

42. Where a person transfers any immoveable property, reserving power to revoke the transfer, and subsequently transfers the property for consideration to another transferee, such transfer operates in favour of such transferee (subject to any condition attached to the exercise of the power) as a revocation of the former transfer to the extent of the power.

Transfer by person having authority to revoke former transfer.

Illustration.

A lets a house to B, and reserves power to revoke the lease if, in the opinion of a specified surveyor, B should make a use of it detrimental to its value. Afterwards A thinking that such a use has been made, lets the house to C. This operates as a revocation of B's lease subject to the opinion of the surveyor as to B's use of the house having been detrimental to its value.

43. Where a person [a][fraudulently or] erroneously represents that he is authorized to transfer certain immoveable property and professes to transfer such property for consideration, such transfer shall, at the option of the transferee, operate on any interest which the transferor may acquire in such property at any time during which the contract of transfer subsists.

Transfer by unauthorized person who subsequently acquires interest in property transferred.

Nothing in this section shall impair the right of transferees in good faith for consideration without notice of the existence of the said option.

Illustration.

A, a Hindu, who has separated from his father B, sells to C three fields, X, Y and Z, representing that A is authorized to transfer the same. Of these fields Z does not belong to A, it having been retained by B on the partition; but on B's dying A as heir obtains Z. C, not having rescinded the contract of sale, may require A to deliver Z to him.

19. Plea of reasonable care and good faith when to be taken.—[1] The plea that he had acted in good faith after taking reasonable care must be taken by the transferee in the trial Court itself and cannot be raised for the first time in appeal. (Vol 28) 1941 Pesh 59 (60) (DB) ✠(Vol 18) 1931 Bom 227 (227) (DB) ✠ ('05) 28 Mad 122 (123) (DB) ✠ (Vol 4) 1917 Mad 926 (928) (D B) ✠ (Vol 15) 1928 Nag 308 (313) ✠ (Vol 16) 1929 Pat 305 (307) (DB)✠(Vol 27) 1940 Pat 620 (621) (DB).

[2] Where the facts upon which plea that transferee had acted in good faith after taking reasonable care would have been based are on the record of the trial Court, the appellate Court will not only allow it to be raised but even consider it on its own initiative. [3] The fact that a plea under this section has been found against in a former litigation with certain vendees from the same ostensible owner is no bar to the raising of the plea by other vendees in a subsequent litigation. (Vol 31) 1944 All 42 (59) (DB).

20. Transferee's title to be considered with reference to date of transfer.—[1] Where the real owner is a coparcener in a joint Hindu family and his share is transferred by the ostensible owner, the transferee becomes entitled to the share of the real owner at the date of transfer irrespective of its decrease or increase by any subsequent birth or death in the family. (Vol 30) 1943 Mad 459 (464).

21. Burden of proof.—[1] The onus is upon the transferee to show that he acted in good faith after taking reasonable care. [2] Where the transferee has let in his evidence as to his having acted in good faith after taking reasonable care, the onus will shift to the real owner to show that the transferee had notice of the defect in the transferor's title or of circumstances which if prosecuted would have led to a discovery of such defect (Vol 31) 1944 All 42 (58) (DB) ✠ (Vol 31) 1944 Mad 237 (238)✠ (Vol 18) 1931 Oudh 419 (421) (D B) ✠ (Vol 27) 1940 Rang 184 (186) ✠ (Vol 16) 1929 Cal 636 (638) (D B).

[3] Some circumstances must be specifically pointed out as the starting point of an enquiry which might have led to the discovery of the real owner's title. ('72) Ind App Sup 40 (45) (P C) ✠ (Vol 13) 1926 Cal 916 (918) (D B) ✠ (Vol 10) 1923 Cal 240 (245) (DB) ✠ (Vol 24) 1937 Pat 353 (355).

tation to other party to the contract, whereby the other party is induced to enter into the contract, and the person making the representation gets the benefit of it (Vol 31) 1944 Mad 530 (530).

2. Section presupposes valid contract to transfer. —[1] A transferee from a minor cannot rely on this section. (Vol 24) 1937 All 610 (618) : I L R (1937) All 860 (F B).

[2] It has been held that a judgment-debtor, a decree passed against whom has been transferred to the Collector for execution and to whom para 11, Sch. III of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, applies, is a person incompetent to contract to the extent stated in the said paragraph, and that a transfer made by him in contravention thereof is not capable of being made good under this section. SECTION 44 — SYNOPSIS

1. Scope.
2. "Right to joint possession or other common or part enjoyment."
3. Right to enforce a partition—General.
4. "Subject to the conditions and liabilities."
5. Second paragraph—General.
6. "Dwelling-house."
7. "Undivided family."

1. Scope.—[1] The first part of the section makes the transferee from a co-owner as much a co-owner as his transferor was before the transfer. (Vol 17) 1930 Oudh 475 (478, 479) (DB) ✠ (Vol 22) 1935 Mad 1059 (1061) ✠ (Vol 11) 1924 Mad 741 (746) (DB) ✠ (Vol 22) 1935 Lah 651 (652) ✠ ('30) 51 Cal L Jour 424 (426) ✠ (Vol 19) 1932 All 393 (400) : 54 All 628 (DB) ✠ (Vol 4) 1917 Nag 45 (46) : 14 Nag L R 101.

[2] The second part of the section is designed to prevent an outsider from enforcing his way into a dwelling house in which other members of the transferor's family have a right to live. (Vol 27) 1940 Rang 53 (54, 55).

[2] The propristary right of a co-owner in the whole estate operates only to prevent any co-owner from setting up a claim to any parcel of the common property as his exclusive property, during the period of common ownership. (Vol 11) 1924 P C 144 (146) : 51 Cal 631 : 51 Ind App 293 (PC).

[3] A co-owner or his transferee, if ousted from joint possession is entitled to enforce his right to joint possession by a suit, and is not necessarily forced to sue for partition. ('95) 20 Bom 467 (468, 469) (D B) ✠ (Vol 14) 1927 Cal 936 (937) (D B). (('97) 26 Cal 553, Foll.) ✠ (Vol 2) 1915 Cal 264 (264) (D B) ✠ (Vol 19) 1932 All 81 (81) ✠ ('96) 18 All 361 (363).

[4] Where the co-owners have been enjoying the common property in separate plots for the sake of convenience, the Court will not decree to one co-owner joint possession of the portion in the actual cultivation of the other, the proper remedy of the former being a suit for partition. ('89) 18 Cal 10 (21) : 17 Ind App 110 (P C) ✠ (Vol 11) 1924 P C 144 (146) : 51 Cal 631 : 51 Ind App 293 (PC).

4. "Subject to the conditions and liabilities."—[1] A mortgagee from a co-owner of his share in one or several items of property belonging to the co-owners will take it only subject to the right of the other co-owners to enforce a partition. If in such partition, the mortgaged property is allotted to another co-owner, the latter takes the property free of the mortgage and the mortgagee can proceed only against the substituted properties in the hands of the mortgagor. [5] A dwelling-house belonged to four brothers A, B, C and D, members of a Hindu family. In 1874 the shares of A and B were sold in execution of decrees against them. In 1877 the remaining shares were also sold and the house became the property of the plaintiff and one K. The plaintiff sued K for partition and obtained a decree. Pending execution, K conveyed his share back to A and B. The brothers had continued to occupy the house notwithstanding the changes in the ownership. A applied under S. 4 of the Partition Act, 1893, to be allowed to buy the plaintiff's share. It was held that after 1877 the house no longer belonged to the undivided family. The subsequent purchase of K's interest by A and B did not entitle them to the benefit of S. 4 of that Act. ('98) 23 Bom 73 (76) (DB).

[1] This section does not apply to gifts or bequests. ('11) 34 Mad 80 (81) (DB).

[2] A and B jointly purchased a property from C. A paid the whole consideration to C, but debited in his account books half the amount against B. B did not pay this amount to A but claimed half the property. It was held that B was entitled to half the property, but that the Court should pass a decree therefor only on condition of B's paying up the amount. ('12) 15 Ind Cas 173 (173) (All).

[3] Whether there is a "contract to the contrary" is to be gathered from the words used by the parties, their conduct and the surrounding circumstances. Evidence of such conduct or circumstances is admissible to prove such contract. (Vol 29) 1942 Oudh 327 (329) : 18 Luck 92 (DB).

[4] X mortgaged his property to A and B each of whom advanced half the mortgage amount. A subsequently sued X and B for the recovery of half the mortgage-money from out of the whole of the mortgaged property. It was held that the defendants could not claim that A should proceed only against half the mortgaged property. (1900) 3 Oudh Cas 8 (12) (DB).

[But see (Vol 13) 1926 All 676 (677) (DB).]

[5] Where A and B purchased a property and X sued A for pre-emption of half the property and relied merely upon the presumption referred to in the last paragraph of the section in proof of the fact that A was entitled to half the property, it was held that the last paragraph of the section did not apply until there was an absence of evidence as to the interest of A and B in the fund advanced for the transfer, that X could have adduced evidence as to that matter but did not, and that therefore the presumption could not be drawn in his favour. (Vol 12) 1925 Oudh 369 (370).

[6] A and B together purchased a property. X sued them both for pre-emption of the whole property. A claimed that he was a cosharer and had a preferential right over X in respect of half the property. It was held that since he should and could have produced evidence as to his right and did not, no presumption in the last paragraph could be raised in his favour, and that X was therefore entitled to pre-empt the whole property. (Vol 15) 1928 Oudh 334 (335) : 3 Luck 674 (DB).

[13] The following cases hold that if the gift is made to persons who are Hindus but who are incapable of forming a joint Hindu family, they will be presumed to take only as tenants-in-common. If on the contrary the gift is to persons who constitute such a family and if the donees would, but for the gift or will, have succeeded to the donor according to the law of intestate succession then the presumption is that they take as joint tenants. Where immoveable property is transferred for consideration by persons having distinct interests therein, the transferors are, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, entitled to share in the consideration equally, where their interests in the property were of equal value, and, where such interests were of unequal value, proportionately to the value of their respective interests.

There being no agreement to the contrary, A is entitled to an eighth share in Lalpura, and B and C each to a sixteenth share in that mauza.

(b) A, being entitled to a life-interest in mauza Atrali and B and C to the reversion, sell the mauza for Rs. 1,000. A's life-interest is ascertained to be worth Rs. 600, the reversion Rs. 400. A is entitled to receive Rs. 600 out of the purchase money, B and C to receive Rs. 400.

47. Where several co-owners of immoveable property transfer a share therein without specifying that the transfer is to take effect on any particular share or shares of the transferors, the transfer, as among such transferors, takes effect on such shares equally where the shares were equal, and, where they were unequal, proportionately to the extent of such shares.

To give effect to the transfer one-anna share is taken from the share of A, and half an anna share from each of the shares of B and C.

48. Where a person purports to create by transfer at different times rights in or over the same immoveable property, and such rights cannot all exist or be exercised to their full extent together, each later created right shall, in the absence of a special contract or reservation binding the earlier transferees, be subject to the rights previously created.

[2] A and B, owners in equal shares of certain property mortgaged it to C for a sum which was to be retained by C for the purpose of paying a prior mortgage which had already been executed by them to D —C failed to pay the prior mortgage as undertaken by him and the prior mortgagee sued for and recovered from A the amount due to him— A then sued B for contribution claiming half the amount so recovered from him—B objected to it on the ground that most of the consideration received under the prior mortgage had been received by A himself, and that therefore he could not recover half the amount recovered from him by the mortgagee — Held that this contention was not correct—A and B being equal sharers in the property mortgaged to C, each was entitled to half the consideration for that mortgage. [3] Where a tenant for life and the trustees under a settlement of the reversion in fee joined in executing a transfer, it was held that the transferee was entitled to see that a proper apportionment was made, in order to safeguard his interests against claims by the beneficiaries on the ground that the act of the trustee was not beneficial to their interests. [1] A who had an absolute estate in 8 annas of certain property and B who had a life-interest in the other 8 annas thereof transferred an eight annas share in the common property to D. From the circumstances that A and B had not the same kind of estate in their respective shares in the property, and from a construction of the document of transfer it was held that A and B each purported to transfer only 4 annas out of his own share to D and that therefore D could get only a 4 annas share out of the share of A and a 4 annas share out of the life-interest of B which would come to an end at the death of B. 1. Payment in good faith. — [1] The expression "good faith" will exclude cases where a person has acted in a grossly negligent manner, sufficient to charge him with notice of the real owner's right. (Vol 26) 1939 Pat 540 (547) (DB).

[5] If the arrangement between the mortgagor and tenant for pre-payment of rent, or for setting off future rent against money due to the tenant from the mortgagor, be made subsequent to the date of the mortgage, such arrangement will be treated as a collateral bargain between those parties and not binding upon the mortgagee. (Vol 13) 1926 Cal 204 (207) (DB).

[6] If before the date on which the rent falls due the landlord makes an assignment, the receipt of rent cannot be treated as a discharge by him, because by assignment before the rent falls due, he has parted with the power of giving such a discharge and payment of rent before it falls due cannot free the tenant from further liability. (Vol 9) 1922 Pat 339 (340) (DB).

[7] Lease by English mortgagor in possession after mortgage—Rent paid in advance—Lessee cannot claim it against mortgagee. (Vol 13) 1926 Bom 567 (570).

1. Scope. — [1] This section is an exception to the rule enunciated by the maxim quicquid plantatur solo solo cedit. (Vol. 15) 1928 Rang. 141 (142) (DB).

[2] The section is based upon the maxim that 'he who seeks equity, must do equity.' (Vol 16) 1929 All 12 (14): 51 All. 454 (DB) ✠ (Vol 27) 1940 Sind 77 (80): ILR (1940) Kar. 241 (DB) ✠ (Vol 24) 1937 Oudh. 75 (77): 12 Luck 133 ✠ (Vol 4) 1917 Oudh. 257 (259).

[3] In order that this section may apply, it is essential that (i) the person claiming relief under this section is a transferee of immovable property (ii) he has made improvements believing in good faith that he was absolutely entitled to the property, and (iii) he is evicted therefrom by a person with better title. (Vol. 16) 1929 Bom. 246 (248) (DB) ✠ (Vol 14) 1927 Nag 370 (373) ✠ (Vol. 13) 1926 Bom. 599 (600) (DB) ✠ (Vol. 25) 1938 Bom. 71 (74, 75) (DB).

[4] Where the section does not, in terms, apply the principle underlying it, being an equitable one, will apply. (Vol. 25) 1939 All. 342 (345).

[5] The principle of the section will also apply to cases arising in provinces to which this Act has not been extended. (Vol. 3) 1916 Lah 379 (380). (The Punjab.) ✠ (Vol. 20) 1933 Lah. 540 (541) (DB) (Do.) ✠ ('22) 70 Ind. Cas. 1 (3) (Pesh.)

(Vol. 13) 1926 Lah. 170 (171): 7 Lah 35 (DB) (Mortgage) ✠ ('30) 31. Pun. L R. 732 (734) (DB). (Sale—Distinguishing 1913 Pun. Re. No. 98)

2. Muhammadan law.—[1] The section is directly applicable to the cases of Muhammadan transferees. ('07) 30 Mad 197 (198) (DB)

3. Person claiming benefit under section must be a transferee —[1] It is only a 'transferee' of property that can claim the benefit of this section. (Vol. 2) 1915 Mad 263 (265) (DB)

[2] The word "transferee" is not defined in this Act, but its meaning must be ascertained by reference to the definition of the word "transfer" in S 5 (Vol. 27) 1940 Sind 77 (80). ILR (1940) Kar. 241 (DB).

[3] A legatee under a will is not a 'transferee'. (Vol 19) 1932 Bom. 190 (191) ✠ (Vol. 27) 1940 Sind 77 (78): ILR (1940) Kar. 241 (DB). (Obiter).

[4] The word 'transferee' will include a person in whose favour an instrument of transfer has been executed with all the formalities, necessary for its validity though the title conveyed by the instrument is defective, (Vol 27) 1940 Sind 77 (80): I L R (1940) Kar. 241 (DB) ✠ (Vol. 15) 1928 All. 41 (44) (DB).

[5] A person in whose favour an instrument of transfer has been executed by a de facto guardian of a minor is a 'transferee' within this section. ('07) 30 Mad. 197 (200) (DB) ✠ (Vol. 14) 1927 Bom. 611 (612): 51 Bom. 1040 (DB)

(7) A person in whose favour an instrument is executed but which is invalid for want of registration, is a 'transferee' (Vol 6) 1919 Mad. 1083 (1090): 40 Mad 1143 (F.B) ✠ (Vol. 27) 1940 Sind. 77 (79): ILR (1940) Kar 241 (DB)

[But see (Vol. 27) 1940 Rang. 172 (174).]

[8] A person in whose favour an instrument has been executed but the transaction is merely a colourable one and no title of any kind is intended to pass cannot be said to be a 'transferee'. (1854) 6 Moo. Ind App. 27 (51, 52) (P. C)

[9] Person managing Hindu widow's estate making improvements—Widow transferring property to A—A evicted by reversioner—A cannot claim amount spent by manager on improvements. (Vol. 28) 1941 Mad. 345 (350) (DB).

[3] Improvements made without consent of other cosharers on property which was not to be delivered — No compensation granted. (Vol 10) 1923 Mad 358 (359): 46 Mad 104 (D B).

[4] Improvements by one co-sharer without protest from other co-sharers—Compensation allowed. (Vol 12) 1925 Oudh 45 (45).

5. Improvements by a purchaser at a court sale. — [1] A court auction-purchaser cannot, on the sale in his favour being set aside, claim the benefit of this section and obtain compensation for the improvements effected by him (Vol 18) 1931 All 277 (283): 53 All 334 (F B) ✠ ('13) 36 Mad 194 (197) (D B).

[2] If a man enters upon land as a stranger-purchaser at an execution sale and effects improvements thereon, he is entitled to compensation therefor upon the reversal of the judgment and sale irrespective of any question of good faith on the part of the purchaser.

Even assuming good faith was essential, the good faith required should not, at any rate, go beyond an honest belief in the purchaser in the validity of his title. ('13) 36 Mad 194 (202) (D B) ✠ (Vol 13) 1926 Nag 160 (161)✠ ('75) 23 Suth W R 393 (394) (D B).

6 "Improvements" — [1] An "improvement" is anything done to the property which results in increasing its value. ('13) 36 Mad 194 (201) (D B).

[2] The repair of a house which is in a dilapidated condition is an improvement (Vol 16) 1929 Lah 825 (825) (D B).

[3] The removing of stones from a waste land or levelling it so as to make it fit for cultivation is an improvement. (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 1226 (1228).

[4] Moneys spent over necessary repairs and upkeep of the property, cannot be recovered as "improvements." (Vol 2) 1915 Mad. 263 (265) (D B) ✠ (Vol 16) 1929 Bom 230 (230) (D B)

[5] Moneys spent over the annual husbandlike operations such as manuring or levelling the land for the purpose of cultivation cannot be recovered as improvements. (Vol 1) 1914 Mad 138 (138) (D B).

7. "Good faith" — [1] It is one of the essential conditions for the applicability of the section that the person claiming compensation for improvements must have believed in "good faith" that he was absolutely entitled to the property. (Vol 19) 1932 All 210 (215) (D B) ✠ (Vol 16) 1929 All 12 (14) : 51 All 454 (D B).

[2] The benefit of S. 51 cannot be extended to the transferee, when there is a distinct finding that his conduct was not bona fide (Vol 32) 1945 All 227 (229) : I L R (1945) All 148 (D B).

[3] The expression "good faith" in this section has the same meaning as it has under the General Clauses Act 1897, namely that good faith does not go beyond an honest belief. ('13) 36 Mad 194 (202).

[6] The question whether a person believed in good faith that he was absolutely entitled to the property is one of fact to be decided on the facts and circumstances of each case. (Vol 7) 1920 Sind 31 (32) : 14 Sind L R 12 (D B) ✠ (Vol 27) 1940 Oudh 266 (269) (D B) (Vendee failing to assure himself that cosharers would not pre-empt, cannot be said to have acted in good faith.) ✠ (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 609 (613) (D B) (Undisturbed possession for many years may give rise to an inference of good faith.) ✠ (Vol 5) 1918 Oudh 1 (2) (Vendee purchasing property knowing that vendor had only limited interest—Vendee cannot be said to have believed in good faith that he was absolutely entitled to it.) ✠ (Vol 15) 1928 All 41 (44) (D B) ✠ ('38) 1938 Oudh W N 281 (283) (Vendee taking a sale-deed of property from majority of cosharers — Sale pre-empted by a cosharer who was at the time of sale living abroad—Vendee was held to believe in good faith that he was absolutely entitled) ✠ (Vol 27) 1940 Sind 77 (79) : I L R (1940) Kar 241 (D B) ✠ ('07) 30 Mad 197 (199) (D B)✠(Vol 15) 1928 Mad 349 (354) (D B).

[7] The mere fact that a person has spent money on improvements does not by itself give rise to an inference of good faith (Vol 15) 1928 All 381 (385) (D B). (Improvements by mortgagee by conditional sale.)

[8] Where a person knows that he has no title to the property it cannot possibly be said that he believed honestly that he was absolutely entitled to the property. (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 921 (924) (DB) ✠ (Vol 11) 1924 Nag 142 (145)✠ (Vol 4) 1917 Oudh 257 (259).

[9] Where a person takes with notice of the defective title of the transferor, there is want of good faith. ('71) 16 Suth W R 169 (171) (DB) ✠ ('10) 12 Cal L Jour 391 (399) (DB) ✠ (72) 1872 Pun Re No. 7, p. 11 (12).

[10] Where a person purchased property with notice of a prior contract to sell and omitted to make any enquiry as to it, he could not be considered to have had on honest belief that he was absolutely entitled to the property. (Vol 1) 1914 Cal 137 (139) : 41 Cal 852 (D B).

[11] Where, apart from there being no evidence as to the kind of structures created, it is not possible to hold that the plaintiffs in good faith believed that they were absolutely entitled to the land, there is no scope for the application of S. 51. (Vol 34) 1947 Bom 241 (247) (DB).

[12] The omission to make an enquiry, which a prudent person would have made may however be a piece of evidence showing bad faith. (1874) L R 7 H L 135 (157), Agra Bank v. Barry.

8. "Absolutely entitled" to the property.— [1] The expression "absolutely entitled" means "full proprietorship" with heritable and absolutely transferable rights, as opposed for example to a life estate or a rent-free grant liable to presumption. (Vol 18) 1931 All 277 (287) : 53 All 334 (FB).

[2] So long as a transfer is subject to payment of rent or to any other condition, the transferee cannot be said to believe that he is "absolutely entitled" to the property. (Vol 24) 1937 Oudh 446 (447) : 13 Luck 450 (DB).

[3] The section cannot apply to cases of improvements by lessees, even if they are permanent tenure holders (Vol 26) 1939 Mad 247 (249) ✠ (Vol 24) 1937 Oudh 446 (447) : 13 Luck 450 (DB) ✠ (Vol 27) 1940 Rang 172 (174)✠ ('10) 37 Mad 1 (12) ✠ (1900) 27 Cal 570 (586) (DB) ✠ ('02) 29 Cal 871 (884) (DB) ✠ (Vol 12) 1925 All 261 (262) : 47 All 430 (Reversing on Letters Patent appeal the decision in (Vol 12) 1925 All 190) ✠ ('98) 22 Bom 1 (16) ✠ (Vol 6) 1919 Nag 144 (147) ✠ (Vol 5) 1918 Nag 210 (213)✠ (Vol 29) 1942 Oudh 231 (237) (DB).

[9] A trespasser is liable to be evicted from the land even if he has erected substantial buildings upon it. A trespasser, or even the Court cannot compel the real owner to accept compensation for his land instead of the land itself. The real owner is entitled to stand upon his strict rights and to claim possession of the land. [10] It is usual in India to allow the trespasser to remove his material from the land, and to reserve in the decree leave to the trespasser to remove his material within a time to be fixed by the Court, failing which the real owner is to take possession of the land with or without the buildings which he may pull down at his will (Vol 31) 1944 Pat 77 (86): 22 Pat 513 (DB) ✠ (Vol 14) 1927 Nag 400 (401) ✠ (Vol 14) 1927 Nag 348 (349) ✠ ('29) 114 Ind Cas 696 (696) (DB) (Lah) ✠ (Vol 13) 1926 Lah 694 (695) (DB) ✠ (Vol 1) 1914 All 89 (90, 91).

[11] A purchased a house from a person who had no title to it, pulled it down, and built a new house in its place, but utilised some of the old material for the new construction. The real owner sued him for possession. It was held that since the old materials could not be separated from the new materials without destroying the house itself, the trespasser was not entitled to remove the new materials. 11. Modes of compensating the evicted transferee.—[1] The option of choosing between the two alternative modes of compensation provided by the section rests with the evictor and not with the transferee or the Court. ('05) 2 Nag L R 34 (41) ✠ (Vol 19) 1932 All 210 (215) (DB) ✠ (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 609 (614) (D B) ✠ (Vol 13) 1926 Bom 599 (600) (DB). (Case of a mortgagor redeeming mortgaged property—Option rests with the mortgagor.)

[2] Evictor too poor to pay for improvements — Order of lower Court directing evictor to sell his interest to transferee approved on appeal to High Court. (Vol 15) 1928 All 41 (45) (DB).

12. Value of improvements.— How estimated.— [1] The value of an improvement is the amount by which the market value of the property is increased by reason of the improvement and not the amount actually expended over such improvement. (Vol 17) 1930 P C 297 (300) : 57 Ind App 305 : 53 Mad 692 (PC) ✠ ('13) 40 Cal 555 (564) : 1913 Pun Re No. 77 (PC).

[2] The burden of establishing the present value of the improvement is on the transferee. (Vol 24) 1937 Lah 500 (504) (DB) ✠ (Vol 1) 1914 Mad 138 (138) (DB) ✠ (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 263 (265) (DB).

[3] The value of improvements is a question of fact and hence cannot be raised for the first time or considered in second appeal. (Vol 3) 1916 Lah 379 (379) (DB) ✠ ('11) 34 Mad 535 (542) (DB).

13. Profit due to improvement. — [1] A, a transferee from a Hindu widow without legal necessity, effected permanent improvements on the property and sold it to B. C, a reversioner sued B for possession and mesne profits. It was found that the rent of the property had increased by the improvements. It was held that B could claim the profits of improvements and such profits could be set off against C's claim for the mesne profits (Vol 9) 1922 P C 91 (93) (PC).

14. Right to crops. — [1] Mortgage decree in favour of mortgagee in possession — In execution land sold and purchased by stranger — Crop standing on land at time of sale — Mortgagee held was not entitled to recover value of crop from purchaser. ('90) 13 Mad 15 (16).

[2] Held that usufructuary mortgagee, whose duration under the mortgage was uncertain, or his tenant was entitled to all the crops sown or planted by him on the land which were growing thereon at the time of redemption provided that such crops were grown or planted before the person who grew them had notice of the intended redemption. (Vol 7) 1920 Upp Bur 56 (61) : 3 Upp Bur Rul 141.

[3] The person evicted is entitled to take the growing crops on the land at the time of the eviction only "under the circumstances aforesaid"., i. e., only if he had honestly believed that he was absolutely entitled to the property. (Vol 7) 1920 Sind 31 (33) : 14 Sind L R 12 (DB).

[4] The right to the crops and the ancillary right of ingress and egress for gathering and carrying the crops cannot be pleaded as a bar to the eviction itself. ('86) 8 All 502 (508, 509) (DB).

15. Acquiescence and this section. — [1] If a person having a right and seeing another person about to commit, or in the course of committing an act infringing upon that right, stands by in such a manner as really to induce the person who commits the act, and who might otherwise have abstained from it, to believe that he assents to its being committed, he cannot afterwards be heard to complain of the act. This is called the doctrine of acquiescence. (Vol 12) 1925 Oudh 258 (260) : 28 Oudh Cas 114.

[2] Doctrine of acquiescence is another phase of the doctrine of estoppel. (Vol 23) 1936 Cal 711 (713) : ✠ (Vol 12) 1925 Oudh 258 (260) : 28 Oudh Cas 114.

[3] This section has no reference to the conduct of the owner of the property at all. (Vol 7) 1920 Sind 31 (32) : 14 Sind L R 12 (DB).

[4] There is no question under this section of any estoppel against the owner of the property by reason of any conduct of his. (Vol 16) 1929 All 12 (14) : 51 All 454 (DB).

[5] If a person openly builds a shed and then a house on a site and the owner, with knowledge of his proceedings, offers no objection and takes no action for 8 or 10 years, the owner must treat such person as a licensee and cannot eject him without paying him compensation. (Vol 18) 1931 Nag 158 (159) : 27 Nag L R 183 ✠ (Vol 8) 1921 Nag 167 (168).

[6] Where a tenant or other person holding an interest in land makes certain improvements on the land believing himself to be entitled to a higher interest, or believing that he would be granted a certain interest in the land by the owner, and the owner acquiesces in it, if the owner wishes to eject the person from the land he should compensate him for the improvements. (Vol 20) 1933 Cal 612 (613, 614) ✠ ('97) 21 Bom 749 (754) (DB) ✠ ('89) 12 Mad 320 (323) (DB).

[7] As a general rule the wrongdoer cannot claim any compensation for the improvements made by him. ('06) 2 Nag L R 4 (5, 7) ✠ (Vol 22) 1935 Bom 219 (221, 222) (DB) ✠ (Vol 22) 1935 Cal 541 (544) : 62 Cal 492 ✠ (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 419 (419) (SB) ✠ (Vol 3) 1916 Mad 220 (221, 222) : 38 Mad 710 (FB) ✠ (Vol 2) 1915 Lah 235 (236) (DB) ✠ (Vol 3) 1916 Low Bur 81 (83, 84) : 8 Low Bur Rul 433 (DB) ✠ (Vol 10) 1923 All 11 (11) ✠ (Vol 7) 1920 Pat 109 (110) ✠ (Vol 26) 1939 Mad 247 (250).

[8] If wrongdoer has acted bona fide believing that he has a right to build or improve the land, there arises an equity in his favour which will entitle him to claim compensation for the improvements though there has been no acquiescence on the part of the true owner. ('78) 3 Cal L R 194 (196) ✠ (Vol 1) 1914 Mad 84 (85) (DB) ✠ (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 314 (316) ✠ (Vol 7) 1920 Bom 87 (87, 88) : 44 Bom 950 (DB) ✠ (Vol 3) 1916 Lah 239 (244) (DB) ✠ ('02) 29 Cal 871 (884) (DB) ✠ (Vol 2) 1915 Lah 305 (306).

Thus, where mortgaged property is sold to a third party pending suit on a later mortgage and the purchaser covenants to pay off the earlier mortgage, the fact that the transfer becomes unavailable as against the plaintiff under this section, does not take away the right of subrogation. Section 53 (contd.)

1. Scope.— [1] The principles of the section will apply even in places to which this Act is not directly applicable. (Vol 10) 1923 Lah 478 (479). (The Punjab) ✠ (Vol 25) 1938 Lah 156 (157) (DB). (Do.) ✠ ('11) 10 Ind Cas 922 (923). (Low Bur). (Burma before 1924.) ✠ ('13) 6 Low Bur Rul 170 (171). (Do.)

2. Suit by creditor for declaring a transfer as fraudulent. — [1] Suit by a creditor for a declaration that a certain transfer made by the debtor was fictitious and was intended to defraud creditors is not maintainable. (Vol 32) 1945 Mad 53 (54, 55) : I L R (1945) Mad 412 (DB).

3. This section and S. 23, Contract Act. — [1] Where A transfers property to B for the purpose of saving it from the creditors and the transfer is based on an agreement the object of which is fraudulent, S. 23, Contract Act, would apply and the transfer would be void even as between the parties. Section 53, T. P. Act, would not apply. (Vol 30) 1943 Nag 129 (134) : I L R (1943) Nag 42 (DB).

[2] The mere fact that one of the parties to the agreement is actuated by an unlawful intention and that the other party is aware of this will not make the object of the agreement an unlawful one. The transfer of property consequent upon such agreement will be under this section, not void. It will be binding as between the parties to it but voidable at the option of the creditors of the transferor. (Vol 30) 1943 Nag 129 (134): I L R 1943 Nag 42 (DB) ✠(Vol 23) 1936 Nag 207 (209) : I L R (1936) Nag 183.

4. Section applies only to transfers of immovable property.—[1] This section is limited to transfers of immovable property. (Vol 1) 1914 P C 137 (139) : 37 Mad 227 (PC) (Assignment of rights under decree—S. 53 does not apply.)

[2] The principles underlying the section may be applied to transfers of moveable property. ('01) 1901 Pun Re No 6, p. 18 (23) ✠ (Vol 19) 1932 Rang 13 (13) : 9 Rang 614 (DB) ✠ (Vol 25) 1938 Nag 249 (250, 251) : I L R (1940) Nag 316.

[3] According to the principles underlying this section, a deed is void against creditors when the debtor is in a state of insolvency and when the effect of the deed is to leave the debtor without the means of paying his present debts unless the transfer has been made upon valuable consideration and in good faith. (Vol 1) 1914 P C 137 (139) : 37 Mad 227 (PC).

5. Muhammadan law. — [1] There is no rule of Muhammadan law inconsistent with the provisions of this section. (Vol 17) 1930 All 462 (465) : 52 All 710 (DB) ✠ (Vol 4) 1917 Mad 841 (844) (DB).

6. "Transfer of property."— [1] "Transfer" includes transfers whether with or without consideration. (Vol 28) 1941 Oudh 205 (208) (DB).

[4] A sham transfer need not to be set aside by a suit. (Vol 31) 1944 Nag 44 (52): I L R (1944) Nag 342 (FB) ✠(Vol 30) 1943 Nag 129 (132, 136): I L R (1943) Nag 42 (D B) ✠('08) 35 Cal 551 (560): 35 Ind App 98 (P C) ✠(Vol 27) 1940 All 407 (409): I L R (1940) All 542 (DB).

[See also (Vol 31) 1944 Nag 44 (52): I L R (1944) Nag 342 (F B). (Apart from whether partition is a "transfer", the principle of this section is applicable to cases of partition)].

[9] A deed of appointment made in accordance with a power reserved in deed of trust is a "transfer of property". ('94) 21 Cal 185 (202).

[10] This section does not in terms apply to cases of relinquishment. (Vol 25) 1938 Oudh 65 (67) (DB).

[11] Where the transaction is not a mere effacement of the interest of the alleged transferor, but is intended to convey rights to the next reversioner it would amount to a "transfer of property." (Vol 26) 1939 Bom 499 (500, 501) ✠(Vol 23) 1936 Nag 166 (167): I L R (1936) Nag 69.

[12] Judgment-creditor gave up his claim against his judgment-debtor and certified satisfaction of his decree—Held that the transaction was not a "transfer of property." ('09) 5 Mad L Tim 72 (72) (DB).

[13] Mortgagee giving up his claim against the mortgagor makes a gift and hence the principle of this section is applicable. (Vol 3) 1916 Mad 481 (482) (DB).

[14] A deed of waqf is a "transfer of property." (Vol 30) 1943 All 2 (5) (DB) ✠(Vol 16) 1929 All 277 (278) (DB).

[16] Where the owner allowed a third person to apply for mutation on the false allegation of an oral gift and acquiesced in the passing of an order for mutation, it was held that it was a transfer of property. (Vol 25) 1938 Oudh 165 (167) (DB).

7. Intent to defeat or delay creditors.—[1] The intention must be to defeat or delay the creditors generally and not merely one creditor. ('01) 25 Bom 202 (224) (DB) ✠(Vol 4) 1917 Low Bur 124 (124) (DB) ✠(Vol 17) 1930 Mad 665 (668).

[2a] A person may endeavour to defeat or delay his creditors by making a fictitious transfer which is not intended to take effect or by making a real transfer involving exchange of property which they may find it easily available to creditors for money or property difficult or impossible to seize. (Vol 32) 1945 All 42 (45): I L R (1944) All 737 (D B).

[3] The mere fact that a transfer has the effect of defeating or delaying the creditors does not render it fraudulent. (1882) 51 L J Ch 154 (156): 20 Ch D 389 Golden v. Gillam.

[4] If defeating or delaying the creditors is intended the motive is immaterial. ('38) 42 Cal W N 34 (37).

[5] Mere knowledge that the transfer is likely to prejudice the creditors, does not make it fraudulent. ('01) 25 Bom 202 (226) (D B).

[6] Intention is to be determined from the facts considered in relation to each other and weighed as a whole. (Vol 30) 1943 All 2 (5) (D B) ✠ (Vol 30) 1943 Mad 531 (534) (D B) ✠ (Vol 6) 1919 P C 6 (8): 15 Nag L R 68 (P C) ✠ (Vol 28) 1941 Oudh 205 (208) (D B).

[See however (Vol 28) 1941 Mad 188 (191) (D B). (Intention cannot be judged by subsequent events.)]

18. Transfer taken in good faith and for consideration. — [1] To save a fraudulent transfer from being avoided both good faith and payment of consideration are essential. (Vol 1) 1914 P C 137 (139) : 37 Mad 227 (PC).

[2] The mere fact of payment does not necessarily establish good faith ('03) 5 Bom L R 213 (215, 216) (DB) ✠ (Vol 24) 1937 Oudh 349 (351) (DB).

20. Transfer for dower. — [1] A transfer for dower is a transfer for consideration. (Vol 14) 1927 Oudh 176 (176) (DB). (Provided wife had no knowledge of husband's prior debt.)

[2] A transfer in consideration of a dower debt due does not fall within this section. (Vol 28) 1941 Oudh 457 (462, 463) : 16 Luck 832 (DB).

[3] The question of bona fides of the transferee may be a question of law or a mixed question of law and fact, if it involves legal inferences to be drawn from other facts. [2] A creditor, who when proceeding under O. 21 R. 63 of Civil P. C., does not know the existence of other creditors is not bound to bring a representative suit. (Vol 27) 1940 Oudh 200 (202) : 15 Luck 503.

[3] A suit which is not meant to be for the benefit of all the creditors need not be brought in a representative capacity. (Vol 20) 1933 Cal 812 (812).

[4] A suit which does not involve the avoidance of any transfer need not be brought in a representative capacity. (Vol 21) 1934 Rang 302 (303): 12 Rang 666.

[5] The technical rule of procedure in the section does not apply to the North-West Frontier Province. (Vol 23) 1936 Pesh 158 (160) (DB).

[6] An objection as to the non-representative character of the suit if not taken in the trial Court, cannot be taken in the appellate Court. (Vol 31) 1944 All 214 (215) : I L R (1944) All 325 ✠ (Vol 14) 1927 Mad 666 (666, 667) ✠ ('07) 34 Cal 999 (1007, 1008) (DB) ✠ (Vol 25) 1938 Oudh 33 (35) (DB) ✠ (Vol 23) 1936 Rang 117 (118) : 14 Rang 81 (DB).

27. Leave of Court. — [1] A creditor instituting a suit to set aside a fraudulent transfer must follow procedure in O. 1, R. 8, Civil P. C. The Court must, at his expense, give notice of the suit to all persons whom it is sought to represent. (Vol 21) 1934 Rang 302 (303): 12 Rang 666 ✠ (Vol 21) 1934 Rang 332 (332, 333): 12 Rang 670 ✠ (Vol 14) 1927 Mad 666 (666).

[2] The requirement as to the obtaining of the permission of the Court cannot be waived. (Vol 30) 1943 Lah 96 (97) (DB).

[3] All creditors interested made parties — Leave of Court need not be applied under O. 1, R. 8, Civil P. C. (Vol 33) 1946 Mad 25 (30) : I L R (1946) Mad 486.

28. Defence need not be in representative capacity.—[1] The fourth paragraph of sub-s. (1) applies only to suits and not to defences. (Vol 26) 1939 Bom 508 (512) ✠ (Vol 29) 1942 Mad 128 (129).

29. Transferor insolvent — Suit by creditor under this section. — [1] Where subsequent to an alienation in fraud of creditors, the debtor is adjudged insolvent, a suit under this section is maintainable without the leave of the Insolvency Court. [But see (Vol 25) 1938 Lah 856 (857). (Leave necessary where alienation attacked is mortgage, the equity of redemption of which vests in the Official Receiver.)]

30. Avoidance of transfer by receiver in insolvency.—[1] A receiver in insolvency can, as representing the creditors, file a regular suit to set aside a transfer under this section. (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 826 (827) (DB) ✠ (Vol 5) 1918 Oudh 29 (30) : 20 Oudh Cas 295.

[2] A receiver in insolvency can, where a transfer by the insolvent is more than two years before his insolvency, apply under S. 4, Provincial Insolvency Act, 1920, to avoid the transfer voidable under this section. (Vol 31) 1944 Nag 44 (54): I L R (1944) Nag 342 (FB). [3] A receiver in insolvency can apply under S. 4, Provincial Insolvency Act, even if a suit to set aside the transaction would be barred by limitation. (Vol 16) 1929 Sind 94 (96).

[2] If an auction-purchaser at a sale in execution of a decree happens to be also a creditor of the transferor the transfer could be avoided by him as a creditor, even after he had purchased the property in auction. (Vol 26) 1939 Bom 508 (512).

[But see (Vol 8) 1921 Mad 657 (659) (DB.)]

[3] An auction-purchaser who is not a creditor of the transferor can, if the decree-holder himself had avoided the fraudulent transfer, get the benefit of such avoidance. (Vol 23) 1936 Mad 408 (410).

32. Plea of fraudulent transfer. — [1] General allegations are insufficient even to amount to an averment of fraud of which any Court ought to take notice. 11. Transferor debarred from enforcing his right to the property.
12. "Any person claiming under him."

15. Section 27A, Specific Relief Act.
16. Law where this Act does not apply.

18. Plea of part performance.

1. Scope.—[1] This section partially imports into this country the English equitable doctrine of part performance. (Vol 30) 1943 Sind 81 (81): I L R (1942) Kar 513 (DB) ✠ (Vol. 25) 1938 Cal. 97 (99, 101, 103): ILR (1938) 1 Cal 607 (DB).

[2] Apart from this section and except as provided therein the doctrine of part performance is not applicable in India. (Vol 31) 1944 Oudh 212 (215): 19 Luck 565 (DB) ✠ (Vol 25) 1938 Mad 746 (748) ✠ (Vol 22) 1935 Rang 448 (448).

2. Section, if retrospective.—[1] The section cannot be applied to cases where the act of part performance was before the section came into operation and a suit was pending at the time it came into operation (Vol 30) 1943 Sind 81 (81): I L R (1942) Kar. 513 (DB) ✠ (Vol. 21) 1934 P C 235 (238): 58 Bom 650: 61 Ind App 388 (P.C.) (Vol 22) 1935 Pat 291 (297) 24 Pat. 672 (FB).

[2] The section will apply where the suit is instituted after the date on which the section came into operation though the act of part performance took place before the date. (Vol 31) 1944 Bom 105 (106) (DB) ✠ (Vol 21) 1934 All. 768 (770) ✠ (Vol 25) 1938 Cal 97 (99, 100, 104): I.L.R. 3. "Contracts to transfer."—[1] The section applies not only to contracts to transfer as such, but also to instruments of transfer under the circumstances mentioned in the fourth para. (Vol 26) 1939 Oudh 85 (86).

[2] A lease is a transfer of property, and the section was held to apply to an unregistered instrument of lease. (Vol 24) 1937 All. 10 (12): I.L.R. (1937) All. 312 (D B) ✠ (Vol. 33) 1946 Mad. 310 (311) (DB) ✠ (Vol. 26) 1939 Oudh 85 (86) ✠ (Vol 23) 1936 Lah. 5 (5).

[3] A grant of a partial and limited interest in immovable property such as a right to dig minerals where the grantor does not exclude himself from working the mines has been held not to be a transfer of property so as to make the provisions of this section applicable. (Vol 31) 1944 Pat 261 (266): 23 Pat 115 (DB).

[4] The section has no application to a surrender by a tenant to the landlord. (Vol 27) 1940 Nag. 175 (176): I.L.R. (1940) Nag. 177.

[5] This section does not apply to the case of a family arrangement. (Vol 24) 1937 All 578 (580): I.L.R. (1937) All. 817 (F.B.) ✠ (Vol 26) 1939 All 529 (531) (DB).

4 Consideration—Proof of.—[1] Oral evidence to prove passing of consideration is admissible. (Vol 33) 1946 Mad. 452 (453).

5. "Immoveable property."—[1] The section does not apply to contracts to transfer moveable property. (Vol 21) 1934 Rang. 303 (304).

6. Contract must show clearly terms of transfer.—[1] The Contract itself must be in writing and show clearly what are the terms necessary to constitute the transfer. (Vol 31) 1944 Oudh 212 (220): 19 Luck. 565 (DB). (There should be a writing signed by the promisor) ✠ (Vol 34) 1947 Cal. 353 (361) (DB). (Contract must be in writing.) ✠ (Vol 30) 1943 Bom. 406 (407) ✠ (Vol 24) 1937 Nag. 402 (406) ✠ (Vol 27) 1940 Oudh 409 (410): 16 Luck 191 (DB) ✠ (Vol. 23) 1936 Nag. 282 (282): I.L.R. [2] A document merely referring to a previous oral agreement to transfer and its terms is not a "contract in writing" though a document which reduces to writing the terms of a previous oral agreement would be. (Vol 25) 1938 Rang 356 (357): 1938 Rang L R 692 (DB). (Confirming (Vol 25) 1938 Rang 49.) ✠ (Vol 26) 1939 Rang 206 (207): 1939 Rang LR 575 (DB) ✠ (Vol 31) 1944 Bom 105 (107) (DB) ✠ (Vol 30) 1943 Bom 406 (407).

[3] A document styled a receipt but which, in essence, contained all the essential terms of a contract to transfer, has been held to be sufficient for purposes of this section. (Vol 31) 1944 Oudh 212 (220): 19 Luck 565 (DB). (Affirming (Vol 27) 1940 Oudh 1: 15 Luck 43 on appeal.) (Vol 21) 1934 Rang 304 (305): 13 Rang 17.

7. Acts of part performance under the section.—[1] Section does not require that the contract must contain a direct covenant regarding transference of possession. (Vol 31) 1944 Oudh 212 (218) : 19 Luck 565 (DB).

[2] The "act in furtherance of the contract" need not of itself, unequivocally have reference to the contract. (Vol 21) 1934 Rang 304 (306): 13 Rang 17. (Payment of part of purchase price.) ✠ (Vol 28) 1941 Oudh 41 (43) : 16 Luck 99 (DB). (Payment of consideration and mutation.)

[3] Possession of Court through its receiver appointed at the instance of decree-holder is not an act in part performance of contract. ('37) I L R (1937) 1 Cal 65 (67).

[4] Lessee in possession under an existing lease—Subsequent agreement to renew lease—Continuation in possession after the expiration of the old lease is only referable to the agreement and therefore an act of part performance of the contract. (Vol 21) 1934 Cal 235 (237) : 60 Cal 1372 (DB).

[5] Where the promisee takes possession by trespass, he cannot, in a suit for ejectment, plead part performance. (Vol 19) 1932 Sind 42 (45):25 Sind L R 433 (DB).

[6] Specific consent of the transferor to the taking of possession by the transferee is not necessary. (Vol 31) 1944 Oudh 212 (215, 218):19 Luck 565 (DB). (Affirming (Vol 27) 1940 Oudh 1: 15 Luck 43 on appeal.)

8. Transferee's willingness to perform his part. — [1] It is not a sufficient compliance with the section that the transferee would have performed his part of the contract to some extent. (Vol 28) 1941 Bom 346 (348):I L R (1941) Bom 529 (DB). ((Vol 20) 1933 Bom 381 Dissent.)

[2] The party relying on the section must plead and show that it has fulfilled the contract or is ready to perform the same. (Vol 34) 1947 Nag 188 (191) : I L R (1946) Nag 991.

9. "Not been registered." — [1] A document which must be regarded as unregistered because the parties deliberately committed a fraud on registration, cannot attract the operation of this section. (Vol 32) 1945 Oudh 120 (121) (DB).

10. Invalidity of contract or transfer — Nature of.—[1] The section has no application where the contract to transfer or the instrument of transfer is invalid on any ground other than that it was not completed in the manner prescribed by the law for the time being in force. (Vol 14) 1927 Nag 177 (179). (Flow in transferee's position)✠(Vol 20) 1933 Mad 364 (366). (A contract against a minor.)✠(Vol 17) 1930 Pat 61 (62) (DB). 11. Transferor debarred from enforcing his right to the property. — [1] The rignt conferred by the section is one available only to the defendant to protect his possession. (Vol 27) 1940 P C 1 (2) : I L R (1940) 1 Cal 250 : I L R (1940) Kar (P C) 11 : 66 Ind App 293 (PC). (On appeal from 41 Cal W N 54)

[1b] Part performance does not convey title to transferee. (Vol 23)1936 Pat 372 (378):15 Pat 460 (DB).

[2] A transferee under a contract of transfer takes possession in part performance of the contract. The property is sought to be taken in execution of a decree for ejectment previously obtained by the transferor against a third person. The transferee raises objections in the execution proceedings but does not succeed and is deprived of possession. Then he sues under O. 21, R. 103, Civil P. C. for possession. He is entitled to succeed, relying on the provisions of this section. (Vol 31) 1944 Oudh 212 (218) : 19 Luck 565 (DB). (Affirming (Vol 27) 1940 Oudh 1 : 15 Luck 43.)

[3] A transferee under a contract of transfer was deprived of possession by the transferor. The transferor's acts of aggression were not in the form of any legal proceedings. The transferee brought a suit for an injunction restraining him from interfering with his possession. It was held that the suit was competent under this section. (Vol 26) 1939 All 611 (613) : I L R (1939) All 803 (DB).

13. Proviso.— [1] The onus is on the person claiming part performance to show that the transferee had notice of the contract or of the part performance thereof. (Vol 22) 1935 Rang 12 (13).

14. Contract to transfer—Proof.—[1] Where there is no separate contract for transfer, the unregistered instrument of transfer is itself admissible in evidence in proof of such contract and part performance. (Vol 29) 1942 Oudh 231 (236) : 17 Luck 530 (D B) ✠ (Vol 20) 1933 Bom 381 (385).

15. Section 27A, Specific Relief Act.— [1] Section 27A, Specific Relief Act, enables either party to the contract to sue for specific performance of the contract to lease immovable property if it has been partly performed. It in fact creates a ground of claim, whereas S. 53A of this Act creates merely a right of defence. (Vol 24) 1937 Nag 74 (76) : ILR (1936) Nag 115 (DB).

CHAPTER III.

OF SALES OF IMMOVEABLE PROPERTY.

54. "Sale" is a transfer of ownership in exchange for a price paid or promised or part paid and part-promised.

"Sale" defined.

[a]Such transfer, in the case of tangible immoveable property of the value of one hundred rupees and upwards, or in the case of a reversion or other intangible thing, can be made only by a registered instrument.

Delivery of tangible immoveable property takes place when the seller places the buyer, or such person as he directs, in possession of the property.

A contract for the sale of immoveable property is a contract that a sale of such property shall take place on terms settled between the parties.

Contract for sale.

It does not, of itself, create any interest in or charge on such property.

(Vol 3) 1916 Cal 136 (141) : 43 Cal 790 (D B) ✠ ('12) 16 Cal L Jour 436 (437) (D B) ✠ (Vol 11) 1924 Pat 185 (186) (Deed of relinquishment does not confer a title.) ✠ ('06) 33 Cal 967 (983, 984) (D B) (Do.)✠ (Vol 12) 1925 Rang 63 (69) : 2 Rang 459) (Admission in different proceeding that one had sold land does not act as estoppel so as to do away with the necessity of registering the document.)✠ ('01) 24 Mad 377 (384) : 28 Ind App 46 (P C). A transfer of a part only of such interests or for a particular period reserving the rest for the transferor himself is not a transfer of ownership. ('07) 1907 Pun Re No. 136, p. 652 (654) ✠('03) 26 Mad 403 (408) (DB).

[2] It is not necessary that the transferor should be a full proprietor. He may be the owner of a partial interest in the property such as that of a mortgagee or an occupancy tenant. ('07) 1907 Pun Re No. 136, p. 652 (654) (DB).

[3] A sham transaction, not intended to pass any title, is not a sale. (Vol 26) 1939 Pesh 27 (28, 29) (DB) ✠(Vol 24) 1937 Oudh 493 (496): 13 Luck 484 (DB) ✠(Vol 19) 1932 Bom 247 (247): 56 Bom 556 (DB).

[5] Whether there has been a transfer of ownership will depend upon the intention of the parties which must be ascertained from the facts and circumstances of the particular case. [7] The words "bikri," "farokht," "kharidar" "bai" and "kharidgi" ordinarily will imply a sale. (Vol 4) 1917 Pat 117 (120) (DB).

5. Creation of easements. — [1] The creation of a right of easement by an owner of property in favour of another is not a transfer of property. ('09) 31 All 612 (622) (D B) ✠(Vol 4) 1917 Low Bur 110 (111): 9 Low Bur Rul 24 ✠ (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 543 (544) ✠(Vol 16) 1929 Mad 79 (80) ✠(Vol 4) 1917 Cal 681 (686) (DB).

6. Mutation proceedings. — [1] Mutation does not effect a transfer of property. (Vol 16) 1929 All 549 (550) (D B).

[2] The mere mutation will not, in the absence of a registered instrument, effect a transfer of rights in immovable property. (Vol 14) 1927 All 338 (339) ✠ ('08) 11 Oudh Cas 301 (304, 305) ✠ ('12) 13 Ind Cas 436 (438) (D B) (All).

[2] Whether transaction is sale or lease must be decided on the terms of the document and the intention of the parties gathered from the surrounding circumstances. (Vol 28) 1941 Oudh 12 (14).

[3] Where there is a recurring liability to pay rent, the transaction cannot be regarded as a sale. (Vol 14) 1927 Oudh 161 (162) (D B).

[4] Where rent, however small, is reserved to be paid to the transferor the transaction can only be a lease even though it is a perpetual one and extensive rights are conferred on the transferee. [5] There is a conflict of opinion as to whether an equity of redemption vested in the mortgagor is or is not an "intangible thing":
(a) One view is that the equity of redemption is "tangible immovable property" whatever may be the nature of the mortgage. (Vol 15) 1928 All 726 (728, 729): 50 All 986 (FB) ✠ (Vol 26) 1939 Bom 31 (33): I L R (1939) Bom 71 (DB) ✠ (Vol 24) 1937 Pat 178 (179): 15 Pat 772 (DB).
(b) Another view is that in all cases the equity of redemption is an intangible thing. (Vol 2) 1915 Oudh 149 (150): 18 Oudh Cas 109 (DB).
(c) A third view is that where the property is subject to a simple mortgage the equity of redemption is tangible immovable property, but that where the mortgage is a usufructuary one the equity of redemption is an 'intangible thing" within the meaning of this section. [4] There is a conflict of opinion as to whether a sale to the usufructuary mortgagee of the property sold should be only by a registered instrument or whether it might be by delivery of property.

(b) According to another view, the delivery of possession contemplated by the section is such delivery as the nature of the property admits of, and where the vendor by appropriate acts or declarations converts the vendee's possession into that of an owner it is sufficient delivery of property. 1. Scope.—[1] This section deals with the rights and liabilities of the parties to a contract for sale as well as those of the parties to a completed conveyance. (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 569 (570).

[2] The obligations imposed by the section, except para 2, are in the nature of statutory obligations and are not implied covenants (Vol 11) 1924 Mad 541 (546).

(c) to answer to the best of his information all relevant questions put to him by the buyer in respect to the property or the title thereto;

(d) on payment or tender of the amount due in respect of the price, to execute a proper conveyance of the property when the buyer tenders it to him for execution at a proper time and place;

(e) between the date of the contract of sale and the delivery of the property, to take as much care of the property and all documents of title relating thereto which are in his possession as an owner of ordinary prudence would take of such property and documents;

(f) to give, on being so required, the buyer, or such person as he directs, such possession of the property as its nature admits;

(g) to pay all public charges and rent accrued due in respect of the property up to the date of the sale, the interest on all incumbrances on such property due on such date, and, except where the property is sold subject to incumbrances, to discharge all incumbrances on the property then existing.

(2) The seller shall be deemed to contract with the buyer that the interest which the seller professes to transfer to the buyer subsists and that he has power to transfer the same:

Provided that, where the sale is made by a person in a fiduciary character, he shall be deemed to contract with the buyer that the seller has done no act whereby the property is incumbered or whereby he is hindered from transferring it.

The benefit of the contract mentioned in this rule shall be annexed to, and shall go with, the interest of the transferee as such, and may be enforced by every person in whom that interest is for the whole or any part thereof from time to time vested.

(3) Where the whole of the purchase money has been paid to the seller, he is also bound to deliver to the buyer all documents of title relating to the property which are in the seller's possession or power:

Provided that, (a) where the seller retains any part of the property comprised in such documents, he is entitled to retain them all, and (b) where the whole of such property is sold to different buyers, the buyer of the lot of greatest value is entitled to such documents. But in case (a) the seller, and in case (b) the buyer, of the lot of greatest value, is bound, upon every reasonable request by the buyer, or by any of the other buyers, as the case may be, and at the cost of the person making the request, to produce the said documents and furnish such true copies thereof or extracts therefrom as he may require; and in the meantime, the seller, or the buyer of the lot of [3] In the following cases the obligations imposed by the section are referred to as covenants. (Vol 15) 1928 Sind 61 (63) : 23 Sind L R 237 ✠ (Vol 11) 1924 Pat 822 (822).

[4] Every sale deed is necessarily based upon the contract. (Vol 16) 1929 All 837 (839) (D B).

[5] If a contract is void or voidable on the ground of fraud, misrepresentation, coercion, undue influence, mutual mistake, want of consideration, etc., the sale itself which is based upon such contract will also be vitiated to the same extent. ('98) 22 Bom 176 (180, 181) (D B) ✠ (Vol 9) 1922 P C 403 (405) : 50 Ind App 69 : 45 All 179: 26 Oudh Cas 223 (P C).

[6] Where a wrong property was sold by A to B under a mutual mistake of fact between them, it was held that the contract preceding the sale being void under S. 20 of the Contract Act, the sale itself was void and that B was entitled, under S. 65 of that Act, to recover the purchase-money paid by him. (Vol 17) 1930 All 252 (254) (D B).

[7] The rules in this section are not applicable to sales in invitum. ('10) 8 Ind Cas 605 (605) (D B) (Low Bur).

[8] The principles underlying the provisions of this section have been applied to cases arising in provinces to which this Act does not apply. (Vol 29) 1942 Lah 275 (278) : I L R (1943) Lah 17 (F B) ✠ (Vol 6) 1919 P C 124 (125) (P C) ✠ (Vol 7) 1920 Nag 144 (145) ✠ (Vol 24) 1937 Pesh 8 (9) (D B) ✠ (Vol 28) 1941 Lah 407 (412): 1 L R (1942) Lah 79 (F B).

[9] There is no obligation on the Court in the Provinces where the Act does not apply to so use the Act as if every particular detail of it is the law of the Province. (Vol 12) 1925 Lah 92 (93).

[10] In the following case it was held that the seller could not rely upon para. 4, cl. (b) but could rely upon general principles of equity for his lien. (Vol 14) 1927 Lah 103 (103): 8 Lah 257 (D B).

[11] In the following case it was held that in a suit for possession by a vendee under a completed sale, there being no rigid rules such as those contained in Ss. 55 (1) (f) and (4) (b) in North-West Frontier Province. The Court could pass a decree for possession in favour of the buyer conditional upon his paying the unpaid purchase-money to the seller on the grounds of justice, equity and good conscience. (Vol 31) 1944 Pesh 9 (10) (D B).

2. Paragraph 1, clause (a).—[1] The seller is bound to disclose all latent defects which are material and of which he is aware, but not patent defects. (1800) 31 E R 707 (707) : 5 R R 107, Rowles v. Round ✠ (1922) 92 L J Ch 194 (201) : 128 L T 622, Simpson v. Gilley.

[1-a] A defect in property only prejudices the buyer in the physical enjoyment of the property but defect in title exposes him to adverse claim. (Vol 23) 1936 Nag 4 (6): 31 Nag L R (Supp) 101.

[2] The test of materiality of defect is that the defect must be of such a nature that it might be re-greatest value, as the case may be, shall keep the said documents safe, uncancelled and undefaced unless prevented from so doing by fire or other inevitable accident.

(4) The seller is entitled—

(a) to the rents and profits of the property till the ownership thereof passes to the buyer;

(b) where the ownership of the property has passed to the buyer before payment of the whole of the purchase-money, to a charge upon the property in the hands of the buyer, [a][any transferee without consideration or any transferee with notice of the non-payment], for the amount of the purchase-money, or any part thereof remaining unpaid, and for interest on such amount or part [a][from the date on which possession has been delivered].

(5) The buyer is bound—

(a) to disclose to the seller any fact as to the nature or extent of the seller's interest in the property of which the buyer is aware but of which he has reason to believe that the seller is not aware, and which materially increases the value of such interest;

(b) to pay or tender, at the time and place of completing the sale, the purchase-money to the seller or such person as he directs: provided that, where the property is sold free from incumbrances, the buyer may retain out of the purchase-money the amount of any incumbrances on the property existing at the date of the sale, and shall pay the amount so retained to the persons entitled thereto;

(c) where the ownership of the property has passed to the buyer to bear any loss arising from the destruction, injury or decrease in value of the property not caused by the seller;

(d) where the ownership of the property has passed to the buyer, as between himself and the seller, to pay all public charges and rent which may become payable in respect of the property, the principal moneys due on any incumbrances subject to which the property is sold, and the interest thereon afterwards accruing due.

(6) The buyer is entitled—

(a) where the ownership of the property has passed to him, to the benefit of any improvement in, or increase in value of, the property, and to the rents and profits thereof;

(b) unless he has improperly declined to accept delivery of the property, to a charge on the property, as against the seller and all persons claiming under him, [* * *][b] to the extent of the seller's interest in the property, for the amount of any purchase-money properly paid by the buyer in anticipation of the delivery and for interest on such amount; and, when he properly declines to accept the delivery, also for the earnest (if any) and for the costs (if any) awarded to him of a suit to compel specific performance of the contract or to obtain a decree for its rescission.

An omission to make such disclosures as are mentioned in this section, paragraph (1), clause (a), and paragraph (5), clause (a), is fraudulent.

asonably supposed that if the buyer had been aware of it, he might not have entered into contract at all. (Vol 22) 1935 Bom 16 (20): 59 Bom 83 (D B).

[3] The following have been held to be defects in title.

(a) The existence of an incumbrance not known to the buyer and which he could not discover by exercise of reasonable care. (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 968 (969).

(b) The existence of an easement over the property. (1901) 70 L J Ch 822 (823): (1901) 2 Ch 825, Turner v. Moon & (Vol 22) 1935 Bom 16 (19, 20): 59 Bom 83 (D B).

(c) The existence of a liability of the land being taken over by a company under a local Act. (1836) 150 E R 540(544): 5 L J (NS) Ex 207, Ballard v. Way.

[5] The existence of an underground culvert running through the middle of the property is a defect in property where the property is sold for residential purposes. (1902) 71 L J Ch 666 (667): (1902) 2 Ch 258, In re Puckett & Smith's Contract.

[6] Where at the time of the contract the seller is himself not aware of the defect, he cannot obviously disclose it and is, therefore, not bound to disclose it. (1849) 68 E R 170 (173): 18 L J Ch 329, Lucas v. James.

[7] Where the buyer is aware of the defects there is no duty on the part of the seller to inform him of such defects. (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 968 (969).

[8] There is no duty on the part of the seller to inform the buyer of the defects unless the buyer could not with ordinary care discover them. (Vol 17) 1930 Cal 561 (563) : 57 Cal 1189 (D B) ✠ (Vol 32) 1945 Bom 187 (192) (D B) ✠ (Vol 23) 1936 Nag 4 (6):31 Nag L R (Supp) 101 ✠ (Vol 2) 1915 Sind 21 (22):9 Sind L R 97.

[But see (Vol 25) 1938 Nag 441 (442).]

[10] The buyer cannot be said to be guilty of negligence in not asking for the title deeds of an adjoining property which prima facie, he has no right whatever to ask his vendor to produce and it is the vendor who is bound to disclose any covenant restricting the enjoyment of the property sold, which would be apparent from an examination of such title deeds. (Vol 12) 1925 Bom 183 (184, 185) (D B).

[11] On the discovery of a defect in title which the seller was bound to disclose under this clause the buyer may retire from the contract and refuse to complete it. (1830) 39 E R 114 (119, 120) : 8 L J Ch 74, Dalby v. Pullen ✠ (Vol 22) 1935 Bom 16 (18) : 59 Bom 83 (DB) ✠(Vol 12) 1925 Bom 85 (87):49 Bom 325 (DB)✠(Vol 12) 1925 Lah 481 (481) : 6 Lah 308 (D B).

[12] An omission to make the disclosure of the nature referred to in this clause will entitle the buyer not only to avoid the contract, where the transaction has not passed beyond the stage of contract, but to set aside the sale itself where the contract has been completed by the execution of the conveyance. (Vol 29) 1942 Sind 81 (82): I L R (1942) Kar 32 (D B)✠(Vol 13) 1926 Cal 385 (389, 390) : 52 Cal 914 (D B) ✠ (Vol 12) 1925 Rang 372 (373) (D B).

[13a] Several items of property sold at one price — Purchaser can have contract of sale rescinded so far as items with regard to which defect in title is discovered and recover damages — He need not surrender other items. (Vol 32) 1945 Mad 205 (206, 207).

[14] Where a misrepresentation is fraudulent the buyer may claim damages in tort, for any loss that he may have sustained by reason of such fraud. (Vol 19) 1932 Nag 148 (150) : 28 Nag L R 184.

[15] An innocent misrepresentation by a party is not a ground in law for a claim for any damages. (1883) 52 L J Q B 609 (618) :11 Q B D 255, Joliffe v. Baker ✠('96) 18 All 322 (324, 325) (D B).

[16] Where, in an auction sale, the condition of sale notified that the would-be buyer should satisfy himself as to the nature of the property sold, it was held that there was a contract to the contrary and that the seller was not liable to disclose, under this clause, any defect in the property. ('21) 65 Ind Cas 734 (735) (D B) (Lah).

3. Paragraph 1, clause (b).— [1] Where a contract for sale is made without any special conditions or stipulations as to title, the seller is bound, at all times and under all circumstances, to make out a marketable title. (Vol 25) 1938 Bom 77 (78) ✠ (Vol 14) 1927 Sind 49 (50) : 19 Sind L R 41 ✠ (Vol 7) 1920 Mad 859 (861) (D B) ✠ (Vol 15) 1928 Lah 154 (155) : 9 Lah 67 (D B).

[2] A good or marketable title would mean a title "free from reasonable doubt" within the meaning of cl. (b) of S. 25 of the Specific Relief Act. (Vol 10) 1923 Bom 148 (150,152, 154) : 47 Bom 369 (D B) ✠(Vol 15) 1928 Oudh 475 (477) (D B) ✠ (Vol 22) 1935 Bom 16 (18): 59 Bom 83 (D B).

[3] A title which will expose the buyer to litigation or hazard is not such a title as is referred to in S. 25 of the Specific Relief Act. (Vol 9) 1922 Sind 33 (36) : 15 Sind L R 180 ✠ ('87) 14 Cal 518 (526).

[4] The failure to make out a marketable title will entitle the buyer to put an end to the contract. (Vol 14) 1927 Bom 195 (202) : 51 Bom 247 (D B) ✠ (Vol 12) 1925 Sind 220 (220, 221) (D B) ✠(Vol 15) 1928 Lah 154 (156) : 9 Lah 67 (D B).

[5] Where there is an express contract to make out a marketable title and the vendor fails to make it out the buyer can put an end to the contract. (Vol 12) 1925 Bom 64 (65, 68) (D B) ✠ (Vol 12) 1925 Bom 69 (79) : 49 Bom 245 (D B) ✠ ('12) 14 Ind Cas 811 (811) (Low Bur).

[6] The duty of the seller to produce documents of title under this clause arises only "on the request" of the buyer and not if there is no such request. (Vol 4) 1917 Low Bur 166 (167) (D B).

[7] The seller is bound to produce only such documents which are in his possession or power and not the documents which are not in his possession or power, though, if he has expressly agreed to produce the title deed such agreement will be a contract to the contrary and he cannot escape liability by relying upon this clause. (Vol 30) 1943 Mad 593 (596, 597)✠ (Vol 1) 1914 Cal 137 (139) : 41 Cal 852 (D B).

[8] Where the buyer is not satisfied with the title on the documents which are produced and which alone the seller is bound to produce, and insists on the seller producing documents which are not in his possession or power and which he did not undertake to produce by the terms of the contract for transfer, the seller is entitled to rescind the contract. (Vol 30) 1943 Mad 593 (597).

[9] Where a contract of sale mentions a sum to be paid as damages in case of its breach and the buyer refuses to carry out the contract after the seller has made out a marketable title the seller is entitled to claim from the buyer reasonable compensation under S. 74 of the Contract Act, even without showing that he has actually suffered any loss. (Vol 16) 1929 Mad 783 (784).

4. Paragraph 1, clause (c). — [1] If the seller gives to the question put by the buyer an answer which he knows to be false he would be guilty of a breach of duty and misrepresentation. (Vol 19) 1932 Nag 148 (149) : 28 Nag L R 184.

[2] An information regarding the income or the rental of the property to be sold is a relevant question within the meaning of this clause. (Vol 19) 1932 Nag 148 (149) : 28 Nag L R 184.

[3] Even where the seller has, under the contract an express power of rescission, if requisitions are made which he is unwilling to comply with, the power does not enable him to override reasonable requisitions. (Vol 14) 1927 Bom 195 (201) : 51 Bom 247 (DB).

5. Paragraph 1, clause (d).— [1] It is the duty of the buyer not only in the first instance to pay or tender the price, but also to prepare a conveyance and tender it to the seller for execution. (Vol 6) 1919 P C 124 (125) (P C) ✠ (Vol 15) 1928 Bom 328 (330) (DB).

[2] In a contract for sale of land, time is not regarded as being of the essence of the contract if there is nothing in the express stipulations between the parties, the nature of the property, or the surrounding circumstances which would make it inequitable to apply the rule. (Vol 7) 1920 Cal 651 (653) (DB) ✠ (Vol 6) 1919 Sind 68 (69) : 12 Sind L R 144 (DB) ✠ (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 211 (212) ✠ (Vol 8) 1921 Mad 141 (141) (DB) ✠ (Vol 14) 1927 Sind 49 (50) : 19 Sind L R 41.

[3] The tender of the price and of the proper conveyance must be made within a reasonable time. (Vol 16) 1929 P C 195 (200) (PC).

[4] Where there is unreasonable delay in the completion of the contract either party can make time the essence of the contract by giving notice to the other limiting the time for performance, at the expiration of which he will treat the contract as broken. Such limitation of time also must be reasonable. (Vol 7) 1920 Cal 651 (654) (DB) ✠(Vol 15) 1928 Lah 154 (155, 156): 9 Lah 67 (DB).

[5] Where the seller refuses to execute a proper document it is not necessary for the buyer to go through the useless form of tendering a conveyance to the seller for execution before he can enforce his contract against the seller by specific performance ('67) 4 Bom H C R (O C) 125 (128) (DB) ✠ (Vol 8) 1921 Low Bur 16 (18) : 11 Low Bur Rul 94 (DB).

[4] Where the parties to the contract stand in a fiduciary relation to the stranger such as that of a trustee, a guardian, etc., the stranger may enforce the contract which is for his benefit. (Vol 5) 1918 Cal 941 (942) ✠ (Vol 1) 1914 Cal 129 (131): 41 Cal 137 (DB) ✠ (Vol 19) 1932 Oudh 82 (84) : 7 Luck 292.

[5] Where on the strength of the contract between A and B, that B should pay a third party, B enters into direct relationship with the third party and makes himself personally liable to him, the third party can sue B on the contract. (Vol 22) 1935 Mad 115 (116) (DB).

14. Paragraph 5, clause (d).— [1] The liability of the buyer under this clause attaches as an incident of the property sold, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, and is complete when the property passes. ('06) 29 Mad 519 (523) (D B).

[2] Where property which was the subject of a yearly tax was sold in the middle of the year, it was held that the buyer was, as against the municipality, liable to pay the whole tax and not merely for instalments accruing due after the date of sale. ('07) 30 Mad 423 (425).

[3] Where the seller is bound to make a payment, and he fails to pay it, and the buyer has to pay it, the buyer can recover the same from the seller under S. 69 of the Contract Act. (Vol 13) 1926 Cal 385 (387) : 52 Cal 914 (D B).

[4] A buyer making a payment which he is himself bound to pay cannot recover it from the seller under S. 69 of the Contract Act. (Vol 3) 1916 Mad 980 (982): 39 Mad 795.

15. Property sold subject to incumbrances — Incumbrances found invalid — Person entitled to benefit.—[1] Where property is sold subject to certain incumbrances and it is afterwards found that they are invalid, the buyer is entitled to the benefit. ('09) 31 All 583 (589) : 36 Ind App 203 (P C).

[2] Immovable property sold subject to mortgage— Mortgage debt scaled down at instance of mortgagor agriculturist, under Madras Agriculturists' Relief Act (1938) — Purchasers although non-agriculturists are entitled to benefit of reduction and are liable to extent of amount scaled down. (Vol 29) 1942 Mad 527 (527) (D B).

[3] The buyer purchasing the property subject to incumbrance is entitled to contest the validity of the incumbrances. ('13) 18 Cal L Jour 354 (357).

[4] A sold to B property X for Rs 3000 out of which Rs. 928-8-0 were to be retained by the buyer to discharge a prior mortgage. That mortgage comprised only property X and no other. By reason of the subsequent passing of the U. P. Agriculturists' Relief Act (XXVII of 1934), the amount payable under the mortgage was reduced to Rs. 732-13-0 and the vendee discharged the mortgage by paying only Rs 732-13-0. A thereupon sued B for the balance of Rs. 195-11-0. It was held that he was entitled to recover. (Vol 27) 1940 All 351 (352) : I L R (1940) All 340 (D B).

[5] Sale free from incumbrance— Sum left in hands of vendee to discharge prior mortgage— Due to passing of Madras Agriculturists' Relief Act, 1938, amount payable to mortgagee reduced— Seller is entitled to recover balance as unpaid purchase-money. (Vol 30) 1943 Mad 482 (487) : I L R (1943) Mad 885 (D B).

16. Paragraph 6, clause (a).— [1] Where under the sale, the buyer is entitled to get possession of the property at once, he will be entitled to damages for the period he is kept out of possession for no fault of his. (Vol 22) 1935 Oudh 142 (142).

17. Paragraph 6, clause (b).— [1] Where under a contract for sale A, the seller, puts B, the buyer, in possession and receives the purchase-money, and the contract is not completed for no fault of the buyer, it cannot be said that by reason of the fact that B was placed in possession, he has accepted delivery within the meaning of this clause, and that he has no charge on the property. (Vol 1) 1914 Low Bur 53 (54) :7 Low Bur Rul 262 ✠ (Vol 3) 1916 Low Bur 38 (39).

[2] Where the contract has been duly completed in the manner prescribed by S. 54, this clause does not apply. (Vol 24) 1937 Bom 142 (143) :I L R (1937) Bom 140✠ (Vol 15) 1928 Bom 328 (332) (D B)✠ ('10) 8 Mad L Tim 464 (464) (D B). (Even if the sale is otherwise invalid.)

[3] Where the contract for sale was not completed and possession was not delivered owing to the fact that the property agreed to be sold became non-existent it was held that the buyer was entitled to claim a refund of the purchase money which had been paid by him, personally from the seller as on a failure of a consideration. (Vol 21) 1934 Cal 148 (149) (D B).

[4] If the buyer pays the purchase money before the time of conveyance charge arises from the moment the purchase-money in whole or in part is paid by the buyer in pursuance of the contract of sale. [6] Where at a sale in Government auction, the buyer is to deposit the price within a certain time but the confirmation is to take place only later on, it cannot be said that the auction-purchaser pays the purchase money "in anticipation of delivery", and he is, therefore not entitled to any interest on the purchase-money by reason of the delay in the confirmation of the sale. (Vol 15) 1928 Bom 328 (329) (D B).

[7] A buyer cannot be said to improperly decline to accept the delivery by the fact of his rejecting the contract for a valid reason caused by the seller's default. (Vol 16) 1929 Mad 189 (191) (D B).

[9] Though if the default is that of the buyer he cannot have a charge under this clause; he will, in respect of any purchase-money that had been paid by him, be entitled to a return thereof, which can be enforced independent of any charge. (Vol 14) 1927 Mad 204 (206) ✠ (Vol 29) 1942 Sind 37 (39): I L R (1941) Kar 495 (D B).

[10] Where earnest-money has been paid by the buyer and the contract goes off by his default he will have no charge for it. (Vol 23) 1936 Cal 51 (52): 63 Cal 804. (In the absence of contract to contrary or if inferred from terms of contract)

[11] The buyer's charge under this clause extends not only to the purchase-money but also to the interest on such amount. (Vol 16) 1929 Mad 189 (191) (D B)✠ ('09) 31 All 68 (71): 36 Ind App 44 (P C).

[12] Where in a contract for sale, a certain amount was provided as liquidated damages in the event of default on either side and the seller did not carry out his part of the contract, it was held that the charge which the buyer had under this clause did not extend to the amount of damages awarded. (Vol 16) 1929 Mad 189 (191) (D B).

[13] Where a trustee sells trust property and receives the earnest-money but refuses to complete the sale, the buyer cannot have any charge on the trust property. (Vol 19) 1932 Cal 356 (366): 59 Cal 586 (D B).

[14] Where a guardian of a minor agrees to sell property of the minor for a purpose binding on the minor and receives purchase-money but refuses to complete the contract, it has been held that the buyer has a charge on the minor's property. (Vol 26) 1939 Nag 209 (210).

[17] Earnest money is forfeited if the transaction falls through by reason of the fault or failure on the part of the buyer. (Vol 13) 1926 P C 1 (2) (P C).

[18] The test to see whether an amount paid is earnest-money is to find whether the parties intended that the amount paid was to be treated, not merely a part payment, but as a guarantee for the due performance of the contract. (Vol 7) 1920 Cal 679 (680) (D B).

[19] The principle of forfeiture of the earnest-money will not apply when the buyer does not repudiate the contract. (Vol 6) 1919 Sind 68 (69): 12 Sind L R 144 (D B) ✠ ('10) 33 Mad 375 (385) (D B) ✠ ('11) 15 Cal L Jour 410 (411) (D B).

[20] Where the Court finds that the amount of the deposit is so great in comparison with the amount payable under the contract, that the parties cannot have intended it as a mere guarantee for performance, but rather as a punishment or penalty for non-performance of the contract the Court may refuse to allow the retention of the whole of deposit. But where there is no disproportion and nothing unreasonable in regarding the deposit as a guarantee, then the defaulter will not be allowed to recover back what he has paid on an express stipulation that it shall be forfeited in the event of default. (Vol 24) 1937 Mad 681 (683, 684).

[21] Where the seller, in a suit for specific performance by the buyer, totally denied the contract for sale but specific performance was refused by the Court not on the ground that there was no contract, but on the ground that the buyer failed to pay the purchase-money within the time specified, it was held that the buyer could not be said to have repudiated the contract and that he was entitled to a return of the earnest-money. ('97) 24 Cal 897 (899) (DB).

[22] Where in pursuance of the contract for sale the buyer has paid purchase-money and obtained possession, but the contract falls through for no default of the buyer, the charge which he may have on the property for the purchase-money will not entitle the buyer to retain possession as against the seller. ('10) 8 Mad L Tim 464 (464) (DB). (Charge given by section is no answer to claim for possession by vendor.)

[24] The buyer's charge under this section is an interest in immovable property. (Vol 13) 1926 P C 94 (96): 53 Ind App 214 (P C).

[25] A consent decree between the parties making the earnest money payable by instalments and providing that the seller's interest in the property should remain mortgaged and should be liable to be brought to sale in execution for recovering the money is entirely consistent with the charge declared by this section and is in no way a waiver or modification of the charge. (Vol 30) 1943 Sind 236 (236, 237): I L R (1943) Kar 342 (DB).

[26] Where the buyer has paid purchase-money and the contract goes off without any default on his part, he can independently of this clause, sue for the recovery of the purchase-money personally from the seller. (Vol 11) 1924 Mad 903 (903).

18. Omission to make disclosures referred to in paragraph 1, clause (a).— [1] A seller is not bound under para. 1, cl. (a) to make a disclosure of a fact where either he himself has no knowledge of that fact or where the buyer himself could, with ordinary care, have discovered it. In such cases the seller cannot be considered to be guilty of fraud in not disclosing the fact. 19. "In the absence of a contract to the contrary."— [1] In order to exclude the statutory liabilities referred to in this section, the contract must be so clearly inconsistent with them as to lead to the inference that it has been made to qualify the generality of the rule. (Vol 20) 1933 All 203 (205) ✠ (Vol 23) 1936 Cal 12 (14).

[2] The statutory charge under para 4 cl. (b) was held not excluded by any contract, covenant, or agreement with respect to the purchase-money which was not inconsistent with the continuance of the charge. ('03) 31 Cal 57 (72): 30 Ind App 238 (PC).

[3] Where reliance is placed upon an express contract to conclude the operation of the statute, the contract, to be binding, must be expressed in plain and unambiguous terms. ('10) 8 Ind Cas 91 (95) (DB) (Cal) ✠ (Vol 7) 1920 Mad 634 (635) (DB)✠ (Vol 31) 1944 Mad 572 (573).

1. Scope.
2. "Then sells one or more of the properties."
3. "But not so as to prejudice the rights of the mortgagee."
4. Executing Court when can give effect to right of marshalling.

1. Scope.—[1a] Section 56 is intended for the benefit of the buyer and not the real owner. (Vol 34) 1947 Lah 230 (232).

[1] This section is not in force in the Punjab and in the N. W. F. Province, but the principle of the section has been held applicable. (Vol 27) 1940 Lah 291 (292) ✠ (Vol 28) 1941 Pesh 49 (51) (DB).

[2] The right of marshalling is an exception to the rule of contribution enacted in S. 82. (Vol 23) 1936 Mad 106 (111) : 59 Mad 121 (DB) ✠ (Vol 11) 1924 Mad 749 (753) (DB).

[3] Where a single survey number is mortgaged first and later on a portion of it is sold or mortgaged, this does not make the property "two or more properties" at the time of the first mortgage. ('39) 1939 Nag L Jour 235 (236).

[4] Section 56 has been applied to case of a charge. (Vol 24) 1937 Oudh 301 (311) (DB).

[5] The following case holds that though the section is inapplicable in terms to a charge, the principle underlying it can be applied (Vol 31) 1944 Nag 25 (27) : I L R (1944) Nag 230 (D B).

[6] Where the vendee of one of the mortgaged properties undertook as part of the consideration for the sale, to discharge the mortgage to a certain extent and it was further agreed between the vendor and the vendee that the balance of the mortgage amount should be paid by the vendor himself on failure of which he was to be personally liable for the amount, if was held that there was a "contract to the contrary" between the vendor and the vendee. (Vol 13) 1926 All 415 (415, 417, 418) (DB).

[6a] Contract to the contrary need not be express — It may be implied—Undertaking by purchaser of one of several items of mortgaged property to discharge mortgage out of consideration held implied contract to the contrary. (Vol 33) 1946 Mad 59 (60).

[7] If A purchases one of the mortgaged properties with an express condition that it is not to be liable for the debt and B purchases another of the mortgaged properties with the condition that the entire debt is to be satisfied by B out of the consideration in his hands, A can claim that the property in the hands of B should be sold first.(Vol 16)1929 Pat 664(671) : S Pat 585(DB).

[8] The utility of S. 56 is not impaired by notice. The section can be applied before another person acquires for valuable consideration any interest in the property. (Vol 34) 1947 Lah 230 (232).

2. "Then sells one or more of the properties."—[1] This section does not in terms apply to cases where subsequent to a mortgage of several items one or more of such items is sold in execution of a decree against the mortgagor. (Vol 16) 1929 All 309 (311) : 51 All 606 (DB) ✠ (Vol 17) 1930 All 634 (636) (DB).

[But see (Vol 16) 1929 All 309 (311) : 51 All 606 (DB).]

[3] In the exercise of its discretion under O. 34, R. 4, Civil P. C , the Court can order that the mortgaged properties other than the properties sold in execution may be sold first, for the purpose of adjusting the equities between the parties (Vol 19) 1932 All 85 (87) : 53 All 391 (DB).

[4] It has been held that if the execution purchase was a collusive one or if the purchaser had paid only for the equity of redemption, no equity would arise in his favour and the Court should not make the sale in an order different from that fixed by the mortgagee. (Vol 14) 1927 Cal 522 (526) (DB).

[5] This section or the principle underlying it does not apply to a lessee from the mortgagor. (Vol 13) 1926 Cal 525 (527) (DB).

[6] Where X held a mortgage over items a, b and c under one mortgage document, and another mortgage over item d, and he sued only on the former one impleading Y who was a subsequent purchaser of item a, it was held that Y was no doubt entitled to claim that X should first sell items b and c by virtue of the doctrine of marshalling laid down in this section, but that he had no right either in equity or in law to claim that X should exhaust his remedy against item d also, the subject of the second mortgage, before proceeding against item a. (Vol 27) 1940 Mad 776 (776) (DB).

3. "But not so as to prejudice the rights of the mortgagee." — [1] Every item of the mortgaged property is a security for the entire mortgage debt and the mortgagee, as such, has a right to realise the whole of the mortgage debt from any item of the mortgaged property. (Vol 26) 1939 All 314 (314) : I L R (1939) All 150 (DB) ✠ (Vol 19) 1932 All 85 (87) : 53 All 391 (DB)✠(Vol 5) 1918 Mad 1030 (1031): 40 Mad 968 (FB).

[2] Where a mortgagee of items X Y and Z release X and Y from the mortgage and sues to enforce his mortgage against Z, a subsequent purchaser of Z cannot claim under this section that the mortgagee should satisfy his debt first out of properties X and Y, inasmuch as such a claim would prejudice the rights of the mortgagee (Vol 25) 1938 Mad 503 (503, 504) ✠(Vol 15) 1928 Mad 500 (501) : 51 Mad 848 (DB) ✠ (Vol 23) 1936 Rang 266 (267) : 14 Rang 198 (DB). (Reversing (Vol 22) 1935 Rang 139.) ✠ (Vol 17) 1930 Lah 731 (732) : 11 Lah 694 (DB).

[But see (Vol 28) 1941 Pesh 49 (51) (DB).]

[3] Though a mortgagee has an absolute right to give up any portion of the mortgaged properties and to limit his claim to the other portion, he has no such absolute right, where such other portion consists of several items, to determine in what order such items should be sold for the satisfaction of his debt. (Vol 19) 1932 All 85 (88) : 53 All 391 (DB) ✠ (Vol 14) 1927 Cal 522 (526) (DB).

[4] In each case, it will have to be considered as a matter of fact whether marshalling would cause any substantial prejudice to the prior mortgagee. (Vol 30) 1943 All 156 (158) : ILR (1943) All 444 (DB).

[5] The Court has, at the time of passing the decree under O. 34, R. 4, Civil P. C., a discretion to regulate order of sale so as to adjust the equities between the parties and the right of the mortgagee is only subject

Discharge of Incumbrances on Sale.

57. (a) Where immoveable property subject to any incumbrance, whether immediately payable or not, is sold by the Court or in execution of a decree, or out of Court, the Court may, if it thinks fit, on the application of any party to the sale, direct or allow payment into Court, —

Provision by Court for incumbrance and sale freed therefrom.

(1) in case of an annual or monthly sum charged on the property, or of a capital sum charged on a determinable interest in the property—of such amount as, when invested in securities of the [a][Central Government], the Court considers will be sufficient, by means of the interest thereof, to keep down or otherwise provide for that charge, and

(2) in any other case of a capital sum charged on the property—of the amount sufficient to meet the incumbrance and any interest due thereon.

But in either case there shall also be paid into Court such additional amount as the Court considers will be sufficient to meet the contingency of further costs, expenses and interest, and any other contingency, except depreciation of investments, not exceeding one-tenth part of the

to this discretion of the Court. (Vol 19) 1932 All 85 (88) : 53 All 391 (DB) ✠ (Vol 11) 1924 Pat 459 (464) : 3 Pat 522 (DB) ✠ (Vol 26) 1939 All 314 (315, 316) : I L R (1939) All 150 (DB) ✠ ('08) 31 Mad 419 (423) (FB) ✠ (Vol 11) 1924 Mad 509 (510) (DB) ✠ (Vol 14) 1927 Cal 522 (526) (DB). (Discretion must be exercised on judicial principles.)

[6] Where there is no right of marshalling in any party, the Court may still, for the purpose of adjusting the equities between the parties, regulate the order of sale, though it may be different from that fixed by the mortgagee. (Vol 19) 1932 All 85 (87): 53 All 391 (DB)✠ (Vol 26) 1939 All 314 (316): ILR (1939) All 150 (DB)✠ (Vol 11) 1924 Mad 509 (510) (DB).

[7] In the absence of any equities in favour of any party, the mortgagee is entitled to sell the properties in any order he chooses, and it is not open either to the Court or to the defendants to compel him to proceed against any particular property first. (Vol 19) 1932 All 85 (87): 53 All 391 (DB)✠(Vol 12) 1925 Mad 332 (333) (DB) ✠ (Vol 14) 1927 Cal 522 (526) (DB).

[See however (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 1214 (1214)(DB).]

[8] Mortgagee having purchased himself some of the mortgaged properties after his decree on the mortgage, claimed to execute the decree against the other properties which had been subsequently purchased by third persons. It was held that the purchasers cannot insist that the mortgagee should sell also the property purchased by him, and that any equity which they might have must be worked out only in a separate suit. (Vol 10) 1923 Pat 44 (44) (DB).

4. Executing Court when can give effect to right of marshalling.—[1] Where a question as to the order in which the mortgaged properties should be sold has been raised and determined by the decree, the Court cannot, at the time of the execution, go behind the order so made. (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 1144 (1144) ✠ (Vol 30) 1943 Mad 705 (706) (DB).

[2] Where the decree merely states that the properties mentioned therein should be sold without any determination as to the order in which such properties are to be sold, the executing Court has a discretion to regulate the order of sale of the various items. (Vol 21) 1934 Pat 329 (329) (DB) ✠ (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 1031 (1032) (DB) ✠ (Vol 26) 1939 All 314 (315) : ILR (1939) All 150 (DB).

[But see (Vol 3) 1916 Oudh 288 (288) (DB).]

[3] All the properties decreed against must be advertised for sale and when they are actually brought into execution and become subject to sale, it would be then for the Court to decide on just and equitable grounds which property ought to be sold first. (Vol 11) 1924 Pat 802 (802) : 3 Pat 962 (DB).

[4] Even in the absence of any right of marshalling existing in any of the parties, the executing Court can regulate the order of sale for the purpose of adjusting the equities between the parties. Within a week thereof X applied again for execution of his decree but for sale of property A alone. It was held that X could not be allowed to fetter the exercise of the Court's discretion by thus applying for the sale of A alone. ('10) 7 Ind Cas 4 (5) (DB) (Cal).

[2] The section has no application where the incumbrance has merged into a decree and a question of the adjustment of the decree out of Court is involved. ('01) 24 Mad 412 (413) (DB). (Overruled on another point in ('05) 28 Mad 473 (FB).)

(c) After notice served on the persons interested in or entitled to the money or fund in Court, the Court may direct payment or transfer thereof to the persons entitled to receive or give a discharge for the same, and generally may give directions respecting the application or distribution of the capital or income thereof.

OF MORTGAGES OF IMMOVEABLE PROPERTY AND CHARGES.

"Mortgage," "mortgagor," "mortgagee," "mortgage-money" and "mortgage-deed" defined.

The transferor is called a mortgagor, the transferee a mortgagee; the principal money and interest of which payment is secured for the time being are called the mortgage-money, and the instrument (if any) by which the transfer is effected is called a mortgage-deed.

(b) Where, without delivering possession of the mortgaged property, the mortgagor binds himself personally to pay the mortgage money, and agrees, expressly or impliedly that, in the event of his failing to pay according to his contract, the mortgagee shall

1. The Punjab and the North-West Frontier Province.—[1] In the Punjab and in the North-West Frontier Province, the definitions of the various kinds have a right to cause the mortgaged property to be sold and the proceeds of sale to be applied, so far as may be necessary, in payment of the mortgage money, the transaction is called a simple mortgage and the mortgagee a simple mortgagee.

Mortgage by conditional sale.

(c) Where the mortgagor ostensibly sells the mortgaged property — on condition that on default of payment of the mortgage-money on a certain date the sale shall become absolute, or on condition that on such payment being made the sale shall become void, or on condition that on such payment being made the buyer shall transfer the property to the seller, the transaction is called a mortgage by conditional sale and the mortgagee a mortgagee by conditional sale :

[a][Provided that no such transaction shall be deemed to be a mortgage, unless the condition is embodied in the document which effects or purports to effect the sale] ;

[a] Inserted by the Transfer of Property (Amendment) Act, 1929 (20 [XX] of 1929), S. 19.

Usufructuary mortgage.

(d) Where the mortgagor delivers possession [a][or expressly or by implication binds himself to deliver possession] of the mortgaged property to the mortgagee, and authorizes him to retain such possession until payment of the mortgage money, and to receive the rents and profits accruing from the property [b][or any part of such rents and profits and to appropriate the same] in lieu of interest, or in payment of the mortgage-money, or partly in lieu of interest [c][or] partly in payment of the mortgage-money, the transaction is called an usufructuary mortgage and the mortgagee an usufructuary mortgagee of mortgages given in this Act, which does not apply in those provinces, have always been accepted as correctly describing their essential ingredients and incidents. (Vol 27) 1940 Lah 401 (403) : I L R (1941) Lah 71 (FB)✠(Vol 19) 1932 Lah 465 (466): 13 Lah 660 (FB)✠ (Vol 23) 1936 Pesh 43 (45) (D B)

[2] Where by S. 16 of the Punjab Alienation of Land Act, 1900, the mortgaged property could not be brought to sale by the Civil Court, the definition under cl. (b) of the present section was not applied to a simple mortgage so as to give the mortgagee a right of sale through Court. (Vol 28) 1941 Lah 274 (276) (DB).

2. Mortgage is a transfer of an interest in immovable property. — [1] A mortgage-debt is not an actionable claim. It is the transfer of an interest in immovable property. ('12) 34 All 273 (276) (D B)✠(Vol 18) 1931 Cal 223 (227) : 58 Cal 136 (DB)✠('01) 29 Cal 1 (6) (FB).

[2] The interest referred to in this section has reference to interest less than ownership which continues with the mortgagor. The interests transferred in the several classes of mortgages are, however, not identical. (Vol 23) 1936 Rang 290 (291): 14 Rang 292 (DB)

[3] A mortgage being the transfer of an interest in immovable property is distinguishable from a charge, which is a security of property without any transfer of any interest therein (Vol 30) 1943 Pesh 24 (26) (DB)✠ (Vol 23) 1936 Nag 125 (127) I L R (1936) Nag 22 (DB) ✠(Vol 16) 1929 All 281 (285) : 51 All 312 (D B)✠ (Vol 23) 1936 Oudh 196 (200) (DB) ✠ (Vol 22) 1935 All 150 (151)✠(Vol 28) 1941 Lah 274 (275) (D B)✠(Vol 9) 1922 Pat 529 (532) : 1 Pat 387 (D B)✠(Vol 28) 1941 Cal 436 (440 441).

[4] Though there is no transfer of an interest in the case of a charge the right is more than a personal obligation being a right to payment out of a particular fund or property. (Vol 8) 1921 Mad 514 (515) (D B) ✠ (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 903 (904) ✠ (Vol 23) 1936 Lah 482 (484) (D B).

[5] A document which gives immovable property as security for the satisfaction of a debt, or for payment in future of a sum, without transferring any interest therein, merely constitutes a charge on the property and is not a mortgage (Vol 19) 1932 Lah 465 (466): 13 Lah 660 (F B)✠(Vol 8) 1921 Mad 514 (515) (DB) ✠ (Vol 1) 1914 All 187 (188) : 36 All 201 (DB).

[6] A usufructuarily mortgaging land to B— Subsequently A taking further advance from B on security of land already mortgaged on same conditions as original mortgage — Transaction held to be charge and not fresh mortgage. (Vol 30) 1943 Pesh 24 (26) (DB)✠(Vol 19) 1932 Lah 465 (466) : 13 Lah 660 (F B).

[7] If the new transaction purports to cancel the earlier one, or contains conditions substantially different from those contained in the original mortgage or an additional area of land is included in this security, the transaction may amount to a fresh mortgage as evidencing an intention to transfer an interest in property and not merely to create a security. (Vol 30) 1943 Pesh 24 (27) (D B)✠(Vol 19) 1932 Lah 465 (467) : 13 Lah 660 (FB).

[8] A charge is not, like a mortgage, subject to redemption or foreclosure. (Vol 20) 1933 All 934 (938) (D B).

[9] A mere undertaking by the borrower of money that he will not alienate his property until the loan is paid does not transfer any interest in the property to the creditor and a document merely containing such an undertaking is, therefore not a mortgage. (Vol 4) 1917 All 4 (5, 6): 39 All 244 (FB) ✠ (Vol 24) 1937 Lah 35 (37) : 17 Lah 659 (DB).

[10] Where a covenant not to alienate is associated with words expressly making property, a security for the debt, there may be a transfer of an interest constituting a mortgage. (Vol 3) 1916 Pat 11 (13) : 1 Pat L Jour 563 (D B).

[11] Whether there is a transfer of an interest depends upon the intention of the parties gathered from the document as a whole. ('90) 13 All 28 (37) (D B) ✠ ('06) 29 Mad 531 (533) (D B).

[12] It is not necessary that there should be a formal transfer of interest in so many words. ('11) 21 Mad

(e) Where the mortgagor binds himself to re pay the mortgage-money on a certain date, and transfers the mortgaged property absolutely to the mortgagee, but subject to a proviso that he will re-transfer it to the mortgagor upon payment of the mortgage-money as agreed, the transaction is called an English mortgage.

[14] In a suit by the mortgagor for redemption against the mortgagee and his sub-mortgagee, the proper form of the decree is that upon the amount due to the mortgagee being paid into Court, the mortgagee and the sub-morigagee should re convey the estate to the mortgagor; the mortgagor is not bound to wait until the accounts between the mortgagee and the sub-mortgagee are settled. (Vol 14) 1927 Mad 703 (704) ✠ ('06) 28 All 638 (641) (DB).

[15] In a suit by the mortgagor for redemption against the mortgagee and his sub-mortgagee, the judgment should direct an account of what is due to the original mortgagee and then of what is due to the sub-mortgagee and upon payment to the latter of the sum due to him not exceeding the sum due to the original mortgagee and upon payment of the residue, if any of what is due to the original mortgagee, both shall re-convey the property to the mortgagor. 4. Agreement to grant or accept a mortgage. — [1] An agreement to give a mortgage merely creates a right in the promisee to get a regular deed of mortgage and does not of itself create any mortgage or charge upon the immovable property dealt with by the agreement. (Vol 17) 1930 P C 76 (78) (PC) ✠ (Vol 25) 1938 Mad 889 (892) : I L R (1939) Mad 7 (FB).

[2] An agreement to mortgage for a sum of money to be advanced cannot be specifically enforced though a suit for damages for breach of such a contract will lie. (Vol 25) 1938 Bom 357 (358) (DB) ✠ (Vol 12) 1925 Rang 291 (293) : 4 Rang 1 (FB) ✠ (Vol 23) 1936 Lah 727 (729) : 17 Lah 270 (DB) ✠ (Vol 22) 1935 Mad 1045 (1045) ✠ ('05) 8 Oudh Cas 5 (9) ✠ ('08) 11 Oudh Cas 217 (218).

[3] A mortgage holds good to the extent of the amount paid. Where any part of the amount agreed to be advanced remains unpaid, a suit will not lie for recovering such part. (Vol 29) 1942 Lah 234 (236): I L R (1943) Lah 746 (DB).

[4] Where money has actually been advanced and subsequently the borrower agrees to mortgage property to secure such advance, such an agreement can be specifically enforced (Vol 15) 1928 P C 80 (82) : 55 Ind App 107 : 7 Pat 305 (PC).

[5] The principle that an agreement to lend a sum of money is not specifically enforceable, has no application where money has been left with the mortgagee to pay off the mortgagor's creditor and on the failure of the mortgagee to do so the mortgagor sues to recover the money (Vol 20) 1933 Lah 1 (2, 3).

[6] Where the mortgagor allows the loan to remain with the mortgagee on the understanding that it is to be taken by him from time to time, a suit for its recovery is not one to enforce a contract of loan but merely one for recovery of a deposit. (Vol 3) 1916 Oudh 184 (185).

(Whether the mortgage is simple or by a conditional sale the mortgagor is bound by the contract in the first instance to pay the debt.)

[4] In considering the question whether there is a personal liability to pay, it must be borne in mind, (1) that a loan prima facie involves such a personal liability, (2) that such a liability is not displaced by the mere fact that security is given for repayment of the loan with interest, but (3) that the nature and terms of such security may negative any personal liability on the part of the borrower. (Vol 3) 1916 P C 119 (120): 44 Cal 388: 44 Ind App 87 (P C).

[5] The absence of a personal covenant does not render the transaction any the less a debt secured by immovable property. [6] The words "on a certain date" mean "on or before a certain date". (Vol 1) 1914 Cal 823 (823, 824) (DB).

[7] The fixing of a certain date for payment is an essential ingredient of the mortgage by conditional sale. (Vol 15) 1928 Cal 825 (825) (DB).

[8] The words "on a certain date" refer to the default in the second clause and not to the payment in the third and fourth clauses. (Vol 15) 1928 Mad 28 (32, 34) (DB).

[9] The absence of the mention of a certain date is no indication that the transaction was not a mortgage. (Vol 12) 1925 Cal 1151 (1153) (DB).

29 Distinction between mortgage by conditional sale and a sale with a clause for re-purchase.—[1] In a sale with a clause for re-purchase the ownership vests in the transferee from the date of the document and there is no question of any debt being in existence after the date of the transaction. Futher, the right of re-purchase can be exercised only on a strict compliance with the terms of the agreement. (Vol 29) 1942 Cal 452 (453) (DB) ✠(Vol 12) 1925 Oudh 533 (534) (D B).

[3] Where a deed hypothecated property with a stipulation that in default of payment within a stipulated period or if the mortgagor dies without payment within that period the transaction should be a "complete sale", it was held that the transaction was a mortgage by conditional sale. It was held that the transaction was a mortgage by conditional sale. ('04) 26 All 337 (341) (DB).

30. Sale or mortgage — Tests of distinction. — [1] Where the transaction is apparently a sale, the onus of showing that it is a mortgage lies on the person who contends against the tenor of the deed. (Vol 23) 1936 P C 65 (69) (P C) ✠(Vol 31) 1944 Oudh 305 (306) (DB).

[3] The form of the transaction is not the final test of determining whether it is a sale or a mortgage. The true test is the intention of the parties in entering into the transaction. Section 58—Note 30 (contd.)

[6] The question whether a document which is ostensibly a sale-deed is intended to be only a pretence for a mortgage-deed is in every case a question of fact to be determined on the contents of the document and the surrounding circumstances. (Vol 31) 1944 Lah 175 (177, 178) ✠(Vol 21) 1934 Nag 18 (20) ✠(Vol 28) 1941 Oudh 479 (481): 16 Luck 789 (D B) ✠(Vol 28) 1941 Oudh 582 (584): 17 Luck 198 (DB) ✠(Vol 34) 1947 Mad 60 (61) (DB) ✠(Vol 34) 1947 Pesh 33 (34).

[7] A mortgage is none the less a mortgage because its terms are onerous. (Vol 15) 1928 Oudh 103 (104): 2 Luck 470 (DB) ✠(Vol 6) 1919 Oudh 374 (375).

[8] A mortgage does not cease to be a mortgage because its terms are such as to render redemption impossible. ('13) 16 Oudh Cas 9 (18) (D B) ✠('12) 15 Oudh Cas 1 (5) (DB).

[9] It is only where the deed of sale and the contract to re-purchase are parts of one and the same transaction that the sale could be a mortgage, but the mere fact of singleness of the transaction, though a strong piece of evidence, is not conclusive that the transaction is a mortgage. (Vol 14) 1927 All 321 (327): 49 All 405 (DB).

[10] It cannot be said broadly that where there is an ostensible sale subject to the condition of re-purchase the transaction must necessarily always be a mortgage by conditional sale. It will be for the person pleading that it is an out and out sale, to establish it. In the absence of such proof it must be held to be a mortgage. (Vol 16) 1929 All 619 (619) (DB).

[11] As between the parties to the document or documents, the intention to treat the transaction as an out and out sale or as a mortgage, must be decided on a consideration of the contents of the documents themselves with such extrinsic evidence of surrounding circumstances as may be required to show in what manner the language of the documents is related to existing facts. Oral evidence of such intention is not admissible by virtue of S. 92 of the Evidence Act. (1900) 22 All 149 (158, 159) : 27 Ind App 58 (P C) ✠ (Vol 31) 1944 Lah 175 (177) ✠ ('02) 26 Bom 252 (256) (F B) ✠ (Vol 11) 1924 P C 226 (227) : 47 Mad 729 : 51 Ind App 305 (P C) ✠ (Vol 3) 1916 P C 49 (53, 54) : 38 All 570 : 43 Ind App 284 (P C)✠(Vol 34) 1947 Pat 345 (347) (D B) ✠ (Vol 34) 1947 Mad 60 (61) (D B).

[13] Prima facie an absolute conveyance, containing nothing to show that the relation of debtor and creditor is to exist between the parties, does not cease to be an absolute conveyance and become a mortgage merely because the vendor stipulates that he shall have a right of repurchase. ('90) 12 All 387 (391) : 17 Ind App 98 (P C) ✠ (Vol 6) 1919 Mad 1 (5, 6) : 42 Mad 407 (F B). (Overruling (Vol 1) 1914 Mad 37.) ✠ (Vol 31) 1944 Oudh 305 (307) (D B).

[14] The question whether a sale and an agreement to reconvey were intended to create a mortgage or not must be decided with reference to the surrounding circumstances. (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 651 (651) (D B).

[15] Where two deeds, one a sale and the other an agreement to reconvey, are of even date, there would arise a presumption in favour of the transaction being a mortgage. ('11) 33 All 585 (587, 592) (F B) ✠ (Vol 1) 1914 Bom 177 (178) : 39 Bom 119 (D B) ✠ (Vol 1) 1914 Bom 179 (180) (D B) ✠ (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 790 (790) (D B) ✠ (Vol 34) 1947 All 334 (336) (D B).

[16] Where a sale-deed and an agreement to reconvey are not of even date and, at the time of the sale, there was no intention of executing an agreement to reconvey, the documents would not constitute a mortgage. (Vol 24) 1937 Rang 402 (403) : 1938 Rang L R 216 (D B) ✠ (Vol 22) 1935 Rang 212 (213) ✠ ('95) 17 All 451 (453) ✠ ('83) 5 All 324 (329, 330) (F B).

(c) The time fixed for repurchase not being of the essence of the contract. (Vol 11) 1924 P C 226 (230) : 47 Mad 729 : 51 Ind App 305 (P C) ✠ (Vol 28) 1941 Oudh 582 (584) : 17 Luck 198 (D B).

(i) The term 'Shartiah Dai" usually employed in the Punjab as indicative of an intention to execute a mortgage by conditional sale. (Vol 31) 1944 Lah 175 (178).

(j) A stipulation for payment of interest, though it is not conclusive. (Vol 34) 1947 Pat 345 (347) (D B).

[18] In an agreement for re-purchase accompanying a sale, the words used were similar to those in Bengal Regulation, I of 1798 relating to the deposit of mortgage-money into the treasury and the amount payable on re-purchase included not only the price fixed but also a sum due on an account open to be increased. It was held that these circumstances indicated a mortgage. (1900) 22 All 149 (161) : 27 Ind App 58 (P C).

[19] Where a transfer was in terms absolute but for a consideration far less than the real value, and was accompanied by an agreement that if the amount is satisfied from out of the rents and profits the vendee will give back the land to the vendor, it was held that the transaction was a mortgage. was intended to be reserved, it was held that the transaction was in the nature of a mortgage. (1849) 5 Moo Ind App 72 (79, 81) (P C).

[20a] Land sold to A for payment of arrears of land revenue for 50 years in consideration of certain sum — Land revenue to be paid by A—After expiry of 50 years, if amount received was paid back, land to be returned—In default, sale to become absolute – Transaction held to be mortgage by conditional sale. (Vol 34) 1947 Pesh 33 (34).

[21] In a deed of conditional sale, it was recited by the transferor, "if we do not pay your amount by the due date, (viz., within five years) we agree to this document being treated as a sale deed;" Held that the conveyance was not a sale but a mortgage. (Vol 31) 1944 Mad 237 (237).

[22] Three documents executed on 19th September 1905 — By first document, A selling items 1 to G for Rs. 15,000—By second document, G agreeing to reconvey property for same amount after five but within ten years of execution — Third document a security bond though relating to item 2 containing provisions governing item 1 as well — First and second documents read with third held created mortgage by conditional sale. (Vol 30) 1943 Mad 100 (101) : I L R (1943) Mad 195 (D B).

[23] Document mentioning that property was sold conditionally for the amount stated therein and put in possession of the transferee — Transferee to enjoy property till five years — Amount not to carry any interest nor the property which was land, any rent — Land revenue to be paid by transferee who was to sow the land himself or by leasing to others — At the agreed time, the transferor to redeem the land by paying the amount and obtain receipt therefor—On default of payment the conditional sale was to be an absolute sale. Held on construction that the deed was a mortgage. (Vol 29) 1942 Nag 115 (117) : I L R (1942) Nag 592 (D B).

[24] A stipulation in a sale-deed that on the executant handing over half the price the vendee would hand over half the property — Deed, held amounted to mortgage by conditional sale. (Vol 13) 1926 All 670 (671) (D B).

[25] Where the document does not contain any condition for reconveyance but only states that on payment of the money the vendees will give up possession and return the deed there is no sale but a mortgage. ('21) 64 Ind Cas 583 (584) (D B) (Cal).

[26] Deed of conveyance followed by an Ekrarnama by which the parties agreed that if the vendor pays to the vendee in cash the principal with interest in lump after the expiry of ten years held to be a mortgage. (Vol 12) 1925 Cal 862 (863, 864) (D B).

[27] Consideration received less than the value of the property—Parties referred to as debtor and creditor — Property to be re-conveyed to transferor on re-payment of consideration within 12 years — Transaction held mortgage by conditional sale. (Vol 27) 1940 Bom 63 (64) (D B).

[28] Where a deed of transfer contained a stipulation that if at any time within three years the transferor was to pay back the amount paid to him in respect of the property transferred with interest after deducting the income which the transferee might derive from the property there should be a reconveyance to the transferor, it was held that the transaction amounted only to a mortgage by conditional sale and not to a sale with a condition for repurchase. (Vol 27) 1940 Nag 84 (86, 87).

[29] Mortgagee authorized to construct house according to his liking at his own cost—Deed containing also stipulation that mortgagor would be liable for whole amount—Transaction is mortgage and not an out and out sale. (Vol 20) 1933 Lah 155 (156) (D B).

[30] Where a document purported to be a sale out and out and under it the purchaser took possession of the property and on the same day there was an ekrarnamah to the effect that if the purchase-money was repaid within four years the purchaser would be bound to give up the property—Held that the deeds did not constitute a mortgage but a sale with a contract for repurchase. ('09) 2 Ind Cas 930 (931) (D B) (Cal).

[31] A document was described in its earlier portion as a deed of sale out and out—There was no mention of interest; the amount was prescribed not as principal but as consideration—The transferee was allowed to have his name registered after expunction of the name of the transferor; the transferee and after him his sons and grandsons in succession were to continue peacefully to enjoy the property, and neither the transferor nor his heir was to have any claim to or concern in the property at any time : Held that the document was not one of mortgage but a sale deed out and out with a condition of repurchase. ('13) 21 Ind Cas 19 (20, 21) (D B) (Cal).

[32] The words "principal amount" and the clause that if the money be not paid within the time limited the kobala will be regarded as a deed of absolute sale are not by themselves sufficient for holding that the transaction is a mortgage and not an absolute sale. ('22) 67 Ind Cas 113 (115) (DB) (Cal).

[33] Vendor claiming back possession after 60 years —Held that after a lapse of long time cogent evidence is needed to prove that document is not what it purports to be. (Vol 16) 1929 Cal 548 (553) (D B).

[34] A mortgagor executed a deed of absolute sale in favour of his mortgagee who was about to sue on his mortgage—Some days later, the mortgagee executed an agreement to reconvey the property within eighteen months if the mortgagor paid the money : Held that in the circumstances of the case the transaction amounted to a sale with an agreement to reconvey and not to a mortgage by a conditional sale. (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 651 (652) (D B).

[35] Under a document which purported to be a sale deed the transferee was put in possession by a decree of Court on payment of the amounts mentioned in the document and which the transferee had undertaken to pay—No time for redemption was fixed nor was any amount fixed as payable on redemption : Held that the transaction did not amount to a mortgage. (Vol 14) 1927 Mad 1081 (1082).

[36] A deed of transfer of lands under a sale in lieu of principal and interest due upon a pre-existing mortgage, reserving to the vendor the right to re-purchase the same on payment of the sale consideration within twenty years, even when read with a lease of the same lands by the vendee to the vendor at an annual rent which was liable to reduction in proportion to any fractional payment of the sale price amounts to a sale and not a mortgage. (Vol 3) 1916 Bom 215 (217) : 40 Bom 378 (D B).

[37] Document described as sale-deed—Executants referred to as vendors — Property stated to be sold to vendee and entire consideration money received—Executants given right to take back sold property if they paid money specified in document within certain period —No reference to redemption of property within that period — If executants failed to take back possession within time fixed, deed to be deemed to be one of absolute sale—After execution of deed vendee's name substituted in revenue papers — Transaction held was sale and not mortgage. (Vol 31) 1944 Oudh 305 (308, 309) (D B).

[38] Sale deed in favour of Mahomedan — There is no presumption in Oudh that because he would not charge interest he agreed to transaction of mortgage being clothed in garb of sale-deed. (Vol 31) 1944 Oudh 305 (309) (DB).

[39] Where a sale and an agreement to reconvey form part of a single transaction constituting a mortgage, but the sale alone is registered and the agreement is unregistered no valid mortgage is created by the transaction. (Vol 13) 1926 Bom 497 (506, 507) : 50 Bom 566 (F B). ((Vol 1) 1914 Bom 231 : 38 Bom 703, Overruled.) ✠ (Vol 8) 1921 Bom 442 (443) (DB) ✠ (Vol 10) 1923 Rang 52 (54) : 11 Low Bur Rul 456 ✠ (Vol 14) 1927 Rang 314 (315) ✠ (Vol 6) 1919 Mad 711 (712) (DB) ✠ (Vol 1) 1914 Mad 639 (639) (F B).

[40] Where the agreement and the sale are independent transactions, i. e., where the intention was not to create a mortgage but to execute a sale and give an agreement to reconvey, the latter agreement need not be registered. (Vol 13) 1926 Bom 497 (508) : 50 Bom 566 (FB) ✠ (Vol 13) 1926 Bom 97 (99) : 49 Bom 862 (D B) ✠ (Vol 14) 1927 Rang 314 (315).

Effect of Proviso to Cl (c).

[42] The object of the proviso was to shut out an enquiry whether a sale with a stipulatton for re-transfer is a mortgage when the stipulation is not embodied in the same document. (Vol 33) 1946 Mad 456 (457) (D B).

[43] The proviso has been added to restrict the inference to be drawn in favour of a mortgage only to cases where the condition of repurchase is embodied in one document which effects or purports to effect a sale. (Vol 18) 1931 Bom 371 (372) (D B).

[44] The meaning of the proviso is that though the transaction may in fact be a mortgage, yet when the condition of resale is not embodied in the document that effects or purports to effect the sale, then the transaction cannot be treated as a mortgage. (Vol 33) 1946 Nag 264 (266) : I L R (1946) Nag 278 (D B) ✠ (Vol 33) 1946 Mad 456 (457) (DB) ✠ (Vol 34) 1947 Pat 345 (346) (D B).

[45] The proviso does not mean that if the conditions are embodied in the same document the transaction will necessarily be a mortgage (Vol 21) 1934 Nag 18 (19) ✠ (Vol 28) 1941 Oudh 582 (584) : 17 Luck 198 (D B).

[46] Whether a transaction is a mortgage will still depend upon the intention of the parties as gathered from the document itself and the surrounding circumstances. (Vol 27) 1940 All 227 (229) (D B) ✠ (Vol 25) 1938 Oudh 57 (59) : 13 Luck 680 (D B) ✠ (Vol 24) 1937 All 724 (726).

[47] The agreement to reconvey in the deed of sale will indicate the intention to create a mortgage rather than a sale and this will be so even when the proviso applies. (Vol 27) 1940 Nag 84 (86).

31. Mortgage by conditional sale or other kinds of mortgage. — [1] The test whether a particular document is a mortgage by conditional sale or is some other kind of mortgage is not what the parties have said it is; but is rather whether it fulfils those statutory requirements which the Legislature has laid down. (Vol 28) 1941 All 169 (170) : I L R (1941) All 240.

32. Usufructuary mortgage.—[1] The characteristics of a usufructuary mortgage are (1) that the possession of the mortgaged property is delivered or agreed to be delivered to the mortgagee (2) that the mortgagee is to appropriate the rents and profits in lieu of interest or of principal or of both (3) that the mortgagor does not incur any personal liability to repay the money; and (4) that, there being no personal liability to pay, there is no 'forfeiture' and therefore the remedies by way of foreclosure or sale are not open to the mortgagee. (Vol 27) 1940 Lah 401 (403) : I L R (1941) Lah 71 (F B) ✠ (Vol 29) 1942 Cal 55 (58) (DB) ✠ (Vol 27) 1940 Cal 426 (427) (D B) ✠ (1900) 2 Bom L R 201 (202) (DB) ✠ ('07) 4 Low Bur Rul 222 (224) ✠ ('93) 17 Bom 425 (428) (D B) ✠ (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 1033 (1038) (D B) ✠ (Vol 28) 1941 Pat 301 (302) (D B) ✠ (Vol 32) 1945 Lah 282 (284) (D B).

[2] In Upper Burma the usual form of mortgage is usufructuary. ('12) 1 Upp Bur Rul 125.

Delivery of possession.

[3] The word "delivers" does not necessarily mean delivers immediately. Where the mortgagor is not in a position to give immediate possession, it is sufficient if he gives the right to possession. ('12) 16 Oudh Cas 58 (60, 61).

[4] The main difference between a usufructuary mortgage and an ordinary mortgage is that in the former it is part of the initial agreement by which the security is created that the mortgagee shall at once go into possession of the mortgaged property and apply the proceeds he may derive from the use and occupation of it to discharge the mortgaged debt; while in the case of an ordinary mortgage of the usual sort, it is, in general, not the initial intention of the parties that the mortgagee should go into possession of the property pledged immediately for at all although he is empowered to do so if the interest on the mortgage money be not paid. (Vol 12) 1925 P C 63 (65) : 47 All 250 : 52 Ind App 145 (P C).

[5] Mortgagee was to enter into possession on failure of repayment by the stipulated date, an event which may or may not have happened — No initial agreement to deliver possession—Mortgage held simple and not usufructuary. (Vol 17) 1930 All 175 (176).

[6] No delivery of possession by mortgage deed — Mortgagee not entitled to retain possession till mortgage money repaid—Agreement not inconsistent with English mortgage —Mortgage held not partly English and partly usufructuary and therefore not anomalous mortgage. (Vol 23) 1936 Pat 211 (216) : 14 Pat 560 (D B).

[7] Where a simple mortgage was executed in 1898 and subsequently in 1904 the same property was leased to the mortgagee with a direction to apply the rent towards the interest due under the mortgage, it was held that mortgage did not get converted into a usufructuary mortgage. (Vol 3) 1916 Mad 974 (974).

[8] The mere fact that possession was given to the mortgagee over the mortgaged property will not necessarily show that the mortgage was a usufructuary one. (Vol 31) 1944 All 198 (199) : I L R (1944) All 588.

[9] A usufructuary mortgage does not cease to be so by reason of the fact that instead of actually taking possession on the date of the mortgage, the mortgagee leases it back to the mortgagor for the period of the mortgage. It does not become a simple mortgage on that account. (Vol 31) 1944 All 221 (222): I L R (1944) All 346 (D B) ✠ (Vol 27) 1940 Mad 946 (948, 949) (DB) ✠ (Vol 14) 1927 All 552 (553, 554) : 49 All 658 (D B) ✠ (Vol 18) 1931 Lah 498 (499) (D B) ✠ (Vol 30) 1943 Mad 220 (221).

[10] Where a usufructuary mortgagee leases the property back to the mortgagor, oral evidence is not admissible to show that the document was intended only to be a simple mortgage as it will be contradicting the terms of the written document. (Vol 20) 1933 P C 178 (180) : 60 Ind App 273 : 14 Lah 466 (P C).

[11] To be a usufructuary mortgage, it is sufficient if the mortgagor delivers such possession as the nature of the property is capable of. (Vol 20) 1933 Oudh 35 (36) : 8 Luck 190 (D B).

[13] Where a usufructuary mortgage is of a share of a common holding the mortgagee is entitled to joint possession. ('36) 38 Pun L R 566 (567).

[14] The words "or expressly or by implication binds himself to deliver possession" were inserted in the section by the amending Act of 1929 in order to negative the view that in the absence of actual delivery of possession, the mortgage was not a usufructuary one. (Vol 29) 1942 Oudh 172 (174) : 17 Luck 362.

[15] A usufructuary mortgagee is entitled to the exclusive possession of the property mortgaged and has the right to exclude others, including the owner, from its possession. (Vol 25) 1938 All 577 (584):I L R (1938) All 304 (S B).

[16] If a usufructuary mortgagee does not get possession he may sue for possession or for damages for breach of the contract to give possession ('81) 4 All 14 (16) (D B) ✠ (Vol 29) 1942 Oudh 172 (174) : 17 Luck 362✠ ('82) 4 All 281 (283) (D B)✠ ('82) 4 All 245 (247, 248) (D B).

[17] A usufructuary mortgagee who is empowered to take possession and appropriate the rents and profits in lieu of his debt, is not bound to take possession. He has merely a power to do so, and if he chooses to forgo the benefit it would have no effect as between him and the mortgagor to recover his debt. ('09) 32 Mad 281 (283) (D B).

[18] If the usufructuary mortgagee permits the mortgagor to receive the rents and profits and a subsequent incumbrancer comes in and he has a notice thereof, he exposes himself to the claim of the subsequent incumbrancer. ('03) 26 Mad 662 (668, 669) (SB) ✠ (1841) 2 Moo Ind App 487 (500, 501) (P C).

[19] Mortgaged property not delivered to usufructuary mortgagee but in possession of trespasser—Mortgage subsisting — Mortgagor is entitled to sue trespasser for possession and mesne profits — Possession delivered to mortgagee—Mortgagee deprived of possession by trespasser— Right to sue for possession vests in mortgagee (Vol 26) 1939 Mad 887 (888).

[19a] Where a part of the property mortgaged usufructuarily is not delivered to the mortgagee, the mortgagee cannot claim by way of interest the profits of the property not delivered to him. (Vol 32) 1945 All 202 (203) : I L R (1945) All 676 (F B).

Appropriation of rents and profits.

[21] Where the rents and profits are not to be taken in lieu of interest or principal but are to be set off against the interest agreed upon and in case of deficit the mortgagor is to be personally liable therefor, the mortgage is not a usufructuary one. (Vol 10) 1923 Mad 71 (71, 72) (D B).

[22] In the case of a lekha mukhi in the Punjab in which the mortgagor undertakes no personal liability, while the mortgagor is competent at any time to claim redemption on payment of the amount, the mortgagee is not entitled to sue for his debt. (Vol 27) 1940 Lah 401 (404) : I L R (1941) Lah 71 (F B) ✠ (Vol 18) 1931 Lah 498 (499) (D B).

[23] The most common form of usufructuary mortgage which has been in vogue in India for a very long time is the one in which the mortgagee is entitled to appropriate the rents and profits in lieu of interest. (Vol 27) 1940 Lah 401 (404) : I L R (1941) Lah 71 (F B) ✠ ('70) 1870 Pun Re No. 15, p. 51 (52) (D B) ✠ (Vol 12) 1925 Pat 288 (289) (D B) ✠ (Vol 4) 1917 Pat 14 (14) (D B) ✠ ('70) 1870 Pun Re No. 81, p. 208 (209) (D B) ✠ (1865) 2 Mad H C R 382 (383) (D B) ✠ ('68) 3 Mad H C R 363 (365) (D B).

[24] Where a mortgage deed states that until the mortgagor pays the amount on account of the principal, the mortgagee shall continue in possession and occupation, the mortgagee takes his chance of the rents and profits being greater or less than the interest which might have been reserved by the bond and the mortgagor is entitled to redeem on repayment of the mortgage-money. ('02) 24 All 521 (531) : 29 Ind App 148 (P C).

[25] Where the mortgagee is put in possession of the mortgaged property in lieu of interest and it has not been found that he has ever been dispossessed, he is not entitled to any interest but is entitled to the principal only. (Vol 13) 1926 Cal 1239 (1239) (D B).

[26] Where the mortgage is security only for the principal and the mortgagee is to have the profits in lieu of interest which is not payable otherwise, the mortgagee is not entitled to interest if he fails to take possession from the mortgagor. ('92) 17 Bom 425 (428) (D B) ✠ (Vol 8) 1921 Bom 28 (29) : 45 Bom 523 (DB).

[27] The fact that the document does not make any express provision for the appropriation of the usufruct for interest or principal does not make it any the less a usufructuary mortgage, if the necessary inference from the terms of the document is that it is to be appropriated to the one or the other. (Vol 8) 1921 Mad 12 (16, 17) : 43 Mad 589 (F B).

[28] Where there is no stipulation to pay interest but possession is given, it must be taken as an implied part of the mortgage contract that the usufruct must be taken in lieu of interest. ('04) 6 Bom L R 630 (632) (D B).

[29] The words "or any part of such rents and profits" were added in 1929 so as to cover cases where the mortgagee retains part of the rents and profits in discharge of the debt, and pays the balance to the mortgagor. Such cases were regarded before the amendment as anomalous mortgages. ('31) 1931 Mad W N 595 (599).

Absence of personal liability.

[30] There is no personal liability on the part of the mortgagor to repay the mortgage-money to the mortgagee, in a usufructuary mortgage. Consequently, the mortgagee cannot sue the mortgagor personally for the recovery of the debt. (Vol 1) 1914 Mad 317 (318) (DB) ✠('03) 5 Bom L R 119 (121) (D B)✠ (Vol 26) 1939 Lah 235 (236) (D B) ✠ (Vol 23) 1936 Pesh 48 (51) (D B) ✠ ('01) 3 Bom L R 156 (157) (DB)✠(Vol 2) 1915 Cal 376 (377) (D B)✠(Vol 15) 1928 Lah 355 (356) (DB).

[33] The interest of a usufructuary mortgagee can be attached under O. 21, R. 54 as immovable property. ('11) 35 Bom 288 (292, 293) (DB).

[34] The existence of a mere covenant to pay unaccompanied by a hypothecation of property (i. e., by a grant of the power of sale) does not change the character of what would otherwise be a usufructuary mortgage, so as to enable the mortgagee to sue for sale. (Vol 29) 1942 All 326 (327) : I L R (1942) All 363 (D B) ✠ (Vol 25) 1938 All 418 (421): I L R (1938) All 714 (SB) ✠(Vol 8) 1921 Mad 183 (192) : 44 Mad 301 (DB)✠('08) 10 Bom L R 615 (617) (D B) ✠ ('05) 28 All 157 (160) (DB). Time limit for redemption.

[35] It is not necessary in a usufructuary mortgage to fix any period of redemption. A possessory mortgage providing that the mortgagee is to obtain possession of the property in lieu of a fixed sum with a condition that redemption is to take place whenever the mortgage-money is paid, is a good usufructuary mortgage. (Vol 15) 1928 Oudh 1 (5) : 3 Luck 1 (F B).

[36] The fixing of times for redemption is not inconsistent with the nature of a usufructuary mortgage. (Vol 8) 1921 Mad 183 (191, 192) : 44 Mad 301 (D B)✠ (Vol 8) 1921 Mad 517 (517) (D B) ✠ ('08) 32 Bom 569 (571) (D B)✠('13) 16 Oudh Cas 56 (62) ✠ (Vol 27) 1940 Cal 426 (427) (DB)✠(Vol 26) 1939 Lah 235 (236) (DB) ✠(Vol 27) 1940 Cal 436 (438) (DB)✠(Vol 21) 1934 Pat 217 (220) (DB) ✠ (Vol 25) 1938 Pat 388 (389) (D B) ✠ ('02) 26 Bom 252 (258) (FB).

[37] The fixing of a term for redemption is not equivalent to a covenant to pay at the end of the term. (Vol 8) 1921 Mad 183 (192) : 44 Mad 301 (D B).

[38] Mortgagees whose mortgages are not with possession cannot resist a suit for possession by a purchaser of the equity of redemption. (Vol 16) 1929 P C 288 (289) (P C).

[39] The addition of a condition that on default, the transaction should be treated as a sale does not, in an ordinary possessory mortgage, convert it into an anomalous mortgage. (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 366 (366).

[40] The covenants that the mortgagor would pay rent of the mortgaged land, that if, on any occasion the mortgagee had to pay arrears of rent he may recover the same from the mortgagor with interest, that if the mortgagor had already made a transfer or created a charge on the property the mortgagee can realise his amount from other property of the mortgagor etc , are not sufficient to change the character of the mortgage as a usufructuary one. (Vol 27) 1940 Cal 426 (428) (FB) ✠(Vol 24) 1937 Pat 94 (95) ✠ (Vol 29) 1942 Cal 522 (523) : I L R (1942) 2 Cal 28 (DB).

[3] If the original premium is not an advance which is repayable but is satisfied by the lease, and there is no idea of giving any security for the loan, the transaction would be a lease and not a mortgage. ('83) 7 Mad 203 (206) (FB)✠(Vol 25) 1938 Pat 35 (36, 37) (D B) ✠ (Vol 26) 1939 Pat 265 (266, 267) ✠ (Vol 6) 1919 Mad 322 (324) : 41 Mad 959 (DB).

[4] The test to determine if a zuripeshgi lease is a mortgage is whether there is a secured debt and a right of redemption. (Vol 10) 1923 Pat 122 (128) : 2 Pat 217 (D B) ✠ ('82) 6 Bom 674 (680) (D B) ✠ (Vol 28) 1941 Pat 296 (298) (D B).

[6] Under documents styled zuripeshgi ticca patowa pattahs, the tenants advanced at the commencement, to the lessor, a certain sum of money for the liquidation of debts due to his creditors, the tenants being entitled to recover payment by retaining out of the rents payable by them, a yearly instalment of the sum advanced with interest at the rate of 6 annas per mensem. The leases contained an exprsss obligation by the tenants to quit occupation at their expiry. Held that the tenants' possession under them was, in part at least not that of cultivators only, but that of creditors operating repayment of the debt due to them, by means of their security. ('97) 24 Cal 272 (279, 280): 23 Ind App 158 (PC).

[7] Where A received from B Rs. 250 not by way of advance or loan but as a deposit by way of security for the due payment of the rent, and executed in favour of B what was termed as a zuripeshgi, it was held that this was only a lease and not a mortgage. ('69) 12 Suth W R 214 (215) (D B).

[8] A received a sum of money from B, and executed a zuripeshgi lease to B reciting that out of the rent, B was to appropriate a certain portion to the liquidation of the debt and to pay the balance of the rent to A. It was held that this was a mortgage. (1864) 1 Suth W R 52 (53) (DB) ✠ (Vol 13) 1926 Pat 77 (79) (DB).

[9] A deed in the form of Mustaki (lease) mortgage whereby the transferor purports to mortgage temporarily a garden stipulating that the transferee shall remain in possession for 7 years and that on expiry of the said period the whole mortgage sum of the mortgagee will be considered to have been paid up and the property being thus redeemed will come into possession of the owner without payment of any money held to be lease and not a mortgage. (Vol 30) 1943 Pesh 15 (17) (DB).

[10] The fact that no interest was provided for and a premium merely was paid at the inception of the lease may give rise to an inference that there was a lease and not a usufructuary mortgage. (Vol 2) 1915 Cal 769 (770) (D B).

sons. The mortgaged 'property was ordered to be sold subject to the lease thus regarding the two as separable transactions. (Vol 21) 1934 P C 119 (122, 123) (PC).

34. Kanom.— [1] In some cases a kanom may be a mere lease a sum being advanced as security for the rent or for proper cultivation to be repaid on the expiry of the time. In other cases, and most frequently, it is created as a lease by way of mortgage to secure a loan advanced to the jenmi (proprietor). Rent is payable in the case of every kanom, but all kanoms partake to a certain extent of the incidents of a usufructuary mortgage. ('81) 3 Mad 382 (383) (FB).

[2] A kanom in its mortgage aspect is a usufructuary mortgage. ('99) 22 Mad. 350 (351) (DB).

[3] Usually there is no covenant to pay and hence a suit for recovery of the money or for sale of the kanom property is not maintainable. ('99) 22 Mad 350 (351) (DB).

[4] In every kanom the kanomdar has an inherent right to hold for 12 years according to the custom of the country but this right can be excluded by the jenmi by an express agreement. ('79) 2 Mad 193 (193) (DB) ✠ ('91) 14 Mad 76 (77) (DB)✠(1862-63) 1 Mad H C R 296 (297) (DB).

[5] A kanomdar does not forfeit the right to hold for 12 years by his default to pay his parapad, i. e., the nett rent. 35. English mortgage. — [1] Where one of the parties is a Hindu and the property is situated in the mofussil the mortgage, though in an English form, should be treated as a mortgage by conditional sale. (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 373 (376) (DB).

[2] The three essentials of an "English mortgage" are: (1) The mortgagor should bind himself to repay the mortgage-money on a certain day. (2) The property mortgaged should be transferred "absolutely" to the mortgagee. (3) The 'absolute' transfer should be made subject to a proviso that the mortgagee will reconvey the property to the mortgagor upon repayment of the mortgage money, on the date on which the mortgagor bound himself to repay the same. ('02) 25 Mad. 220 (235) (FB)✠(Vol 26) 1939 Rang. 321 (322) : 1939 Rang L R 403 (FB) ✠ (Vol 23) 1936 Cal 646 (648) : I L R (1937) 1 Cal 359 ✠ (Vol 22) 1935 Cal 659 (661) (DB) ✠ (Vol 23) 1936 Pat 211 (214) : 14 Pat 560 (DB).

[3] An English mortgage will not cease to be so by the mere fact that the mortgagor undertakes to pay taxes, etc. (Vol 23) 1936 Cal 646 (648, 649):ILR (1937) 1 Cal 359 ✠ (Vol 29) 1942 Mad 628 (630) : ILR (1942) Mad 851 (DB) ✠ (Vol 33) 1946 Bom 499 (505, 506).

[4] Where on a construction of the document it is found that one or other of the essentials of an English mortgage is absent, then the mortgage is not an English mortgage. (Vol 22) 1935 Cal 659 (662, 663) (DB).

Personal liability.

[5] In an English mortgage, the debtor remains personally liable to pay the debt. ('06) 4 Cal L Jour 510 (513) (DB).

[6] Where the intention is to create an English mortgage a covenant to pay will in fact be presumed. (1913) 12 R R 82 (85, 86) : 2 Ball & B 274, Goodman v. Grierson.

[7] The personal covenant must be to repay the money on a certain date. The object is that it should be known with certainty when the mortgagor may redeem or the mortgagee proceed to foreclose or sell, an object which is not defeated by providing for earlier payments of interest. (Vol 23) 1936 Pat 211 (219) : 14 Pat 560 (DB).

[8] An option as regards earlier payment or an extension of time for payment is a matter of grace and does not affect the undertaking to repay on a certain date. (Vol 29) 1942 Mad 628 (630) : I L R (1942) Mad 851 (DB)✠ (Vol 23) 1936 Pat 211 (214, 219) : 14 Pat 560 (DB).

Absolute transfer.

[9] Section 58, cl. (c) cannot be construed as declaring an English mortgage to be an absolute transfer of the property but as merely declaring that such a mortgage would be absolute, were it not for the proviso for retransfer. The clause does not determine what legal effect follows from the particular form of words, it merely prescribed the form of words necessary to constitute what is known as an English mortgage. The clause deals with form, not with substance. (Vol 26) 1939 P C 14 (19) : I L R (1939) Kar (PC) 78 : I L R (1939) 1 Cal 283 : 66 Ind App 50 (PC).

[10] Whatever form is used nothing more than an interest is transferred and that interest is subject to a right of redemption. (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 373 (376) (DB)✠ (Vol 3) 1916 Low Bur 103 (103) : 8 Low Bur Rul 413 (DB)✠ (Vol 19) 1932 Cal 775 (782) : 59 Cal 1314 (DB).

[11] Unlike a mortgagor in England, the mortgagor under an English mortgage under the Act retains a legal interest both before and after the date fixed for payment. (Vol 26) 1939 P C 14 (19) : I L R (1939) Kar (P C) 78 : I L R (1939) 1 Cal 283 : 66 Ind App 50 (PC).

[12] Where a lessee for 999 years mortgaged, by way of an English mortgage, his leasehold interest to X, held that there was no privity of estate created between X and the lessor so as to make X liable for the burdens of the lease. (Vol 26) 1939 P C 14 (19) : I L R (1939) Kar (PC) 78 : I L R (1939) 1 Cal 283 : 66 Ind App 50 (PC). (The contrary view taken in (Vol 14) 1927 Cal 725 : 54 Cal 813, following (1819) 21 R R 585 (590), Williams v. Bosanquet, is not good law.)

[13] Where the instrument said "I hereby mortgage and assign" the estate, etc., it was held that the use of the word "assign" was sufficient to create an absolute transfer in favour of the mortgagee. ('02) 25 Mad 220 (235) (FB).

[14] The expression "grant, convey or transfer" followed by an absolute and indefeasible estate of inheritence in possession constitutes absolute transfer. (Vol 23) 1936 Pat 211 (218) : 14 Pat 560 (DB).

Proviso for reconveyance.

[15] Where the proviso for reconveyance was "upon repayment to the mortgagee of all sums due to him by the mortgagors the mortgagee shall reconvey the said property to the mortgagors," it was held that the third condition of an English mortgage was not satisfied as the covenant to reconvey did not depend upon payment being made at the stipulated time. ('02) 25 Mad 220 (236) (FB).

Possession of property.

[19] The fact that the rents collected by the mortgagee have to be accounted for by the mortgagee does not detract from the proposition that the right to the rents is in the mortgagee. (Vol 27) 1940 Cal 429 (432): ILR (1941) 1 Cal 197.

36. Equitable mortgage. — [1] An equitable mortgage in English law is of much wider import than it is under this Act. (Vol 20) 1933 Mad 293 (295) : 56 Mad 546 (DB).

[2] In the Punjab equitable mortgage has the same legal effect as any other mortgage. (Vol 17) 1930 Lah 920 (922, 927) : 11 Lah 564 (DB).

[3] The essentials of a mortgage by deposit of title deeds under the section are: (1) There must be a delivery of documents of title of immovable property. (2) Such delivery must be made to a creditor or his agent. (3) Such delivery must be made with intent to create a security thereon. (Vol 1) 1914 Bom 15 (16) : 38 Bom 372 (DB) ✠ (Vol 16) 1929 Rang 65 (66) : 7 Rang 28 (DB) ✠ (Vol 22) 1935 Lah 821 (823) (DB) ✠ (Vol 24) 1936 Lah 251 (254) (DB) ✠ (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 723 (724) : 48 Mad 454 (DB) ✠ (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 743 (743, 744).

Delivery of documents of title.

[4] Where the title deeds are already with the creditor for a purpose unconnected with any loan, and the debtor writes to the creditor that he may retain the deeds as security for the loan, a delivery must be deemed to have been made and an equitable mortgage is therefore created by such deposit. ('71) 16 Suth W R 203 (205) (DB).

[5] What is delivered must be a document of title. If the documents deposited show no kind of title in the depositor, no mortgage is created. ('11) 21 Mad L Jour 454 (455) (DB) ✠ (Vol 19) 1932 Cal 589 (593) : 59 Cal 781 (DB).

[6] It is not necessary that the documents deposited should connect the mortgagor with some predecessor of his, who had acquired the property originally. It is sufficient if the documents deposited show the mortgagor's title to the property. (Vol 19) 1932 Cal 589 (593): 59 Cal 781 (DB).

[7] It is not necessary that the whole or even the most material of the documents of title to the property should be deposited. It is sufficient if the deeds deposited bona fide relate to the property or are material evidence of title and are shown to have been deposited with the intention of creating a security thereon. (Vol 25) 1938 Rang 149 (150) : 1938 Rang L R 316 (FB). ((Vol 20) 1933 Rang 299 : 11 Rang 239, Overruled.) ✠ (Vol 15) 1928 Pat 304 (311) : 7 Pat 520 (DB) ✠ (Vol 4) 1917 Pat 268 (271, 272) : 2 Pat L Jour 293 (DB) ✠ (Vol 19) 1932 Cal 589 (592) : 59 Cal 781 (DB) ✠ (Vol 25) 1938 Mad 865 (874) (DB) ✠ (Vol 17) 1930 Lah 920 (922) : 11 Lah 564 (DB).

[9] A document cannot be considered a document of title unless it is clear that a better document is not available. (Vol 23) 1936 Lah 251 (255) (DB).

[10] A relinquished in favour of his father B his share in property x and B, in consideration thereof gave A property y. There was no deed for this latter transfer. A deposited a copy of the deed of relinquishment (which referred to the gift by B of property y to A) with C in respect of a loan. It was held that the said document was a document of title and was sufficient to create an equitable mortgage. (Vol 17) 1930 Lah 731 (733) : 11 Lah 694 (DB).

[11] The doctrine of equitable mortgage requires the mortgagor to deprive himself of the possession of the document which creates his title so as to render him unable to deal with the property upon the assertion that the title is still with him. Scope of the security is the scope of the title.

[14] (1) Where titles of property are handed over with nothing said except that they are to be security, the law supposes that the scope of the security is the scope of the title. (2) Where, however, titles are handed over accompanied by a bargain, that bargain must rule. (3) Lastly, when the bargain is a written bargain, it, and it alone, must determine what is the scope and extent of the security. (Vol 3) 1916 P C 115 (116) : 43

Subsequently, he executed a single promissory note for Rs. 3000, being the amonut then due on the two promissory notes, the deeds already deposited remaining with B. It was held that the retention of the deeds by B was enough to raise a presumption that the parties intended that they should be retained as security for the amount of the last note. ('08) 4 Low Bur Rul 371 (373).

The delivery must be with intent to create security.

Registration.

[32] Under this section no memorandum need accompany a deposit in order to create a mortgage, though such a memorandum is not prohibited. (Vol 10) 1923 Mad 262 (265) (DB)✠(Vol 4) 1917 Mad 799 (801) (DB) ✠ (Vol 27) 1940 Lah 285 (287) (DB).

[33] If the memorandum constitutes the bargain between the parties the memorandum itself constitutes the mortgage and must be registered. [35] For the purpose of considering whether the memorandum is to be taken as embodying the bargain between the mortgagor and the mortgagee or as evidencing a transaction which had already been completed before the memorandum was executed or delivered, not only the terms of the document must be looked into but also the surrounding circumstances. [39] B borrowed from A a certain sum upon a pronote and upon the terms that title deeds of certain property would be deposited as security. The title deeds and pronote were accordingly handed over to A's agent who thereupon wrote a letter forwarding the same to A. It was held that the letter having been written by A's agent to A could not be regarded as itself constituting the agreement between A and B, so as to require registration. Remedy of the equitable mortgagee :

[40] An equitable mortgagee has remedies similar to those of a simple mortgagee. (Vol 23) 1936 Rang 400 (401) (DB).

[41] A mortgagee by deposit of title deeds is not deprived of his right to recover the debt by his inability to produce either the deeds deposited or any memorandum of deposit when the Court believes that there was a deposit and that the deeds have been really lost. [42] Where at the time of a mortgage by deposit of title deeds a person other than the mortgagor is in possession of the property, the mortgagee will be imputed with notice of the title and of all facts and circumstances under which possession was retained, which any one dealing with property cannot, without risk, ignore. (Vol 7) 1920 P C 274 (276).

Territories in which equitable mortgage can be made :

[43] The territorial restrictions referred to in the clause have reference to the delivery of the deeds, and not to the situation of the property. Even if the property is situated out of British India a valid mortgage might be created if the delivery of the title deeds is made in the territories specified. (Vol 19) 1932 Bom 642 (644) : 57 Bom 234.

[48] The expression "person in any of the following towns" does not mean that the person delivering the document should be in the towns specified. The various towns must be read as going with "delivers." It is only the delivery that should be made within the said towns. (Vol 24) 1937 Bom 39 (41) : I L R (1937) Bom 763.

[49] Where A, in Bombay asked B in Poona to send the title deeds by post and B sent them by post, it was held that the delivery to the Post Office was a delivery to A's agent made in Poona and not in Bombay. (Vol 24) 1937 Bom 39 (43) : I L R (1937) Bom 763.

Punjab :

[50] The Act does not apply to the Punjab and a part of the Province of Delhi. Therefore there is no prohibition of creating an equitable mortgage in any part of those provinces. (Vol 31) 1944 P C 22 (24) : I L R (1944) Kar (P C) 73 (P C). (Delhi.) ✠ (Vol 22) 1935 Lah 10 (11). (The Punjab.)

37. Anomalous mortgages.—[1] Under the present definition, a combination of a simple mortgage and a usufructuary mortgage and a combination of a mortgage by conditional sale and a usufructuary mortgage would amount to anomalous mortgages. ('41) 73 Cal L Jour 246 (248) (DB).

[2] A mortgage may be anomalous without being made up of two or more of the four types defined in the section. (Vol 23) 1936 Pat 211 (220) : 14 Pat 560 (DB).

[3] Forms of anomalous mortgages:

(a) A mortgage with possession containing also a covenant to pay the principal and interest. (Vol 14) 1927 P. C. 32 (36) : 50 Mad 180 : 54 Ind App 68 (PC) ✠ (Vol 29) 1942 Cal 55 (58) (DB) ✠ ('91) 14 Mad 232 (234) (DB).

(b) A mortgage with possession with a stipulation that the transferee should appropriate the rents and profits for a specified term of years and then give back the land. ('02) 26 Bom 252 (258) (FB) ✠ ('98) 21 Mad 1 (3) (DB).

(c) Mortgagor to repay the instalments with interest or to redeem at any time—Mortgagee to remain in possession — Mortgage held anomalous. (Vol 6) 1919 P C 121 (123) : 15 Nag L R 134 (PC).

(d) A usufructuary mortgage with a clause that if the mortgagor does not pay off the mortgage-money in accordance with the demand of the mortgagee the latter will be entitled to realize the money by auction sale of the mortgaged property with the help of the Court. (Vol 27) 1940 Cal 426 428 (DB).

(e) A mortgage deed provided that on receipt of certain amount the possession of the property was made over to the mortgagee — It was then stipulated that after a period of 28 years the debt would be extinguished both as regards the principal and interest — There was a stipulation by which the mortgagor agreed that in the event of the mortgagee being dispossessed of the property in any way, the mortgagor would on account of the period of dispossession, be liable to pay interest at certain rate per month—There was, in addition to this, a personal covenant to pay — Held, that the mortgage in question was an anomalous mortgage. (Vol 27) 1940 Cal 372 (372, 373).

(i) Where a mortgage deed contained one clause which would make it a usufructuary mortgage but another clause provided in the most explicit terms for recovery of the amount due from the mortgaged property it was held that the mortgage was not usufructuary but was anomalous. (Vol 25) 1938 Lah 145 (147) (DB).

(g) Words in the mortgage were "if the amount of this mortgage deed is not satisfied according to the stipulation agreed upon the mortgaged property shall stand foreclosed as given below. I will have no connexion with the mortgaged property in future" — The words "lahan gahan" were used — Deed held to be anomalous mortgage and not mortgage by conditional sale. (Vol 27) 1940 Nag 156 (157): I L R (1941) Nag 607 (DB).

(h) Mortgage was in the first instance a simple mortgage and in the event of non-payment of principal sum on the date fixed, mortgage to be converted into usufructuary mortgage. (Vol 21) 1934 Rang 159 (159).

(i) Where a mortgage deed contained a covenant to pay interest but nowhere was there any covenant to repay the principal and subsequently the mortgagor deposited certain title deeds not mentioned in the mortgage as further security — Held that it was an anomalous mortgage. (Vol 15) 1928 Rang 16 (17) : 5 Rang 558 (DB).

(j) Mortgage without possession — Mortgagor not entitled to redeem before five years — On non-payment mortgagee given a right of foreclosure — No ostensible sale or any requirement of S. 58 (c) — Held, anomalous mortgage. (Vol 28) 1941 All 169 (171) : I L R (1941) All 240.

(k) A mortgage bond ran thus: "We shall pay off your said amount within three years from today. But if in the meantime a third party brings any suit against us or any one of us and attaches or endeavours to bring into auction any property of us, then, without waiting for the due date, you shall forthwith bring a suit for foreclosure of this kot kobala and having got a decree shall be owners of the properties mentioned in the schedule" — Held, that the document was not a mortgage by conditional sale but an anomalous mortgage. (Vol 14) 1927 Cal 836 (840) : 54 Cal 687 (DB).

(l) In a dakhali-rehan deed, the mortgagors stated that they had taken a loan which they expressly promised to pay by a certain date — It was next stipulated that in the event of non-payment, the creditors would be put in possession of certain property as dakali rehandars until payment — There was a further stipulation that if the creditors, through any act done by the mortgagor or in any manner failed to get possession over the property, they should be at liberty to realize the principal with interest from the person and properties of the mortgagors or from the rehan property in any manner they liked — Held, that the mortgage was of an anomalous kind. (Vol 24) 1937 Pat 261 (262) (DB).

38. Simple mortgage usufructuary.—[1] Under the present section a simple mortgage usufructuary is an anomalous mortgage. (Vol 21) 1934 Oudh 255 (255): 10 Luck 10 (DB) ✠ (Vol 26) 1939 All 615 (616).

[2] The characteristic of this mortgage is that the property is collaterally pledged as in the case of a simple mortgage with a covenant to pay, and the mortgagee is given the usufruct of it by allowing him to take the rents and profits. ('04) 27 Mad 526 (527) (FB) ✠ ('93) 17 Bom 425 (428) (DB) ✠ (Vol 1) 1914 Nag 36 (37) : 10 Nag L R 185.

[3] Where under an instrument purporting to be a mortgage possession is transferred and there is a stipulation to pay the money at a particular time, failing which the property is to be regarded as sold to the mortgagee, it was held that it was a simple mortgage usufructuary and not a mortgage by conditional sale. (Vol 8) 1921 Mad 12 (16) : 43 Mad 589 (FB).

[4] Where a mortgage provided that if the mortgagee took possession, he would be entitled to receive the rents and profits in lieu of interest, but that, if during the period of possession the profits did not cover the amount of interest at a certain rate, the mortgagor would make good the deficiency; it was held that this was a combination of a simple and a usufructuary mortgage. ('06) 28 All 225 (231): 33 Ind App 42 (PC).

[5] Mortgage—Mortgagee to take possession of property on default in payment of interest and to enjoy usufruct in lieu thereof—Mortgage held was not simple but anomalous from date of execution. (Vol 30) 1943 All 337 (339) : I L R (1943) All 802 (FB).

39. Sale in execution of mortgage decrees and money decrees. — [1] Where a simple mortgagee obtains only a money decree against the mortgagor and sells the property in execution, the auction-purchaser gets only the right, title and interest of the judgment-debtor at the time of the sale. ('75) 1 All 240 (245) (FB).

[2] A sale in execution of a mortgaged decree will pass the right, title and interest of the judgment-debtor existing not at the time of sale, but at the time of the mortgage. ('75) 1 All 240 (245) (FB).

[3] If a mortgagee puts up the mortgaged property for sale in execution of a decree, he sells the entire interest that he and the mortgagor could jointly sell and not merely the right, title and interest of the mortgagor as they stood at the time of the sale. ('79) 4 Cal 817 (820, 823) (DB).

40. Construction.—[1] Where the instrument is of a doubtful character it is incumbent on the Court to ascertain the intention of the parties as disclosed in the deed itself. (Vol 29) 1942 Nag 115 (116) : I L R (1942) Nag 592 (DB) ✠ ('08) 10 Bom L R 615 (616) (DB).

[2] The scope of the mortgage deed with respect to the items of the property mortgaged is to be determined from the intention of the parties as expressed in the deed. ('68) 3 Agra 27 (29) (DB).

[3] A gave a mortgage to B, and it was stated therein that if the mortgagor sold the mortgaged property or any part of it, he would pay over the entire proceeds to B. A subsquently sold a part of the property to C without the consent of B, and a portion of the proceeds was paid to B. It was held that the clause did not empower the mortgagor to sell the mortgaged property to any one without the consent of the mortgagee free of the mortgage but that it was merely a provision for piecemeal redemption. (Vol 24) 1937 P C 124 (126) : I L R (1937) Lah 245 : 64 Ind App 126 : 31 Sind L R 271 (PC).

[4] A mortgage deed specifically enumerated certain villages as the property mortgaged but in describing the rent thereof, included the rent of other villages also. It was held that the mortgage should be treated as operative only in respect of the villages specifically mentioned. (Vol 1) 1914 Cal 793 (794) (DB).

[5] The land mortgaged was stated to be 12 bighas out of the mortgagor's holding of 15 bighas. The proportionate rent was also stated. The mortgagee obtained a decree for sale and the property was sold by auction. It was, however, subsequently found that the holding contained 25 bighas, but the rent was the same. The auction-purchaser, therefore, claimed possession of the land in proportion to the rent stated in the bond out of the 25 bighas. It was held that it was not correct, as between a debtor and a creditor, to give the creditor a larger portion than what was mortgaged to him just because of the proportion of the rent. (Vol 23) 1936 Cal 780 (781).

Mortgage when to be by assurance.

[b][other than a mortgage by deposit of title deeds] can be effected only by a registered instrument signed by the mortgagor and attested by at least two witnesses.

Where the principal money secured is less than one hundred rupees, a mortgage may be effected either by [c][a registered instrument] signed and attested as aforesaid, or (except in the case of a simple mortgage) by delivery of the property.

[6] By a bond a mortgagor charged a half share of the profits of his mouza with the payment of the mortgage debt and interest. It was further stipulated that the mortgagee should take the management of the mouza, render accounts to the mortgagor and if the mortgagor failed to pay the debt when due the mortgagee should continue in possession till all the debt was paid. It was also provided that the mortgagor will have no power to transfer or alienate the property. It was held that it was a mortgage of the profits of the mouza and not the mouza itself. Had the last condition stood alone, it would have been sufficient to constitute a simple mortgage of the estate itself. ('75) 1 All 611 (612, 613) (DB).

[7] A usufructuary mortgagee was to take profits in lieu of interest which was fixed. Any deficiency was to be paid by the mortgagor and in case of default the mortgagee was to recover it from the property Z. It was held that Z was secured for the payment of the deficiency in interest. ('12) 16 Ind Cas 982 (983) (DB) (All).

[8] A mortgaged property to B. Afterwards a dispute having arisen between them, it was agreed that the property should be put in possession of the mortgagee and he should take the interest from the profits and the excess should be paid to the mortgagor. The arrangement was to come into effect on the same date and was recorded by the Court (Revenue). It was held that this arrangement effected a fresh contract of mortgage. SECTION 59 — SYNOPSIS.

1. Scope.
2. Mortgage when sum secured is one hundred rupees or upwards.
3. Mortgage where sum secured is less than one hundred rupees.
4. Registered instrument.
5. "Signed."
6. Attested by two witnesses.
7. Attestation and estoppel.
8. Mortgage by company.
9. Unregistered bond—Admissibility in evidence.
10. Effect of transaction where registration is invalid.

1. Scope. — [1] A simple mortgage can be made only by a registered instrument, whatever be the amount of the principal money secured. ('11) 12 Ind Cas 25 (26) (Low Bur).

[2] Anomalous mortgages such as a kanom or a melcharth or melkanom rent, must, in order to be valid, conform to requirements of this section. (Vol 8) 1921 Mad 243 (245) : 44 Mad 344 (DB).

[3] A mortgage of moveables is not governed by this section and does not require to be registered or attested. (Vol 11) 1924 Mad 542 (544) (DB)✠(Vol 28) 1941 Mad 305 (805).

[4] The technical rules, such as are referred to in this section, relating to the execution, and attestation of a mortgage have not been applied in the Punjab and a part of the Province of Delhi where the Act is not in force. (Vol 23) 1936 Lah 946 (953) : 17 Lah 686 (DB)✠(Vol 17) 1930 Lah 920 (922) : 11 Lah 564 (DB).

[5] It has been held that where a transaction of mortgage is entered into and completed within the area in which the T. P. Act is in force but the property is situate outside such area, the form and the validity of the conveyance are determined not by the lex loci contractus but by the lex situs of the property involved. (Vol 34) 1947 Lah 324 (335) (FB).

[6] It has been held that the Act is not exhaustive and that an award of arbitrators could create a valid mortgage though unattested and unregistered. (Vol 11) 1924 Sind 23 (24) : 17 Sind L R 178 (DB).

[7] A document of mortgage, though properly executed in accordance with S. 63A of the Dekkhan Agriculturists' Relief Act (XVII of 1879) will be invalid if it is not duly attested as required by this section. ('09) 33 Bom 44 (49) (DB).

2. Mortgage when sum secured is one hundred rupees or upwards. — [1] Where a statute requires a transfer to be made in a particular manner, it can be made only in the way so pointed out by the statute, or by a decree of a competent Court. (Vol 28) 1941 P C 90 (92) : I L R (1942) Mad 82 : I L R (1941) Kar (PC) 127 : 68 Ind App 136 (PC).

[2] An unregistered document of mortgage when the principal amount secured is one hundred or upwards does not affect the property dealt with by it. (Vol 8) 1921 Oudh 203 (203)✠('12) 14 Ind Cas 815 (816) (Upp Bur) ✠ ('04) 28 Mad 54 (56) (DB) ✠ ('08) 31 Mad 330 (332) (DB).

[3] Where an unregistered bond requiring registration is executed in consideration of previous bonds the previous bonds do not get merged in the unregistered bond and the promisee does not lose his right to proceed to enforce such previous bonds. ('12) 14 Bom L R 26 (29) (DB).

[4] An oral mortgage, in a case where the sum secured is one hundred rupees or upwards is invalid and conveys no interest. (Vol 22) 1935 Rang 230 (232) : 13 Rang 274 (FB). (No evidence is admissible to prove such a mortgage.)✠(Vol 4) 1917 Low Bur 128 (129) : 8 Low Bur Rul 334 (FB) ✠ (Vol 27) 1940 Rang 11 (12) : 1939 Rang L R 645 (FB)✠(Vol 19) 1932 All 259 (259) (DB).

[5] Where possession has been delivered to the lender in an unregistered or oral mortgage where the sum secured is one hundred rupees or upwards, the borrower cannot sue for redemption on the basis of the mortgage. His remedy would be to sue for possession on title, and the lender's remedy is to sue for recovery of the amount paid by him. (Vol 27) 1940 Rang 11 (12) : 1939 Rang L R 645 (FB)✠(Vol 4) 1917 Low Bur 128 (129) : 8 Low Bur Rul 334 (FB) ✠ (Vol 22) 1935 Rang 230 (232) : 13 Rang 274 (FB)✠(Vol 34) 1947 Bom 206 (208). (Usufructuary mortgage.)✠(Vol 19) 1932 All 259 (259, 260) (DB)✠(Vol 22) 1935 All 578 (578)✠(11) 34 Mad 64 (67) (DB).

[6] Suit for redemption based on inadmissible mortgage deed is maintainable where defendant admits that he is mortgagee and is willing to restore possession on payment of mortgage amount. (Vol 34) 1947 Lah 335 (338, 339).

[7] Until the mortgage document is registered the mortgagee is not under any obligation to advance the mortgage-money to the mortgagor. Till then there is no debt in the hands of the mortgagee payable to the mortgagor. A creditor of the latter cannot therefore attach such amount in the hands of the mortgagee. (Vol 9) 1922 All 384 (385) (DB).

[8] A mere admission by A that B was in possession of his property as mortgagee under an oral mortgage for a consideration of over Rs. 100 is insufficient to create a mortgage. (Vol 34) 1947 Pat 110 (111).

3. Mortgage where sum secured is less than one hundred rupees. — [1] A simple mortgage, even for less than one hundred rupees, must be made only by a registered instrument. (Vol 1) 1914 Low Bur 207 (207) (DB).

[2] Where delivery of the property is not possible, as where the mortgagee is already in possession as a usufructuary mortgagee, a fresh mortgage to him can only be made by a registered instrument. (Vol 17) 1930 All 136 (140) : 52 All 281 (FB)✠('08) 11 Oudh Cas 248 (250).

[3] Where an instrument recited that a mortgage with possession "has been made from the ensuing year" it was held that the parties intended to effect a mortgage by delivery after a year. (Vol 25) 1938 Mad 85 (86, 87).

[4] The delivery contemplated by the section is delivery contemporaneous with the contract of mortgage and not delivery subsequent to it. (Vol 4) 1917 Oudh 203 (203).

[5] An oral mortgage by delivery of possession where such can be made is as good as a mortgage by a registered instrument. A prior mortgage of the former kind will be entitled to priority over a subsequent mortgage of the latter kind. ('71) 1871 Pun Re No. 47, page 109 (111).

[6] A usufructuary mortgage was executed in 1900 by an unregistered instrument for Rs. 95. It was held that the admissibility of a document was a matter of procedure governed by the present law, and, therefore, it was not admissible under S. 49 of the Registration Act. (Vol 26) 1939 Rang 188 (189) : 1939 Rang L R 39.

[7] In Bengal a permanent tenure can be transferred only by a registered instrument under the provisions of the Bengal Tenancy Act, 1885. Consequently, a mortgage of such tenure can be effected only by a registered instrument even if the consideration is less than one hundred rupees. ('99) 3 Cal W N 499 (501) (DB).

[2] A mortgage deed not validly presented as required by S. 32 of the Registration Act cannot be said to be validly registered and cannot convey any interest. (Vol 18) 1931 P C 52 (56, 57) : 10 Pat 481 : 58 Ind App 58 (PC).

[3] Where non-existing property is included in the document merely for the purpose of effecting registration the deed cannot be said to have been validly registered. (Vol 1) 1914 P C 67 (71) : 41 Ind App 110 : 41 Cal 972 (P C).

[4] Where property not intended to be conveyed or transferred at all is included in the document merely for the purpose of effecting registration, the registration is invalid and conveys no title. (Vol 8) 1921 P C 8 (10) : 48 Cal 509 : 48 Ind App 127 (PC)✠(Vol 23) 1936 P C 91 (93) : 63 Ind App 169 : 59 Mad 539 (PC)✠(Vol 21) 1934 P C 157 (167) : 56 All 468 : 61 Ind App 286 (PC).

[5] The registration would be invalid in the following cases :

(a) The property so incorrectly or insufficiently described that it cannot be identified. ('95) 18 Mad 364 (367) (DB) ✠ (Vol 14) 1927 Mad 586 (589) (DB)✠('12) 15 Ind Cas 335 (336) (All) ✠ (Vol 15) 1928 Cal 385 (386, 387) (DB).

(b) Deed registered in an office within whose jurisdiction the property is not situate. (Vol 1) 1914 P C 67 (71) : 41 Cal 972 : 41 Ind App 110 (PC).

(c) Registration effected notwithstanding the denial of execution by the executant. ('03) 26 All 57 (59, 60) (DB).

[6] Where some property, however small, is included with the intention of transferring it by way of mortgage, for the purpose of getting it registered by a particular Sub-Registrar, the registration is valid. (Vol 7) 1920 Mad 974 (975) (DB)✠(Vol 14) 1927 Mad 863 (865) : 50 Mad 800 (DB).

[7] The registration is not rendered invalid by the mere fact that the property included in the document did not belong to the mortgagor, unless it is shown that both the mortgagor and the mortgagee colluded to insert the item with the knowledge that the mortgagor had no title and with no intention of transferring it. ('10) 13 Oudh Cas 265 (268) (DB) ✠ (Vol 11) 1924 All 473 (473) (DB) ✠ (Vol 6) 1919 All 450 (451, 452) : 41 All 22 (DB)✠(Vol 18) 1931 Mad 335 (339) (DB)✠(Vol 16) 1929 Mad 432 (435, 436, 440) (DB) ✠ (Vol 6) 1919 Pat 572 (573) : 4 Pat L Jour 433 (DB).

[8] Where the mortgagee does not know that the mortgagor had no title to the property included, and the mortgagor represents to the mortgagee that he is the owner, the mortgagor cannot take advantage of his own fraud by pleading that the deed is not registered at the proper place. (Vol 9) 1922 All 231 (232) (DB).

[9] Where a document is registered in Book IV instead of Book I the registration is not invalid. ('10) 34 Bom 202 (207) (DB)✠(Vol 34) 1947 Mad 175 (176).

[10] An omission by the Sub-Registrar to affix his seal to the document does not render the registration invalid. ('02) 6 Cal W N 528 (530) (DB).

[11] When a mortgage is embodied in more documents than one then all such papers must be registered in order to constitute a valid mortgage. ('04) 27 Mad 348 (350) (DB).

5. "Signed." — [1] The mortgagor can sign by an agent. ('03) 6 Oudh Cas 279 (287)✠(Vol 2) 1915 All 466 (467) (DB)✠('09) 12 Oudh Cas 257 (259)✠('03) 16 C P L R 45 (46).

[2] The signature can be made by means of types or by a facsimile, or, where the mortgagor is an illiterate person, by his mark. ('05) 1 Nag L R 14 (15)✠(Vol 3) 1916 Bom 123 (124) : 41 Bom 384 (DB).

[3] A literate person making a mark cannot be said to have signed the document. ('05) 32 Cal 550 (551) : 2 Cri L Jour 405 (DB).

[4] A person who is literate but becomes incapable of writing owing to paralysis and who has been in the habit of affixing a name stamp through his servant, can validly execute a document by such affixture. ('98) 25 Cal 911 (916) (DB).

[5] A mortgage not signed by the mortgagor is not a mortgage at all. (Vol 11) 1924 Lah 249 (249) (DB).

[6] A mortgage intended to be executed by all the sharers in a certain property but actually executed by some of them only is wholly inoperative. (Vol 6) 1919 Lah 78 (79).

[7] Mortgage executed in Oudh in such old time as 1822 bearing expression 'Sahi' instead of signature of executant can be held to be valid. (Vol 26) 1939 Oudh 96 (98, 99) : 14 Luck 393.

[8] The execution of the document implies the intelligent appreciation of the contents of the document and signing it in token of the acceptance of such contents. (Vol 22) 1935 Pat 497 (499).

[9] The signing of the document without delivery thereof to the executee is not execution of the document. Execution means all acts necessary to make the parties to the contract bound thereby. (Vol 20) 1933 Pat 129 (129)

[10] Execution means, where the document has to be attested by witnesses, the signing in the presence of the witnesses. (Vol 10) 1923 Cal 149 (150) (DB).

[11] The mere fact that a document is signed and attested a few days after it is written out, does not render its execution invalid or alter its legal effect. (Vol 6) 1919 Oudh 23 (24) (DB).

6. Attested by two witnesses.— [1] The requirement as to attestation must be enforced with stringency. (Vol 5) 1918 All 211 (215) : 40 All 187 (DB).

[2] There is no particular form for attestation, nor is it necessary that the signatures of the attesting witnesses must appear in any particular place on the document. (Vol 31) 1944 Bom 25 (26) : I L R (1944) Bom 388.

[3] A mortgage not attested by two witnesses is not enforceable as a mortgage. (Vol 3) 1916 P C 169 (171) (PC).

[4] A mortgage attested by one witness only cannot operate as a mortgage. ('12) 16 Cal W N 1075 (1076) (DB) ✠ ('99) 26 Cal 78 (79) (DB) ✠ (Vol 2) 1915 Oudh 65 (71) : 18 Oudh Cas 168 (DB) ✠ (Vol 1) 1914 Low Bur 135 (135) (DB) ✠ (Vol 13) 1926 Rang 145 (145)

[5] A mortgage is not enforceable if it is not attested at all. (Vol 14) 1927 Pat 131 (132) (DB) ✠(Vol 14) 1927 Cal 926 (928) (DB).

[6] A mortgage instrument not attested by two witnesses cannot operate to create a charge. [But see ('07) 17 Mad L Jour 39 (39) (DB).]

[7] A mortgage deed not attested by two witnesses is admissible in evidence to prove a personal covenant to pay the amount. ('09) 32 Mad 410 (413, 414) (FB). (('95) 18 Mad 29, Overruled.) ✠ (Vol 20) 1933 Sind 257 (257) (DB) ✠ (Vol 13) 1926 Rang 145 (145, 146) ✠ (Vol 8) 1921 Low Bur 34 (35, 36) : 11 Low Bur Rul 148 (DB) ✠ (Vol 3) 1916 Oudh 185 (187) (DB) (Simple mortgage-deed.) ✠ (Vol 4) 1917 All 483 (483) (DB) ✠ (Vol 3) 1916 All 103 (104) : 38 All 461 (DB) ✠ ('08) 1 Cal L Jour 510 (513, 518) (DB).

[8] A validly attested document can be proved only in the mode provided by S. 68 of the Evidence Act and in the absence of such proof it cannot be used as evidence of the personal covenant to pay. ('07) 30 Mad 251 (252) (DB) ✠(Vol 9) 1922 Cal 160 (162) (DB) ✠ (Vol 13) 1926 Oudh 266 (267, 268).

[9] In the Punjab a mortgage is not required by law to be attested and therefore need not be proved in the manner provided by S. 68 of the Evidence Act. (Vol 15) 1928 Lah 148 (149) ✠ (Vol 16) 1929 Lah 495 (495) (DB).

[10] The admission by the mortgagor of the execution of the document is not an admission of the validity of the document. Such an admission therefore does not dispense with proof of attestation as required by law. (Vol 14) 1927 Mad 143 (144) ✠ (Vol 23) 1936 All 169 (170) (DB) ✠ (Vol 8) 1921 Cal 276 (276) (DB) ✠ (Vol 6) 1919 Mad 463 (470) (DB).

[11] If it appears on the face of the document or in the evidence that the document is not validly attested by two witnesses as required by law, no decree can be given on the basis of such mortgage. (Vol 12) 1925 P C 203 (204) : 5 Pat 58 : 52 Ind App 362 (P C). (Reversing (Vol 9) 1922 Pat 70 : 6 Pat L Jour 465.)

[12] Where there is no proof one way or the other about attestation and there is nothing to show on the face of the document or in the evidence that it has not been properly attested admissions of execution would be sufficient proof of the execution and the validity of the document. (Vol 3) 1916 Nag 5 (9) : 13 Nag L R 121 ✠ (Vol 10) 1923 Bom 90 (91, 92) : 47 Bom 137 (D B).

[13] Where a mortgage document is invalid for want of due attestation, the mortgagee can, under section 65 of the Contract Act, recover from the mortgagor any money which he may have advanced to him under the mortgage. (Vol 5) 1918 Oudh 22 (23, 24) : 20 Oudh Cas 506 (DB).

7. Attestation and estoppel.— [1] The mere attestation of a document by a relative of the executant of a document does not necessarily import concurrence. ('69) 13 Moo Ind App 209 (229) (P C) ✠(Vol 2) 1915 All 255 (256) : 37 All 350 (DB).

[2] Attestation by itself would neither create estoppel nor imply consent ; it does not involve the attestor in any knowledge of the contents of the deed or affect him with notice of its provisions. (Vol 3) 1916 P C 110 (112) : 44 Cal 186 : 43 Ind App 249 (P C) ✠ (Vol 15) 1928 P C 20 (23) (P C) ✠ (Vol 9) 1922 P C 20 (22) : 49 Cal 334 : 49 Ind App 16 : 18 Nag L R 1 (PC).

8. Mortgage by company. — [1] Mortgage by a company— Failure to register it under S. 109 of the Companies Act does not render the mortgage wholly invalid : it is valid as an admission of debt but, as against a creditor or liquidator, it cannot create a valid charge. Section 59-A —Note 1.

[1] It has been held that the word "mortgagor" would not include a mortgagee from him, but would include persons succeeding by inheritance or by will or by sale or by auction sale to the right of the equity of redemption held by the mortgagor. (Vol 26) 1939 All 190 (192) : I L R (1939) All 185 (DB).

[2] The word 'mortgagor' includes the subsequent purchaser of the mortgaged property. (Vol 33) 1946 Nag 226 (227): I L R (1946) Nag 297 ✠ (Vol 26) 1939 Nag 256 (258).

[3] It has been held that the word "mortgagee" would not include a mortgagee from the mortgagee. (Vol 24) 1937 Rang 56 (58) (DB).

[4] A person who succeeds to the right of a mortgagor by survivorship will be a "mortgagor" within the meaning of this section. (Vol 21) 1934 Oudh 246 (249): 9 Luck 657 (DB).

[5] Where the equity of redemption vests in several persons either by devolution or transfer, such persons will be co-mortgagors. Though the word "mortgagor" would include such legal representatives under the terms of this section, it would not mean that the relationship between them inter se would not be that of co-mortgagors. (Vol 23) 1936 Oudh 47 (49) (DB).

[6] It has been held that S. 91 is a provision to the contrary in that it provides that "besides the mortgagor, the following persons are entitled to redeem" and at the same time includes among those persons such persons as derive title from the mortgagor. 1. Scope.—[1] In India the distinction between legal and equitable estates is not recognised—Despite the mortgage the ownership of the estate remains with the mortgagor and the expression 'equity of redemption' is misleading in so far as it implies that the interest of the mortgagor is something less than the interest of an owner. ('01) 14 C. P. L. R. 177 (179).

[2] In spite of the mortgage, the mortgagor remains the owner of the property, the mortgagee, whatever may be the nature of the mortgage, being only a transferee of an interest in such property. (Vol. 15) 1928 All 726 (729): 50 All 986 (FB).

[3] The right of redemption is a right which a mortgagor may seek to enforce, and not a liability which he may be compelled to discharge. ('11) 21 Mad L Jour 213 (226) (FB) ✠ (Vol 26) 1939 Bom 303 (304, 305) ✠ (Vol 22) 1935 Cal 139 (141): 62 Cal 75 (DB).

[4] Section 60 contemplates a case in which the mortgage is still subsisting and the mortgagor goes to the Court to obtain return of his property on repayment of what is still due. Section 62 on the other hand says that in the case of a usufructuary mortgage the mortgagor has a right to recover possession when principal money is paid off. That is not a case of redemption at all. (Vol 33) 1946 All 400 (402).

2. Mortgage of moveables.—[1] The principle of S. 60 applies to moveables also. A mortgage of moveables can be redeemed even after the expiry of the due date fixed for payment. (Vol 6) 1919 Mad 946 (947) (DB).

3. Law where Act not in force.—[1] Though the Act and this section have no application to the North-West Frontier Province and the Punjab, the principles of S. 60 apply to cases arising in these provinces. 4. Right of redemption, what is.—[1] A right to redeem means the right to buy back or set free by payment. (Vol. 5) 1918 Pat 322 (323): 3 Pat L Jour 490 (DB) ✠ ('11) 33 All 97 (98) (DB). (A right to redeem is a right to pay or tender the mortgage-money and when the mortgagee is in possession to obtain from him delivery of possession.)

[4] Mortgagee entitled to remain in possession till mortgage-debt wholly discharged from rents and profits of property — Mortgagor's right to get back property after debt has been cleared is a right of redemption. ('93) 6 C P L R 28 (32, 33) ✠ (Vol 23) 1936 Cal 200 (201).

[5] A, B and C co-mortgagors—Mortgagee in possession of property—Mortgage to be discharged not from rents and profits of property alone— Mortgagors also entitled to pay mortgage-money or whatever remained due out of it and claim back property—A suing for accounts and redemption of mortgage under Dekkhan Agriculturists' Relief Act—A, being agriculturist found entitled to benefit of its provisions—Amount found due on taking accounts under Act found to have been completely paid out of usufruct of property — Unconditional decree passed in A's favour for recovery of property from mortgagee—A taking possession under decree — A has "redeemed" mortgage for purpose of S. 92, T. P. Act and is entitled to subrogation under that section. (Vol 30) 1943 Bom 191 (192) (DB).

5. Right of redemption, when arises.—[1] Where a mortgage-deed provides for a period of payment of the mortgage-money, the mortgagor's right to redeem will arise only after the expiry of the period and not before, inasmuch as before the expiry of such period the mortgage-money would not be "due" in the sense that the mortgagee could sue to recover it. (Vol 19) 1932 All 153 (157) (DB).

[2] A suit for redemption of a mortgage before the amount has become due on the mortgage is not maintainable even if the mortgagor has tendered the amount due with interest up to the expiry of the specified. period. (Vol 27) 1940 Cal 437 (438) (DB).

[See also (Vol 2) 1915 Cal 699 (700) : 42 Cal 1146 (DB) .]

[3] A suit to redeem a mortgage before the amount has become due on the mortgage is not maintainable even if the mortgagee (where the mortgage is one with possession), has done something which he was not authorised to do, but which did not destroy or permanently injure the property in any way. (Vol 23) 1936 Oudh 130 (131) (DB).

[4] The fact that the time fixed for redemption is very long will not enable the right of redemption to be exercised before the expiry of such time, unless the provision for such a long time amounts to a clog on redemption or is for some other reason not binding on the mortgagor. (Vol 12) 1925 All 42 (43). [7] The contract to the contrary must be clearly and unequivocally expressed and must be strictly construed. (Vol 1) 1914 Oudh 23 (24) : 16 Oudh Cas 267✠(Vol 13) 1926 Oudh 59 (61)✠(Vol 7) 1920 Lah 387 (388): 1 Lah 105 (DB).

[8] The onus of establishing a contract to the contrary is on the mortgagee. (Vol 7) 1920 Lah 387 (388): 1 Lah 105 (DB)✠(Vol 4) 1917 Oudh 388 (389).

[9] A covenant in the later of two mortgagors ran: "When the whole of the mortgage-money due under this deed together with the amount due under the previous deed shall be paid the mortgage shall be redeemable". It was held, that it was a contract to the contrary within the meaning of this section. (Vol 9) 1922 All 403 (403).

[10] A executed a usufructuary mortgage in favour of B. Later, A borrowed a further sum from B and executed a document which provided : "I shall first pay this debt including principal and interest and thereafter I can redeem the mortgaged village having paid up the mortgage-money. Without the payment of this debt, I cannot redeem the mortgaged village". It was held that the deed was a deed of further charge and that the contract to the contrary was enforceable. (Vol 15) 1928 Oudh 273 (275, 276) : 3 Luck 459 (DB)✠ (Vol 17) 1930 P C 176 (177) : 57 Ind App 173 : 5 Luck 365 (PC).

[11] A executed in favour of B different mortgage deeds relating to different plots of land at the same time. Each deed contained a clause, which ran: "When I, the mortgagor, will pay up the entire money secured on the other mortgage deeds which have been executed to-day, I would get my land redeemed from the mortgagee." It was held that the agreement did not amount to consolidation of the transactions into one transaction. The clause merely contained a collateral agreement as to the date when the right of redemption in each case was to be exercised. (Vol 27 1940 Lah 98 (99, 100) DB)

[12] A executed a usufructuary mortgage in favour of B and later on, a second mortgage in his favour to secure further advances. It was agreed at the time of the second mortgage that if the interest was not paid annually, the mortgagee could, if he so desired, sue to recover the money due on the second mortgage. It was also agreed that the first mortgage should not be redeemed without the redemption of the second mortgage also being effected. It was held that the agreement did not amount to a contract to the contrary. (Vol 10) 1923 All 454 (454, 455).

[13] Where a mortgagee has been in possession by virtue of a mortgage created before 1901 in Punjab and second mortgage or charge is created after 1901 on the same property with the stipulation that possession will remain with the mortgagee till the second mortgage is redeemed or the charge is paid, the Collector can declare that the mortgage created before 1901 has been extinguished but cannot order that possession be handed over to the mortgagor without payment of the additional charge or mortgage-debt. (Vol 34) 1947 Lah 278 (280) (FB).

4. Section, if retrospective.—[1] The amendment of the section has no retrospective effect. (Vol 24) 1937 Pat 156 (158) : 15 Pat 742 (DB) ✠ (Vol 34) 1947 Mad 18 (32) (DB).

5. Waiver of right to consolidate. — [1] A made four mortgages in favour of B and subsequently made another mortgage in favour of C the consideration being that C should discharge B's mortgages. C discharged the first three mortgages in favour of B, but not the fourth. Subsequently B sued on his fourth mortgage impleading C as a subsequent mortgagee. The latter set up prior mortgage rights in respect of the mortgages discharged by him. It was held that B's conduct in receiving payment in respect of the three prior mortgages operated as a waiver of his right to consolidate his mortgages and that consequently C was entitled to priority in respect of the mortgages so paid off. (Vol 24) 1937 Cal 194 (198) (DB).

[2] A suit for redemption of a usufructuary mortgage necessarily involves a prayer for possession and is in substance a suit for possession. ('03) 25 All 115 (120) : 30 Ind App 54 (PC) ✠ (Vol 1) 1914 Cal 894 (895) (DB) ✠ (Vol 11) 1924 Mad 292 (294) : 47 Mad 203 (DB) ✠ (Vol 22) 1935 All 578 (578).

[3] In a case falling within clause (a) of the section, suit of the mortgagor for possession is not one for redemption. ('97) 11 C P L R 103 (105) ✠ (Vol 17) 1930 Mad 160 (166) (DB) ✠ (Vol 33) 1946 All 400 (402) (DB).

2. Suit for possession by co-mortgagor.— [1] Where the mortgage-debt is fully satisfied out of the rents and profits of the property, one of the several co-mortgagors has no right to take possession of the shares of his co-mortgagors ; he can recover possession only of his own individual share. ('85) 7 All 376 (378) (DB) ✠ ('94) 16 All 254 (255) (DB) ✠ ('13) 16 Oudh Cas 163 (172).

[2] Even in a case where the mortgage has been paid out of the usufruct of the property, it may be held in the particular circumstances of the case, that a co-mortgagor has redeemed the property. (Vol 30) 1943 Bom 191 (193) (DB).

3. "Recover possession."—[1] Where a usufructuary mortgage is followed or preceded by a mortgage, under which the mortgagee is not entitled to hold possession of the property, the satisfaction of the usufructuary mortgage will entitle the mortgagor to get back the possession of the property. (Vol 17) 1930 All 136 (139,157): 52 All 281 (FB).

4. Clause (a).— [1] Form of mortgage described in cl. (a) resembles a vivum vadium in which no time is fixed for redemption and the mortgagee is entitled to remain in possession till the entire mortgage-debt is wiped off from the rents and profits of the property. ('93) 16 Mad 486 (489, 490) (DB) ✠ (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 825 (826) ✠ ('88) 1 Cal L R 256 (258).

[2] The words "when the money is paid" mean when the money is paid from the rents and profits and do not include a payment by the mortgagor. ('93) 16 Mad 486 (489, 490) (DB) ✠ (Vol 17) 1930 Mad 160 (162, (DB) ✠ ('93) 6 C P L R 43 (48).

[3] A suit to recover possession of the property by the mortgagor before the debt is satisfied out of the rents and profits is premature and must be dismissed. ('93) 16 Mad 486 (488) (DB) ✠ ('93) 6 C P L R 43 (48) ✠ (Vol 6) 1919 Mad 819 (820) (DB).

[4] Where it is the intention of the parties as expressed in the deed that the mortgagee is to take the rents and profits for a certain period, on the expiry of which the mortgage-money is to be deemed to be satisfied, the mortgagor cannot, before the expiry of the period, recover possession of the mortgaged property. ('80) 2 Mad 314 (316) (DB) ✠ (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 825 (827).

[5] Where the term fixed does not form the essence of the contract, the mortgagor is entitled to recover possession of the property as soon as the mortgage-debt is satisfied from the rents and profits, even before the expiry of the term. (Vol 5) 1918 Oudh 432 (434) (DB) ✠ (Vol 1) 1914 Oudh 160 (162): 17 Oudh Cas 218.

[6] Even in cases where the term fixed forms the essence of the contract, the mortgagor may be allowed to recover possession of the mortgaged property before the end of the term on equitable ground. (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 825 (827) ✠ (Vol 4) 1917 Cal 853 (854) (DB) ✠ ('12) 34 All 659 (662) (DB) ✠ (Vol 5) 1918 Oudh 432 (434) (DB).

[7] Where a mortgagor sues the mortgagee in possession claiming to redeem the property before the period fixed for redemption or before the amount paid was discharged out of the income of the property, alleging that the amount advanced was much less than the amount of consideration specified in the mortgage, the mortgagor is not entitled to redeem earlier than the period fixed. (Vol 32, 1945 Mad 340 (342).

[8] A executed in favour of B, what purported to be a mortgage with possession for 14 years The deed provided that on the expiration of the term, the mortgagor shall come into possession without settlement of account. When the term expired, B refused to give up possession of the property on the ground that owing to the misrepresentation of the mortgagor he had not received the entirety of the premises comprised in the deed. B claimed the right to hold the property until he had recouped himself. It was held that A was entitled to rely on his proprietary right and in the absence of any stipulation express or implied in the mortgage-deed depriving him of the right to recover possession, he was entitled to succeed. ('03) 25 All 115 (120) : 30 Ind App 54 (PC).

5. Clause (b).— [1] Where the rents and profits are to be taken in lieu of the interest, the mortgagee takes his chance of the rents and profits being greater or less than the interest which might have been reserved by the mortgage-bond and the mortgagor is entitled to recover possession of the mortgaged property on payment of the principal money only. ('02) 24 All 521 (531) : 29 Ind App 148 (PC).

[2] Where under the terms of the mortgage, the mortgagee was to receive the rents and profits in lieu of interest and pay a certain sum out of the rents and profits as malikana to the mortgagor which sum was never paid, the mortgagor was held entitled to redeem on paying the principal after deducting the unpaid malikana. (Vol 11) 1924 All 591 (592) : 46 All 633 (DB) ✠ (Vol 14) 1927 Pat 235 (285) (DB).

[3] The mortgagor cannot get credit for any rent payable on account of the mortgaged properties to the landlord which is not actually paid by him. (Vol 21) 1934 Cal 149 (150) (DB).

[4] A executed a usufructuary mortgage in favour of B, the rents and profits to be appropriated in lieu of interest. A failed to deliver possession of a portion of the mortgaged property, but B took no steps to call for additional security. It was held that B had acquiesced in his dispossession and was, therefore, not entitled to claim interest on the mortgage-money on account of

63. Where mortgaged property in possession of the mortgagee has, during the continuance of the mortgage, received any accession, the mortgagor, upon redemption, shall, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, be entitled as against the mortgagee to such accession.

Accession to mortgaged property.

Where such accession has been acquired at the expense of the mortgagee, and is capable of separate possession or enjoyment without detriment to the principal property, the mortgagor desiring to take the accession must pay to the mortgagee the expense of acquiring it. If such separate possession or enjoyment is not possible, the accession must be delivered with the property; the mortgagor being liable, in the case of an acquisition necessary to preserve the property from destruction, forfeiture or sale, or made with his assent, to pay the proper cost thereof, as an addition to the principal money, [a][with interest at the same rate as is payable on the principal, or, where no such rate is fixed, at the rate of nine per cent. per annum].

Accession acquired in virtue of transferred ownership.

In the case last mentioned the profits, if any, arising from the accession shall be credited to the mortgagor.

Where the mortgage is usufructuary and the accession has been acquired at the expense of the mortgagee, the profits, if any, arising from the accession shall, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, be set off against interest, if any, payable on the money so expended.

dispossession. (1900) 24 All 521 (531) : 29 Ind App 148 (PC) ✠ (Vol 21) 1934 Cal 149 (150) (DB) ✠ ('04) 27 All 313 (317) (DB).

[5] A personal covenant by the mortgagor to pay year by year, the deficiency in the profits is not sufficient to enable the mortgagee to add the deficiency to the principal. (Vol 4) 1917 All 165 (165) (DB).

6. Lease to mortgagor.—[1] Where the mortgagee leases back the property to the mortgagor, if the mortgage and the lease form part of one transaction, namely the transaction of mortgage, the lease providing only the mode in which the interest upon the mortgage is to be paid, the mortgagor cannot redeem the mortgaged property without paying the arrears of rent. ('98) 20 All 401 (407) (DB) ✠ ('05) 32 Cal 576 (580) (DB) ✠ (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 942 (944) (DB).

[2] Where the two transactions of lease and mortgage are independent transactions, the mortgagor cannot be compelled, as a condition precedent to the redemption of the mortgage, to pay off the arrears of rent due under the lease. ('04) 27 All 313 (316) (DB) ✠ (Vol 24) 1937 Lah 790 (791).

7. "When the term .....has expired."— [1] There is nothing to prevent a term being fixed in a usufructuary mortgage, for the mortgagee's enjoyment during which the mortgage cannot be redeemed. (Vol 26) 1939 Lah 235 (236) (DB) ✠ (Vol 27) 1940 Cal 437 (438)(DB)✠(Vol 15)1928 Pat 637(638): 8 Pat 243 (DB).

[2] A mortgagee who has failed to get possession for a portion of the period fixed by reason of the fault of the mortgagor is not thereby entitled to get the period extended or added to. (Vol 14) 1927 Mad 173 (174) (DB).

[3] This section cannot prevail against the provisions of S. 26G of the Bengal Tenancy Act (VIII of 1885 as amended by Bengal Act VI of 1938). Even if a term is fixed until the expiry of which the mortgagor is not entitled to redeem, the mortgagor can sue to recover possession of the property after 15 years. (Vol 29) 1942 Cal 55 (57) (DB).

[4] Where, under the terms of the usufructuary mortgage, the mortgagee is to take the profits in lieu of interest and the mortgagor is to redeem on payment of the principal at the end of the stipulated period the mortgagor cannot recover possession at the end of the period until he pays or tenders or deposits into the Court the principal. ('09) 31 All 318 (322) (DB).

[5] Where the usufructuary mortgagee is to take profits in lieu of interest and the mortgagor is liable under the terms of the mortgage to pay interest in default of payment of principal at the end of the stipulated period and there is nothing in the deed to show that such interest is not to be a charge on the property, then the mortgagor cannot recover possession until he pays or tenders or deposits into Court the principal together with such interest. (Vol 30) 1943 Mad 109 (110).

8. Successive suits for possession.— [1] A dismissal of a suit for possession under this section on the ground that it is premature, does not bar a subsequent suit claiming the same relief. ('99) 21 All 251 (259) (D B).

9. This section and section 61.— [1] Where a usufructuary mortgage is followed or preceded by a simple mortgage or a deed of further charge and there is no contract to the contrary within the meaning of S. 61, the mortgagor has a right, on the mortgage-debt being satisfied, to recover possession of the mortgaged property under this section without at the same time redeeming the other mortgages. (Vol 1) 1914 Oudh 23 (24) : 16 Oudh Cas 267.

[2] Where the mortgage deed contains a contract to consolidate the charges, the mortgagor cannot recover back the possession of the property without redeeming all the charges. (Vol 17) 1930 P C 176 (177) : 5 Luck 365 : 57 Ind App 173 (P C).

1. Scope.
2. Accretions to land.
3. Buildings, etc., erected on mortgaged land.
4. Tree fallen on land.
5. Acquisitions by the mortgagee.
6. "During the continuance of the mortgage."
7. "Be entitled as against the mortgagee to such accession."
8. Suit to recover accession to mortgaged property—Nature of.
9. Costs of acquisition.
10. Consent of mortgagor.

1. Scope.—[1] The expression "accession" is not confined to physical acquisitions or additions to the mortgaged property but will include also the acquisition of an interest in property. ('31) 1931 Mad W N 595 (597, 598) ✠ ('09) 7 Mad L Tim 148 (150) (D B) ✠

2. Accretions to land. — [1] Where there is an acquisition of land from the sea or a river by gradual, slow and imperceptible means, there, from the supposed necessity of the case, and the difficulty of having to determine year by year, to whom an inch, or a foot, or a yard belongs, the accretion by alluvion is held to belong to the owner of the adjoining land. Such an accretion will be an "accession" to the adjoining land within the meaning of this section, and if the accession is made while the adjoining land is in the possession of the mortgagee the mortgagor will, on redemption, be entitled to such accession also. ('70) 13 Moo Ind App 467 (473) (P C) ✠ ('06) 28 All 256 (260) (D B) ✠ ('99) 22 Mad 464 (469) : 26 Ind App 107 (P C) ✠ (Vol 1) 1914 Mad 290 (293) (D B).

3. Buildings, etc., erected on mortgaged land. — [1] Unless and until a stranger erecting building on the land of another gives up his right to remove the building it cannot be said that it is an accession to the property. If he gives up such right the building will become an accession to the property. (Vol 18) 1931 All 277 (285) : 53 All 334 (F B).

[2] Where, under a contract with the mortgagor, A built a pucca house on the mortgaged property, one of the stipulations in the contract being that A should live in it for a certain rent as long as the house stood on the land, it was held that the house must be regarded as an accession to the mortgaged property. (Vol 22) 1935 Rang 420 (422) (DB).

[3] Where the mortgaged property is a kachcha house and the mortgagee in possession substitutes in its place an entirely new building it is not an accession but the case is one of improvement governed by S 63-A. (Vol 31) 1944 All 204 (205): I L R (1944) All 302 (DB).

[4] In the case of machinery brought into a mortgaged building, it may be necessary in some cases to consider, how far the definition of the expression "attached to the earth" in S. 3 of the Act will bear upon the decision of the question. (Vol 26) 1939 Mad 684 (685) (D B).

[5] Where the machinery installed in a building is in the nature of a "fixture" thereto it will be an "accession" to the building. (Vol 20) 1933 Rang 195 (197) : 11 Rang 322 (D B) ✠ (Vol 12) 1925 Rang 250 (251, 252) (D B) ✠ (Vol 22) 1935 Lah 350 (354) : 16 Lah 881 (DB).

4. Tree fallen on land.—[1] Where by natural causes, a tree falls on the mortgaged land in the possession of a mortgagee under a mortgage under which he is entitled to take the produce of the property for interest, the tree is not "accession" to the property. The mortgagee is entitled to it as part of the produce of the property. (Vol 19) 1932 All 500 (502) (D B).

5. Acquisitions by the mortgagee.—[1] Section 63 deals expressly with accessions which have been acquired at the expense of the mortgagee and would appear to be clearly applicable to cases in which a subordinate tenure has admittedly been acquired by the mortgagee as an accession to the mortgaged property. S. 63 cannot be read as entitling the mortgagor to recover acquisitions made by the mortgagee for his own benefit in circumstances which do not bring him within S. 90, Trusts Act. (Vol 19) 1932 P C 199 (201) : 59 Ind App 366 (P C).

[2] It has been held that an extension into adjoining Government waste land made by the mortgagee is not an accession to the mortgaged property. (Vol 11) 1924 Rang 131 (131, 132) ✠ (Vol 23) 1936 Rang 127 (127, 128)

6. "During the continuance of the mortgage."—[1] The section applies only to accessions received during the continuance of the mortgage. (Vol 18) 1931 All 277 (283) ; 53 All 334 (F B)✠(Vol 8) 1921 Mad 627 (628, 629) (D B).

[2] Where a usufructuary mortgagee of a share of a village took during the currency of his mortgage, a mortgage by way of conditional sale of an occupancy holding of a tenant of the village, but subsequent to the expiry of his own mortgage, foreclosed the mortgage by conditional sale it was held that the right acquired by foreclosure of such mortgage must be held to be an accession to which the mortgagor would be entitled on redemption. ('09) 10 Cal L Jour 83 (87) (DB) ✠ ('01) 14 C P L R 169 (170).

7. "Be entitled as against the mortgagee to such accession"—[1] A mortgagor is not obliged to take an accession to the mortgaged property and pay for it. If he wishes to take it he must pay the mortgagee the costs of the acquisition if any under the second paragraph of the section. (Vol 4) 1917 Lah 430 (431) ✠ (Vol 13) 1926 Pat 572 (574) (DB).

[2] Where the mortgagor never treated certain acquisitions as accessions or made any claim thereto and allowed the mortgagee to remain in possession of the lands as occupancy raiyat, it was held that he could not subsequently claim the same as accessions. (Vol 13) 1926 Pat 572 (574) (D B).

8. Suit to recover accession to mortgaged property — Nature of.—[1] It has been held that a suit after redemption, to take over accessions to the mortgaged property is not one for redemption within the meaning of Art. 148 of the Limitation Act, but is one that will be governed by Art. 144 of that Act. (Vol 4) 1917 Lah 430 (431, 432).

9. Costs of acquisition.—[1] A building or a grove which is an accession to the land is not capable of separate possession and enjoyment and if the construction or the planting of the grove is not made with the mortgagor's assent and is not necessary for the preservation of the principal property, the mortgagor is not bound to pay any costs to the mortgagee on redemption. (Vol 18) 1931 All 277 (283, 284, 287) : 53 All 334 (F B). ((Vol 15) 1928 All 381, Not approved.) ✠ ('26) 92 Ind Cas 262 (262, 263) (Oudh). (Grove.)✠ (Vol 17) 1930 Rang 63 (64) : 8 Rang 233 (DB). [2] A well newly constructed on the mortgaged land by the mortgagee unless it is constructed with the mortgagor's consent should be delivered over to the mortgagor on redemption and he is not bound to pay the cost thereof. (Vol 1) 1914 Nag 68 (70) : 10 Nag L R 166.

[3] Where an old well on mortgaged land which had been rendered useless from natural causes, was repaired by the mortgagee with the mortgagor's consent, it was held that the mortgagee can claim the amount spent therefore. ('95) 17 All 282 (284).

10. Consent of mortgagor. — [1] The consent of the mortgagor spoken of in the second paragraph of the section, may be oral or even tacit. (Vol 9) 1922 Nag 262 (263).

(2) Where any such improvement was effected at the cost of the mortgagee and was necessary to preserve the property from destruction or deterioration or was necessary to prevent the security from becoming insufficient, or was made in compliance with the lawful order of any public servant or public authority, the mortgagor shall, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, be liable to pay the proper cost thereof as an addition to the principal money with interest at the same rate as is payable on the principal, or, where no such rate is fixed, at the rate of nine per cent per annum, and the profits, if any, accruing by reason of the improvement shall be credited to the mortgagor.]

[2] A purchaser from the mortgagor who pays off a prior mortgagee is entitled to the costs of improvements effected by him, as a prior charge as against the subsequent mortgagee. (Vol 13) 1926 Lah 430 (431) : 7 Lah 212 (DB).

[3] If a mortgagor has agreed to become liable for the costs of any improvement that the mortgagee might make, he would be so liable even though the improvements are not of the nature referred to in subs. (2). (Vol 31) 1944 All 204 (206) : I L R (1944) All 302 (DB).

[4] Where under the mortgage agreement the mortgagor made himself liable for reasonable improvements by the mortgagee, it was held that this condition did not justify the demolition and rebuilding of a house at a cost equal to several times the mortgage-debt. (Vol 7) 1920 Lah 28 (29) (D B).

[5] Where under the terms of the mortgage, the mortgagor expressly agrees to pay at the time of redemption the costs of construction of any new building which the mortgagee may erect upon the mortgaged property after demolition of the old building the mortgagee would be entitled to such costs at the time of redemption even though the costs incurred are several times the mortgage-debt (Vol 31) 1944 All 204 (206) : I L R (1944) All 302 (DB).

[6] The mortgagor agreed in the mortgage-deed that if the mortgagee constructed wells on the land he would recoup the mortgagee the costs thereof, but the mortgagee after having constructed wells in a portion of the property purchased such portion himself : Held that the contract did not contemplate the mortgagee himself purchasing the land and that it would be inequitable to allow the mortgagee to have the benefit of the wells and also to claim the costs thereof from the mortgagor. ('06) 28 All 593 (596) (DB).

[7] If there is a contract under which the mortgagor will not be entitled to the improvements, it may be reasonably inferred that if the improvements are such that they cannot be severed from the land and taken away by the mortgagee the mortgagor must be held liable to pay the costs of such improvements. (Vol 34) 1947 Mad 197 (202) (DB).

[8] A usufructuary mortgage in Malabar carries with it the mortgagee's right to effect and claim the costs of improvements. The fact that a part of the mortgage property was in Malabar and the mortgage-deed was in Malayalam language do not necessarily lead to the inference that there was an implied "contract to the contrary." (Vol 34) 1947 Mad 197 (202) (D B).

[9] Where a mortgagee seeks to make the mortgagor liable for a large amount as cost of improvements it is the duty of the mortgagee to establish by indubitable evidence the fact of the execution of such improvements and the actual expenses incurred by him for effecting them. (Vol 34) 1947 Mad 197 (202) (DB).

[10] The mortgagee is entitled to interest on the costs of the improvement in cases where such costs are allowable to him under sub-s. (2). (Vol 27) 1940 Lah 199 (200).

[11] It has been held that though a decree for redemption fixes the value of improvements made by the mortgagee, a re-valuation of such improvements can be made at the time of execution of the decree if circumstances show that the value has increased or decreased subsequent to the decree. ('97) 20 Mad 124 (128) (D B) ✠ ('87) 10 Mad 367 (368) (DB).

[1] This section applies even where the mortgagee was forced to renew the lease and there was no collusion between him and the landlord. ('02) 6 Cal W N 372 (374 375) (DB).

[2] An occupancy tenant made a usufructuary mortgage of his holding, there being an arrangement between himself and the mortgagees as to the payment of rent. The rent fell into arrears and the landlord determined the tenancy, ejected the tenants and granted a new lease to the mortgagees : Held that the mortgagor's attempt to treat the new lease as one for his benefit was really asking in effect for the transfer of the lease to himself, that this was prohibited by S. 9 of the Agra Rent Act, 1881, and that the mortgagor could not get the benefit of the lease. ('05) 2 All L Jour 583 (584, 585) (DB).

[3] Where a new lease was obtained bona fide by the mortgagee after giving all parties interested notice and an opportunity of renewal it was held that such new lease is not for the benefit of the mortgagor. ('21) 62 Ind Cas 692 (694, 695) (DB) (Cal).

[4] The renewal by the mortgagee of the patta for the mortgaged land or the making of a new settlement with the Government does not take away the right of the mortgagor to redeem the land so settled. ('05) 32 Cal 296 (312) : 32 Ind App 23 (PC).

[5] Inam land resumed — Held that the mortgagor was entitled to the land on redemption. ('12) 36 Bom 539 (542) (DB) ✠ (1900) 24 Bom 482 (483) (DB).

Implied contracts by mortgagor.

65. In the absence of a contract to the contrary, the mortgagor shall be deemed to contract with the mortgagee —

(a) that the interest which the mortgagor professes to transfer to the mortgagee subsists, and that the mortgagor has power to transfer the same;

(b) that the mortgagor will defend, or if the mortgagee be in possession of the mortgaged property, enable him to defend, the mortgagor's title thereto;

(c) that the mortgagor will, so long as the mortgagee is not in possession of the mortgaged property, pay all public charges accruing due in respect of the property;

(d) and, where the mortgaged property is a lease [a][* *], that the rent payable under the lease, the conditions contained therein, and the contracts binding on the lessee have been paid, performed and observed down to the commencement of the mortgage; and that the mortgagor will, so long as the security exists and the mortgagee is not in possession of the mortgaged property, pay the rent reserved by the lease, or, if the lease be renewed, the renewed lease, perform the conditions contained therein and observe the contracts binding on the lessee, and indemnify the mortgagee against all claims sustained by reason of the non payment of the said rent or the non-performance or non-observance of the said conditions and contracts;

(e) and, where the mortgage is a second or subsequent incumbrance on the property, that the mortgagor will pay the interest from time to time accruing due on each prior incumbrance as and when it becomes due, and will at the proper time discharge the principal money due on such prior incumbrance.

The benefit of the contracts mentioned in this section shall be annexed to and shall go with the interest of the mortgagee as such, and may be enforced by every person in whom that interest is for the whole or any part thereof from time to time vested.

3. "In the absence of a contract to the contrary."
4. Remedies of mortgagee on breach of the implied contracts under this section.
5. Benefit of contract goes with mortgagee's interest.

[2] Where a mortgage was executed in 1880 and the mortgagor lost his title to a portion of the property subsequently, it was held that the mortgagee could not claim any damages by reason of the diminution of his security. ('13) 35 All 48 (57) : 40 Ind App 31 (PC).

2. Clause (a). — [1] A breach of the covenant under this clause does not render the mortgage itself void. ('08) 12 Cal W N 94 (96) (DB).

[1a] It has been held that the warranty of title contained in this clause, includes a warranty of quiet enjoyment. (Vol 31) 1944 All 195 (195) : I L R (1944) All 277 (DB).

[2] The mortgagor cannot derogate from his own grant and he and his representatives will not be allowed to deny his title as against the mortgagee. (Vol 9) 1922 P C 382 (383) (PC).

[3] Where the mortgage is forbidden by law the mortgagor is not estopped from denying his title as against the mortgagee. [5] The failure to disclose at the time of the mortgage the existence of a prior incumbrance is a breach of an obligation imposed by cl. (a). ('10) 7 Ind Cas 251 (252) (DB) (Cal).

[6] The mortgagee cannot, if he was aware of the defect of title at the time of the mortgage, get any relief on the implied contract under cl. (a). (Vol 18) 1931 Lah 694 (695, 696).

3. "In the absence of a contract to the contrary."—[1] The mortgagee knew all the circumstances when he took his mortgage. It was held on the facts of the case that there was an implied understanding between the parties that there should be no such contract as is referred to in clause (a) of this section. ('08) 4 Mad L Tim 437 (438) (D B).

4. Remedies of mortgagee on breach of the implied contracts under this section.— [1] In respect of every one of the contracts referred to in the various clauses of the section, the mortgagee has the general remedy, by way of damages under S. 73 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872. (Vol 23) 1936 Mad 433 (433) ✠ (Vol 31) 1944 All 195 (196) : I L R (1944) All 277 (D B) ✠ (Vol 12) 1925 Rang 130 (131, 132).

Contract falling under clause (a).

[2] A breach of the implied contract referred to in this clause will be "default on the part of the mortgagor" by which the security is rendered insufficient within the meaning of S. 68, clause (b) and will entitle the mortgagee to sue for the mortgage-money. ('10) 7 Ind Cas 251 (252) (D B) (Cal) ✠ (Vol 18) 1931 Oudh 5 (5) : 6 Luck 374.

[a][65A. (1) Subject to the provisions of sub-section (2), a mortgagor, while lawfully in possession of the mortgaged property, shall have power to make leases thereof which shall be binding on the mortgagee.

Mortgagor's power to lease.

(2) (a) Every such lease shall be such as would be made in the ordinary course of management of the property concerned, and in accordance with any local law, custom or usage.

(b) Every such lease shall reserve the best rent that can reasonably be obtained and no premium shall be paid or promised and no rent shall be payable in advance.

(c) No such lease shall contain a covenant for renewal.

(d) Every such lease shall take effect from a date not later than six months from the date on which it is made.

(e) In the case of a lease of buildings, whether leased with or without the land on which they stand, the duration of the lease shall in no case exceed three years, and the lease shall contain a covenant for payment of the rent and a condition of re-entry on the rent not being paid within a time therein specified.

(3) The provisions of sub-section (1) apply only if and as far as a contrary intention is not expressed in the mortgage deed; and the provisions of sub-section (2) may be varied or extended by the mortgage deed and, as so varied and extended, shall, as far as may be, operate in like manner and with all like incidents, effects and consequences, as if such variations or extensions were contained in that sub-section.]

[3] A mortgagee suing for damages for breach of the covenant of title is entitled to interest on the sum advanced by him. (Vol 31) 1944 All 195 (196) : I L R (1944) All 277 (D B).

Contract falling under clause (c).

[4] Under S. 72 cl. (b) the mortgagee may spend the necessary amount for payment of public charges and can claim to be reimbursed under S. 69 of the Contract Act. (Vol 24) 1937 Nag 225 (226) ✠ (Vol 25) 1938 Nag 459 (461) : I L R (1939) Nag 246 ✠ (Vol 27) 1940 Nag 285 (286, 287).

Contract falling under clause (e).

[5] In cases falling under cl. (e) the mortgagee will have a remedy under S. 72, cl. (b) and S. 68, cl. (c) of this Act. ('90) 13 Mad 192 (195) (D B).

[6] In a case falling under cl. (e) the mortgagee has a remedy under S. 69 of the Contract Act. (Vol 9) 1922 All 153 (154) : 44 All 67 (D B).

[7] In a case falling under cl. (e) the mortgagee can claim subrogation rights under S. 92 of this Act. (Vol 24) 1937 Mad 826 (830).

[8] Where a puisne mortgagee of property obtained a decree for sale after redemption of prior incumbrances and the property was put up for sale after redemption of prior incumbrances, but the sum realised was not sufficient even to cover prior incumbrances, it was held that having regard to this section the puisne mortgagee was entitled to claim a personal decree under S. 90 of the Act (now O. 34, R. 6 of the Code of Civil Procedure) for the amount due to him including the amount paid by him for redemption. ('03) 26 All 93 (95).

5. Benefit of contract goes with mortgagee's interest.—[1] A contract can be enforced by or against the contracting parties or if they are dead, then by or against their legal representatives. (Vol 24) 1937 Nag 225 (225).

[2] A contract cannot be enforced by or against third persons even though such third persons may be transferees of property from the contracting parties. ('12) 34 All 63 (64) : 39 Ind App 7 (P C).

[3] A contract implied by this section cannot be enforced against a purchaser of the equity of redemption at a revenue sale. ('06) 30 Mad 67 (71) (D B).

[But see ('12) 17 Ind Cas 878 (879) (Low Bur). (Purchaser of mortgaged property from mortgagor).]

[4] A person who has acquired the equity of redemption by adverse possession cannot be said to derive any title through the mortgagor and cannot be proceeded against on an implied contract by the mortgagor under this section. (Vol 4) 1917 Mad 228 (232) : 39 Mad 959 (DB).

[5] Where a covenant by the mortgagor was not one under this section, it was held that such covenant could not be enforced against a subsequent incumbrancer of the mortgaged property. (Vol 3) 1916 Mad 859 (862) : 38 Mad 18 (D B).

Section 65A—Note 1

[1] The section does not apply to cases where the mortgage was executed before the date of the introduction of the section. (Vol 20) 1933 Mad 876 (878) ✠ (Vol 18) 1931 Pat 210 (211) : 10 Pat 332 (D B) ✠ (Vol 24) 1937 Oudh 146 (149) : 12 Luck 161 ✠ (Vol 34) 1947 Cal 73 (74) (D B).

[2] The section will not apply to a mortgage executed before the section was introduced even if the lease itself was executed subsequent to the introduction of the section. (Vol 27) 1940 Mad 669 (669) ✠ (Vol 23) 1936 Mad 942 (942) (Obiter.)

[3] Whether a lease granted by the mortgagor who has executed the mortgage before this section was introduced is binding on the mortgagee or not is to be determined with reference to the law as it stood prior to the introduction of the section. (Vol 34) 1947 Cal 73 (74) (D B) ✠ (Vol 22) 1935 All 511 (512) ✠ (Vol 24) 1937 Oudh 146 (149) : 12 Luck 161 ✠ (Vol 25) 1938 Pat 189 (191) (D B) ✠ (Vol 34) 1947 All 240 (242).

[4] A lease by a mortgagor who is not in possession of the mortgaged property at the time he grants the lease, is not binding on the mortgagee under this section. (Vol 20) 1933 Mad 876 (878).

[5] Whatever may be the rights of a mortgagor under a simple mortgage to grant leases in the usual course of management, there is considerable difficulty on the part of a mortgagor, who has created an English mortgage, to grant such a lease as this. Such a mortgagor can only act as agent on behalf of the mortgagee, and without the concurrence of the mortgagee such a lease cannot be binding on the mortgagee. (Vol 17) 1930 Cal 335 (338) : 57 Cal 82 (D B).

[6] The test to determine whether a lease granted by a mortgagor is a transaction in the ordinary course of Waste by mortgagor in possession.

66. A mortgagor in possession of the mortgaged property is not liable to the mortgagee for allowing the property to deteriorate; but he must not commit any act which is destructive or permanently injurious thereto, if the security is insufficient or will be rendered insufficient by such act.

Explanation.—A security is insufficient within the meaning of this section unless the value of the mortgaged property exceeds by one third, or, if consisting of buildings, exceeds by one-half, the amount for the time being due on the mortgage.

Rights and Liabilities of Mortgagee.

Right to foreclosure or sale.

management is, whether he would have granted the lease if he had known that he would continue indefinitely as a full owner of the property. (Vol 15) 1928 Nag 303 (304).

[7] A temporary lease of land would ordinarily be in the course of management (Vol 3) 1916 Cal 870 (872) (D B) ✠ ('68) 10 Suth W R 325 (325) (D B).

[8] A lease for three years was held, on the facts of the case, not to be in the ordinary course of management and not binding on the mortgagee. (Vol 19) 1932 Rang 113 (114) : 10 Rang 210 (D B).

[9] A permanent lease of land may be made in the course of management (Vol 22) 1935 All 511 (513).

[10] A permanent lease made with the express object of making a large profit or seriously depreciating the value of the security which the mortgagee may be entitled to, cannot be said to have been made in the ordinary course of management. (Vol 15) 1928 Nag 128 (130).

[11] A permanent lease of land would not, independent of the question whether it was made in the ordinary course of management or not, be binding on the mortgagee if the security would be diminished thereby. (Vol 30) 1943 Oudh 407 (408) (D B) ✠ (Vol 18) 1931 Oudh 256 (259) : 6 Luck 546 (D B) ✠ (Vol 15) 1928 Pat 238 (240) (D B).

[12] A lease of a house site by an unregistered document on condition of the lessee building a house thereon and living therein at a rent of Rs. 50 per month as long as the house stands on the site, was held not to be one in the ordinary course of management. (Vol 22) 1935 Rang 420 (422) (D B).

[13] Where the lease of the mortgaged property after the mortgage is not valid and binding against the mortgagee, it is not open to the mortgagee to eject the lessee. His right is merely to cause the mortgaged property to be sold for the payment of his debt. (Vol 32) 1945 Pat 106 (108) (D B).

[14] Where under the terms of the contract of mortgage, the mortgagee was entitled to take possession of the property on default of payment by the mortgagor, a lessee from the mortgagor cannot resist possession being taken by the mortgagee on default. ('12) 15 Oudh Cas 239 (242) (D B).

[15] The lease is not ipso facto void, but is good except in so far as it prejudices and is in defeasance of the mortgagee's rights. (Vol 22) 1935 All 511 (512, 513) ✠ ('36) 164 Ind Cas 241 (243) (Cal) ✠ (Vol 2) 1915 Oudh 200 (202) (D B).

[16] A mortgage deed executed by a malguzar contained the following covenant, 'I will not transfer the above mortgaged property to any other person by mortgage, sale, etc.," After the mortgage the malguzar granted leases to occupancy tenants in the ordinary course of the village management: Held that the covenant did not prohibit the leasing of the property and consequently the occupancy tenancy created was not in breach of the covenant. (Vol 34) 1947 Nag 210 (213) (DB).

[1] A mortgagor cannot after the date of the mortgage prejudice the rights of the mortgagee by any dealings with the mortgaged property. ('12) 15 Oudh Cas 239 (241) (DB) ✠ (Vol 4) 1917 Nag 116 (118).

[2] Subject to the duty not to do any act which renders the security insufficient, the mortgagor as owner of the property is entitled to use and enjoy the property in any way he likes. (Vol 4) 1917 Mad 880 (883) (DB) ✠ ('96) 9 C P L R 130 (131) ✠ (Vol 22) 1935 All 511 (512).

[3] The principle of this section has been applied to cases arising in the Punjab. ('02) 1902 Pun Re No. 85, page 348 (350) (DB)

[4] The section deals with waste by the mortgagor. (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 343 (345).

[5] Where the mortgagor included in his mortgage certain items to which he had no title and the security was thus found to be insufficient, it was held that the case was not within the section. (Vol 9) 1922 Bom 217 (218) (DB).

[6] X mortgaged to Y a house together with a well. X afterwards granted an easement right in the well to his neighbour Z. The mortgagee Y, having purchased the mortgaged property in execution of the mortgage decree, objected to the use of the well by Z It was held that the validity of the easement as against the mortgagee depended upon the question whether the grant of the easement rendered the security insufficient within the meaning of this section. ('02) 1902 Pun Re No. 85, page 348 (350) (DB).

[7] The onus of proof that a particular act of the mortgagor in possession was destructive or permanently injurious to the property and that thereby the value of the security has gone down the statutory minimum is on the mortgagee. (Vol 4) 1917 Mad 880 (883) (DB) ✠ (Vol 1) 1914 Bom 312 (316) (DB) ✠ (Vol 25) 1938 Pat. 189 (191) (DB).

[8] Where acts which are destructive or permanently injurious to the property have been commited the mortgagee can maintain an action in tort for damages against the mortgagor for the depreciation of the mortgage security, if it can be shown that by reason of such acts the value of the mortgage security has been lowered below the statutory minimum. ('05) 28 Mad. 208 (209, 210) (DB) ✠ (Vol. 2) 1915 Mad. 633 (634) (DB).

2. Contract to the contrary.—[1] Mortgage deed containing covenant that if mortgagee wanted payment he must give notice to be paid on the day after the beginning of the cultivation in any year and not at other times: Held that the covenant in the mortgage deed affected only the mortgagee and not the mortgagor's right to redeem at any time. SECTION 67A — SYNOPSIS

1. Scope.
2. Retrospective operation.
3. Section, if applicable to charges created by operation of law.
4. Mortgages must have been executed by the same mortgagor.
5. "Same kind of decree."
6. Property mortgaged, if need be the same.
7. Money must have been due on all the mortgages.

1. Scope.—[1] Where a mortgagor has executed several mortgages over the same property to the same mortgagee, it will be advantageous to the mortgagor to compel the mortgagee to consolidate his mortgages and sue on all of them at the same time The Legislature has, therefore, in this section given effect to the rule of consolidation, by compelling the mortgagee to sue at the same time, on all his mortgages. (Vol 21) 1934 Cal 325 (326) : 60 Cal 1470 ✠ (Vol 23) 1936 Lah 1020 (1021) (DB).

[2] The question between the mortgagor and the mortgagee about all the mortgages held by the latter ought to be tried once for all in one and the same suit. (Vol 22) 1935 Pat 365 (366).

[3] The section being restrictive of the rights of the mortgagee must be strictly construed. (Vol 21) 1934 Cal 862 (863) : 61 Cal 1047 (DB).

3. Section, if applicable to charges created by operation of law. — [1] It has been held that S. 100 will not enable this section to be applied to statutory charges. (Vol 21) 1934 Cal 862 (864) : 61 Cal 1047 (DB).

4. Mortgages must have been executed by the same mortgagor.—[1] A claiming to be the adopted son of X deceased, executed a mortgage in favour of P. X's widows B and C also executed a mortgage in respect of the same property to P. P filed a suit on both the mortgages impleading A, B and C as parties. It was held that the mortgagors being different, S. 67A did not enable the filing of a single suit on both the mortgages. (Vol 21) 1937 Nag 91 (100) : I L R (1937) Nag 349.

[2] A, B and C executed a mortgage to D, E and F. Subsequently, B and C only executed a mortgage of the same properties in favour of F, G and H. It was held that S 67A did not apply so as to compel a suit to be filed on both the mortgages. (Vol 18) 1931 Rang 208 (208).

[3] A made a mortgage in favour of X of his share in certain joint property. Subsequently, A, B and C who were all the sharers in the property, mortgaged all their shares to X. It was held that a suit on the first mortgage did not prevent a subsequent suit on the later mortgage (Vol 21) 1934 Cal 421 (423) (DB).

[4] A mortgage by A and after his death, a mortgage by B, his legal representative, cannot be taken as having been executed by different mortgagors. (Vol 18) 1931 Rang 208 (208).

[5] Where a father executes a mortgage as karta of joint Hindu family consisting of the father and his son, and subsequently the father and the son together execute another mortgage, the mortgagor in both the mortgages is the same being the joint family. (Vol 22) 1935 Pat 365 (366).

5. "Same kind of decree."—[1] It has been held that there is nothing in O. 34, R. 1, Civil P. C., to prevent the mortgagee from suing on his later simple mortgage subject to his prior usufructuary mortgage. (Vol 14) 1927 All 341 (342) ✠ (Vol 6) 1919 Pat 129 (129, 130) (DB) ✠ (Vol 3) 1916 Pat 113 (114, 115) (DB) ✠ (Vol 1) 1914 Cal 455 (456) : 41 Cal 727 (DB). (Obiter.) ✠ ('08) 31 Mad 530 (530) (DB).

[2] It has been held that the mortgagee cannot sue on his earlier simple mortgage alone without mentioning his second usufructuary mortgage and if he does so a second suit on the later mortgage would be barred. (Vol 6) 1919 Oudh 352 (355).

6. Property mortgaged, if need be the same. — [1] The wording of the section is wide enough to include mortgages over different properties. (Vol 21) 1934 Cal 862 (863) : 61 Cal 1047 (DB) ✠ ('36) 63 Cal 720 (723) (DB).

[2] In case the property subject to one of the mortgages is outside the territorial jurisdiction of the Court this section cannot apply. ('37) 41 Cal W N 854 (866, 867) (DB) ✠ (Vol 26) 1939 Rang 247 (248, 249) : 1939 Rang L R 207.

[3] Where two mortgages executed in favour of the same mortgagee by the same mortgagor related to different properties, each in a different district and hence within the jurisdiction of different Courts, it was held that it was not obligatory upon the mortgagee to bring a consolidated suit on both the mortgages. (Vol 26) 1939 Rang 247 (249) : 1939 Rang L R 207.

7. Money must have been due on all the mortgages. — [1] A mortgagee having several mortgages is bound to sue on all of them at the same time only if the mortgage money has become due on all of them. (Vol 27) 1940 Mad 296 (297) ✠ (Vol 28) 1941 Nag 3 (3) : I L R (1942) Nag 172 (DB).

[2] A mortgage deed provided for the payment of the mortgage amount in instalments with a default clause that if two consecutive instalments were in arrears, the mortgagee could claim the whole. The mortgagee elected to sue on only two of the instalments

Right to sue for mortgage-money.

[a][68. (1) The mortgagee has a right to sue for the mortgage money in the following cases and no others, namely : —

(a) where the mortgagor binds himself to repay the same;

(b) where, by any cause other than the wrongful act or default of the mortgagor or mortgagee, the mortgaged property is wholly or partially destroyed or the security is rendered insufficient within the meaning of section 66, and the mortgagee has given the mortgagor a reasonable opportunity of providing further security enough to render the whole security sufficient, and the mortgagor has failed to do so ;

(c) where the mortgagee is deprived of the whole or part of his security by or in consequence of the wrongful act or default of the mortgagor ;

(d) where, the mortgagee being entitled to possession of the mortgaged property, the mortgagor fails to deliver the same to him, or to secure the possession thereof to him without disturbance by the mortgagor or any person claiming under a title superior to that of the mortgagor :

Provided that, in the case referred to in clause (a), a transferee from the mortgagor or from his legal representative shall not be liable to be sued for the mortgage-money.

(2) Where a suit is brought under clause (a) or clause (b) of sub-section (1), the Court may, at its discretion, stay the suit and all proceedings therein, notwithstanding any contract to the contrary, until the mortgagee has exhausted all his available remedies against the mortgaged property or what remains of it, unless the mortgagee abandons his security and, if necessary, re-transfers the mortgaged property.]

[2] Where the mortgagee has been given possession and there has been no disturbance thereof by anybody, this clause will not apply even though it is discovered that the mortgagor has no title to a portion of the property. (Vol 6) 1919 All 292 (292) (DB).

[3] The mortgagor sold the equity of redemption to X and the mortgagee pre-empted X. It was held that the change in the nature of the possession, from that of a mortgagee to that of a purchaser, did not bring the case within this section so as to entitle the mortgagee to sue for his money. (Vol 3) 1916 Oudh 332 (333).

[4] A failure to deliver or to secure possession of even a portion of the property will entitle the mortgagee to sue for the mortgage-money. (Vol 11) 1924 All 877 (878).

[5] The failure to deliver or to secure possession need not be intentional on the part of the mortgagor. ('01) 4 Oudh Cas 320 (327, 328) (DB).

But he never demanded possession from the mortgagor. It was held that there was no failure to deliver possession within the meaning of this clause. (Vol 20) 1933 Lah 174 (175).

Failure to secure possession :

[16] Certain property belonged to two persons A and B. A bequeathed by his will, his share to C, who subsequently transferred the same to B, so that B became full owner. B then mortgaged the property with possession to X, and delivered possession. Thereafter a creditor of A obtained a decree against the assets of A in the hands of his widow and C, and attached the mortgaged property in execution of his decree X preferred a claim which was dismissed but did not file a suit to challenge this order. The creditor brought the property to sale, purchased it and then dispossessed X. X thereupon sued for relief under this clause. It was held that the creditor was not a person with any title that the disturbance of possession could not therefore be said to be by a person with a title superior to that of the mortgagor, and that therefore this clause did not apply. (Vol 23) 1936 Oudh 263 (264) : 12 Luck 144.

[17] A mortgaged property to X. B, claiming title to the property in himself, mortgaged the same property to Y who dispossessed X. It was held that this clause applied. (Vol 11) 1924 Rang 143 (144).

[15] A and B mortgaging land with possession to C and D — A and B paying whole mortgage-money to C and subsequently mortgaging same land to D with possession — Payment to C held did not discharge whole mortgage and D was entitled to sue for possession of half of the land mortgaged. 6 Acquiescence by mortgagee in disturbance of possession.— [1] Where the mortgagee acquiesces in the disturbance of possession or in the failure of the mortgagor to give possession, he will lose the right to claim interest or damages for the period he is out of possession ('02) 24 All 521 531, 532 : 29 Ind App 148 (PC) (Disturbance of possession. ⊛ (Vol 14) 1927 Oudh 394 (395) : 2 Luck 67C (DB) (Failure to give possession. ⊛ (Vol 13) 1926 Oudh 224 225 . [3] The question whether there has been acquiescence such as would deprive the mortgagee of his rights is a question of fact depending upon the facts and circumstances of each case. (Vol 6, 1919 Pat 227 (229) (D B)

7. Dispossession owing to default of mortgagee himself.—[1] A mortgagee bound to pay assessment on the mortgaged property fails to pay it with the result that the mortgaged property is sold for the recovery of such amount. He cannot sue for the mortgage-money under this section. (Vol 16) 1929 Pat 209 (210) : 8 Pat 569 (DB) ⊛ ('06) 3 Cal L Jour 220 (221, 222) (DB).

[2] A mortgagee entitled to make a valid defence to a suit by a subsequent mortgagee failed to make it with the result that his security was diminished. It was held that he could not sue for the mortgage-money. (Vol 4) 1917 Pat 451 (452) : 2 Pat L Jour 490 (DB).

[3] A simple money creditor of the mortgagor attached the mortgaged property in execution of his decree. The mortgagee objected under O. 21, R 62, Civil P. C., but the objection was dismissed. He failed to file a suit under O 21, R. 63, Civil P. C., within one year of the dismissal of the objection, but filed a suit for the mortgage-money, on his being dispossessed by the auction-purchaser in execution of the money decree. It was held that he was not entitled to do so. (Vol 23) 1936 Oudh 263 (264) : 12 Luck 144.

8. Transferee from mortgagor. — [1] Where a mortgage contains a personal covenant and cl. (a) is applicable, the personal liability can be enforced only against the mortgagor or his legal representative but not against the transferee from the mortgagor or from his legal representative. (Vol 24) 1937 Oudh 517 (520) (D B).

[3] The proviso to the section is limited to cl. (a) of the section. So far as the other clauses of the section are concerned, the word "mortgagor" would in view of S. 59A include a transferee from him. (Vol 21) 1934 Pat 1 (2) (DB) ⊛ (Vol 26) 1939 Nag 256 (258) : I L R (1940) Nag 63

[7] The fact that the transferee from the mortgagor pays interest on the mortgage does not render him personally liable for the debt. (Vol 23) 1936 Oudh 313 (315) : 12 Luck 215 (DB).

9. Legal representative of mortgagor. — [1] The word "mortgagor" would include his legal representative ordinarily, but such legal representative will, so far as the act or default of the mortgagor himself is concerned, be liable only in respect of the estate which he has inherited, and so far only as such assets extend. 10. Minor not personally liable.—[1] Where a mortgage of the joint family property is executed by a Hindu father, in which he has bound himself to pay the amount the son who is a minor on the date of the mortgage is not personally liable to pay the mortgage money. (Vol 15) 1928 P C 165 (171) : 24 Nag L R 186 (P C).

11. Guardian not personally liable.—[1] Where a guardian executed a hypothecation bond as a guardian containing a stipulation "I have agreed to pay" it was held that he was not personally liable for the mortgage amount. (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 425 (425).

(b) The following cases hold that if the mortgage is illegal as being prohibited by law or opposed to public policy, even the personal covenant to pay cannot be enforced. (Vol 13) 1926 Rang 186 (187) ✠(Vol 14) 1927 All 499 (501, 502) (F B)✠ (Vol 4) 1917 Oudh 230 (232) : 20 Oudh Cas 155.

[4] Where a minor makes a mortgage, no relief can be granted to the mortgagee under S. 65 of the Contract Act. ('03) 30 Cal 539 (548) :30 Ind App 114 (P C).

14. Interest — Personal liability for. — [1] The right to sue for the mortgage-money under this section will include the right to sue for the interest, the payment of which is secured by the mortgage contract. (Vol 1) 1914 Nag 16 (18) : 10 Nag L R 9.

[2] Where a usufructuary mortgage contains a covenant to pay interest in the event of loss of possession, and the mortgagee loses possession, the mortgagee can claim the mortgage-money which will include not only the principal amount but the interest payable under the contract during the period he has been out of possession. (Vol 10) 1923 All 457 (457, 458) (D B) ✠ (Vol 12) 1925 Oudh 30 (32).

[3] Where no interest is secured by the mortgage contract the right to sue for the mortgage-money will not include any right to interest as such, but the Court will award interest as damages. (Vol 31) 1944 Oudh 208 (210) ✠ (Vol 19) 1932 Mad 175 (177) ✠ (Vol 19) 1932 Mad 173 (175) ✠ ('32) 4 All 245 (247) (D B) ✠ (Vol 22) 1935 Nag 249 (250). (Unless the mortgagee has acquiesced in his dispossession or has failed to take possession by his own negligence.)

[4] Where the mortgage provides that the mortgagor should pay principal and interest within a particular date and that on default on that date the mortgagee is entitled to take possession of the property, but it is found that the mortgagor could not mortgage the property, it has been held that though the mortgage deed is not enforceable, the mortgagor would be liable as on a personal covenant for the money borrowed but the creditor would be entitled to interest only by way of damages, the rate of which would be within the discretion of the Court. (Vol 14) 1927 Oudh 315 (315) (D B).

[5] As a general rule interest is only an accessory to the principal and cannot be recovered apart from the principal. (Vol 16) 1929 Rang 96 (96) : 6 Rang 743 (D B).

[6] Where the understanding between the parties was that the mortgagee was to liquidate his interest in a particular way, namely, by recovery of the rent under a lease which was executed by the mortgagor in favour of the husband of the mortgagee, it was held that there was no personal liability to pay interest. ('03) 27 Mad 86 (91) (D B).

15. Claim under section is an actionable claim — [1] The claim of a mortgagee against the mortgagor under this section for failure of the mortgagor to give possession being an actionable claim can be transferred as such. ('94) 16 All 315 (317) (F B).

16. This section and O. 34, R. 6 of the Civil Procedure Code. — [1] Different views are held as regards the remedy of the mortgagee when he files a suit on the mortgage and obtains a decree but it is thereafter found that owing to no wrongful act or default on his part, he is deprived of his security within the meaning of this section and the mortgaged property ceases to be available for the satisfaction of his decree.

(a) One view is that the remedy of the mortgagee is to apply for a personal decree under O. 34, R. 6 of the Code of Civil Procedure and not to file a fresh suit for the purpose. (Vol 7) 1920 Oudh 251 (252): 23 Oudh Cas 145 (D B).

(b) According to the other view the remedy of the mortgagee is to apply for a personal decree on general principles of justice and not under O 34, R. 6 of the Code of Civil Procedure. (Vol 15) 1928 All 71 (73) : 50 All 321 (D B).

17. Mortgagee claiming under this section, it can sue for sale. — [1] Where a right to sue for the mortgage-money arises under this section it must be taken that the mortgage-money "has become due" for the purposes of S. 67. (Vol 6) 1919 Mad 1164 (1165) : 41 Mad 259 (F B). ('98) 21 Mad 476 (FB). Overruled.) ✠(Vol 6) 1919 Cal 46 (48) :46 Cal 448 (D B) ✠ (Vol 20) 1933 Oudh 35 (36) : 8 Luck 190 (D B).

[2] Different views are held as regards the question whether a usufructuary mortgagee who gets a right to sue for the mortgage-money under S. 68 can sue for sale of the mortgaged property.

(a) A usufructuary mortgagee to whom possession is not delivered or who is deprived of his possession is entitled to sue for sale. (c) A usufructuary mortgagee cannot sue for sale on the basis of a personal covenant to pay, unless such covenant imports also a hypothecation of the property. (Vol 29) 1942 All 326 (327) : I L R (1942) All 368 (D B)✠(Vol 25) 1938 All 418 (420): I L R (1938) All 714 (F B).

(e) The only decree that can be passed in a suit under S 68 is a decree for money. (Vol 24) 1937 Oudh 20 (22, 23) : 12 Luck 313 (D B).

18. Sub-section (2). — [1] The personal remedy given by this section is additional to the remedy given by S 67 against the mortgaged property. And although the remedies are concurrent, the policy of the law is that the mortgagee should not enforce the personal liability before exhausting his remedy against the property. ('37) 1937 Mad W N 373 (374) (D B).

against A for the balance that may remain due after the sale of the property. During the progress of the suit, B compromised with C, received a certain amount from him, gave up his security and claimed to proceed against A personally for the balance. It was held that S. 68 had no application to the case and that no personal decree could be granted in a suit for sale under S. 67 until the mortgaged property had been put to sale and had failed to realise the entire amount due. 1. Scope.—[1] This section deals with the power of a mortgagee to sell the mortgaged property, without the intervention of the Court. ('90) 13 All 28 (48) (DB) ✠(Vol 5) 1918 P C 34 (34) : 40 All 407: 45 Ind App 130 (P C). (Obiter)

[2] A mortgagee having a power of sale without the intervention of the Court cannot file a suit for that purpose in a Court of law. (Vol 16) 1929 Rang 71 (72): 6 Rang 771 (DB).

[3] Where the parties were businessmen, and the mortgage was in the English form, the stipulation giving the mortgagee a power of sale without the intervention of the Court was held valid in the Punjab, in the absence of any positive enactment prohibiting such a stipulation. (Vol 10) 1923 P C 114 (117): 4 Lah 284: 50 Ind App 162 (P C).

[4] The power of sale may be conferred on a second mortgagee even where no such power has been conferred on the first mortgagee. (Vol 29) 1942 Mad 232 (236): I L R (1942) Mad 287 (DB).

[5] In exercising the power of sale under this section the mortgagee does not act as the agent of the mortgagor. The mortgagee exercises his right under a totally superior claim which is not under the mortgagor but

or that due notice was not given, or that the power was otherwise improperly or irregularly exercised; but any person damnified by an unauthorized or improper or irregular exercise of the power shall have his remedy in damages against the person exercising the power.

[a][(4)] The money which is received by the mortgagee, arising from the sale, after discharge of prior incumbrances, if any, to which the sale is not made subject, or after payment into Court under section 57 of a sum to meet any prior incumbrance, shall, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, be held by him in trust to be applied by him, first, in payment of all costs, charges and expenses properly incurred by him as incident to the sale or any attempted sale; and, secondly, in discharge of the mortgage-money, and costs and other money, if any, due under the mortgage; and the residue of the money so received shall be paid to the person entitled to the mortgaged property, or authorised to give receipts for the proceeds of the sale thereof.

2. Mortgage by manager of joint Hindu family.—[1] A manager of a joint Hindu family mortgaging for a family purposes immovable property situated in one of the towns mentioned in this section can confer a power of sale on the mortgagee which can be exercised without recourse to Court. (Vol 29) 1942 Mad 232 (235): I L R (1942) Mad 287 (DB).

3. Default in payment where no time is fixed.—[1] There cannot be a default in payment of the mortgage-money unless it has become due. (1888) 38 Ch D 273 (283): 57 L J Ch 609, Selwyn v. Garfit.

[2] Where the amount due for principal is not repayable at any particular date, nor is anything stated as to when it is to be repaid, then, until there is a demand made for the money, there can be no default in payment of the principal sum due. (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 841 (844) (DB).

[3] Where though a time is fixed for payment, the mortgage money may become due earlier at the option of the mortgagee under specified circumstances, the mere fact that the money has become due earlier is not a default in payment. The mortgagee must make a demand for the amount so as to enable the mortgagor to realise his position and save his equity of redemption if possible. (Vol 28) 1941 Bom 339 (342): I L R (1941) Bom 506.

4. Mortgage money.—[1] Where a mortgage-debt is reduced according to the provisions of any law for the time being in force, it is the reduced amount that represents the mortgage-money and if the mortgagee tries to sell the property for the recovery of more than the reduced amount, he can be restrained by an injunction obtained in a suit for that purpose. (Vol 26) 1939 Mad 4 (5).

5. Default in payment of interest only.—[1] A default in payment of interest is a default in payment of the "mortgage-money" and consequently the mortgagee can exercise the power of sale even though the principal money has not fallen due. (Vol 5) 1918 Low Bur 64 (65): 9 Low Bur Rul 106 (DB).

[But see (Vol 8) 1921 Bom 421 (423) (DB). (Mortgagee cannot exercise such power before both principal and interest have fallen due.)]

6. Power must be expressly conferred.—[1] The words "the mortgagee, his heirs, representatives and assigns shall have all the rights, powers, remedies and privileges conferred upon the mortgagee by Act IV of 1882" (i e., Transfer of Property Act) do not confer the power of sale upon the mortgagee. (Vol 15) 1928 Rang 128 (128): 6 Rang. 134.

[2] The power conferred by the mortgage-deed may be a power to sell by private contract or a power to sell by auction. A sale by private treaty, when the power to sell is by auction, would be invalid. (1841) 3 Moo P C 457 (464): 13 E R 186, Bronard v. Dumareesque.

[3] A sale by a private contract where a power to sell either by private contract or by auction is given is not bad merely because an attempt is not made first to sell by auction. (1857) 118 R R 213 (227): 26 L J Ch 830, Davey v. Durrant.

[4] A power to sell necessarily includes the power to postpone the sale. Where the sale is by auction and the highest bid is found to be very inadequate, the mortgagee may postpone the sale. (Vol 29) 1942 Bom 46 (49): I L R (1942) Bom 83.

7. "Within the town of Bombay".—[1] Property situated at Mahim within the island of Bombay and within the local limits of the original civil jurisdiction of the High Court of Bombay is property situated within the town of Bombay. ('99) 23 Bom 348 (358) (DB).

8 Notice requiring payment— Sub-section (2), clause (a).—[1] Where a mortgagee desires to exercise his power of sale for recovery of the principal money, he cannot do so unless and until he complies with the provision as to notice contained in this clause. (Vol 21) 1934 Mad 644 (645) (DB).

[2] The provision is only a direction with regard to the exercise of the power and if a sale is held without a notice under this clause it will only afford a ground for damages, if any, to the mortgagor damnified by the sale. ('88) 11 Mad 201 (203) (DB). (Deed providing for

power of sale after 15 days' notice—Condition invalid but sale is valid.)

[3] The statutory requirement of notice is imperative—Three months' period provided therein cannot be curtailed by agreement of parties. (Vol 28) 1941 Bom 339 (344): I L R (1941) Bom 506.

[4] A sale cannot be held unless, after the service of notice, there has been a default in payment of it, or any part thereof, for a period of three months. (99) 1 Bom L R 273 (275).

[5] Where a sale was held 15 months after the service of the notice, it was held that a fresh notice ought to have been given before the actual sale. (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 841 (843) (DB).

[6] Where interest amounting to Rs. 500 is in arrears and remains unpaid for three months after becoming due, no notice is necessary before the mortgagee can exercise his power of sale. ('99) 1 Bom L R 273 (275) ✠ (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 841 (847) (DB).

[7] A mortgagee giving notice under cl. (a) cannot before the expiry of three months after the service of notice sell the property for arrears of interest under cl. (b). ('99) 1 Bom L R 273 (275).

9. Sub-section (3). — [1] The section permits a distinction between a purchaser with notice and a purchaser without notice of an irregularity and though a sale may not be impeachable on the mere ground that the power was improperly exercised, this protection does not extend to a case when there is the additional ground that the purchaser had notice of the improper exercise of the power. ('04) 6 Bom L R 557 (571) (DB).

[2] When there is fraud there may be a cause of action against the purchaser to have the sale declared void or to have it set aside on the ground of fraud. (Vol 27) 1940 Mad 903 (904).

10. "In professed exercise of such a power." — [1] When there is no valid mortgage the sale cannot be said to be in the professed exercise of the power and cannot give the purchaser an unimpeachable title. (Vol 23) 1936 Bom 94 (97).

[2] Power not validly conferred—Sale cannot be said to be in professed exercise of power. (Vol 15) 1928 Rang 128 (128) : 6 Rang 134.

[3] The words "such a power" do not refer to a power exercised three months after the notice. They refer simply to the power of sale mentioned in the opening part of sub-section (1). ('88) 11 Mad 201 (202) (DB).

[4] Mortgagee parting with the title deeds by way of assignment but getting back the deeds becomes revested with the power of sale which he originally had under the mortgage deed. ('03) 13 Mad L Jour 367 (369) (DB).

11. Conduct of sale must be bona fide. — [1] The power of sale given to the mortgagee is for his benefit and not for the benefit of the mortgagor. (1889) 61 L T 71 (71) : 58 L J Ch 539, Colson v. Williams.

[2] The mortgagee has a perfect right to hold the sale of the property in such manner as he thinks most conducive to his benefit. He can for this purpose even impose conditions upon the conduct of the sale. ('03) 5 Bom L R 247 (249).

[3] The conditions must be such as an owner will use in the sale of his own property and should not be depreciatory. ('04) 6 Bom L R 557 (568) (DB) ✠ ('03) 5 Bom L R 247 (249, 250).

[4] The mortgagee must act bona fide in the conduct of the sale. ('07) 31 Bom 566 (582) : 34 Ind App 179 (PC).

[5] If the mortgagee exercises the power of sale bona fide without corruption or collusion with the purchaser the Court will not interfere, even though the sale be very disadvantageous, unless, indeed, the price is so low as in itself to be evidence of fraud. ('12) 13 Ind Cas 261 (264) (PC).

12. Effect of sale.—[1] The effect of a sale under a power of sale is to destroy the equity of redemption in the land, and to constitute the mortgagee exercising the power a trustee of the surplus proceeds, after satisfying his own charge, first for the subsequent incumbrancers, and ultimately for the mortgagor. The estate if purchased by a stranger passes into his hands free from all incumbrances ('80) 5 Cal 198 (211) : 6 Ind App 145 (PC) (Other) ✠ (Vol 31) 1944 Bom 156 (158, 159) : I L R (1944) Bom 549 (DB).

[2] Sale before mortgagee became entitled to exercise power — Power is improperly exercised. (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 841 (844, 848) (DB).

[3] A sale without serving a notice on the mortgagor under sub-s. (2), cl. (a) when the property is to be sold for recovery of the principal is an improper or an irregular exercise of the power. ('88) 11 Mad 201 (203) (DB).

[4] After the property was duly advertised for sale, the mortgagee verbally agreed with the mortgagor to postpone the sale for four days; but in contravention of this agreement sold the property on the originally advertised day. It was held that the power of sale could not be said to have been exercised in an improper or irregular manner. ('99) 23 Bom 348 (357) (DB).

[5] Even where there is no valid power of sale at all, a sale in the professed exercise of the power would not be void, but only an irregular one governed by sub-s. (3) of the section. ('09) 4 Ind Cas 755 (757) : 1909 Upp Bur Rul 5.

14. Right to claim damages.—[1] In order to be entitled to damages under sub-s (3) the mortgagor must have been damnified by an unauthorised or improper or an irregular exercise of the power of sale. ('09) 4 Ind Cas 755 (756) : 1909 Upp Bur Rul 5.

[2] Mortgagee having two mortgages over same property—Power of sale conferred in first mortgage only—Mortgagee exercising power respecting debt covered by both mortgages — Sale held could not be set aside —Mortgagor held could have his remedy in damages if he was damnified by exercise of power. (Vol 9) 1922 Mad 390 (391) : 45 Mad 774 (DB).

[3] If the mortgagor is damnified by an action of the auctioneer appointed by the mortgagee, the mortgagor can claim damages from the mortgagee. (1889) 43 Ch D 191 (194) : 38 W R (Eng) 323, Tomlin v. Luce.

15. Lis pendens.—[1] A sale held in exercise of the power is not affected by the doctrine of lis pendens even though it is held after the mortgagor has instituted a suit for redemption. (Vol 9) 1922 Mad 390 (391) : 45 Mad 774 (DB).

[2] The validity of a sale is not affected by an attachment of the property by a third party, whether before or after the mortgagee became entitled to the exercise of the power. ('75) 1875 Pun Re No. 68, p. 171 (173).

16. Stopping of sale. — [1] The mortgagor has got a right, which can be exercised up to the moment of sale, to pay up the mortgage amount and stop the sale. ('99) 23 Bom 348 (356) (DB).

71. When the mortgaged property is a lease [a][* * *], and the mortgagor obtains a renewal of the lease, the mortgagee, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, shall, for the purposes of the security, be entitled to the new lease.

mortgagee would be entitled. (Vol 25) 1938 Rang 108 (108).

[3] Trees planted on the mortgaged property (grove) after the date of the mortgage held to be accession. ('30) 6 Oudh W N 832 (835).

[4] Where after the date of the mortgage of certain zamindari property of zamindar chowkidari chakran lands were released in favour of the zamindar by the Collector, such lands become an accession to the mortgaged property, to the security of which the mortgagee would be entitled. ('11) 13 Cal L Jour 109 (113).

[5] New land added to mortgaged security by alluvion and taken possession of by mortgagor and held by him adversely to co-sharers is accession. (Vol 26) 1939 Cal 275 (277) (DB).

[6] Shop with site on which it was standing mortgaged—Shop destroyed by fire and new one constructed —New shop is accession to mortgaged property. (Vol 32) 1945 Bom 248 (249, 251) (DB).

[7] A, the mortgagor acquiring by inheritance, the rights of a prior mortgagee—The acquisition enures to the benefit of the subsequent mortgagee the value of whose security is thereby increased. (Vol 2) 1915 All 242 (243) : 37 All 309 (DB).

[8] The superstructure built on the mortgaged site is an accession to the mortgaged property. (Vol 28) 1941 Pesh 49 (50) (DB).

[9] Acquisitions by purchase or by adverse possession by the mortgagor of property adjacent to the mortgaged property do not constitute accession. (Vol 26) 1939 Cal 275 (277) (DB).

[10] Where X leases his property first to A, then mortgages the same to B and thereafter sells his equity of redemption to A, the leasehold interest in the hands of A does not merge in the equity of redemption in his hands and the leasehold interest cannot be considered an accession to the mortgaged property. (Vol 26) 1939 Cal 692 (698) : 1 L R (1939) 2 Cal 551 (DB). (Per Roxburgh J.)

[11] The accrual of sir rights in khudkast land subsequent to the mortgage though ordinarily an accretion to the mortgaged property under this section, would not be so if there is a special enactment to the contrary, e. g., S. 49, C. P. Tenancy Act. (Vol 20) 1933 Nag 104 (106) : 29 Nag L R 142.

[12] Auction-purchaser in execution of prior mortgage decree is representative of mortgagor — Building erected by him on land would be accession. (Vol 18) 1931 All 277 (286) : 53 All 334 (FB).

[But see ('81) 1881 Pun Re No 94, p. 207 (209) (DB). (Building by purchaser of equity of redemption —Mortgagee not entitled—Submitted wrong.)]

[13] First mortgage of sir land by X in favour of A —Second mortgage in favour of B — B foreclosing his mortgage against X and thereafter acquiring by surrender from X occupancy rights in land—Acquisition by B held was accession. (Vol 16) 1929 Nag 223 (226) : 25 Nag L R 12.

[14] Under S. 70 the mortgagee is entitled to the benefit of accession to the mortgaged property "for purpose of the security" only and, therefore, the section cannot apply to the case of a mortgagee who has purchased a share of the equity of redemption and sues to enforce the mortgage. (Vol 29) 1942 Mad 44 (47) (DB).

[15] The mortgagee can claim the benefit of S. 70 only if the accession is during the subsistence of the mortgage. A mortgage decree for sale does not extinguish the mortgage security and the mortgagee decreeholder is entitled to have his decree satisfied by sale of an accession made to the mortgaged property after the passing of the decree. (Vol 32) 1945 Bom 248 (250) (DB).

[But see (Vol 8) 1921 Pat 188 (189) (DB).]

[16] The accession must have been received before the mortgage becomes extinguished, and the acquisition by the mortgagor after the mortgaged property has been sold in execution of the mortgage decree cannot be considered an "accession" to the mortgaged property to the security of which the mortgagee is entitled. (Vol 8) 1921 Mad 627 (628, 629) (D B).

[17] An accession to the mortgaged property after the date of the mortgage and before the mortgage decree was passed, may be sold in execution of the decree even though such accession is not specifically mentioned in the decree. (Vol 22) 1935 Rang 522 (522, 523).

[18] The words "in the absence of a contract to the contrary" suggest that the parties contemplated by the section are those who are bound by the contractual relations of mortgagor and mortgagee and not independent third parties. (Vol 18) 1931 All 277 (284, 285) : 53 All 334 (F B).

[19] There can be a contract to the contrary within S. 70 in the case of a charge created by a decree based on a compromise. (Vol 33) 1946 Mad 293 (294).

[1] As a general rule, most acquisitions by a mortgagor enure for the benefit of the mortgagee; and, conversely, many acquisitions by a mortgagee are in a like manner, to be treated as accretions to the mortgaged property, or substitutions for it, and, therefore, subject to redemption. ('79) 5 Cal 198 (210, 211) : 6 Ind App 145 (P C).

[2] After the death of the mortgagor Inamdar, the lands were continued to his representative subject to the payment of assessment, but the right to hold the lands rent free was ruled by Government to have ceased— Held that the lands continued chargeable in the hands of the representatives with any valid specific liens created upon the lands by the Inamdar. (1862) 1 Bom H C R 22 (27) (S B).

[3] Lessee of property mortgaging leasehold right by deposit of title deeds in 1910 — Lease expiring in 1917 —Lessee continuing in possession and landlord accepting rent from him—In 1920 lessee obtaining renewal of lease — Mortgagee held was entitled to benefit of lease though renewal was effected after expiry of lease. (Vol 21) 1934 Rang 51 (57)☆ ('02) 24 All 538 (540, 541) (D B).

[4] A lessee cannot voluntarily surrender his holding to the landlord so as to affect the interest of the mortgagee under a mortgage created by him previous to surrender. ('02) 24 All 538 (541) (D B).

[5] Lessee mortgaging part of holding—Lessee collusively suffering decree to be passed against him for eviction—Lien of mortgagee should be held to continue to subsist upon land—Mortgagee would have same right against landlord as he would have against mortgagor lessee. ('05) 32 Cal 283 (286) (D B).

Rights of mortgagee in possession.

72. [a][A mortgagee] may spend such money as is necessary—

[b][* * * * * * * *]

(b) for [c][the preservation of the mortgaged property] from destruction, forfeiture or sale;

(c) for supporting the mortgagor's title to the property;

(d) for making his own title thereto good against the mortgagor; and,

(e) when the mortgaged property is a renewable lease-hold, for the renewal of the lease; and may, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, add such money to the principal money, at the rate of interest payable on the principal, and where no such rate is fixed, at the rate of nine per cent. per annum: [d][Provided that the expenditure of money by the mortgagee under clause (b) or clause (c) shall not be deemed to be necessary unless the mortgagor has been called upon and has failed to take proper and timely steps to preserve the property or to support the title.]

Where the property is by its nature insurable, the mortgagee may also, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, insure and keep insured against loss or damage by fire the whole or any part of such property; and the premiums paid for any such insurance shall be [e]added to the principal money with interest at the same rate as is payable on the principal money or, where no such rate is fixed, at the rate of nine per cent. per annum]. But the amount of such insurance shall not exceed the amount specified in this behalf in the mortgage-deed or (if no such amount is therein specified) two-thirds of the amount that would be required in case of total destruction to reinstate the property insured.

Nothing in this section shall be deemed to authorize the mortgagee to insure when an insurance of the property is kept up by or on behalf of the mortgagor to the amount in which the mortgagee is hereby authorized to insure.

1. Scope.—[1] This section enumerates the duties of a mortgagee who takes possession of the mortgaged property during the continuance of the mortgage. (Vol 16) 1929 P C 256 (259) (P C).

[2] The duties enumerated are between the mortgagee and the mortgagor and not as between himself and third parties. ('38) I L R (1938) 1 Cal 21 (24) (DB) ✠(Vol 28) 1941 Mad 401 (401).

[3] The section deals mainly with the debit side of the mortgagee's account, while S. 72 deals with the credit side ('38) I L R (1938) 1 Cal 21 (24) (DB) ✠(Vol 10) 1923 Mad 533 (535) 47 Mad 7 (DB).

[4] The section does not lay down any new principles; the rules laid down in the section were recognised even before the passing of the Transfer of Property Act (Vol 11) 1924 P C 102 (106): 46 All 269: 27 Oudh Cas 72: 51 Ind App 157 (P C). (Clauses (a) and (c)) ✠(Vol 22) 1935 Pat 148 (149) (D B). (Clauses (g) and (h))

2. "During the continuance of the mortgage."—[1] The expression "during the continuance of the mortgage" means "from the time the contract establishing the relationship of mortgagor and mortgagee has been entered into and till the time the mortgage comes to an end or is extinguished. (Vol 19) 1932 Oudh 123 (132): 7 Luck 454 (DB).

[2] It applies to usufructuary mortgages. (Vol 16) 1929 P C 256 (259) (P C).

[But see (Vol 16) 1929 All 348 (349).]

[3] Simple mortgage — Decree upon — Mortgagee obtaining under decree possession of mortgaged property instead of judicial sale—Decree held did not import foreclosure and possession obtained thereunder was as mortgagee and involved liability to account. ('96) 19 Mad 249 (254) : 23 Ind App 32 (P C) ✠('11) 35 Bom 204 (211, 212) (DB).

[4] The section does not apply where the mortgagee enters into possession when the mortgage has become extinct. (Vol 5) 1918 Pat 421 (422) (DB).

3. "Takes possession."—[1] A mortgagee holding possession through an agent, will be liable for the acts of the agent. (Vol 24) 1937 Bom 483 (486) (D B) ✠('81) 1881 All W N 10 (10) (DB).

(g) he must keep clear full and accurate accounts of all sums received and spent by him as mortgagee, and, at any time during the continuance of the mortgage, give the mortgagor, at his request and cost, true copies of such accounts and of the vouchers by which they are supported;

(h) his receipts from the mortgaged property, or, where such property is personally occupied by him, a fair occupation-rent in respect thereof, shall, after deducting the expenses [a][properly incurred for the management of the property and the collection of rents and profits and the other expenses] mentioned in clauses (c) and (d), and interest thereon, be debited against him in reduction of the amount (if any) from time to time due to him on account of interest [b][*] and, so far as such receipts exceed any interest due, in reduction or discharge of the mortgage-money, the surplus, if any, shall be paid to the mortgagor;

(i) when the mortgagor tenders, or deposits in manner hereinafter provided, the amount for the time being due on the mortgage, the mortgagee must, notwithstanding the provisions in the other clauses of this section, account for his [c][*] receipts from the mortgaged property from the date of the tender or from the earliest time when he could take such amount out of Court, as the case may be [a][and shall not be entitled to deduct any amount therefrom on account of any expenses incurred after such date or time in connection with the mortgaged property].

If the mortgagee fail to perform any of the duties imposed upon him by this section, he may, when accounts are taken in pursuance of a decree made under this chapter, be debited with the loss, if any, occasioned by such failure.

77. Nothing in section 76, clauses (b), (d), (g) and (h), applies to cases where there is a contract between the mortgagee and the mortgagor that the receipts from the mortgaged property shall, so long as the mortgagee is in possession of the property, be taken in lieu of interest on the principal money, or in lieu of such interest and defined portions of the principal.

Receipts in lieu of interest.

[1] Where the parties have contracted that the receipts from the mortgaged property shall be taken in lieu of interest on the principal money, or in lieu of interest and defined portions of the principal, it is no concern of the mortgagor, whether the mortgagee collects the rents and profits under S. 76, cl. (b) or keeps an accurate account under cl. (g), or applies the receipts properly under cl. (h). If the usufruct exceeds the interest or the interest and the portion of the principal as the case may be, towards which the usufruct is to be appropriated, the mortgagee will be benefited thereby. If there is a loss, it is the mortgagee who must bear it. (Vol 1) 1914 Nag 16 (17) : 10 Nag L R 9.

[2] The section does not apply where the mortgagee has to hand over a fixed portion of the rents and profits to the mortgagor, or where the mortgagee is to appropriate the rents and profits in lieu of a portion of the interest. (Vol 30) 1943 Oudh 38 (41) : 18 Luck 273 (DB) ✠ (Vol 23) 1936 Pat 583 (584) (DB) ✠ (Vol 22) 1935 Pat 148 (149) (DB) ✠ (Vol 29) 1942 Oudh 203 (204) : 17 Luck 727 (DB).

[3] The question whether the mortgagee is or is not liable to account has to be decided with reference to facts of each case upon a consideration of the mortgagee-deed. (Vol 31) 1944 Oudh 238 (238) (DB).

[4] If the parties agree that the rents and profits are to be taken in lieu of interest, it is wholly unnecessary to mention the rate of interest. But it does not necessarily follow that simply because the rate of interest is mentioned, the parties must have intended that there is to be accounting between them. (Vol 29) 1942 Oudh 499 (501) : 18 Luck 484 ✠ (Vol 21) 1934 Oudh 220 (221, 222) : 10 Luck 70 (DB).

[5] Where the mortgage-deed provided: "The mortgagee shall appropriate the surplus profits towards interest, we, the mortgagors having no claim for profits and the mortgagee having no claim for interest", it was held that the mortgage-deed was "a contract" within the meaning of S. 77 and that the mortgagees were not liable to account. (Vol 20) 1933 P C 136 (141) (PC).

[6] A usufructuary mortgage-deed of an occupancy holding provided that the mortgagee was to take the profits in lieu of interest after payment of rent to the zamindar. The mortgagor was to redeem on payment of the mortgage-money in a lump sum. During the subsistence of the mortgage the mortgagee escaped the payment of the rent to the zamindar for some years. It was held that the mortgagee was entitled to the benefit of such non-payment ('11) 10 Ind Cas 113 (113) (All) ✠ (Vol 28) 1941 Mad 549 (550) (DB). (Reversing (Vol 27) 1940 Mad 686.)

[7] Where a mortgage-deed provided that after payment of Government revenue and malikana to a third person all the profits should go to the mortgagee, the mortgagors having no concern with them, it was held that the mortgagee's failure to pay the malikana did not render him, liable to account, and that the utmost that the mortgagors could be allowed to claim was that they should be indemnified against the contingency of a valid claim for arrears of malikana being made against them after their recovery of possession. (Vol 16) 1929 Pat 37 (39) : 7 Pat 44 (DB).

[8] The principal terms of a mortgage-deed were that the mortgagees were to take possession and to receive the profits in lieu of interest. They were, however, to pay malikana to the mortgagors. The malikana was not paid. It was held that the mortgagees were liable to account and that the mortgagors were entitled to redeem on payment of the principal after deducting the malikana for the years for which it was not paid. (Vol 11) 1924 All 591 (592) : 46 All 633 (DB) ✠ ('80) 2 All 455 (460) (DB).

[9] A sub-mortgage deed recited that the sub-mortgagor would repay the mortgage-money with interest at a certain rate, that the sub-mortgagee was to be in possession, and that after paying the annual Government revenue, the balance was to be appropriated towards the interest. It was held that the sub-mortgagor was not entitled to ask for an account (Vol 21) 1934 Oudh 220 (221, 222) : 10 Luck 70 (DB).

[10] Mortgage with possession—Mortgagee to set off usufruct towards interest — Held, mortgagee was not liable to keep accounts — Fact that the mortgagee was liable for payment of revenue then assessed on the property but that the mortgagor was liable for any further assessment made during the period of mortgage would not render the mortgagee liable to keep accounts. (Vol 31) 1944 All 232 (233) : I L R (1944) All 348 (DB).

[11] Usufructuary mortgage for Rs. 625 with interest at the rate of 8 per cent. per year which would amount to Rs. 50 per year — Mortgagee to remain in possession for a period of 60 years and to enjoy the rents of the mortgaged lands which were fixed at Rs. 50 in lieu of interest on the principal — After expiry of period mortgagee to deliver possession on payment of principal amount — Suit for redemption by mortgagor before the expiry of the period on the ground that debt was discharged by operation of Madras Agriculturists' Relief Act (IV of 1938)—Held that though interest at a particular rate was mentioned, there being no provision in the deed that if the yield of the property was less than the estimated rent of Rs. 50 the mortgagor was liable to make good the deficiency or if the yield was more, the mortgagees were accountable to the mortgagor for the excess over such rent the receipt of the profits by the mortgagees could not be regarded as payments by the debtor for the purpose of S. 8 (2) of Act IV of 1938. Hence the debt was not discharged. (Vol 31) 1944 Mad 501 (502).

[12] Usufructuary mortgage — Mortgagee to remain in possession in lieu of principal and interest for a term of years — Simple money decree passed in his favour under S. 14, U. P. Encumbered Estates Act (25 of 1934) before expiry of term — Suit by mortgagors for profits realised by mortgagee for date of application under S. 4 to date of decree—Burden of proving amount of profits realised by mortgagee lies on mortgagor as mortgagee was exempt from keeping accounts under S. 77. (Vol 33) 1946 Oudh 83 (86) : 21 Luck 124 (DB).

[13] Combination of usufructuary and simple mortgage — Mortgagee to appropriate usufruct in lieu of interest after paying rent to landlord Decree for arrears of rent — Landlord purchasing tenure in execution and bringing suit for redemption : Held, under S. 77 mortgagee was not liable to render accounts — Plaintiff was not entitled to possession unless principal amount was paid. (Vol 33) 1946 Pat 36 (39) : 24 Pat 545 (DB).

[14] Usufructuary mortgagor parting with possession but not receiving full amount of consideration cannot

[15] It is not inconsistent with the provisions of S. 77 that the mortgagor should impose upon himself a liability to make good certain possible deficiencies in profits, although the mortgagee is not liable to account. (Vol 28) 1941 Oudh 380 (382, 383) (DB).

12. Burden of proof.
13. Law in the Punjab.

1. Scope. — [1] This section provides an exception to the general rule laid down in S. 48. (Vol 23) 1936 Cal 283 (284) : 63 Cal 880 (DB) ✠ (Vol 15) 1928 Sind 179 (186) : 23 Sind L R 97 (DB) ✠ (Vol 17) 1930 Lah 920 (927) : 11 Lah 564 (DB) ✠ (Vol 17) 1930 Cal 22 (23): 56 Cal 868✠ (Vol 22) 1935 Lah 887 (888) (DB).

[2] The section is based on the law of estoppel. (Vol 5) 1918 Cal 411 (411) (DB).

[3] A subsequent mortgagee who is, in fact, misled by the mortgagor taking advantage of the conduct of the prior mortgagee can, as against the prior mortgagee, take advantage of his conduct. (Vol 19) 1932 Cal 589 (593) : 59 Cal 781 (DB) ✠ (Vol 14) 1927 Cal 538 (542) (DB).

[4] The words "fraud, misrepresentation or gross neglect" are disjunctive. Not being co-extensive in their meaning one cannot be defined in terms of the other. (Vol 3) 1916 Cal 33 (39) : 43 Cal 1052 (DB) ✠ (Vol 19) 1932 Cal 589 (594) : 59 Cal 781 (DB) ✠ (Vol 21) 1934 Nag 29 (31) : 30 Nag L R 196.

2. "Fraud."—[1] A subsequent mortgagee claiming relief against the prior mortgagee on the ground of fraud must plead fraud and must specifically set out the particulars of the fraud alleged. (Vol 17) 1930 Cal 22 (28) : 56 Cal 868.

3. "Misrepresentation." — [1] The word "misrepresentation" must be taken to have been used in this section in the sense in which it is defined in S. 18 of the Contract Act. (Vol 3) 1916 Cal 33 (39) : 43 Cal 1052 (DB) ✠ (Vol 21) 1934 Nag 29 (30, 31) : 30 Nag L R 196.

[2] A prior mortgagee endorsed an acknowledgment of full satisfaction on the back of the mortgage-deed and handed over the deed to the mortgagor. The amounts paid by the mortgagor were, in fact, paid not towards the satisfaction of the mortgage in question, but towards the satisfaction of a different mortgage and this fact ought to have been within the knowledge of the prior mortgagee. It was held that the prior mortgagee had made a "misrepresentation" within the meaning of S. 18, cl. (1) of the Contract Act ; and that he must be postponed to the subsequent mortgagee, who advanced money on the security of the mortgaged property under the belief that the prior mortgage was discharged (Vol 21) 1934 Nag 29 (30, 31) : 30 Nag L R 196.

4. "Gross neglect." — [1] The term "gross neglect" as used in this section, may be said to mean a failure on the part of the prior mortgagee to take such reasonable precautions against the risk of a subsequent mortgagee being deceived as in the circumstances renders it unjust that the prior mortgagee should retain his priority. (Vol 17) 1930 Cal 22 (28, 29) : 56 Cal 868✠ (Vol 25) 1938 Mad 87 (89) ✠ (Vol 21) 1934 Nag 29 (31): 30 Nag L R 196.

[2] A definition of the term "gross neglect" in any precise words is not practicable, nor desirable, and each case must depend upon its particular circumstances. (Vol 17) 1930 Cal 22 (29) : 56 Cal 868 ✠ ('08) 31 Mad 7 (10) (DB) ✠ (Vol 17) 1930 Rang 246 (247) (DB) ✠ (Vol 27) 1940 Lah 269 (271) ✠ (Vol 23) 1936 Cal 283 (284) : 63 Cal 880 (DB) ✠ (Vol 20) 1933 All 299 (300, 301) (DB) ✠ (Vol 15) 1928 Rang 136 (137) : 6 Rang 423 (DB) ✠ (Vol 30) 1943 Lah 113 (117) (DB).

[3] An act or omission in order to amount to gross neglect must be such as will be sufficient to create an estoppel. (Vol 21) 1934 Nag 29 (32) : 30 Nag L R 196 ✠ (Vol 17) 1930 Cal 22 (28, 29) : 56 Cal 868.

[4] Gross neglect by itself and apart from any element of fraud or misrepresentation is sufficient to postpone a prior mortgagee to a subsequent mortgagee under the section. (Vol 30) 1943 Lah 113 (117) (DB)✠ ('92) 15 Mad 268 (274, 275) (DB) ✠ (Vol 19) 1932 Cal 589 (594): 59 Cal 781 (DB)✠(Vol 15) 1928 Sind 179 (183) : 23 Sind L R 97 (DB) ✠ (Vol 23) 1936 Cal 283 (287, 288) : 63 Cal 880 (DB)✠(Vol 21) 1934 Nag 29 (31) : 30 Nag L R 196✠ ('89) 12 Mad 424 (428).

[See however (Vol 16) 1929 Lah 314 (314)]

[5] A slight negligence on the part of the prior mortgagee is not sufficient to postpone him. (Vol 23) 1936 Cal 283 (284, 287, 288) : 63 Cal 880 (DB) ✠ ('89) 8 Mad 200 (202) (DB). (Case before the Act) ✠ (Vol 19) 1932 Cal 589 (594) : 59 Cal 781 (DB).

5. Prior mortgagee failing to obtain or parting with title-deeds whether guilty of gross neglect. — [1] A failure to obtain possession of, or parting with the title-deeds by the prior mortgagee is not necessarily such a "gross neglect" as would postpone him to the subsequent mortgagee under this section. (Vol 30) 1943 Lah 113 (117) (DB). (Failure to obtain possession. (Vol 27) 1940 Lah 269, Reversed.) ✠ ('08) 31 Mad 7 (11, 12) (DB). (Do.)✠(Vol 17) 1930 Rang 246 (247) (DB). (Do.)✠ (Vol 3) 1916 Cal 33 (41): 43 Cal 1052 (DB). (Do.) ✠ (Vol 25) 1938 Mad 87 (89). (Do.) ✠ (Vol 13) 1926 Rang 195 (196, 197) : 4 Rang 238. (Parting with.) ✠ ('98) 2 Cal W N 750 (754). (Do.)

[2] If the circumstances show that the prior mortgagee had made an enquiry about the title-deeds at the time of taking his mortgage, that an explanation was given by the mortgagor and that the explanation was a reasonable one, the prior mortgagee cannot be charged with "gross neglect," for the failure to obtain possession of the title-deeds. ('10) 37 Cal 239 (248) : 37 Ind App 19 (PC).

[3] Where the relation between the prior mortgagee and the person in possession of the title-deeds, is not merely that of mortgagor and mortgagee, but of a fiduciary nature the prior mortgagee cannot be held guilty of gross neglect by reason of the improper act of the mortgagor so long as the mortgagee has no ground to suppose that there has been any want of good faith on the part of the mortgagor. (Vol 17) 1930 Cal 22 (29) : 56 Cal 868.

[4] Where the mortgagee is induced by the mortgagor to part with the deeds for the specific purpose of effecting of the mutation of names in the Land Revenue Registers, he cannot be charged with gross neglect under this section. (Vol 13) 1926 Rang 195 (197) : 4 Rang 238.

[6] In the case of a mortgage by deposit of title-deeds if the possession of the title-deed is an essential part of the prior mortgagee's security then if, he having got them, allows them to pass again into the possession of the mortgagor without any sufficient reason he would be postponed to the subsequent mortgagee to whom they are delivered. (Vol 23) 1936 Cal 283 (289) : 63 Cal 880 (DB).

[7] A prior mortgagee registering his mortgage within the period of four months allowed to him under S 23, Registration Act, cannot be said to be guilty of gross neglect on the ground of delay in registration. (Vol 20) 1933 Cal 398 (400) : 60 Cal 225.

[See however ('89) 12 Mad 424 (428).]

6. A prior mortgagee by deposit of title-deeds not obtaining all the title-deeds, whether guilty of gross neglect.—[1] If some of the material documents of title are deposited with one creditor and some with another, valid mortgages by deposit of title-deed will be created in favour of both the creditors. (Vol 19) 1932 Cal 589 (592) : 59 Cal 781 (DB).

[2] The mortgagor deposited with the creditor, the original probate of the will by which his grandfather bequeathed his property to him. Along with the probate he also deposited a certified copy of the redemption certificate relating to the property standing in the name of his grandfather. The mortgagor told the creditor that the original had been lost. In fact the original was deposited with another creditor. It was held that the deposit of the certified copy of the redemption certificate, taken along with the probate, clearly indicated an intention to create a security on the property and a valid mortgage by deposit of title-deeds was created, and that the creditor was not guilty of gross neglect within the meaning of S. 78 in relying on the word of the mortgagor as to the loss of the original redemption certificate and in not taking an affidavit from him. (Vol 19) 1932 Cal 589 (593, 594): 59 Cal 781 (DB).

[3] The documents relating to the sale of the property in favour of the mortgagor were deposited by him with the creditor but the sanads granted by Bombay Government to his predecessors-in-interest were not deposited. It was held that the mortgagee was not guilty of gross neglect in not demanding the sanads. (Vol 17) 1930 Lah 920 (927) : 11 Lah 564 (DB).

[4] One S held two plots under a registered sale-deed. He also had with him the two original lease-deeds under which the plots were held by his vendor. There was an endorsement on each of the lease-deeds that the property was sold to S — S deposited the sale-deed and the lease deed with regard to one of the plots with A and subsequently deposited the lease-deed with regard to the other plot with B It was held that a mortgage by deposit of title-deeds on the whole of the property was created in favour of A and the mere fact that he did not insist on obtaining the lease-deed subsequently deposited with B did not amount to gross neglect so as to postpone him to B as the lease-deed on the face of it must clearly have shown the existence of the sale-deed. (Vol 16) 1929 Rang 65 (66) : 7 Rang 28 (DB).

7. Laches by prior mortgagee in instituting suit. — [1] A delay in filing a suit on the mortgage cannot be a gross neglect ('05) 1 Nag L R 158 (161, 162).

8. "Fraud, misrepresentation or gross neglect" must be the proximate cause of the inducement. — [1] The fraud, misrepresentation or gross neglect on the part of the prior mortgagee must be the proximate cause of the inducement for the advancement of money by the subsequent mortgagee If it is only one of the various contributory factors that led the subsequent mortgagee to advance the money, the section has no application. (Vol 30) 1943 Lah 113 (117) (DB) ✠ (Vol 20) 1933 All 299 (300) (DB) ✠ (Vol 17) 1930 Cal 22 (28) : 56 Cal 868 ✠ (Vol 21) 1934 Nag 29 (32) : 30 Nag L R 196.

[2] Where the prior mortgagee is guilty of gross neglect, but the subsequent mortgagee is also guilty of contributory negligence, the prior mortgagee cannot be postponed to the subsequent mortgagee under this section. (Vol 20) 1933 All 299 (301) (DB) ✠ ('13) 18 Ind Cas 487 (487) (DB) (Low Bur) ✠ ('91) 15 Mad 268 (279, 280) (DB).

9. Subsequent mortgagee having notice of the prior mortgage cannot obtain priority. — [1] The section does not apply if the subsequent mortgagee has notice of the prior mortgage at the time of taking his mortgage. (Vol 30) 1943 Lah 113 (117) (DB) ✠ (Vol 23) 1936 Cal 283 (289) : 63 Cal 880 (DB) ✠ ('91) 15 Mad 268 (277, 278) (DB) ✠ (Vol 14) 1927 Cal 538 (543) (DB) ✠ (Vol 25) 1938 Mad 161 (163, 164) (DB) ✠ ('94) 18 Bom 444 (446, 447) (DB).

[2] In places where one knows that mortgages by deposit of title-deeds are legal and usual, abstention from inquiry as to whether the title-deeds were already pledged amount to constructive notice, under S. 3, of the prior mortgage. (Vol 10) 1923 PC 211 (216) : 51 Cal 86 : 1 Rang 837 : 50 Ind App 283 (PC).

[3] It is in favour of a person in possession of the title-deeds that the doctrine of constructive notice can be invoked on the ground of the omission of the other party to call for them and not in favour of a person who has not got them. (Vol 25) 1938 Mad 161 (163, 164) (DB).

[4] It has been held that where the prior mortgagee induces the subsequent mortgagee to advance money by false representations, he cannot avoid the consequences resulting from his conduct on the ground of constructive notice on the part of the subsequent mortgagee. ('94) 18 Bom 444 (446) (DB).

10. Section applies to mortgagees. — [1] The section will not apply where both the prior and the subsequent transferees are not mortgagees. (Vol 21) 1934 Oudh 283 (283) (DB).

[2] Where through the gross neglect of a prior mortgagee, a person is induced to purchase the mortgaged property as unencumbered, the prior mortgagee is precluded from setting up his rights under the mortgage as against the purchaser and the purchaser obtains

79. If a mortgage made to secure future advances, the performance of an engagement or the balance of a running account, expresses the maximum to be secured thereby, a subsequent mortgage of the same property shall, if made with notice of the prior mortgage, be postponed to the prior mortgage in respect of all advances or debits not exceeding the maximum, though made or allowed with notice of the subsequent mortgage.

A mortgages Sultanpur to his bankers, B & Co, to secure the balance of his account with them to the extent of Rs. 10 000. A then mortgages Sultanpur to C, to secure Rs 10,000, C having notice of the mortgage to B & Co, and C gives notice to B & Co. of the second mortgage. At the date of the second mortgage, the balance due to B & Co. does not exceed Rs. 5,000. B & Co. subsequently advance to A sums making the balance of the account against him exceed the sum of Rs. 10,000. B & Co. are entitled, to the extent of Rs. 10,000, to priority over C.

11. Prior mortgagee losing priority — Mortgagor's liability to him is not affected.—[1] The fact that a mortgagee loses, for some reason his priority as against a subsequent mortgagee cannot affect him prejudicially as against the mortgagor. (Vol 2) 1915 P C 21 (24) : 37 All 474 : 42 Ind App 163 (PC).

12. Burden of proof.—[1] This section being an exception to the general rule laid down in S. 48 the burden of proving this exception lies on the party who asserts it. (Vol 23) 1936 Cal 283 (284): 63 Cal 880 (DB) ✠ (Vol 21) 1934 Nag 29 (30) : 30 Nag L R 196 ✠ (Vol 16) 1929 Rang 298 (300) ✠ (Vol 20) 1933 All 299 (301) (DB).

13. Law in the Punjab. — [1] The principle enunciated in this section is applicable to cases arising in the Punjab. (Vol 30) 1943 Lah 113 (117) (DB)✠ (Vol 27) 1940 Lah 308 (308, 309).

[1] This section is an exception to the general rule stated in S. 48. (Vol 7) 1920 Pat 251 (254) (DB)✠('12) 16 Cal L Jour 394 (399) (DB).

[2] A partition deed provided that the common family debts should be discharged by the respective sharers to whom they fell as per schedule of the deed, and that if any sharer failed to discharge the debts falling to his share, his properties should be liable for such debts and for the losses that might happen to the family. It was held that the provision was a mortgage for securing the performance of an engagement. (Vol 8) 1921 Mad 459 (460) (DB).

[3] It will depend on the construction of the mortgage bond and the circumstances in each case whether the mortgage is to secure the balance due on the date of the mortgage or the balance that may be found due from time to time up to a certain limit. See (Vol 30) 1943 Pat 301 (303, 304) : 22 Pat 213 (DB).

[4] The section has no application unless the prior mortgage expresses a maximum amount up to which the advances are to be made. (Vol 25) 1938 All 473 (476) (DB).

[5] The words 'to secure future advances', etc., denominate the different classes of mortgages, but to bring them under S. 79 they must have the common feature of a maximum expressed. It is not, however, necessary that a definite figure should be expressly mentioned as the maximum to be secured by the mortgage; it is sufficient if the maximum is expressed in such terms that the definite figure can be determined when required. It was held that the document read with the schedule specified the maximum secured by the document and that the reference to losses would not impair the adequency of the specification of the maximum. (Vol 8) 1921 Mad 459 (460, 461) (DB).

[7] This section has been enacted with a view to protect a prior mortgagee by giving him priority over a subsequent mortgage with respect to advances made to him after the subsequent mortgage and it has no application where no advances are made by the prior mortgagee after the creation of the subsequent mortgage. (Vol 25) 1938 All 473 (476) (DB) ✠(Vol 7) 1920 Pat 251 (254) (DB).

[8] If a mortgagee taking a mortgage in a place where he knows that mortgages by deposit of title-deeds are legal and usual, does not ascertain whether the title deeds were already pledged, his failure to so ascertain is such abstention from an inquiry which he ought to have made or such negligence as to infer notice in terms of section 3. (Vol 10) 1923 P C 211 (216) : 51 Cal 86 : 1 Rang 637: 50 Ind App 283 (P C).

[9] This section is held applicable to the case of a charge created by a partition deed executed between brothers. (Vol 8) 1921 Mad 459 (461) (DB).

[10] If A is the mortgagee and B the mortgagor, and B himself sells away his equity of redemption, or his equity of redemption is sold in court auction to C, and then A makes a further advance to B, he cannot get any priority or other right in respect of advance as against C. Where, of two properties belonging to the same owner, one is mortgaged to secure one debt and then both are mortgaged to secure another debt, and the former debt is paid out of the former property, each property is, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, liable to contribute rateably to the latter debt after deducting the amount of the former debt from the value of the property out of which it has been paid.

Nothing in this section applies to a property liable under section 81 to the claim of the [b][subsequent] mortgagee.

[5] When A and B execute a mortgage of properties X and Y in favour of C and then A alone executes a mortgage of property Y in favour of D, the doctrine of marshalling cannot be applied and D cannot compel C to proceed first against property X. [14] Where the prior mortgagee of items A, B and C could not include in his suit on the mortgage, item C owing to the conduct of the subsequent mortgagee of A and B, and, therefore, proceeded to enforce his mortgage only against A and B, it was held that the puisne mortgagee could not be allowed to claim as against the prior mortgagee that the latter should first proceed against C. (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 1203 (1204) (DB).

[15] Where the mortgaged properties consisted of over two hundred items almost all of which were subject to incumbrances or alienations and many of which were complicated by the existence of rights to compensation for improvements in the alienees, it was held that it would almost be impossible to try and work out the equities of all the incumbrancers and alienees in such circumstances by arranging the order of sale without prejudice to the first mortgagee and that therefore the puisne incumbrancers should be directed to work out their own rights by way of suits for contribution. 1. Scope. — [1] No contribution can be claimed against a person who has paid more than his share of the liability. (Vol 2) 1915 Cal 334 (336) (DB) ✠ (Vol 13) 1926 Cal 657 (658) (DB).

[2] As the section prescribes the conditions in which contribution is payable, the Courts cannot introduce any extraneous equitable principles to modify the liability to contribute, imposed by this section. (Vol 17) 1930 P C 183 (185) : 52 All 358 : 57 Ind App 189 (P.C).

[3] The fact that the mortgage-debt has passed into a decree does not prevent the application of the rule in the section. (Vol 19) 1932 P C 99 (101) (PC).

[4] Sale of mortgaged property set aside under O. 21, R. 89—Compensation payable to auction-purchaser and poundage fee chargeable from mortgagor are not expenses properly incurred within S. 95—No claim for contribution can be made in respect of these amounts. (Vol 30) 1943 Mad 429 (433) : I L R (1943) Mad 531 (F B).

[5] Though the Act is not extended to the Punjab, the general principles underlying the section are applied to cases arising in the province. (Vol 20) 1933 Lah 374 (375) (DB).

[7] The amendment of the section in 1929 is not retrospective. (Vol 19) 1932 P C 74 (75) : 54 All 199 : 59 Ind App 106 (P C).

[8] The section covers all cases, whether of a mortgage of several properties owned by several owners or of one property the title to which becomes severed after the mortgage. (Vol 30) 1943 Mad 429 (434) : I L R (1943) Mad 531 (F B) ✠ (Vol 29) 1942 Mad 685 (686) : I L R (1943) Mad 96 (FB).

2. Common and equal liability.—[1] The section presupposes the existence of a common liability in the form of the mortgage-debt equally secured by all the properties. (Vol 23) 1936 Mad 500 (502) ✠ (Vol 20) 1933 All 929 (932) (D B) ✠ (Vol 15) 1928 Cal 593 (596 : 55 Cal 1193 (DB).

[2] It is necessary to prove that a common liability exists in respect of the property from which contribution is claimed. (Vol 21) 1934 P C 98 (100) : 61 Ind App 185 : 13 Pat 310 (PC).

[3] If no such common liability exists, there can be no contribution. (Vol 12) 1925 Oudh 215 (219) (D B).

[4] Even if there exists a common liability to pay, contribution cannot be claimed unless each of the properties is liable in equal degree to pay the common liability. (Vol 16) 1929 Pat 664 (675) : 8 Pat 585 (D B).

[5] Where a mortgagor of properties X and Y transfers, by way of a lease or a mortgage, property X and retains property Y, the latter is primarily liable to discharge the mortgage-debt on both X and Y. Hence, if the mortgagor himself or his personal representative pays the entire debt, there can be no contribution from X. (Vol 6) 1919 Oudh 241 (244) : 21 Oudh Cas 360 (D B).

[6] A mortgages X and Y to B. A then mortgages X alone to C. The property X is sold under B's mortgage and the mortgage is completely discharged. C can claim contribution from Y in order to realise the mortgage-money due to him. (Vol 31) 1944 Mad 276 (276) ✠ (Vol 29) 1942 Mad 685 (687) : I L R (1943) Mad 96 (F B).

3. Valuation.—[1] The material date for assessing the value of the property is the date of the mortgage and not the date of the subsequent transfer. (Vol 30) 1943 Mad 429 (434) : I L R (1943) Mad 531 (F B) ✠ (Vol 26) 1939 All 86 (87) ✠ (Vol 29) 1942 Mad 44 (47) (D B).

[2] Where the person claiming contribution adduces evidence to show the value of the property at the time he purchased it, it lies on the other side to prove that the value of the property at the date of the mortgage was different. (Vol 3) 1916 All 190 (191) (DB).

4. Rate of contribution.—[1] The value referred to in the section is the actual market-value of the property. ('70) 13 Moo Ind App 404 (408) (PC).

[2] The value referred to in the section is not the price paid for the property by any subsequent purchaser whether in a private or in an execution sale. (Vol 4) 1917 All 357 (358) (DB).

[3] Where the mortgaged property is land, the Government revenue may be taken as a measure of profits yielded every year and may thus afford a measure for calculating the value of the property. ('97) 19 All 545 (550) (DB).

[4] Government revenue of land is not always a correct criterion of actual value and cannot be accepted, without more, as the only method for ascertaining the market-value of the property. ('70) 13 Moo Ind App 404 (408) (P C) ✠ ('75) 20 Suth W R 163 (163) (D B).

[5] Where any of the properties mortgaged is already subject to a prior mortgage or charge, the mode of ascertaining its share of liability is to deduct the amount of such mortgage or charge from the market-value of that particular property and to treat the remaining sum as the market-value of that item for the purpose of finding out the rate of contribution. (Vol 4) 1917 All 357 (358) (DB).

[6] Properties X and Y of market-value of Rs. 1000 and Rs. 1500 respectively mortgaged to secure debt of Rs. 1000 — Property X already subject to prior mortgage for Rs. 600 along with another property Z of market-value of Rs. 300 — Value of Y for contribution towards second mortgage will be Rs. 1000 and X and

Y each will have to contribute Rs. 500. ('37) 19 All 545 (554, 556) (DB).

[7] Where the amount payable by the property under the prior mortgage or charge exceeds its market-value, the value of such property for the purpose of contribution under the second mortgage is nil and the entire burden of the latter debt rests on the remaining properties. ('11) 33 All 387 (390) (DB) ✠ (Vol 18) 1931 All 625 (627) (DB).

[8] Properties X and Y of the admitted market-values of Rs. 20,000 and Rs. 6000 respectively were mortgaged for Rs. 8000. The properties were subsequently sold to A and B respectively. The mortgagee obtained a decree on his mortgage and sold property Y in execution for Rs. 21000 for which it was purchased by A. This amount completely satisfied the mortgage. B sued A for contribution. It was held that Rs. 6000 was the value of the property Y, the liability assessed rateably on this basis on Y was Rs. 5000 and therefore the real excess paid by Y was only Rs. 1000. This was the amount which B could claim from A. ('04) 31 Cal 95 (104) (DB).

5. "In the absence of a contract to the contrary." —[1] It is open to the parties to contract that there shall be no contribution in the particular case or that they should contribute in a particular manner. (Vol 15) 1928 All 241 (247) : 50 All 569 (D B) ✠ (Vol 23) 1936 Mad 901 (903).

[2] A mortgaged properties X and Y to B. He then sold X to C, directing him to pay off the mortgage from out of the sale consideration. Subsequently, Y was sold in court auction in execution of a money decree against A and was purchased by D—Thereafter C paid off the mortgage and sued D for contribution—It was held that D was liable to contribute. (Vol 17) 1930 PC 183 (185) : 57 Ind App 169 : 52 All 358 (P C). (On appeal from (Vol 13) 1926 All 352.)

[3] The "contract to the contrary" must be one between the mortgagor and the mortgagee. (Vol 30) 1943 Mad 429 (437) : I L R (1943) Mad 531 (F B). ((Vol 23) 1936 Mad 106 : 59 Mad 121 ; (Vol 23) 1936 Mad 898 ; (Vol 23) 1936 Mad 901 and (Vol 28) 1941 Mad 66, Overruled.) ✠ (Vol 18) 1931 Nag 172 (172) : 27 Nag L R 258 ✠ (Vol 18) 1931 All 546 (547) ✠(Vol 19) 1932 Mad 218 (219) ✠ (Vol 23) 1936 Mad 113 (115).

[4] A contract excluding the right of contribution will be personally binding on the actual parties to the contract even though the mortgagee is not a party to the contract. (Vol 30) 1943 Mad 429 (436) : I L R (1943) Mad 531 (FB). (('02) 24 Mad 85, Foll.)

[5] There will be an implied contract to the contrary in the following cases:

(a) A contract between the mortgagor and his transferee of a portion of the property that the latter should pay off the entire mortgage implies contract that the vendor's property is not liable to contribute towards the mortgage. (Vol 28) 1941 Mad 66 (66). (Overruled in (Vol 30) 1943 Mad 429: I L R (1943) Mad 531 (FB) on another point.) ✠ ('13) 25 Mad L Jour 24 (26) (DB) (Mad).

[But see (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 1012 (1014) (DB).]

(b) An undertaking by the transferor-mortgagor that he will himself discharge the mortgage, implies a contract that the property transferred is not liable to contribute to the mortgage-debt. (Vol 23) 1936 Mad 901 (903). (Overruled in (Vol 30) 1943 Mad 429 : I L R (1943) Mad 531 (F B) on another point.)

(c) Where, of the two mortgagors A and B, B takes the whole of the mortgage money, there is an implied contract that A's property is not liable to contribute towards the debt. (Vol 23) 1936 Mad 106 (111) : 59 Mad 121 (D B). (Overruled in (Vol 30) 1943 Mad 429 : I L R (1943) Mad 531 (FB) on another point.)

(d) Where one of the mortgagors is merely a surety for the others, there is an implied contract that the former is not liable to contribute towards the debt. (Vol 23) 1936 All 258 (264) : 58 All 548 (DB).

(e) Where the mortgagor sells a part of the mortgaged property free of incumbrances, there is an implied contract that that part is not liable to contribute. (Vol 16) 1929 Pat 664 (675) : 8 Pat 585 (DB) ✠ (Vol 11) 1924 Mad 749 (753) (DB).

[6] Several properties mortgaged to secure one debt —Contract exempting owner of one property from liability — Other parties are bound to exempt that property. (Vol 14) 1927 Mad 1086 (1088) (DB).

6. Second paragraph. — [1] Under this paragraph it is not necessary that the two mortgages must have been executed by the same person. (Vol 31) 1944 Mad 276 (278).

7. Property sold in particular order — Right of contribution.—[1] Where in execution of a mortgage-decree against several items of the mortgaged property, the Court, in the exercise of its discretion under O. 34 of the Civil Procedure Code, orders that the items should be sold in a particular order, such order does not affect the right of contribution between the various items. (Vol 6) 1919 Pat 533 (534) (DB).

[See also (Vol 22) 1935 Mad 456 (458).]

[2] Where the order of sale is in pursuance of an arrangement between the parties that some of the items are primarily liable for the entire debt, the arrangement will be a "contract to the contrary" and consequently there may be no right to contribution. ('02) 6 Cal W N 583 (584, 585) (DB).

8. Marshalling, exception to rule of contribution. — [1] A the owner of properties X and Y, mortgages them both to B, and then mortgages Y alone to C. In such a case, C is entitled by virtue of the last paragraph to have the mortgage-debt to B satisfied out of property X so far as it will extend. In the absence of such a provision, properties X and Y would be both liable to pay rateably to the mortgage-debt under this section and thus prejudice the rights of the subsequent mortgagee C, whose security comprises only of property Y. (Vol 23) 1936 Mad 106 (111) : 59 Mad 121 (DB).

9. Right of contribution is not a right to obtain apportionment in a mortgage suit. — [1] The section merely determines the liability of the mortgagors inter se. It does not operate so as to split up the mortgage security. ('91) 18 Cal 320 (321) (D B) ✠ (Vol 22) 1935 Rang 26 (29) (DB) ✠ (Vol 27) 1940 Cal 60 (64)✠ (Vol 5) 1918 Bom 181 (181) (DB) ✠ ('98) 1898 Bom P J 213 (DB) ✠ ('09) 10 Cal L Jour 150 (175) (DB).

[2] In a suit on the mortgage, the owners of the different portions of the mortgaged properties are not entitled to claim as a matter of right, on the strength of the liability to contribute under this section, that the mortgage-debt should be apportioned between the various mortgaged properties and each of them should be allowed to redeem on payment of his rateable share thereon. ('91) 18 Cal 320 (321) (DB) ✠ (Vol 27) 1940 Cal 60 (64) ✠ (Vol 14) 1927 Pat 117 (122) (DB) ✠ ('95) 1895 Pun Re No. 75, page 366 (368) (DB) ✠ (Vol 27) 1940 Lah 370 (371) : I L R (1941) Lah 1 (FB) ✠ (Vol15) 1928 Sind 101 (103) : 22 Sind L R 243 ✠ (Vol 11) 1924 Pat 174 (175) (DB) ✠ (Vol 5) 1918 Bom 181 (181)

[But see ('83) 9 Cal 406 (410) (DB).]

[3] The owner of the part of the equity of redemption cannot sue for partial redemption. ('13) 16 Oudh Cas 199 (201, 202).

[4] The mortgagee is entitled to execute his mortgage decree against any of the mortgaged properties he pleases, and if any question of equity arises between the different owners of the mortgaged properties, that equity can only be enforced in an independent suit for contribution and not in proceedings for execution. (Vol 30) 1943 Mad 637 (639) ✠ (Vol 10) 1923 Pat 44 (45) (DB) ✠ ('07) 34 Cal 13 (17, 18) (DB).

10. A claim for contribution is a charge on the property. — [1] The provisions of S. 82 read with S. 100 clearly give rise to a charge against such portions of the mortgaged property as have not discharged their proportionate share of the liability. (Vol 29) 1942 Mad 685 (686) : I L R (1943) Mad 96 (FB) ✠ (Vol 29) 1942 Oudh 449 (457) : 19 Luck 70 (FB) ✠ (Vol 17) 1930 Oudh 260 (262) : 5 Luck 727 (DB) ✠ ('11) 33 All 708 (722) (FB). (Per Banerji J.) ✠ ('04) 26 All 407 (444) (FB).

[2] A suit for contribution is a suit to enforce a charge and the limitation applicable to such a suit will be as provided by Art. 132, Limitation Act. ('11) 33 All 708 (723) (FB).

11. Liability to contribute, whether personal. — [1] The owner of the part or share, who pays in excess of his share, towards the mortgage-debt, can claim apart from the provisions of this section, a personal relief under S. 69 of the Contract Act against those who have escaped payment. (Vol 1) 1914 Cal 208 (209) (DB) ✠ (Vol 1) 1914 Cal 672 (673) (DB) ✠ (Vol 15) 1928 All 298 (298) : 50 All 428.

[2] Where a co-mortgagor pays off the decretal amount and sets aside the execution sale he cannot get personal decree for contribution under S. 69, Contract Act. But where a co-mortgagor prevents the sale of the mortgaged property in execution he is entitled to it. ('10) 14 Cal W N 361 (363) (DB).

[3] Whether S. 69 of the Contract Act applies or not, a suit for contribution would fall within the scope of S. 70 of the Contract Act. (Vol 18) 1931 Pat 394 (399) : 10 Pat 528 (DB).

[4] Where the mortgagee threatened to sell the land mortgaged to him and one of the cosharers paid up the mortgage-debt to prevent the property from being sold, it was held that his suit for contribution fell within the scope of S. 70 of the Contract Act and that he was entitled to a personal relief against the owner of the property liable to contribute. ('88) 1888 All W N 10 (10) (DB).

[5] Though a personal decree for contribution may be passed against any of the persons who are themselves mortgagors, it cannot be passed against an auction-purchaser of the title of one of the mortgagors. (Vol 11) 1924 Nag 238 (240).

12. Mortgage-debt not fully discharged — Claim for contribution. — [1] A suit for contribution by enforcing the charge is maintainable even if the whole mortgage is not discharged in full. [2] A mortgage decree was passed against an agriculturist and a non-agriculturist defendant holding one-fifth and four-fifth share in the mortgaged property respectively. The decree was scaled down as against the agriculturist defendant who paid off the decretal amount as scaled down and as that was more than he was liable to pay for his share he claimed contribution. Held that the common mortgage-debt extended to the amount of decree as scaled down and as the common liability was fully discharged, the agriculturist defendant was entitled to claim contribution. (Vol 34) 1947 Mad 86 (88).

13. Contribution arises both on voluntary and involuntary payments.— [1] The right of contribution arises, with equal force and validity, both in the case where the claimant has himself paid the amount to avert a legal process, and in the case where such payment has been enforced by an execution sale of the claimant's property. In both the cases the claim is based on the ground that the claimant's property has paid more than what it was liable for and that the defendant has been benefited by the payment. (Vol 29) 1942 Mad 685 (687) : I L R (1943) Mad 96 (FB). [2] The fact that the puisne mortgagee did not redeem the earlier mortgage cannot preclude him from suing for contribution when the earlier mortgage was satisfied by execution sale of the property mortgaged to him. (Vol 31) 1944 Mad 276 (276).

14. Right of redeeming co-mortgagor to claim contribution.— [1] There is nothing to prevent a redeeming co-mortgagor, from claiming at his option rights given to him under S. 95 or those given to him by this section. (Vol 29) 1942 Oudh 449 (457, 458) (FB). (Per Agarwala J.) ✠ (Vol 32) 1945 Pat 192 (195) (DB).

[2] Co-mortgagor by paying mortgage-money gets rights of original mortgagee under S. 92 and also acquires a fresh charge—Limitation for suit by co-mortgagor for contribution is 12 years from date of payment and not from date when original mortgage-money became payable. (Vol 29) 1942 Oudh 449 (458) : 19 Luck 70 (FB).

[3] When a co-mortgagor in order to set aside a sale in execution of the mortgage decree pays the requisite amount and gets the sale set aside such co-mortgagor becomes an equitable assignee of the mortgage bond, but if the suit on the mortgage bond is barred, he can sue for contribution the other co-mortgagors and obtain a charge on their share. (Vol 32) 1945 Pat 192 (196) (DB).

15. Effect of acquisition of a portion of equity of redemption by mortgagee.— [1] Where the mortgagee himself purchases a portion of the mortgaged property, such purchase will extinguish that portion of the mortgage-debt which is chargeable by way of contribution on the portion purchased by him, that is to say, the portion of the debt which bears the same ratio to the whole amount of the debt as the value of the portion purchased bears to the whole of the property mortgaged. [3] The mortgagee need not abate any portion of his debt where he has paid the full market-value of the portion purchased and not merely the value of the equity of redemption in it. [4] Where the mortgagee acquired a portion of equity of redemption and sued for sale of the remaining property for the balance of the debt, it was held that the decree ordering the sale of the property without fixing the proportionate liability on the property under this section was improper. (Vol 3) 1916 Pat 249 (249): 1 Pat L Jour 228 (DB).

[5] In case a mortgagee purchases a portion of equity of redemption after the passing of decree on his mortgage, he cannot execute his decree for the recovery of the entire debt. 17. Effect of negligence or laches on the part of the mortgagee.— [1] A mortgagee or charge-holder who has got a charge on two properties, but who allows by his negligence or laches, his remedy against one of the properties to be barred, cannot claim to recover the whole amount from the other property. [But see ('73) 5 N W P H C R 215 (216) (DB).]

[2] It is only when persons liable to contribute are properly before the Court that the value of the different items of property can be ascertained and a decree finally settling all disputes can be made. (Vol 3) 1916 All 190 (191) (DB) ✠ (Vol 27) 1940 Pat 119 (121) (DB).

19. Properties liable to contribute.—[1] Where properties a, b, c and d are mortgaged to secure a debt, and properties a and b are sold for the realisation of the debt the owner of a can claim contribution only from the properties c and d. ('97) 19 All 545 (548) (DB).

[2] Where some of the properties mortgaged to secure the common debt, are already subject to a prior mortgage, and such properties are sold in execution of the decree obtained on that mortgage the sale is free of the second mortgage, and such properties are not liable for contribution as far as the claim arising under the second mortgage is concerned; the burden of satisfying the whole mortgage-debt falls entirely on the remaining mortgage properties. ('97) 19 All 545 (549) (DB) ✠ ('10) 32 All 612 (618): 37 Ind App 182 (P C).

[3] The burden of proof that some of the mortgaged properties have been completely absorbed in satisfaction of the prior mortgages is upon the plaintiff suing for contribution. If the plaintiff fails to prove that some of the properties are so absorbed, he is bound to bring each and every item of the property into the hotchpot in order to enable the liability of each of the properties to be determined. (Vol 18) 1931 All 625 (627, 628) (DB).

[4] If the plaintiff voluntarily relinquishes his claim for contribution from some of the properties he cannot thereby seek to enhance the burden on the other properties. Though a claim for contribution is lost against those properties which are absorbed in satisfaction of prior mortgage, it is not lost against those portions of the properties which are sold in execution of a decree obtained on a subsequent mortgage or in execution of a simple money decree against mortgagors. [2] Direction for sale of properties in particular order—Decree satisfied on sale of some items—Liability of the remaining properties to contribute, held not barred. (Vol 22) 1935 Mad 456 (458) ✠ (Vol 6) 1919 Pat. 533 (534) (DB).

[3] A suit for contribution on the failure to claim contribution in a redemption suit is not barred by the provisions of O. 2, R. 2 of the Code of Civil Procedure. (Vol 16) 1929 All 696 (697) (DB).

21. Plea that the plaintiff has no interest left in the property is no defence to the claim for contribution.—[1] Where the properties of both A and B were subject to one mortgage-debt and A paid Rs. 3,700 towards the discharge of that common liability, the

1. Scope.—[1] There are three remedies open to a mortgagor in respect of the redemption of the mortgaged property, (a) he may tender the mortgage-money privately to the mortgagee under S. 60; (b) he may deposit the money in Court under this section; or (c) he may institute a suit for redemption under S. 91. He can avail himself of any of these remedies and cannot be compelled to resort to any one remedy in particular. (Vol 8) 1921 All 358 (360): 43 All 95 (DB) ✠ ('01) 4 Oudh Cas 387 (394, 395) (DB).

[2] The provision for making a deposit in Court is intended to remove the inconveniences that may result from a tender out of Court. The deposit makes available to the mortgagor a sure mode of proof that he had made a tender. (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 601 (604): 49 Mad. 609 (FB).

[3] The mortgagor must strictly comply with the provisions of the section in order to claim benefit under it. (Vol 15) 1928 All 311 (313): 50 All 655 (DB) ✠ ('04) 26 All 291 (294) (DB) ✠ (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 88 (91) (DB).

[4] The provisions of the Act as to tender and deposit are not intended to apply to cases where there are disputes between the parties as to the extent of the subsisting interest of the mortgagor in the equity of redemption, so as to compel the mortgagee to take upon himself the task of deciding such disputes rightly for himself at the risk of losing interest on the money due to him. ('12) 1912 Mad W N 1175 (1176).

[But see (Vol 1) 1914 All 86 (99) : 36 All 26.]

2. Nature of procedure under the section:—[1] The procedure provided by the section is a summary one. ('90) 13 All 195 (199, 200) (DB).

[2] The functions of the Court under the section are merely ministerial and not judicial. ('95) 1895 All W N 145 (146, 147).

[3] Order 23, R 3, Civil P. C., does not apply to a compromise entered into pending proceedings under

this section. ('90) 13 Mad 316 (318) (DB). (S 375 of the Code of 1882.)

[4] It has been held that it is not competent for a District Munsif dealing with proceedings under this section to make a reference to the High Court. ('13) 36 Mad 16 (17) (DB).

3. Section applies to charges.—[1] The section would apply to a charge created on immovable property. (Vol 22) 1935 Oudh 93 (94): 10 Luck 350 (DB).

4. "At any time after . . . . . become due."—[1] The section presupposes that a person who proposes to take action under the section has a valid right to redeem and is not attempting to exercise his right of redemption in a manner contrary to the provisions of the contract between himself and the mortgagee. ('12) 35 Mad 209 (215) (D B).

[2] A consent decree passed between the parties provided that if the mortgagor made default in payment of the amount fixed by the decree on a certain date, the mortgagee would be entitled to take possession of the mortgaged property. The mortgagor made default but the mortgagee was not given possession. Before the mortgagee could recover possession, the mortgagor deposited the mortgage-money in Court. It was held that according to the consent decree the right to redeem could accrue, when default was made, only after the mortgagor had given possession to the mortgagee and as he did not give such possession, the deposit was premature. ('02) 26 Bom 312 (316) (D B).

[3] A mortgage-deed provided that it should be a simple mortgage for five years, that after that period the mortgagee was to have the option of retaining the deed as a simple mortgage deed or of obtaining possession of the mortgaged property, and that if he entered into possession there was to be no redemption for ten years after he had obtained possession. The mortgagor did not redeem within five years but as soon as the mortgagee sued for possession soon after five years had expired, the mortgagor made a deposit under this section. It was held that he could do so. (Vol 7) 1920 Oudh 311 (311).

[4] There was a stipulation in the mortgage deed that the mortgage could be discharged only by payment beyond the fruit season. The mortgagor deposited the amount while the fruit season was on. It was held that the deposit was not invalid and that it was open to the mortgagee to wait till the fruit season was over before he withdrew the amount. (Vol 28) 1941 Cal 18 (18, 19).

5. "The mortgagor, or any other person entitled to institute such suit." — [1] The persons, other than the mortgagor, who are entitled to institute a suit for redemption of the mortgaged property are enumerated in S. 91. Such persons also will be entitled to make the deposit under this section. (Vol 10) 1923 Mad 533 (534) : 47 Mad 7 (D B) ✠ (Vol 2) 1915 Lah 228 (231) : 1915 Pun Re No. 83 (D B) ✠ ('05) 27 All 178 (179, 180) (D B) ✠ (Vol 4) 1917 All 401 (401) : 39 All 719 (D B).

[2] A person in whose favour there is a mere agreement to sell the mortgaged property, is not entitled to make a deposit under this section. (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 597 (598, 600). ((Vol 4) 1917 Mad 517, Dissent.)

[3] A mortgagee accepting and taking out the money deposited without any objection cannot subsequently dispute the right of the person making such deposit, to redeem the property mortgaged. ('04) 1 All L Jour 590 (592, 593).

[4] Where the mortgagor or other person is a minor the person entrusted with the care of such minor desiring to take the benefit of this section should get a guardian ad litem appointed by the Court to take proceedings under the section on behalf of the minor. ('03) 27 Bom 23 (30) (D B). (Obiter.)

6. Deposit must be unconditional.—[1] Deposit under this section is only a special kind of tender. (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 601 (604) : 49 Mad 609 (F B) ✠ (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 1360 (1362) : 40 Mad 804 (F B).

[2] A valid deposit must be unconditional. ('91) 14 Mad 49 (50) (D B)✠(Vol 27) 1940 Pat 18 (19).

[3] A deposit is conditional if the person depositing money under this section denies the right of the person claiming the money to withdraw it. ('98) 22 Bom 761 (764) (D B).

[4] Where a mortgagor deposits money in Court but states in his petition that some money, on a different transaction, is due to him from the mortgagee and that he reserves his right to recover that money by a suit after the proceedings under this section are over, the deposit is not conditional. ('01) 4 Oudh Cas 355 (359).

[5] A deposit accompanied with a requisition for the return of the documents which the mortgagee is under a duty to deposit in Court, under this section, before he takes out the money deposited, is not conditional. ('94) 17 Mad 267 (268) (D B)✠ (Vol 11) 1924 Mad 559 (559, 560) (D B).

[6] A deposit is conditional if the mortgagee is required to return documents which he is not bound to deposit under the section. (Vol 3) 1916 Mad 1143 (1144).

[7] A deposit will not be considered conditional when the person making the deposit in his petition, prays for an issue of notice to the mortgagee, for cancellation of the mortgage deed and for a direction that the mortgagee should take the money deposited out of Court. (Vol 11) 1924 Mad 559 (559, 560) (D B).

[8] Where an application for making a deposit was made on 3-8-1910 but the actual desposit was made on 10-8-1910 and interest on the principal money was calculated up to 3-8-1910 only, it was held that the deposit was not valid on the ground that it was insufficient and that interest ought to have been calculated up to 10-8-1910 when the actual deposit was made. (Vol 3) 1916 Mad 382 (384) (D B).

7. Deposit after suit. — [1] This section applies only to deposits made before a suit has been instituted on the mortgage. Deposits into Court after the institution of a suit by the creditor to recover a debt are governed by the provisions of O. 24, Civil P. C. ('12) 35 Mad 209 (212, 213) (D B) ✠ (Vol 22) 1935 Oudh 93 (94): 10 Luck 350 (D B)✠(Vol 26) 1939 Mad 200 (201).

[2] Where a suit has been instituted on the mortgage in one Court, the fact that a deposit of the amount is thereafter made in another Court having jurisdiction over the mortgaged property will not be a valid deposit under this section. The fact that the mortgagor had no notice of the institution of the suit will not affect the right of the mortgagee to proceed with the suit as instituted. ('12) 35 Mad 209 (213) (D B) ✠ (Vol 6) 1919 Mad 948 (948, 949) (D B).

[3] A mortgagee filed a suit for recovery of the interest due on a mortgage document and pending the final decision of that suit, the mortgagor made a deposit of the principal money which was due according to him, under this section. It was held that the amount deposited was insufficient and that therefore, interest did not cease to run. (Vol 16) 1929 P C 243 (244, 246): 56 Ind App 339: 51 All 686 (P C).

8. Deposit in redemption suit. — [1] Where a mortgagor or other person mentioned in S. 91 institutes a suit for redemption and then deposits the mortgage-money in Court neither this section nor O. 24, Civil P. C., will apply to such a deposit. ('99) 1 Bom L R 381 (383) (D B).

9. Suit for redemption without previous deposit. — [1] A deposit under this section is not a condition precedent to a suit for redemption of the mortgaged property. (Vol 8) 1921 All 353 (355): 43 All 638 (F B).

[2] Court cannot dismiss the suit for redemption on the ground that there was no previous deposit or that the deposit was insufficient. (Vol 17) 1930 All 523 (524) (DB).

10. Title to money deposited until withdrawal by mortgagee. — [1] The money deposited under this section remains the property of the person making the deposit until it has been accepted by the mortgagee under the provisions of this section. ('05) 29 Mad 232 (233) (D B)✠(Vol 27) 1940 Pat 18 (19) ✠ (Vol 24) 1937 Pat 253 (254, 255). (Fact that such person has, after the deposit, sued for redemption or that a decree has been passed in such suit will not make any difference.) ✠('03) 25 All 179 (183) (D B).

[2] A mortgagor deposited the mortgage amount under S. 83. The mortgagee refused to accept it and the mortgagor thereupon brought a suit for redemption. The suit was decreed, but there was no direction in the decree that the mortgagee should withdraw the amount. The mortgagee appealed from the decree and pending the appeal, he applied to withdraw the amount deposited. It was held that the withdrawal having been made under S. 83, and not in execution of the decree, the mortgage was extinguished and that the appeal by him became thereby incompetent. ('03) 25 All 179 (181, 182) (D B).

[3] The mortgagor had sued for redemption, after a deposit under this section, and had obtained a decree. But the decree contained a direction that the mortgagee may withdraw the amount. The mortgagee withdrew the amount subsequent to his filing an appeal against that decree. It was held that the withdrawal was in execution of the decree and did not affect the right of appeal from the decree. (Vol 10) 1923 Mad 533 (539): 47 Mad 7 (D B).

11. "To the account of the mortgagee." — [1] If the person making the deposit associates with the real mortgagee a third person who is not entitled to any share in the mortgage-money the deposit is invalid. (Vol 15) 1928 All 311 (313): 50 All 655 (D B)✠('04) 26 All 291 (294) (D B)✠(Vol 26) 1939 Pat 415 (416) (D B)✠ (1900) 23 Mad 510 (512) (D B).

[2] The fact that the depositor acted in good faith in assuming that the third person was entitled to a share in the mortgage-money does not make the deposit valid. (Vol 15) 1928 All 311 (313): 50 All 655 (D B).

[3] Where a deposit is made after the mortgagee is dead, to the account of his legal representatives, or where the mortgage has been transferred to the account of the transferee, the mere fact that the legal representatives or the mortgagee and his assignee dispute each other's title does not render the deposit invalid. [4] Where owing to dispute among the legal representatives or the assignees the person desiring to make the deposit is not in a position to find out the real person entitled to the mortgage-money a deposit in Court to the account of the estate of the original mortgagee with a request that the Court should pay it to the person who is entitled to recover it will be valid. (Vol 25) 1938 All 423 (425) : I L R (1938) All 767 (F B) ✠ (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 1087 (1087, 1088) ✠ (Vol 3) 1916 Oudh 292 (294): 19 Oudh Cas 145 ✠ (Vol 21) 1934 Pat 622 (623) (D B).

[5] If instead of making the deposit to the account of the estate, it is made to the account of certain named persons and if ultimately it is found out that some one of them had no title to the money, the deposit will not be valid. (Vol 25) 1938 All 423 (426) : I L R (1938) All 767 (F B).

[6] Where a deposit was made to the account of certain co-mortgagees it was held that if there was no dispute between the mortgagees, it was not open to the mortgagor to ask the Court to determine who should receive the amount deposited. (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 1087 (1087, 1088).

[7] Money was deposited in the name of two mortgagees. One of the mortgagees made an application to the Court that the other mortgagee was not heard of for more than seven years and must be presumed to be dead and that he, the applicant, was entitled to the money. It was held that the Court was competent to decide the question. (Vol 16) 1929 All 754 (755): 51 All 1016 (DB).

[6] Where a guardian ad litem is appointed by the Court in a proceeding under S. 83 it is open to the person making the deposit to pay up the difference of interest between the date of the original deposit and the date of the appointment of the guardian ad litem. On payment thereof the deposit will be valid from the latter date. (Vol 10) 1923 All 183 (184) : 45 All 273 (DB).

[4] If a person first makes an insufficient deposit and then as soon as he discovers his mistake makes a further deposit which covers the difference between the amount due on the date of second deposit and the amount of the original deposit, the provisions of the section are complied with on the date of the second deposit, and the deposit is effective from that date ('04) S Cal W N 216 (218) (DB) ✠('86) 8 All 502 (508) (DB).

[7] The amount remaining due includes not only the principal sum but also the whole of the interest which has become due. ('89) 16 Cal 307 (309) (PC).

[8] It is a sufficient compliance with the section if interest is paid first up to the date of the deposit and then, after service of notice, further interest is paid from the date of the deposit up to the date of service of notice. (Vol 24) 1937 All 706 (707, 708).

[9] In the absence of any local custom or usage, a mortgagee is not entitled to interest both for the day on which the money was advanced and the day on which the deposit is made. He can claim interest for one of the two days. ('03) 8 Cal W N 216 (217, 218) (DB) ✠(Vol 4) 1917 Mad 922 (923) (DB).

[10] In the calculation of interest a fraction of a day will be treated as a whole day. (Vol 4) 1917 Mad 922 (923, 924) (DB).

[11] Where a mortgage-deed contains a penal clause in case of default of payment of the mortgage-debt within the prescribed period, the amount remaining due in case of default would be the amount which the Court ultimately considers as reasonable. Therefore the person, making a deposit, in such cases, and the mortgagee in refusing a deposit as being insufficient always act in peril and one or the other may suffer by an adverse decision of the Court. (Vol 26) 1939 Mad 503 (504, 505) ✠(Vol 9) 1922 Nag 199 (200): 18 Nag L R 47 ✠(Vol 22) 1935 Mad 1072 (1073) (DB).

[12] Money paid by a mortgagee under S. 171, Bengal Tenancy Act, to protect the mortgaged property from a sale which is advertised to take place at the instance of the landlord in execution of a decree for rent does not become part of the mortgage-money so as to entitle the mortgagee to treat it as included in the amount remaining due on his mortgage. (Vol 2) 1915 Cal 498 (500) (DB)

[13] A mortgagee who is entitled to possession under the terms of his mortgage is entitled to include, in the amount remaining due, costs of the suit to obtain possession. ('88) 1 C P L R 154 (155).

[14] A prior mortgagee obtained a decree on his mortgage without impleading the subsequent mortgagee. The subsequent mortgagee deposited money under this section and claimed redemption. The prior mortgagee claimed the costs of his suit, the costs of the final decree proceedings and the costs of execution. It was held that since the subsequent mortgagee was not added as a party by the mortgagee to his suit, he could not be made liable for costs and that the deposit without the costs was sufficient. (Vol 23) 1936 Nag 128 (129, 130): I L R (1936) Nag 9.

[15] A mortgagor made a deposit but the mortgagee in possession refused to accept the deposit as being insufficient but without making any statement as to the realisations from the property. It was held that the mortgagee could not keep the mortgagor guessing as to the income he derived from the mortgaged property and that the deposit was therefore valid for the purpose of stopping the running of interest. (Vol 14) 1927 Nag 138 (138).

[16] A usufructuary mortgage-deed provided that the mortgagee should take the income of the land in lieu of interest but that, if he was prevented from getting possession, interest would be charged at a certain rate. The morgagee got possession only of a portion of the land. The mortgagor subsequently sold the property to a third person and the purchaser deposited only the principal amount. The mortgagee claimed proportionate interest for the portion of the land of which he did not get possession. It was held that when the stipulation about delivery of possession was broken, the mortgagee's right was to claim the whole of the interest agreed upon. The mortgagee was bound to give an account of the income he received from the mortgaged property. Till this was done it was impossible for the purchaser to know whether any interest was due. The deposit was, therefore, under the circumstances, valid. (Vol 16) 1929 Cal 304 (306) (DB).

14. "The Court shall thereupon cause written notice of the deposit to be served on the mortgagee".—[1] When a deposit is made under this section, it is no part of the duty of the person making the deposit to get the service of notice effected on the mortgagee. That duty is cast on the Court. (Vol 10) 1923 All 24 (25) (DB) ✠('21) 35 Cal L Jour 202 (203) (DB).

[2] The duty of the person is over when, after making the deposit, he applies for issue of notice giving the correct address of the mortgagee, and paying process fees. (Vol 10) 1923 All 24 (25) (D B) ✠ (Vol 4) 1917 Mad 922 (924) (DB) ✠ ('10) 35 Mad 44 (45) (DB).

[3] A mortgage deed provided that the redemption thereof shall take place in the fallow season. The mortgagor deposited money in Court in the fallow season but when notice of the deposit was served on the mortgagee crops had been raised on the land. It was held that the deposit was valid and that the time taken in the service of notice would not affect its validity unless the mortgagor himself was responsible for the delay caused in the service of the notice. (Vol 9) 1922 Oudh 17 (17).

15. "Verified in manner prescribed by law for the verification of plaints."—[1] The provision that the petition should be verified in the manner prescribed for verification of plaints, does not warrant the inference that the proceedings under the section are proceedings in a regular suit or that the order made upon the petition has the force of a decree in a suit. ('90) 13 Mad 316 (318) (D B).

16. Mortgagee must accept deposit in full discharge of amount due. — [1] Whatever may be the amount of the debt due according to the calculations of the mortgagee, he will have to accept the amount deposited, if he wishes to accept it at all, in full and not in partial discharge of the liability. 1. "Mortgagor or such other person as aforesaid." —[1] A tender or deposit must in order to have the effect of stopping the interest, be made only by the mortgagor or any other person who is entitled to institute a suit for redemption or their authorised agents. (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 490 (490) (D B) ✠ (Vol 16) 1929 Mad 230 (233) : 52 Mad 322 (D B).

[2] A tender of the mortgage-money was made by the mortgagor and was refused by the mortgagee. A subsequent mortgagee thereafter sued to redeem the mortgage. It was held that the subsequent mortgagee could claim the benefit of the tender by the mortgagor and that he was not liable to pay interest after the date of the tender. (Vol 17) 1930 Rang 255 (257).

[3] It has been held that where an Official Assignee in insolvency of the mortgagor sells the mortgaged property and holds the purchase-money realised from the sale, he does so as an administrator of the estate of the mortgagor and not as an agent of the mortgagee. Interest on the mortgages not paid off by him runs, therefore, until the date of payment. (Vol 22) 1935 Lah 906 (907).

2. "Mortgagee." — [1] The term "mortgagee" would include an assignee of the mortgage from the original mortgagee. (Vol 11) 1924 Mad 453 (454) (DB).

[2] "Mortgagee" will include where the original mortgagee dies, his heir or successor-in-interest, or the executor or administrator, or a person holding a succession certificate in respect of the debt. (Vol 25) 1938 All 423 (425) : I L R (1938) All 767 (FB).

3. "Has tendered." — [1] A tender must not be accompanied by any condition. (Vol 9) 1922 P C 347 (349) (PC).

[2] Tender on condition of delivery of title deeds to which the party tendering is not entitled is not valid. (Vol 3) 1916 Mad 1143 (1144) ✠ (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 402 (404).

[3] Tender on condition that the creditor should accept it as the whole of the balance due is not valid. (Vol 18) 1931 Nag 91 (93).

[4] Tender of a part of an entire demand is not valid. (Vol 1) 1914 Cal 740 (741).

[5] A tender under protest has been held not bad in law. (Vol 23) 1936 Lah 168 (175) (DB).

[6] A tender reserving a right in the party to dispute the amount due was held not to be a conditional tender. ('01) 4 Oudh Cas 355 (359). (Case of deposit in Court)

[7] The asking for a receipt does not vitiate the tender. ('07) 34 Cal 305 (320) (DB).

[8] A tender before the mortgage money becomes due is premature and does not stop the running of interest. (Vol 5) 1918 Upp Bur 32 (34) : 2 Upp Bur Rul 141 ✠('02) 31 Cal 183 (185) (DB) ✠ (Vol 1) 1914 Oudh 140 (142)✠('02) 26 Bom 312 (316) (DB).

[9] It has been held that rule laid down in S. 49 of the Contract Act is intended to apply both to the delivery of goods and to the payment of money where no place is fixed by the contract. (Vol 14) 1927 P C 156 (158) : 54 Ind App 265 : 5 Rang 451 (PC).

[10] A mere readiness or willingness on the part of the mortgagor to pay is not a valid tender. (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 219 (220) (DB)✠(Vol 16) 1929 Pat 397 (398) (DB) ✠(Vol 16) 1929 Rang 271 (272)✠(Vol 10) 1923 Lah 632 (634) : 4 Lah 406 (DB)✠('98) 22 Bom 440 (446) (DB)✠ (Vol 5) 1918 Nag 217 (218).

[11] It must be shown that the mortgagor was actually ready and willing to pay the money then and there if it could be received by the mortgagee. (Vol 16) 1929 Pat 397 (398) (DB) ✠ (Vol 24) 1937 All 122 (123) (DB)✠(Vol 5) 1918 Nag 217 (218).

[14] Where there has been an unequivocal refusal to accept a tender in redemption of a mortgage, the law does not require a tender to be made. (Vol 28) 1941 Mad 484 (485) : I L R (1941) Mad 767 (FB).

[14a] Application under S. 83—Principal only deposited in Court—Mortgagor offering to pay cost of repairs and interest pending application — Mortgagee refusing to accept tender and to allow mortgage to be redeemed on ground that mortgage was not then redeemable — Mortgagee held must be deemed to have waived condition of actual production of money. (Vol 34) 1947 All 68 (70) (DB).

[15] A tender must be in the current coin of the realm. ('07) 34 Cal 305 (319) (DB).

[16] Where the debt is contracted in a particular currency other than the current one, the tender may be made in the same currency or in its equivalent in the current currency. ('92) 16 Bom 599 (602, 603) (DB).

4. "Deposited in Court." — [1] The deposit in this section is one which is made in Court under S. 85 and to be valid, must comply with all the provisions laid down in that section. (Vol 24) 1937 All 706 (708).

[2] Where a mortgagor presented a petition for deposit without paying actual money and after some days deposited the amount including interest only up to the date of the application, it was held that it was not a valid deposit under S. 83 and could not stop the running of interest. (Vol 3) 1916 Mad 383 (384) (DB).

5. "The amount remaining due on the mortgage." — [1] The expression "the amount remaining due on the mortgage" covers any just allowances or costs which can be tacked on to the mortgage-money under the ordinary law of mortgage. (Vol 11) 1924 Bom 264 (266).

[7] Where the mortgage bond contained a penal clause and the mortgagee was consequently entitled only to a reasonable compensation, it was held that such a compensation could not be determined with great accuracy and hence a tender falling short by Rs. 2-3-0 of the amount was valid for the purpose of stopping interest. [8] A executed a usufructuary mortgage in favour of B, on condition that B should take the income of the land in lieu of interest and should deliver possession on repayment of the principal. A certain amount was also fixed as the annual interest, in case A failed to deliver possession to B. B was, however, given possession of only half the land mortgaged and later on, the whole was sold to C, who obtained possession also from B, after the latter had been in possession for two years. C tendered the principal to B who refused to accept it and, thereupon C deposited the same in Court. It was held that the deposit of the principal only was sufficient inasmuch as the mortgagee was bound to account for the profits of the period of two years and as until he did so, it was not possible for C to know whether there was any interest due on the amount. [3] The executors of a deceased mortgagee demanded by notice the payment of the mortgage-debt within three months. The mortgagors were ready with the money but could not pay the same to the executors as they had not obtained probate. Before the expiry of the period in the notice, the mortgagors intimated by notice that money was kept ready for payment. It was held that it was a valid tender and that interest ceased to run from the date of expiry of period stated in the notice of demand. ('02) 26 Bom 643 (648).

7. "Has done all that has to be done ..... out of Court."—[1] When mortgagor deposits the amount to the account of the adult mortgagee gives his correct address and pays batta for the issue of notice to him, he has done all that is necessary to enable the mortgagee to take money out of Court. (Vol 9) 1922 All 147 (148, 151) : 44 All 102 (DB)✠(Vol 10) 1923 All 24 (25) (DB) ✠(Vol 4) 1917 Mad 922 (924) (DB).

[3] It is only after the appointment of the guardian that the mortgagor can be said to have done all that is required of him to enable the mortgagee to take the money out of Court under this section. ('03) 27 Bom 23 (29) (DB) ✠ (Vol 10) 1923 All 183 (184) : 45 All 273 (DB) ✠ (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 1017 (1018, 1019) ✠ (Vol 17) 1930 All 609 (610) (DB).

[4] The mortgagor made an application under section 83 with the necessary deposit and notice was issued to the minor mortgagee "under the guardianship of" his father. There was no separate application for the appointment of a guardian and in fact no guardian was appointed. The notice was not served and the application was dismissed. In the subsequent suit for redemption it was held that the procedure was irregular and could not bind the minor mortgagee. (Vol 9) 1922 All 355 (355) : 44 All 64 (DB).

[5] Where the original mortgagee is dead and the mortgagor is unable to find out who the real legal representative of the mortgagee is owing to disputes between the rival claimants to the mortgagee's estate, he may deposit the money into Court with the request that the Court should pay it to the person who is entitled to recover it. If he does that, he has done all that is required of him to enable that person to recover the money. (Vol 11) 1924 Mad 559 (560) (D B) ✠ (Vol 25) 1938 All 423 (425): I L R (1938) All 767 (FB). (In such a case it is for the person entitled to take steps to satisfy the Court that he is the person to whom money should be paid.)✠(Vol 11) 1924 Mad 453 (454) (DB).

[6] The fact that there is a dispute among the claimants to the estate of the deceased mortgagee does not affect the validity of the deposit, nor can the mortgagor be made to suffer for no fault of his. (Vol 11) 1924 Mad 559 (560) (DB)✠(Vol 25) 1938 All 423 (425): I L R (1938) All 767 (F B) ✠ (Vol 3) 1916 Oudh 292 (294) : 19 Oudh Cas 145✠(Vol 11) 1924 Mad 453 (454, 455) (DB).

[7] Where a mortgagor deposits money into Court to the account of certain named persons, by so naming the persons, the mortgagor really prevents the rightful claimants from recovering the money due to them, and cannot, therefore, be said to have done all that was necessary to enable the mortgagee to take the amount out of Court. (Vol 25) 1938 All 423 (426): I L R (1938) All 767 (F B) ✠ ('04) 1904 All W N 20 (21) (DB).

[8] Where a mortgagor had deposited money in Court to the account of A and B, two sons of the deceased mortgagee, and it was found out that by the custom of primogeniture in the mortgagee's family, only A was entitled to the amount, it was held that the deposit was not valid so as to stop the running of interest. (Vol 15) 1928 All 311 (313): 50 All 655 (DB).

[9] The deposit to the account of the deceased mortgagee's estate with the request that it should be paid to anyone who can establish his title to it, is a valid one even if some of the persons named in the petition are found to have no title to the money as the mortgagor had done all he has to do to enable the rightful claimants to take the money out of Court. (Vol 25) 1938 All 423 (426) : I L R (1938) All 767 (FB).

8. Service of notice on mortgagee. — [1] It is essential under this section that all the persons who are entitled to recover the money must be served with notice, although it may happen that those who are not so entitled may be served with the notice. Interest in such cases ceases from the date of service of notice on those who are entitled to the money. (Vol 25) 1938 All 423 (426) : I L R (1938) All 767 (FB).

[2] A mortgagor deposited in Court an amount sufficient to cover the principal and interest up to the date of deposit. The mortgagee was served with notice after some time, but refused to withdraw the amount. The mortgagor thereupon brought a suit for redemption. It was held that it was not contemplated by this section that the deposit would become an invalid deposit under S. 83, if interest up to the date of the service of the notice was not included in the deposit. If the deposit was a valid deposit on the date on which it was made, namely, that if interest had been calculated up till the date of deposit, then all that the defendant could say when notice was served on him was that interest up to the date of service of notice should be allowed to him and that that amount should also be paid to him. (Vol 24) 1937 All 706 (708).

9. Deposit is only a kind of tender.—[1] A deposit in Court under S. 83 is only a special form of tender. (Vol 25) 1938 Mad 405 (408) (DB).

[2] A deposit is a tender through Court and consists of two things—an actual deposit in Court and notice to the person entitled to withdraw it from the Court. (Vol 3) 1916 Mad 503 (504) (D B) ✠ (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 490 (490) (DB).

[3] Where there is both a deposit in Court and notice to the mortgagee and the mortgagee refuses to accept the same, the natural consequences of refusal of a valid tender follow and interest ceases to run on the principal if the deposit is kept in Court. (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 490 (490) (D B)✠ (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 1360 (1362) : 40 Mad 804 (SB).

[4] Where a mortgagor deposits money in Court but withdraws the application before the notice of the deposit has been served on the person entitled to withdraw it, it is not a proper tender and hence interest will not cease to run even if the money is kept in Court. (Vol 3) 1916 Mad 503 (504) (DB).

10. Withdrawal of deposit by the mortgagor.—[1] The amendment of the section by the introduction of second paragraph is not retrospective. (Vol 27) 1940 All 65 (66) : I L R (1940) All 79 (DB).

pay the mortgage money before he makes a tender or deposit this section recognises the liability of the mortgagor to pay interest in lieu of notice in case he fails to give such notice before a tender or deposit in Court. (Vol 11) 1924 Bom 264 (269)✠(Vol 10) 1923 All 24 (25) (DB). (Held, there was no contract in this case.)

12. Notice before payment not necessary when mortgagee demands mortgage-money. — [1] The parties agreed to give three months' notice before payment of the mortgage-money. The mortgagee gave the mortgagor a notice demanding his money within three months but due to some pending suits no action was taken upon this notice by mutual consent of the parties. A tender was made two years after the expiry of the period fixed in the notice and it was held, that in the circumstances of the case, the delay was excusable and that it did not render the mortgagor liable to pay three months' additional interest in lieu of notice. (Vol 11) 1924 Bom 264 (270).

13. Refusal of tender and costs.—[1] A mortgagee is entitled to his general costs in a suit for redemption or foreclosure, unless he forfeits the right by some improper defence or other misconduct. (Vol 29) 1942 Mad 307 (310) : I L R (1942) Mad 550 (D B) ✠ (Vol 3) 1916 Oudh 279 (281)✠('12) 35 Mad 44 (46) (DB).

[2] The mortgagee's right to costs rests substantially on contract between the parties and can only be lost or curtailed by such inequitable conduct on the part of the mortgagee as may amount to a violation or neglect of his duty under the contract. (Vol 29) 1942 Mad 592 (593) : I L R (1943) Mad 205 (DB).

[3] An improper refusal of a valid tender which renders a suit for redemption necessary deprives a mortgagee of his costs. ('99) 1 Bom L R 381 (383) (DB).

[4] A suit for foreclosure by a mortgagee who has refused a proper tender will disentitle him to his costs. (Vol 16) 1929 Pat 397 (399) (DB).

[5] The mere fact that a mortgagee claims more than what he is entitled to will not deprive him of his costs. ('12) 35 Mad 44 (46) (D B) (Vol 3) 1916 Oudh 279 (281).

14. Plea as to insufficiency of tender or deposit. —[1] If a mortgagee denies the fact of a tender, he cannot subsequently raise a plea that the amount tendered was not sufficient or that it was not legally valid. (Vol 1) 1914 Cal 823 (824, 825) (DB).

[2] Where a mortgagee admits that the amount deposited was the amount due on the date of deposit but was refused by him on some other ground, he cannot, in a subsequent suit on the mortgage, allege that the amount deposited was insufficient. (Vol 9) 1922 Nag 174 (175).

[3] The question of sufficiency or insufficiency is a question of fact, which cannot be determined without going into evidence and, hence, cannot be raised for the first time in second appeal. (Vol 9) 1922 Pat 167 (169): 1 Pat 350 (DB).

[4] The finding that there was a valid tender of money by the mortgagor is a finding of fact and cannot be attacked in second appeal. (Vol 12) 1925 Lah 353 (354).

15. Section 14 of Bombay Regulation V of 1827. —[1] It has been held that in the Bombay Presidency a tender by a mortgagor even of a partial amount due will stop the running of interest under S. 14 of the Bombay Regulation V of 1827. But a conditional tender asking the mortgagee to accept the partial tender in full discharge of the mortgage-debt is invalid and inoperative to stop interest. (Vol 11) 1924 Bom 264 (270) (DB).

16. Tender and deposit in possessory mortgages. —[1] Where the mortgage is one with possession, and a valid tender or deposit is made of the mortgage amount, interest will cease to run on the mortgage amount from the date of the tender or in the case of a deposit from the date of service of notice on the mortgagee. The mortgagee will be liable to the mortgagor from such date for mesne profits. [2] If the mortgagor withdraws the money from Court, he will, from that date, be disentitled to mesne profits. (Vol 25) 1938 Mad 405 (413) (DB).

1. Scope.— [1] This section enumerates the persons who, in addition to the mortgagor, are entitled to redeem or institute a suit for redemption of the mortgaged property. (Vol 4) 1917 All 110 (110) : 39 All 536 (D B) ✠ ('91) 13 All 432 (454) (F B).

[2] The right of redemption conferred by the section on other persons is the same right which the mortgagor possesses under S. 60 and not a different kind of right. (Vol 4) 1917 All 110 (110) : 39 All 536 (D B).

[3] The persons who are given the right of redemption under the section may be broadly grouped under two heads, i. e., persons having an interest in or charge upon the mortgaged property or in or upon the right to redeem the same (cl. (a)); and persons who have no interest or charge upon the mortgaged property or in or upon the right to redeem it but who are given a personal right to redeem on some special grounds (clauses (b) and (c).) (Vol 23) 1936 Nag 209 (213) : I L R (1936) Nag 127 (D B) ✠ (Vol 26) 1939 Pat 7 (11) : 18 Pat 155 (D B).

2. "Besides the mortgagor."— [1] This section deals with the right of redemption of persons other than the mortgagor though it recognises the mortgagor's right of redemption, as is shown by the words "besides the mortgagor," ('11) 34 Mad 115 (117) (D B) ✠ (Vol 8) 1921 Mad 51 (52).

[2] This section is one of the express provisions contemplated by S. 59A. Consequently, a purchaser from the mortgagor, for instance, is entitled to redeem, not by virtue of S. 60 but by virtue of this section. (Vol 29) 1942 Bom 98 (99) : I L R (1942) Bom 169 (D B).

[3] The mortgagor must, in order to be entitled to redeem, have an existing right in the equity of redemption. If he absolutely and entirely parts with it, his right to redeem comes to an end. (Vol 8) 1921 Mad 51 (53, 54) (D B) ✠ ('04) 27 Mad 428 (429) (D B) ✠ (Vol 3) 1916 Pat 375 (380) (D B).

[4] If, even after the mortgagor has absolutely parted with his equity of redemption, he is sued by the mortgagee upon his covenant to pay the mortgage-debt he acquires a new right to redeem and is entitled to a reconveyance to himself subject of course to any equity of redemption that may have vested in any other person. This principle will apply not only when the mortgagee sues the mortgagor on the covenant but also on the mortgage-debt. (Vol 17) 1930 Pat 570 (572, 573) : 10 Pat 197 (D B).

3. Clause (a)—General. — [1] No person whose interests are not affected by a mortgage can redeem the mortgage. (Vol 34) 1947 Nag 210 (215) (D B).

[2] The interest that enables a person to claim redemption must be an interest in the "property mortgaged" or the "right of redemption." The matter cannot be judged by referring to O. 34, R. 1, Civil P. C. The two phrases in S. 91 (a) refer to different stages. The words "property mortgaged" indicate the rights existing prior to the mortgage and the words "the right to redeem" indicate the rights left in the mortgagor subsequent to the mortgage. (Vol 34) 1947 Nag 210 (222) (D B).

[3] The interest of any person which is not bound by the contract of mortgage is not an interest in the "property mortgaged" or in the right to redeem the same and the owner of such interest is not entitled to redeem the mortgage under this clause. ('08) 4 Nag L R 9 (11) ✠ (Vol 2) 1915 Lah 199 (200) (D B) ✠ ('01) 5 Cal W N 83 (85) (D B) ✠ ('07) 29 All 679 (682) ✠ ('91) 13 All 432 (454) (F B) ✠ (Vol 17) 1930 Nag 173 (175, 176) : 26 Nag L R 208.

[4] It is not necessary that in order that a person may have an interest in the "property mortgaged", he should have derived his title from or should have claimed through the mortgagor, though it is necessary that such interest is bound by the mortgage. ('08) 4 Nag L R 9 (11) ✠ (Vol 21) 1934 Bom 32 (33) : 58 Bom 75.

[See however (Vol 2) 1915 Lah 199 (200) (DB).]

[6] A mortgages property X to B and then sells his equity of redemption to C for a consideration of Rs. 4000 which, however, is not paid. Under S. 55, sub-s. (4), cl. (b) A has got a charge on the equity of redemption transferred to C, i. e., has a charge on the "right to redeem" and so can redeem B. (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 778 (778).

[7] The "interest" is not confined to the right of ownership but may be any interest in the property, however small it may be. [2] Where there are more trustees than one, so far as the question of redemption of a mortgage is concerned the wide language of S. 91 entitles one of several trustees to bring a suit to redeem a mortgage of the trust property without averring or proving that the other trustees were asked to join as plaintiff's in the suit. 30. Trespasser. — [1] A mere trespasser who has not perfected his title by adverse possession has no right to redeem; and if the mortgagee allows such a person to redeem, the true owner can treat the transaction as a nullity. But when he acquires the interest of the mortgagor by adverse possession he is entitled to redeem. The fact that the trespasser acquires, by adverse possession, the interest of the mortgagor, subsequent to the act of redemption by him, cannot validate such redemption. Subrogation.

The right conferred by this section is called the right of subrogation, and a person acquiring the same is said to be subrogated to the rights of the mortgagee whose mortgage he redeems.

A person who has advanced to a mortgagor money with which the mortgage has been redeemed shall be subrogated to the rights of the mortgagee whose mortgage has been redeemed, if the mortgagor has by a registered instrument agreed that such persons shall be so subrogated.

Nothing in this section shall be deemed to confer a right of subrogation on any person unless the mortgage in respect of which the right is claimed has been redeemed in full.]

1. Scope.—[1] Subrogation means that one person is substituted for another in regard to the latter's rights and liabilities in a certain matter. (Vol 32) 1945 P C 23 (28, 29) (P C) ☆ (Vol 30) 1943 Bom 191 (192) (DB) ☆ (Vol 29) 1942 Nag 111 (112) : I L R (1942) Nag 393.

[2] The first paragraph deals with legal subrogation and the third paragraph with conventional subrogation. (Vol 23) 1936 Mad 171 (174) : 59 Mad 359 (F B) ☆ (Vol 23) 1936 Nag 32 (33) : 31 Nag L R (Sup) 169 ☆ (Vol 29) 1942 Oudh 260 (261) : 17 Luck 755 (FB).

[6] The principle underlying this section has been applied to the Punjab and the North-West Frontier Province. (Vol 28) 1941 Lah 53 (55) ✠ (Vol 23) 1936 Lah 390 (392) (D B) ✠ (Vol 26) 1939 Pesh 34 (37) (DB) ✠(Vol 24) 1937 Pesh 5 (5).

[7] The technicality in the third paragraph requiring the agreement to be by a registered instrument is not adhered to in Punjab and North-West Frontier Province. Such an agreement may be either express or implied. (Vol 23) 1936 Lah 390 (392) (D B) ✠ (Vol 24) 1937 Pesh 5 (5) ✠ (Vol 28) 1941 Lah 53 (55). (Agreement may be implied from intention of parties.)

2 Applicability to charges. — [1] By virtue of S. 100, a person who pays off a charge on a property is subrogated to the rights of the charge-holder. (Vol 31) 1944 P C 96 (100) : 24 Pat 89 : I L R (1945) Kar (P C) 28 (P C) ✠ (Vol 24) 1937 Pesh 5 (5) ✠ (Vol 34) 1947 Nag 43 (45) (D B) ✠ (Vol 21) 1934 Nag 84 (87) : 30 Nag L R 148 (DB)✠(Vol 21) 1934 Mad 353 (354) (DB).

[2] It has been held that a charge which a landlord has for rent under S. 65 of the Bengal Tenancy Act of 1885 or under S. 9 of the C. P. Tenancy Act of 1920 is peculiar to himself. A person other than the tenant who pays rent to the landlord is not subrogated to the rights of the landlord. (Vol 21) 1934 Pat 70 (72) (S 65, Bengal Tenancy Act) ✠ (Vol 27) 1940 Nag 156 (158). (S. 9, C. P. Tenancy Act.)

[3] The section does not apply to a statutory charge which the Government has under S. 7 of the Land Improvement Loans Act (XIX of 1883) for tagai advance. (Vol 28) 1941 Bom 153 (155) (DB).

3. Right of subrogation arises on redemption.— [1] Where there has been no redemption no question of subrogation can arise (Vol 31) 1944 Mad 195 (206) : I L R (1944) Mad 340 (DB) ✠ (Vol 11) 1924 Rang 204 (205) : 1 Rang 714 (D B) ✠ (Vol 27) 1940 All 540 (543) ✠ (Vol 21) 1934 All 1035 (1037) (D B) ✠ (Vol 24) 1937 Cal 336 (337) ✠ (Vol 14) 1927 Nag 150 (153) ✠ (Vol 9) 1922 Pat 92 (94) (D B). (Per Das J.) ✠ ('01) 4 Oudh Cas 273 (275).

[2] A payment made before the date of confirmation of a sale held in pursuance of a mortgage decree will be a redemption of the mortgage entitling the person paying to claim subrogation. (Vol 30) 1943 Pat 305 (308) : 22 Pat 187 (D B) ✠ (Vol 24) 1937 Nag 196 (196, 197) : I L R (1939) Nag 310 ✠ (Vol 23) 1936 All 33 (42) : 58 All 602 (F B).

[3] Decree on prior mortgage obtained—Prior mortgage can be redeemed until sale under decree is confirmed or final decree for foreclosure is passed. (Vol 32) 1945 Cal 194 (198) (D B).

[4] Suit upon mortgage — Passing of decree or sale in execution does not negative right of subrogation — Discharge of mortgage is necessary. (Vol 34) 1947 Mad 18 (31) (D B).

[5] From S. 92, it is impossible to differentiate between the redemption, i. e., the payment of a prior mortgage and the discharge of a decree obtained on the prior mortgage by a subsequent mortgagee. The right of subrogation acquired by the subsequent mortgagee in either case is identical (Vol 32) 1945 All 239 (242) : I L R (1945) All 733 (F B).

4. There must be relationship of mortgagor and mortgagee.— [1] If the relation of mortgagor and mortgagee does not exist between the person who is primarily liable for the payment and the person to whom the payment was made no right of subrogation will arise in favour of any person. (Vol 3) 1916 All 44 (46) (D B).

[2] A mortgaged his property to B and then to C; B sued on his mortgage, obtained a decree and purchased the property himself. B then sold the property to D. A sued D for possession of the property contending that D's purchase was on his behalf. The claim was decreed on condition that A should pay to D certain amount. In order to pay that amount A raised money on mortgage from E and discharged the claim. In a suit by C, the subsequent mortgagee E claimed a right of subrogation on the basis of the advance to A for discharging D's claim It was held that there was no relation of mortgagor and mortgagee between A and D and consequently no prior mortgage in discharge of which the payment was utilised. (Vol 16) 1929 Mad 890 (892) (DB).

5. "Other than the mortgagor."—[1] A mortgagor who has created more encumbrances than one cannot set a prior encumbrance which he has discharged against a later encumbrance. (Vol 26) 1939 Mad 949 (951) (DB).

[2] When a mortgagor pays off a prior encumbrance created by himself, he does nothing but perform his own obligation. (Vol 18) 1931 All 40 (42) : 52 All 1037 (DB) ✠ (Vol 23) 1936 Cal 42 (43) : 62 Cal 677 ✠ (Vol 25) 1938 Mad 779 (783) (DB) ✠ (Vol 7) 1920 Oudh 204 (208, 209) (DB).

[3] A mortgagor cannot claim the right of subrogation. (Vol 25) 1938 Bom 508 (509) (DB)✠(Vol 26) 1939 Mad 949 (951) (D B) ✠ (Vol 29) 1942 Oudh 465 (472) : 18 Luck 366 (F B) ✠ (Vol 2) 1915 All 242 (243) : 37 All 309 (D B).

[4] Whenever a mortgagor pays off a prior mortgage, the payment enures for the benefit of a subsequent mortgagee and enlarges his security by rendering it more valuable. ('07) 5 Cal L Jour 95 (101) (DB) ✠ (Vol 18) 1931 Mad 642 (643) (DB) ✠ (Vol 16) 1929 Mad 890 (891, 894, 895) (DB).

[5] A mortgagor whose right to redeem a prior mortgage is extinguished can again acquire that right by subrogation if he redeems a subsequent mortgagee whose right to redeem the prior mortgage had not been so extinguished. (Vol 19) 1932 Nag 154 (155) : 28 Nag L R 247.

8. Redemption by prior mortgagee. — [1] A mortgaged his property to B and then to C. C brought a suit on his mortgage and impleaded B. B stated that he was a prior mortgagee and was willing to redeem C's mortgage. A preliminary decree for foreclosure was passed and B paid the decretal amount. B then filed a suit against A and sought to recover the amount paid in satisfaction of the mortgage in favour of C and the amount due on his own mortgage. It was held that explanation to O. 34, R. 1, Civil P. C. did not prohibit the subsequent mortgagee from joining the prior mortgagee as a party to his suit if he chose; after the prior mortgagee had decided that it was convenient for him to be joined in the suit on the subsequent mortgage and had allowed himself to be so joined, he was entitled to claim subrogation after redemption of the subsequent mortgage. (Vol 16) 1929 Nag 135 (136):25 Nag L R 171.

9. Redemption by purchaser.—[1] A purchaser or an auction-purchaser of mortgaged property is not the "mortgagor" for the purposes of this section and has, therefore, a right of subrogation under the first paragraph. [2] Where a person claims under a voidable title which is good for the time being, and pays off a prior mortgage he can claim the right of subrogation, though afterwards the transaction under which he claims is declared invalid and set aside. [4] Where a person enters into possession by virtue of the transfer in his favour and the mortgage which he pays off does not give him any right to possession,

he cannot use the payment of the mortgage-money as a shield to a suit for possession by the real owner. He can, however, enforce his right under the mortgage in proper proceedings taken for that purpose. (Vol 24) 1937 All 119 (121) : I L R (1937) All 225 (DB) ✠ ('32) 1932 All L Jour 1116 (1117) (DB).

14. Redemption by trespasser.—[1] Mere possession is not sufficient to support a claim of subrogation unless that possession is accompanied by some interest in the property which the person in possession is entitled to protect. (Vol 23) 1936 Mad 264 (265).

[2] A trespasser who is in wrongful possession of the mortgaged property, paying off a mortgage-debt cannot claim subrogation. (Vol 24) 1937 Mad 451 (453) (DB).

15. Third paragraph. — [1] The first paragraph refers to a person redeeming property and the third paragraph to a person who advances money with which a mortgage is redeemed. (Vol 24) 1937 All 588 (594, 595) : I L R (1937) All 880 (FB).

[2] Under this section, there can be no conventional subrogation unless there is an agreement therefor, evidenced by a registered instrument. (Vol 32) 1945 P C 23 (30) : 72 Ind App 39 : I L R (1945) Kar (P C) 78 (P C) ✠ (Vol 33) 1946 Mad 145 (146) ✠ (Vol 29) 1942 Mad 751 (752, 753).

[3] Where the person advancing money takes a mortgage or sale of the mortgaged property for the amount he has advanced, an agreement to subrogate can be effected by the same deed of mortgage or sale, by introducing a recital to that effect. (Vol 27) 1940 P C 38 (44) : I L R (1940) 1 Cal 291 : I L R (1940) Kar (P C) 82 : 67 Ind App 82 (PC)✠ (Vol 29) 1942 Pat 166 (168, 169) (DB).

16. Person who has advanced money to a mortgagor. — [1] The words "who has advanced to a mortgagor money" will include not only a simple creditor but also a mortgagee or a vendee who has advanced money to the mortgagor in consideration of his mortgage or sale as the case may be. (Vol 24) 1937 All 588 (595) : I L R (1937) All 880 (FB) ✠ (Vol 26) 1939 Mad 949 (956) (DB) ✠ (Vol 23) 1936 Mad 171 (172) : 59 Mad 359 (FB).

[2] The words "who has advanced to a mortgagor money" do not refer to mortgagee who has advanced money on a subsequent mortgage for the purposes of redeeming a prior mortgage in his own favour. (Vol 27) 1940 Pat 64 (65).

[But see (Vol 20) 1933 Oudh 9 (12) : 7 Luck 655 (DB).]

[3] The word 'mortgagor' used in the expression, "A person who has advanced to a mortgagor money" must be understood to mean the original mortgagor and his legal heir. If an assignee from the original mortgagor or a court-auction purchaser of his interest or a subsequent mortgagee sells his right to another and directs his vendee to pay the earlier mortgage and the vendee payed it in pursuance of such a covenant, he cannot be denied the right of subrogation. (Vol 34) 1947 Mad 18 (27, 28) (DB).

17. "Mortgage has been redeemed."—[1] The words "mortgage has been redeemed," refer merely to the payment of the mortgage-money, and not to an extinction of the mortgagees' rights over the mortgaged property. (Vol 27) 1940 P C 38 (44) : I L R (1940) 1 Cal 291 : I L R (1940) Kar (PC) 82 : 67 Ind App 82 (PC).

18. Sale or mortgage to pay off prior mortgage —Whether the first or the third paragraph applies. —[1] A mortgages property worth Rs. 2000 to B for Rs. 1800 and then sells the same to C for Rs. 2000, free of incumbrance but leaves Rs. 1800 in the hands of C for paying off B and C accordingly pays him off. There can be no question of subrogation under the first paragraph. But C will be entitled to claim subrogation under the third paragraph, only if A has, by a registered instrument, agreed that C shall be so subrogated. (Vol 24) 1937 All 588 (595) : I L R (1937) All 880 (FB) ✠ (Vol 26) 1939 Mad 949 (956) (DB) ✠ (Vol 24) 1937 Nag 372 (375) : I L R (1938) Nag 206 (FB). (Overruling (Vol 23) 1936 Nag 32 : 31 Nag L R (Sup) 154.)✠(Vol 25) 1938 Pat 532 (533) : 17 Pat 666 (DB),✠ (Vol 28) 1941 Bom 153 (155) (DB).

[2] A mortgages property worth Rs. 2000 to B for Rs. 1800 and then mortgages the same to C for Rs. 2000, A receiving only Rs. 200, and leaving the balance with C himself who pays off B with that amount. The question of subrogation under the first paragraph will not arise. C, however, may, as a person advancing money to A, be entitled to claim the right of subrogation under the third paragraph, if A has agreed by a registered instrument that C shall be so subrogated. (Vol 24) 1937 All 588 (594, 595) : I L R (1937) All 880 (FB). [3] A who was a mortgagee in possession of some lands of B, sued B on a money claim and attached before judgment the above lands amongst others. Subsequently, B mortgaged the above lands to C and left a part of the consideration with C to redeem A's mortgage. On such redemption, C was himself to take possession of the mortgage lands. C deposited the amount in Court and presented an application under S. 83. A accepted the amount in full satisfaction of the mortgage-debt and delivered possession to C. Subsequently, A obtained a decree in his money suit and wanted to sell the mortgaged lands in execution. C claimed that the property should be sold subject to the prior charge acquired by subrogation under the first paragraph. It was held that as A accepted the deposit from C as made by a person entitled under S. 91 to sue for redemption, he could not be permitted to say that the deposit was not by C on his own behalf but as an agent of the mortgagor. C was therefore entitled to subrogation under the first paragraph. (Vol 29) 1942 Bom 227 (231) (DB).

19. Fourth paragraph — Mortgage must be redeemed in full.—[1] The right of subrogation cannot be claimed unless the mortgage in respect of which the right is claimed has been redeemed in full. (Vol 31) 1944 P C 96 (100) : 24 Pat 89 : I L R (1945) Kar (P C) 28 (P C) ✠ (Vol 30) 1943 Oudh 407 (409) : 19 Luck 260 (DB) ✠ (Vol 27) 1940 P C 38 (44): 67 Ind App 82: I L R (1940) 1 Cal 291 : I L R (1940) Kar (P C) 82 (P C).

[2] Where a mortgage is split up, the mortgage has to be looked upon as several distinct mortgages. Consequently if there is a redemption of one independent portion in full, then the provisions of this paragraph are complied with so far as that part is concerned. (Vol 26) 1939 Nag 215 (216) (DB) ✠ (Vol 13) 1926 Nag 21 (24) : 23 Nag L R 86.

[3] Where the mortgagee agrees to let the mortgage be redeemed on payment of a lesser amount, such payment will give rise to the right of subrogation. (Vol 23) 1936 All 62 (63) ✠ (Vol 21) 1934 Mad 31 (37, 38) (FB).

[4] Where a mortgage is redeemed by giving a hundee in favour of the mortgagee, the mortgage has been redeemed in full. (Vol 7) 1920 Pat 678 (684) (DB).

[5] The redemption need not be by only one person. A, B, C can join together in redeeming the mortgage and when they do so each will be entitled to subrogation to the extent of the amount each has contributed towards redemption. (Vol 24) 1937 All 588 (598) : I L R (1937) All 880 (FB) ✠ (Vol 9) 1922 Mad 249 (251, 252) (DB).

[6] Where the redemption is by more persons than one, it is not necessary that all must pay simultaneously nor can it be said that it is only the person who paid last that has redeemed the mortgage and that he alone is entitled to subrogation. (Vol 28) 1941 Mad 563 (563, 564) : I L R (1941) Mad 924.

[7] Where a person advances money to the mortgagor to redeem a mortgage and the money advanced forms only a part of the amount that went towards redemption, the person advancing the money will be entitled to claim subrogation to the extent of the amount he advanced. [8] Though a right of subrogation under this section may not arise unless the surety has redeemed the mortgage in full, this principle will not apply where the circumstances of the case do not give rise to a right of subrogation but to a right under S. 140, Contract Act— Under the latter section, the surety who has paid off a part of the mortgage debt may nevertheless claim the benefit of the security in respect of the amount paid by him (Vol 31) 1944 Mad 195 (200) : I L R (1944) Mad 340 (DB).

20. Rights of subrogee.—[1] A subrogee will not acquire any rights which the prior mortgagee might have acquired otherwise than as such mortgagee. ('02) 24 All 185 (188) (DB).

[2] This section only confers on the subrogee the rights of the mortgagee whom he redeems. The subrogee is not necessarily entitled to the remedies of the mortgagee whom he redeems. (Vol 26) 1939 Pat 375 (378) : 18 Pat 342 (DB) ✠ (Vol 30) 1943 Pat 305 (309) : 22 Pat 187 (DB).

Rights against mortgaged properties.

[3] If A mortgages properties X and Y to B and then mortgages Y alone to C. C, on redeeming B, can foreclose or sell both the properties X and Y in enforcement of his right of subrogation. (Vol 28) 1941 Pat 276 (277) (DB).

[4] Where A and B owning property X jointly, mortgage it to C and subsequently A alone mortgages his share to D. D, on redeeming C, can exercise his right of subrogation by foreclosure or sale of the entire property X. (Vol 14) 1927 Pat 379 (381) (DB).

[5] A mortgages his properties X, Y and Z to B. B releases property X from his mortgage. Subsequently, A mortgages property Z to C who redeems B. C, as a subrogee, can proceed only against properties Y and Z as these alone were subject to mortgage on the date of redemption by C and not X, Y and Z originally comprised in B's mortgage. ('96) 18 All 189 (193, 194) (DB).

[6] A subrogee, who is also entitled to contribution, instead of enforcing his right of subrogation in respect of the entire mortgage as an indivisible whole, may split up the mortgage and distribute the mortgage liability over different portions of the mortgaged property in the respective possession of different subsequent transferees. (Vol 30) 1943 Pat 305 (307) : 22 Pat 187 (DB).

Right to possession.

[7] Where the mortgagee who is redeemed is entitled to remain in possession under his mortgage, the subrogee is also entitled to retain possession of the property until he is paid off. [8] Where the prior mortgage is a simple one and a subsequent usufructuary mortgagee redeems him, the latter cannot, when he is himself redeemed, resist delivery of possession on the ground of subrogation. (Vol 22) 1935 Mad 390 (393).

[9] A person who claims to be subrogated to the rights of mere charge-holder cannot claim possession of the property charged, if the charge-holder has merely a right to put the property charged to sale and has no right to possession (Vol 31) 1944 PC 96 (100) : 24 Pat 89 : I L R (1945) Kar (PC) 28 (PC).

[10] A usufructuary mortgagee paid off a prior simple mortgage after the latter had obtained a decree for sale, and sought to bring the property mortgaged to sale for the purpose of recovering the amount of the simple mortgage, re aiming his own lien as a usufructuary mortgagee It was held that he was entitled to retain possession, under S. 72, of the mortgaged property as a usufructuary mortgagee until the amount due on both mortgages was discharged. ('05) 27 All 403 (405) (DB).

Right to prior mortgagee's lease-hold rights.

[11] A subrogee cannot get the prior mortgagee's rights as a landlord as against the tenants. (Vol 8) 1921 Mad 393 (393) (DB))

Right to claim interest.

[17] A subrogee on redemption of a prior mortgagee can claim interest on the amount paid by him to discharge the mortgage, in the circumstances in which the prior mortgagee could have claimed it (Vol 30) 1943 Lah 113 (116) (DB)✠(Vol 9) 1922 Nag 155 (156): 17 Nag L R 200 ✠ (Vol 26) 1939 Pat 375 (380) : 18 Pat 342 (DB) ✠ (Vol 22) 1935 Mad 660 (662) (DB).

[18] Following views are held as to whether where the purchaser of the equity of redemption redeems a prior simple mortgage and is in possession, interest should be allowed to the subrogee on the amount spent by him towards redemption.

(a) As he enjoys the usufruct, he cannot be allowed interest for the period of possession. (Vol 9) 1922 All 185 (187) : 44 All 9 (DB) ✠ (Vol 21) 1934 All 1035 (1038) (DB).

(b) An account of the profits enjoyed by the purchaser must be taken and if the profits fall short of the interest, only then should the balance of interest be allowed. (Vol 22) 1935 Mad 360 (362) (DB) ✠ (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 103 (105, 109) : 41 Mad 513 (DB).

21. Right of subrogation is available to successors-in-interest — [1] Every person, who succeeds to the entire right possessed by the subrogee by redemption, transfer or otherwise, will also be clothed with the right of subrogation. [2] A certain land was mortgaged to A, then to B and then to C. C's mortgage was effected to satisfy A's mortgage decree. C thus became subrogated to A's rights In order to pay off C's mortgage decree, the land was sold to D who borrowed the purchase money from P to whom he mortgaged it on the day of the sale. It was held that P's mortgage was entitled to priority over B's mortgage to the extent to which the loan secured thereby had gone to discharge A's mortgage. ('93) 16 Mad 94 (96) (DB).

22. Purchaser entitled to subrogation—Pre-emptor whether can claim that right.— [1] Where a purchaser has, by redeeming a prior mortgage, obtained a right of subrogation, the person who obtains the property from him by pre-emption is also entitled to the right of subrogation. [3] Where a mortgage has been redeemed before a decree has been obtained on it, the subrogee can enforce his right by way of a suit based on the redeemed mortgage. Rights and liabilities of parties to anomalous mortgages.

98. In the case of [a][an anomalous mortgage] the rights and liabilities of the parties shall be determined by their contract as evidenced in the mortgage deed, and, so far as such contract does not extend, by local usage.

[a] Substituted by the Transfer of Property (Amendment) Act, 1929 (20 [XX] of 1929), S. 49, for "a mortgage, not being a simple mortgage, a mortgage by conditional sale, an usufructuary mortgage or an English mortgage or a combination of the first and third, or the second and third, of such forms."

1. Scope.
2. Applicability of other provisions of Act where contract is silent on the point.
3. Applicability of general provisions of law.
4. Combination of a simple mortgage and a usufructuary mortgage.
5. Combination of a usufructuary mortgage and a mortgage by conditional sale.
6. Kanom.
7. Peruarthum.
8. Iladarawara.

1. Scope.—[1] Whether an anomalous mortgagee has a right to claim a decree for sale or for foreclosure or for both, or a personal decree for the mortgage-money, will depend upon the terms of the particular mortgage. ('10) 6 Ind Cas 795 (796) (DB) (All) ✠ (Vol 14) 1927 Cal 836 (840) : 54 Cal 687 (DB). (Foreclosure.) ✠(Vol 24) 1937 Pat 261 (262) (DB). (Personal decree.)

[2] An anomalous mortgagee cannot claim any right expressly or impliedly negatived by the contract (Vol 6) 1919 P C 121 (123) : 15 Nag L R 134 (PC) ✠ ('03) 6 Oudh Cas 167 (173, 174)✠(Vol 15) 1928 Mad 226 (226) (DB).

[2a] However, the parties cannot contract themselves out of statutory rights, such as right of redemption under S. 60. (Vol 9) 1922 P C 17 (19) : 44 All 185: 25 Oudh Cas 8 : 49 Ind App 60 (PC).

[3] Where the rights of an anomalous mortgagee are controlled or limited by the contract, he will be entitled to claim those rights only subject to such limitations. 2. Applicability of other provisions of Act where contract is silent on the point. — [1] In an anomalous mortgage there was a covenant to pay, but the contract was silent about the mode of enforcing such covenant : Held that it could be enforced under S. 68 (1) (a). (Vol 22) 1935 Lah 103 (104) : 16 Lah 612 (DB).

[But see (Vol 11) 1924 Cal 592 (594) (DB). (Sections 67 and 68 cannot be applied to anomalous mortgages.)]

3. Applicability of general provisions of law.—[1] General principles of law, such as the doctrine of substitution of securities can be applied to anomalous mortgages when there is nothing in the mortgage inconsistent with the application of the doctrine. (Vol 24) 1937 Pat 345 (347).

4. Combination of a simple mortgage and a usufructuary mortgage.—[1] The substitution in this section, in 1929, of the words "an anomalous mortgage" makes it clear that a combination of a usufructuary and a simple mortgage would be governed by this section. (Vol 21) 1934 Rang 159 (159).

[2] The amendment of this section in 1929, does not operate retrospectively. (Vol 21) 1934 Oudh 255 (256) : 10 Luck 10 (DB)✠(Vol 26) 1939 Pat 540 (542) (DB).

[3] A mortgagee under such a combination of mortgage has a right of sale. (Vol 14) 1927 P C 32 (36) : 50 Mad 180 : 54 Ind App 68 (PC) ✠ (Vol 21) 1934 Oudh 255 (256) : 10 Luck 10 (DB) ✠ (Vol 8) 1921 Pat 403 (405) (DB)✠('04) 27 Mad 526 (528) (FB)✠(Vol 22) 1935 Lah 103 (104) : 16 Lah 612 (DB).

5. Combination of a usufructuary mortgage and a mortgage by conditional sale. — [1] A mortgagee under such combination of mortgages has a right of foreclosure. ('13) 11 All L Jour 793 (795) (DB).

6. Kanom. — [1] A kanom is a combination of a usufructuary mortgage and a lease prevalent in Malabar. (Vol 6) 1919 Mad 320 (320) (DB). (Kanom is an anomalous mortgage.)✠(Vol 13) 1926 Mad 650 (651).

[2] A kanom is an anomalous mortgage. (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 650 (651) ✠ (Vol 8) 1921 Mad 243 (245) : 44 Mad 344 (DB).

[3] The kanomdar has no right to bring the property to sale. ('99) 22 Mad 350 (351) (DB) ✠ (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 650 (651).

[But see ('92) 15 Mad 366 (370) (DB).]

[4] The kanomdar can remain in possession for the period of twelve years and thereafter until he is paid the kanom amount together with the value of improvements, if any, effected by him. (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 650 (651).

[5] The kanomdar does not forfeit his right to hold for twelve years by allowing the rent to fall into arrears. (1862) 1 Mad H C R 112 (112) (DB).

[6] An ubhayapattam is equivalent to a kanom mortgage. ('07) 30 Mad 61 (65) (DB).

7. Peruarthum. — [1] Under the local usage, a Peruarthum mortgage, which is prevalent in Malabar, is redeemable on payment, not of the amount for which the land is mortgaged, but of its market-value. ('78) 1 Mad 57 (59) (DB).

8. Iladarawara.—[1] An iladarawara mortgage in South-Kanara, is usually for a long term of years and consists also a lease of the property for the term agreed upon. Repayment of the loan is not permissible under the custom before the expiry of the term. ('82) 4 Mad 113 (118) (DB).

30. Nankar and dahyak rights.

1. Scope.— [1] In the case of a mortgage as well as in a charge, the property of another person is made security for a loan or debt; but whereas a mortgage is a transfer of an interest in property, a charge does not involve the transfer of any interest in property. (Vol 24) 1937 Oudh 217 (219) : 13 Luck 101 (F B).

[2] The section is not exhaustive and there are certain kinds of charges which are not included within the purview of this section (Vol 27) 1940 Nag 163 (166) : I L R (1941) Nag 513 (D B) ✠ (Vol 26) 1939 All 579 (580) (D B).

[But see (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 55 (56, 57) : 48 Mad 821 (D B). (The Act is intended to be exhaustive and the Courts are not at liberty to follow English common law rules.)]

[But see (Vol 21) 1934 Bom 189 (192) (D B) ✠ (Vol 24) 1937 Mad 92 (94)]

2. Charge on moveables.—[1] This section does not apply to a charge created on moveable property. (Vol 16) 1929 Lah 274 (275) (D B).

[2] A charge on moveables made orally is as effectual (except in cases provided by S. 48 of the Registration Act) as if it were effected by an instrument in writing. (Vol 3) 1916 Lah 54 (55). 1916 Pun Re No. 32 (D B).

[3] For creating a charge on moveables the property must be specifically indicated. (Vol 11) 1924 Nag 360 (361) (Obiter.)

[4] A charge on moveable property which might come into existence at a future date is valid as an agreement to charge such property. ('86) 13 Cal 262 (264) (D B) ✠ (Vol 16) 1929 Lah 274 (275) (D B) ✠ (Vol 20) 1933 Cal 154 (159) : 59 Cal 1372 (D B).

3. Charge on future property. — [1] Lease providing that on lessee-company's delay in payment of rent landlord would recover arrears from buildings erected on land—Held charge was created on buildings when they came into existence. (Vol 1) 1914 Bom 267 (268) (D B)

[2] Mortgage of a share in immovable property for which mortgagor had sued for pre emption—Mortgagee also aware that property did not belong to mortgagor at that time but would be mortgagor's in future—Held transaction did not amount to a mortgage but created a charge on the share to be subsequently acquired by the mortgagor. (Vol 25) 1938 All 22 (25): I L R (1938) All 63 (D B).

4. "Made security." — [1] In order to create a charge it is not necessary to employ any technical or any particular form of words. All that is required is that there must be a clear intention to make a particular property, a security for the payment of money. (Vol 27) 1940 Cal 93 (95) (D B) ✠ (Vol 26) 1939 Nag 118 (119) I L R (1941) Nag 356 ✠(Vol 16) 1929 Oudh 539 (540) (D B) ✠ (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 664 (672) (D B) ✠ (Vol 18) 1931 All 62 (64) : 52 All 985 (D B).

[2] Where the property is not intended to serve as security, there can be neither a mortgage nor a charge. ('92) 19 Cal 584 (593) : 19 Ind App 95 (P C) ✠ (Vol 5) 1918 Cal 557 (566) (D B) ✠(Vol 23) 1936 Mad 709 (712, 713) (D B).

[3] In considering whether a particular deed or document does or does not create a charge, cases as regards other deeds are not always a good guide. (Vol 13) 1926 All 171 (171) (D B) ✠ (Vol 28) 1941 Nag 102 (103) : I L R (1942) Nag 263 (D B).

[4] Ordinarily, when the parties refer in a document to particular properties as the source from which a debt is to be paid or by the sale of which a debt is to be realized, there is some indication of an intention to make the property more directly liable than on a mere enforcement of a personal liability. (Vol 22) 1935 Mad 17 (19) ✠ ('85) 1885 All W N 19 (21) (D B).

[5] In maintenance cases, where in the absence of a specific agreement the maintenance will only be a kind of indefinite charge upon the family property, even a slight indication to convert it into a definite charge may suffice (Vol 22) 1935 Mad 17 (19) ✠(Vol 27) 1940 Cal 93 (95) (D B)✠(Vol 19) 1932 Oudh 168 (170) (D B) ✠ (Vol 23) 1936 Sind 16 (18) (D B) ✠ (Vol 10) 1923 Cal 27 (30) : 50 Cal 266 (D B).

[6] Where the party claims to be entitled to succeed to or to share in a certain property and that claim is settled by a provision for maintenance payable out of that property, a slight indication to convert it into a definite charge may suffice. ('83) 9 Cal 945 (950, 951): 10 Ind App 45 (P C) ✠ (Vol 5) 1918 P C 156 (157) : 42 Mad 581 :46 Ind App 64 (P C) ✠(Vol 22) 1935 Mad 17 (19).

[7] Property subject to mortgage — Later document relating to fresh advance providing that mortgage shall not be redeemed before payment of later debt— Parties held must have intended that the security under the first mortgage should be available for the fresh advance as well. (Vol 22) 1935 Mad 17 (19) ✠ (Vol 17) 1930 P C 176 (177) 5 Luck 365 : 57 Ind App 173 (P C).

[8] Where the parties entering into a partition arrangement say that if the parties thereto do not carry out their respective obligations, any loss incurred by one of them shall be recovered out of the properties of the others, no other connection between the properties and the enforcement of the liability can be thought of except that the properties are intended to be security. (Vol 22) 1935 Mad 17 (19)✠(Vol 13) 1926 All 527 (529) (D B).

[9] A mere direction in a partition decree asking one to pay some compensation to the other sharer in order to equalize the share does not create a charge over his share. (Vol 13) 1926 Oudh 230 (231).

[10] A document under which a sum of money is payable out of the profits of a particular property constitutes a charge upon that property. (Vol 30) 1943 Bom 414 (415) ✠ (Vol 24) 1937 Oudh 420 (421) : 13 Luck 35 (D B) ✠ ('82) 5 All 11 (14) (D B) ✠ (Vol 23) 1936 Oudh 52 (54) : 11 Luck 575 (D B) ✠ ('83) 7 Mad 23 (24, 26) (D B).

[11] A mere covenant by a party not to alienate the property was held not by itself sufficient to create a charge. (Vol 21) 1934 Mad 713 (714) (D B) ✠ ('81) 7 Cal 196 (198) (D B) ✠ (Vol 15) 1928 Lah 440 (441) (D B) ✠ ('80) 2 All 449 (451) (D B).

[12] An agreement between A and B that A should give a regular mortgage of his immovable property for money advanced by B, does not constitute a mortgage or charge upon such property. (Vol 17) 1930 P C 76 (78) (P C).

[13] Agreement between two brothers, A and B— B to waive his right to succeed to his father's estate and to withdraw suit filed by him against A for maintenance —A to pay certain monthly allowance to B in perpetuity — If A mortgaged muafi villages, allowance to be paid out of A's other property — Deed held created charge for allowance on property. ('83) 9 Cal 945 (951): 10 Ind App 45 (PC).

[14] In a partition dispute, the arbitrator awarded to the defendant property of greater value than that awarded to the plaintiff. In order to equalize the division, the arbitrator awarded a certain sum to be paid to the plaintiff by the defendant and further added that the property awarded to the defendant should be treated as makphul for the sum. It was held that a valid charge for the sum was created on the defendant's property (Vol 13) 1926 All 527 (529) (DB).

[15] A stipulation in a lease deed that the lessee should deduct a certain portion of the annual rent in repayment of a sum of money already borrowed by the lessor from him, creates a charge on the property leased and not merely a personal obligation. (Vol 18) 1931 All 62 (64) : 52 All 985 (DB).

[16] A sold certain property to B. The sale-deed contained the following provision : "The said vendee . . . . . is to pay Rs. 25 . . . . . to me annually (as malikana) which he has agreed to pay." It was held that the words "as malikana" showed an intention that the payment of Rs. 25 should be an annual charge upon the property. ('87) 9 All 591 (600) (FB).

[17] By a deed, J admitted liability. In respect of that liability, he undertook to execute a charge bond over specified share and rights in a village together with sir land. J undertook to get the sanction of the Court for transfer of sir, and not to assign the property until he carried out the above undertaking. It was held that the property was made security for the liability and that a charge was created. (Vol 28) 1941 Nag 102 (105): I L R (1942) Nag 263 (DB).

[18] Partition suit—Immovable property divided—Certain amount found to be payable by plaintiff to defendant—Judge refusing to make money allotted to defendant—Charge on immovable property allotted to plaintiff but directing latter not to transfer property so long as money due to defendant was not paid : Held Judge's order did not create charge. (Vol 33) 1946 Oudh 99 (101) (DB).

5. Property must be specified. — [1] It is not necessary that the properties charged should be described with that amount of definiteness as is necessary in the case of a mortgage. (Vol 6) 1919 Mad 528 (530) (DB)✠('90) 13 All 28 (43) (DB)✠(Vol 27) 1940 All 456 (457) : I L R (1940) All 669 (DB). [2] There should be some expression to signify what properties exactly are to be charged. (Vol 19) 1932 Cal 451 (453) (DB)✠(Vol 11) 1924 Nag 360 (361) ✠(Vo 13) 1926 Oudh 230 (231)✠ (Vol 5) 1918 Cal 557 (565, 566) (DB)✠(Vol 28) 1941 Mad 794 (794) (DB).

[3] A general description of the property would be sufficient if, from the facts and circumstances the property to be charged can be ascertained. (Vol 5) 1918 Cal 557 (565, 566) (D B)✠(Vol 28) 1941 Mad 794 (794) (D B)✠('87) 9 All 158 (164) (D B)✠(Vol 3) 1916 Oudh 329 (330)✠(Vol 25) 1938 Mad 767 (769).

[4] Where the description given is too vague and indefinite the charge will be void for uncertainty. (Vol 19) 1932 Cal 451 (453) (D B)✠('81) 3 Mad 35 (36, 37) (D B) ✠ (Vol 16) 1929 Oudh 539 (540) (D B)✠(Vol 11) 1924 Nag 360 (361)✠(Vol 20) 1933 All 934 (937) (DB).

[5] A valid charge can be created upon what could be defined to be the whole of a man's property at the date of the charge. (Vol 28) 1941 P C 16 (19) : I L R (1941) 1 Cal 468 : 68 Ind App 34 (P C).

[6] A charge on villages granted to a person by Government in lieu of loyal services rendered by him is on a specified property. ('82) 5 All 11 (14) (D B).

[7] Property is specified where "my share in the Premier Aerated Company at Hazaratganj" is charged. (Vol 16) 1929 Oudh 539 (540, 541) (DB).

[8] Partition suit—Decree directing payment by one sharer to others as compensation for excess portion —Nothing on record to show excess area— Held there was no charge. (Vol 13) 1926 Oudh 230 (231).

6. "By act of parties." — [1] A charge created by will was held to be a charge by act of parties. (Vol 1) 1914 Oudh 349 (350) ✠ (Vol 19) 1932 Oudh 336 (338, 340) : 8 Luck 168 (DB).

7. Security bond charging immovable property. — [1] Where, by a security bond, a person besides making himself personally liable under S. 145 of the Civil P. C. gives his immovable property as security, the question whether the transaction amounts to a mortgage or a charge will depend on the terms of the document and the intention of the parties. It is therefore a question of construction of the particular document. (Vol 21) 1934 Mad 1 (3) : 57 Mad 218 (D B) (Charge.)✠(Vol 4) 1917 All 104 (105): 39 All 225 (DB) (Mortgage.)

[2] Where a security bond purporting to charge immovable property is given to the Court and not to any named person there is no charge. (Vol 6) 1919 PC 55 (57, 59) : 42 All 158 : 22 Oudh Cas 212 : 46 Ind App 228 (PC) ✠ (Vol 16) 1929 All 834 (835, 836) (DB) ✠(Vol 23) 1936 Rang 303 (304).

[3] No person named in security bond as mortgagee— Bond held did not create mortgage but created charge. (Vol 17) 1930 Sind 159 (161).

[But see ('87) 14 Cal 687 (690, 691) (D B) ✠ ('06) 3 All L Jour 221 (223) (D B) ✠ (Vol 19) 1932 Cal 451 (453) (DB).]

[3] In the case of a contingent charge as soon as the contract is entered into, the promisee is entitled to look to the specified property as security for the due performance of the contract. (Vol 21) 1934 Lah 765 (767): 16 Lah 137 (DB).

[4] It cannot be said that whenever there is a charge to secure a liability which will arise only, if at all in the future, there is no present charge. (Vol 12) 1925 Pat 288 (290) (DB)✠(Vol 15) 1928 Pat 587 (588): 7 Pat 584 (DB)✠(Vol 5) 1918 Mad 674 (675) (D B).

9. Floating charge. — [1] The whole basis of a floating charge is that even after the creation of the charge, the business goes on and the person who creates the charge can dispose of the assets in the ordinary course of business till the charge becomes a fixed charge. (Vol 20) 1933 Cal 154 (157): 59 Cal 1372 (DB).

[2] A floating security is not a future security ; it is a present security. It is not a specific security ; the assets are mortgaged in such a way that the mortgagor can deal with them without the concurrence of the mortgagee. (Vol 18) 1931 Cal 223 (231, 232) : 58 Cal 136 (D B) ✠ (Vol 14) 1927 Cal 682 (685) : 54 Cal 513 (DB).

[3] A floating charge is shifting in its nature, until some event occurs or some act is done which causes it to settle and fasten on the subject of the charge within its reach and grasp. (Vol 18) 1931 Cal 223 (230, 231) : 58 Cal 136 (D B) ✠ (Vol 13) 1926 Bom 427 (429, 430) : 50 Bom 547 (DB).

[4] In a floating charge the property is constantly changing from time to time ; the charge does not of itself fasten even on the property existing at the moment of the creation of the charge. (Vol 13) 1926 Bom 427 (430) : 50 Bom 547 (DB).

[5] A floating charge becomes a fixed charge or specific charge on the intervention of the charge-holder or the undertaking charged ceasing to be a going concern. (Vol 18) 1931 P C 245 (247) : 58 Ind App 323 : 59 Cal 377 (P C).

[6] Where leasehold property and the machinery, engine, boilers, etc., were charged, it was held that there was no floating charge but a fixed charge. (Vol 20) 1933 Cal 154 (157) : 59 Cal 1372 (DB).

[7] Where assets were given in the possession of the lender company it was held that there was no floating charge. (Vol 14) 1927 Cal 682 (685, 686): 54 Cal 513 (DB).

[8] Where the borrower company handed over the keys of the godowns to the lender company and further agreed to keep in the godowns stock fetching a certain fixed price and it was also agreed that whenever the borrower company wanted to take out any stock from the godowns it must do so only with the consent of the lender company, it was held that the document did not create a floating charge but a specific charge. (Vol 13) 1926 Bom 427 (430): 50 Bom 547 (DB).

[9] The mere element of uncertainty as to what the amount of the charge, or what the object charged would be are not sufficient to satisfy the requirements of a floating charge. (Vol 20) 1933 Cal 154 (158): 59 Cal 1372 (DB).

[10] Where it was agreed that the borrower company could dispose of the stock with the permission of the lender company and thus carry on its business it was held that the nature of the fixed charge could not be altered so as to become a floating charge merely because, in spite of the charge the business of the borrower company continued to be carried on. (Vol 13) 1926 Bom 427 (430): 50 Bom 547 (DB).

[11] Debentures of companies afford the most ordinary example of a floating charge but they are not the only instances of it; a floating charge may be created even by an individual and by means other than the issue of debentures. (Vol 20) 1933 Cal 154 (156, 157): 59 Cal 1372 (D B).

[12] In the case of both a fixed charge and a floating charge, there is an agreement to transfer an interest in property when a certain contingency arises. The only difference is that where the charge is fixed it is secured on specific property and where it is floating it is secured on such assets as may be available when the contingency arises. (Vol 30) 1943 Oudh 338 (353): 18 Luck 683 (FB).

[13] In the absence of stipulation to the contrary, a floating charge leaves the person or the company creating the charge at liberty to create specific charges in priority to itself. (Vol 18) 1931 Cal 223 (232): 58 Cal 136 (DB).

[14] A floating charge on the undertaking or property of a company, requires registration under S. 109 of the Indian Companies Act (VII [7] of 1913). Otherwise it is void under that section. (Vol 13) 1926 Bom 28 (30) (DB) ✠(Vol 26) 1939 Sind 100 (106) ✠(Vol 14)

[15] A document creating a floating charge will also require registration under S. 17 of the Registration Act if it concerns immovable property of the value of Rs. 100 and upwards and will not affect the immovable property if not so registered. (Vol 18) 1931 P C 245 (247): 58 Ind App 323: 59 Cal 377 (P C).

10. "By operation of law." — [1] The words "by operation of law" are more extensive than the words "by law" and a charge created "by operation of law" includes a charge directly created by the provisions of an Act as well as other charges created indirectly as a legal consequence of certain conditions. ('03) 26 Mad 686 (726) (DB).

[2] The expression "operation of law" only means working of the law and is not restricted in its application to such cases as fall under S. 55 or S. 73. (Vol 30) 1943 Oudh 354 (359): 19 Luck 1 (FB).

[3] Charges by operation of law created directly by the provisions of Acts:

(a) Charge in favour of Government in respect of the amount due under a certificate issued by Collector by virtue of S. 8, Bihar and Orissa Pubic Demands Recovery Act (IV [4] of 1914). (Vol 21) 1934 Pat 648 (649, 650): 13 Pat 364 (DB).

(b) Charge in favour of Municipal Boards in United Provinces for the amount of taxes due to them under S. 177 of the U. P. Municipalities Act of 1916. (d) Charge under S. 87, Bombay District Municipal Act of 1901 in favour of Municipal Boards in respect of house tax and sanitary cess imposed under that Act. (Vol 30) 1943 Bom 21 (22).

(e) Charge in favour of Government for a loan advanced under the Land Improvement Loans Act (XIX [19] of 1883) by S. 7 (c) of the Act. (Vol 26) 1939 Bom 183 (187) ✠(Vol 6) 1919 Mad 590 (593): 41 Mad 691 (DB).

(f) Charge for the arrears of property tax under S. 212 of the Bombay City Municipal Act (Bombay Act (III [3] of 1888). (Vol 22) 1935 Bom 347 (350): 59 Bom 681 (DB).

[4] The appointment of a Receiver does not amount to a charge on the property for which the Receiver is appointed (Vol 22) 1935 Mad 146 (149).

[But see ('97) 10 C P L R 48 (49, 51).]

12. "And the transaction does not amount to a mortgage." — [1] In its ordinary sense, the word "charge" means an obligation imposed on property or a claim on property. In this sense every mortgage would create a charge, but every charge would not be a mortgage. (Vol 21) 1934 Bom 189 (190) (D B) ✠(Vol 6) 1919 Mad 528 (530) (DB).

[2] This Act draws a clear distinction between a mortgage and a charge. (Vol 6) 1919 Cal 634 (635): 46 Cal 111 (DB) ✠(Vol 28) 1941 Lah 274 (275) (DB).

[4] No charge, if it comes within the meaning of the section, whether by decree or otherwise, will be enforceable against a transferee for consideration without notice of it. (Vol 31) 1944 Nag 1 (7): I L R (1943) Nag 713 (D B) ✠ (Vol 30) 1943 Oudh 354 (359) : 19 Luck 1 (F B) ✠ (Vol 28) 1941 Pat 95 (98) : 20 Pat 86 (D B) ✠ (Vol 28) 1941 Cal 436 (438, 439)✠(Vol 32) 1945 Pat 434 (437) (D B).

[5] This section will not apply to the case of a transfer during the pendency of a litigation in which a charge is created by a decree. In such a case the transfer is affected by the doctrine of lis pendens and the question of notice is immaterial (Vol 31) 1944 Bom 191 (193): I L R (1944) Bom 274 (D B)✠(Vol 32) 1945 Mad 126 (127) : I L R (1945) Mad 726 (D B)✠(Vol 32) 1945 Mad 350 (351).

[6] If a decree does create a charge on properties, the decree-holder has the right to bring the charged properties to sale in execution proceedings and it is not necessary to file a separate suit for enforcing the charge. (Vol 33) 1946 Bom 207 (209) (D B).

27. Payments in the nature of salvage. — [1] Where a person having some interest in a property or some right or duty towards the owner of the property pays money in order to save the property from loss or destruction, he has a first charge on the property for such payments ('67) 11 Moo Ind App 241 (258) (P C)✠ ('94) 21 Cal 142 (148, 149): 20 Ind App 160 (P C).

[2] Government revenue is the first and paramount charge upon the land and if default is made in payment, the land is sold in a summary way. The purchaser gets a clear title and the land is lost for ever to the defaulting proprietor. ('94) 21 Cal 142 (148): 20 Ind App 160 (P C).

[3] As to whether a person who pays the Government revenue on behalf of another who is liable to pay it is entitled to a charge for such payment, following views have been expressed:

(a) A co-sharer who pays the quota of the Government revenue due from another co-sharer in order to save the estate from being sold is entitled to a charge on the other co-sharer's share for the payment made on his behalf. ('67) 11 Moo Ind App 241 (258) (P C)✠('06) 26 Mad 686 (711, 725) (F B)✠ (Vol 23) 1936 Mad 752 (760, 763) (D B) ✠ (Vol 28) 1941 Nag 245 (249): I L R (1941) Nag 474 (D B)✠ (Vol 19) 1932 Nag 171 (172): 28 Nag L R 214.

(b) A payment of Government revenue made by one having an interest which would be sacrificed by the loss of the estate does not give a charge on the estate for the money so paid and therefore, a co-sharer paying the Government revenue does not acquire any charge on the share of the defaulting co-sharer. ('87) 14 Cal 809 (825, 827, 832) (F B)✠ ('92) 14 All 273 (295, 298) (F B) ✠ (Vol 24) 1937 All 618 (619) : I L R (1937) All 706 (D B) ✠ ('02) 26 Bom 437 (442) (D B) ✠ (Vol 1) 1914 Cal 263 (268) (D B) ✠ (Vol 15) 1928 Pat 641 (643, 644) : 7 Pat 613 (D B)✠('92) 7 C P L R 42 (43, 44).

[4] The mortgagee paying the Government revenue in order to save the property from sale has a charge on the property. ('03) 30 Cal 794 (798, 799) (D B)✠(Vol 17) 1930 Cal 151 (153): 57 Cal 298 (D B)✠(Vol 7) 1920 Pat 521 (522) : 5 Pat L Jour 248 ✠ (Vol 6) 1919 Low Bur 136 (138).

[5] The principle as to payments in the nature of salvage, is not confined to payments of Government revenue, but is of general application. (Vol 30) 1943 Mad 573 (576, 577) : I L R (1944) Mad 44 ✠ (Vol 11) 1924 Rang 204 (206) : 1 Rang 714 (D B) ✠ ('79) 4 Cal 539 (541) (D B)✠(Vol 15) 1928 Rang 278 (280): 6 Rang 500.

[6] A purchasing oil well which was subject to mortgage—B having right of pre-emption — A making part payment to mortgagee towards mortgage decree —Payment necessary to save oil well from sale — A held had charge for money paid against B exercising his right of pre-emption. (Vol 11) 1924 Rang 204 (205, 206): 1 Rang 714 (D B).

[7] The principle of salvage lien can be applied in India to cases of payment of rent or other dues the non-payment of which would have wiped out all the subsidiary interests in land (Vol 30) 1943 Mad 573 (576, 577): I L R (1944) Mad 44.

[8] The charge given on the principle of salvage lien is not a charge within the meaning of the section. (Vol 11) 1924 Rang 204 (206): 1 Rang 714 (D B).

[a][101. Any mortgagee of, or person having a charge upon, immoveable property, or any transferee from such mortgagee or charge-holder, may purchase or otherwise acquire the rights in the property of the mortgagor or owner, as the case may be, without thereby causing the mortgage or charge to be merged as between himself and any subsequent mortgagee of, or person having a subsequent charge upon, the same property; and no such subsequent mortgagee or charge holder shall be entitled to foreclose or sell such property without redeeming the prior mortgage or charge, or otherwise than subject thereto.]

No merger in case of subsequent encumbrance.

[9] The application of the doctrine of salvage lien does not depend upon the question whether the demand which was met was a charge or a first charge on the property. The doctrine of salvage lien is wider than the doctrine of subrogation In the case of subrogation, the person making the payment gets only the rights of the person whose dues are paid off while in the case of salvage lien such person is entitled to a right which prevails over all the interests which are saved by the payment. (Vol 30) 1943 Mad 573 (577) : I L R (1944) Mad 44.

28. Hindu widow's right of maintenance.— [1] A Hindu widow's right of maintenance is not a charge on the family property within the meaning of this section. [3] Though under S. 39, a right of maintenance can be enforced against a transferee with notice or a gratuitous transferee, the rule does not apply where the debts have precedence over the right of maintenance, and a transfer of the family property is in liquidation of such debts. [2] A cash nankar granted in lieu of the surrender of zamindari rights is a charge on the zamindari rights so surrendered. (Vol 25) 1938 Oudh 84 (85) : 13 Luck 746 (DB) ✠(Vol 6) 1919 Oudh 403 (404) : 21 Oudh Cas 327.

1. Scope.
2. Renewal of one mortgage by another.
3. Transaction in discharge of prior mortgage invalid—Effect.
4. Mortgagee purchasing portion of mortgaged property—Effect.
5. Purchase at sale in execution of decree for rent or for recovery of land revenue.
6. Who can claim benefit of section.
7. "As between himself and any subsequent mortgagee."
8. Charge kept alive—Enforcement.
9. Section, if retrospective.

1. Scope.—[1] The mere fact of a charge having been paid off does not decide the question whether it was extinguished. It is a matter of intention of the parties. The intention to keep the charge alive is presumed where it is for the benefit of the person paying to do so. This principle of equity is called the rule of intention. ('84) 10 Cal 1035 (1046) : 11 Ind App 126 (P C) ✠(1877) 46 L J Ch 352 (352) : 5 Ch D 634, Adams v. Angell ✠ (1894) 64 L J Ch 1 (6) : 1895 App Cas 11, Thorne v. Cann ✠(Vol 18) 1931 Pat 426 (431, 432) : 10 Pat 630 (DB).

[2] Where a mortgagee or a person having a charge upon immoveable property purchases or acquires the rights in the property, the question whether the mortgage or charge is kept alive does not also depend upon any rule of intention. The section declares that there shall be no merger as between the mortgagee and any subsequent mortgagee or charge-holder of the same property. (Vol 27) 1940 Pat 64 (65) ✠(Vol 32) 1945 Bom 116 (118).

[3] It is not the intention of Legislature in amending this section to amend or alter the old law which covered the case of union of two estates which occurred when the purchaser of equity of redemption acquired the rights of the mortgagee or when the rights of the mortgagor were acquired by the mortgagee (Vol 32) 1945 Bom 116 (118, 119). (Charge on immovable property created by judgment-debtor in favour of holder of money decree—Sale of property in execution of mortgage decree—Purchase by charge-holder—Debt under charge is extinguished—Personal remedy against judgment-debtor is barred.)

[4] Section does not provide for a case of an owner of property acquiring a charge on the property as by inheritance. (Vol 29) 1942 Nag 33 (35) : I L R (1942) Nag 309 (DB).

[See also (Vol 29) 1942 All 175 (184) : I L R (1942) All 259 (DB).]

[5] Section does not apply to a case where a mortgagee acquires the ownership of the property and it is for his benefit to keep it alive, though there are no subsequent incumbrances. In such cases the rule of intention will still apply. (Vol 30) 1943 Oudh 407 (408, 409) (DB).

531. (FB). (Per Patanjali Sastri J. in Order of Reference.)]

[6] Where a Hindu widow mortgages her husband's property and then the mortgagee transfers to her, in her individual and independent capacity, the mortgagee right, there would be no merger and the widow's personal heirs would inherit the mortgagee right after her death while the equity of redemption would devolve on her husband's heirs. (Vol 29) 1942 All 175 (184) : I L R (1942) All 259 (DB).

[7] Whether it is for the benefit of the party to keep a charge alive must be decided with reference to the circumstances existing at the time the charge is paid off, or the union of interests takes place. (Vol 30) 1943 Mad 429 (431) : I L R (1943) Mad 531 (FB). [8] The possibility of a future claim for pre emption is not a circumstance from which it can be said that it is for the benefit of the person paying off a charge to keep it alive. (Vol 14) 1926 Oudh 606 (608) : 1 Luck 560 (DB) ✠('12) 34 All 268 (272) (DB).

2. Renewal of one mortgage by another.—[1] A renewal of one mortgage by another does not necessarily extinguish the prior security The rule of intention applies to such cases and the prior mortgage will remain if it is for the benefit of the party renewing, to keep it alive. ('13) 35 All 211 (225) : 40 Ind App 105 (P C).

[2] If there is an intermediate mortgage, the prior mortgage will be kept alive as against the intermediate mortgage. (The doctrine of merger is not applicable to mortgages.)

[3] Where the prior mortgagee obtains the renewal in partial discharge of the prior security or obtains other additional security, the prior mortgage will be kept alive. [4] Where a prior mortgagee had purchased the rights under a puisne mortgage it was held that the rights under the prior mortgage remained in force. (Vol 15) 1928 Lah 301 (303, 304) : 9 Lah 88 (DB).

[5] Where, notwithstanding it would be for the benefit of the mortgagee to keep the prior mortgage alive, the intention is clear that the prior mortgage should be extinguished, it will not be kept alive ('81) 3 All 706 (709) (DB) ✠ ('89) 13 Bom 348 (351) (DB) ✠(Vol 22) 1935 Lah 203 (206).

3. Transaction in discharge of prior mortgage invalid—Effect.— [1] Where a mortgagee takes a subsequent sale or mortgage in discharge of his mortgage and it turns out that the later transaction is inoperative or invalid, the prior mortgage remains and is not extinguished. 103. Where, under the provisions of this Chapter, a notice is to be served on or by, or a tender or deposit made or accepted or taken out of Court by, any person incompetent to contract, such notice may be served [a]on or by, or tender or deposit made, accepted or taken, by the legal curator of the property of such person; but where there is no such curator, and it is requisite or desirable in the interests of such person that a notice should be served or a tender or deposit made under the provisions of this Chapter, application may be made to any Court in which a suit might be brought for the redemption of the mortgage to appoint a guardian ad litem for the purpose of serving or receiving service of such notice, or making or accepting such tender or making or taking out of Court such deposit, and for the performance of all consequential acts which could or ought to be done by such person if he were competent to contract[b]; and the provisions of [c][Order XXXII in the First Schedule to the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908] shall, so far as may be, apply to such application and to the parties thereto and to the guardian appointed thereunder.

OF LEASES OF IMMOVEABLE PROPERTY.

105. A lease of immoveable property is a transfer of a right to enjoy such property, made for a certain time, express or implied, or in perpetuity, in consideration of a price paid or promised or of money, a share of crops, service or any other thing of value to be

Lease defined.

Section 103 — Note 1

[1] A tender under S. 60 or a notice under S. 69 or S. 83 cannot be made to, or served on, a 'guardian ad litem' until such a person is actually appointed. ('03) 27 Bom 23 (29) (DB). (Tender.)

[2] The words "person incompetent to contract" must be read in the light of Ss. 11 and 12 of the Contract Act.

[3] A natural guardian such as the father or mother of a Hindu minor, cannot be held to be a "legal curator" and a notice or tender to him without his being appointed a guardian ad litem is not valid and binding on the minor. (Vol 9) 1922 All 355 (355, 356) ; 44 All 64 (DB).

[4] If where the mortgagee is a minor it is determined by the mortgagor to proceed under Ss. 83 and 84, then it is requisite that a notice should be served; if in the case of an infant mortgagor those entrusted with the care of his affairs consider the mortgage-money should be tendered or paid, then it may be desirable in the interests of the minor that this should be done. ('03) 27 Bom 23 (28) (D B).

[5] Where the fact of minority of the person in whose favour a deposit is made under S. 83, is disputed, the Court can, under the provisions of O. 32, R. 3 of the Civil P. C., make an enquiry into the matter. (Vol 15) 1928 All 311 (312) : 50 All 655 (DB).

[6] Where the proposed guardian refuses to act as such, the Court can under O. 32, R. 4, Civil P. C., appoint an officer of the Court as the guardian ad litem for the purposes of this section. (Vol 10) 1923 All 183 (184) : 45 All 273 (D B). (Letters Patent appeal from (Vol 9) 1922 All 147 : 44 All 102— The view taken by Lindsay J., confirmed.)

[7] A deposit in favour of a minor usufructuary mortgagee without a proper guardian ad litem being appointed for him is not a valid deposit, and the mortgagor cannot claim any mesne profits from the former from the date of his deposit. (Vol 13) 1926 All 665 (666, 667) : 48 All 611 (D B) ✠ (Vol 17) 1930 All 609 (610) (D B).

[1] This section does not make it obligatory for the High Courts to make rules ('02) 25 Mad 244 (271) (FB).

[2] Mortgage suits and the execution of decrees passed therein are governed by the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure. (Vol 1) 1914 Oudh 289 (290). (In the absence of any rules framed by the High Court under S. 104, T. P. Act fixing the "court rate" the case is governed by S. 34, Civil P. C., and the Court can, in a suit on a mortgage bond award interest at the contract rate of 7½ per cent. per annum till the date of realisation.) ✠(Vol 4) 1917 Mad 128 (131) (DB). (Per Bakewell J.)

[3] As to the nature of rules contemplated by this section, see ('02) 25 Mad 244 (273) (F B).

[4] Rules which are inconsistent with the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure, cannot be framed under this section. ('02) 25 Mad 244 (271, 272) (F B).

[But see (Vol 15) 1928 Bom 123 (128) :52 Bom 459 (DB). (Original side rules.)]

[5] A rule which is not consistent with this Act, would be ultra vires. ('98) 25 Cal 703 (708, 709) (FB).

[6] The rule-making power is limited to carrying out the provisions of Chap. IV. If the rule framed goes beyond this it would be ultra vires. ('02) 25 Mad 244 (254) (F B).

1. Applicability of chapter.— [1] This chapter applies to all leases except agricultural leases. (Vol 14) 1927 All 78 (79) (DB) ✠ ('09) 5 Mad L Tim 222 (222).

[2] Although T. P. Act does not in its terms apply to agricultural leases, definition in S. 105 applies to agricultural leases as well. (Vol 6) 1919 Mad 168 (169): 42 Mad 203 (SB).

[3] Although T. P. Act does not apply to agricultural leases, analogy of the Act may be relied upon. ('10) 33 Mad 253 (253) (DB).

[4] To determine if a lease is for an agricultural purpose the primary object of the lease is to be considered. (Vol 14) 1927 All 78 (79, 80) (DB) ✠('12) 15 Cal L Jour 672 (674) (DB).

[5] Lease for residential purpose with right to take fruits from trees on the land and plant other fruit trees —Lease not agricultural—T. P. Act applies. (Vol 13) 1926 Cal 312 (313) (DB).

[6] Lease of tank for rearing and preserving fish and of the banks for grazing cattle—Primary object being the rearing of fish, lease is not for agricultural purpose. (Vol 22) 1935 Cal 638 (639).

[7] Where the lease is merely of a tank with so much of its banks as is necessary for its use, it cannot be regarded as an agricultural lease because the tank is the principal subject of the lease. ('73) 20 Suth W R 341 (341) (DB).

[8] Where the lease is merely of a tank with so much of its banks as is necessary for its use it cannot be regarded as an agricultural lease and no right of occupancy can be acquired in the tank—In this case, the surrounding land was of considerable area and the lease being indivisible, it was held that the whole lease was for agricultural purpose. (Vol 18) 1931 Cal 135 (138) (DB).

[9] Lease held to be horticultural, because it was granted not for enjoying fruit only but also for the purpose of planting trees. ('26) 96 Ind Cas 89 (89) (Cal).

[10] Where a certain land is given for "cultivation and building tenants' houses" held that the lease was for a mixed purpose, agricultural and non-agricultural for a lump rent. ('14) 24 Ind Cas 788 (788) (Oudh).

[11] Principle of S. 116 applied to the Punjab where the Act does not apply. ('28) 112 Ind Cas 651 (652) (Lah).

[12] Lease granted by a municipality is within this Chapter (Vol 15) 1928 All 95 (95). (Lease cannot be determined merely by a resolution passed by the Municipal Board.)

2. Lease is an interest in property.—[1] Lease is an interest in the property. Unless there is a transfer of such an interest there can be no lease. (Vol 27) 1940 Cal 89 (90): I L R (1939) 2 Cal 254✠ (Vol 1) 1914 Cal 485 (486) (DB).

[But see (Vol 28) 1941 All 56 (59, 60): I L R (1941) All 17 (DB) (There is a transfer of an interest in the property under a usufructuary mortgage while under a lease there is only a transfer of the right of enjoyment of the property.)]

[2] Provisions of law like S. 39 of the Contract Act which are applicable to mere contracts are not applicable to lease. (Vol 6) 1919 Mad 168 (169): 42 Mad 203 (SB).

[3] A bid-sheet or dak-fard showing the bids made at the auction of land for settlement is a verbal settlement, and the document which did not contain the most important terms and was never intended to be delivered to the lessee as a document of title cannot in such circumstances constitute a lease. (Vol 13) 1926 Pat 487 (489) (DB).

[4] A suit for ejectment against a lessee does not lie so long as the lease is in existence. ('07) 34 Cal 57 (63) (DB) ✠ (Vol 15) 1928 All 95 (95).

[5] Tenancy void—Independent collateral agreement not to eject during a certain period held good answer to suit for ejectment. (Vol 17) 1930 All 678 (681) (DB).

3. Agreement to grant lease.—[1] A mere agreement to grant a lease in future is not a lease. (Vol 16) 1929 Rang 164 (165): 7 Rang 70 (DB) ✠('10) 37 Cal

[2] Whether a contract in writing or orally made is to be construed as a lease or merely as an agreement to lease must be gathered from the terms of the whole document. (Vol 10) 1923 Oudh 227 (238).

[3] The question whether there was a present demise or merely an agreement to make a demise in future must depend upon the paramount intention of the parties. ('10) 12 Cal L Jour 300 (303) (DB).

[4] Mere provision in an agreement that the lease is to commence from a future date does not make it merely executory agreement (Vol 17) 1930 Bom 210 (212) ✠(Vol 12) 1925 Cal 1087 (1089, 1092) : 52 Cal 695✠('13) 1913 Pun L R No. 97, page 357 (359) (DB)✠ (Vol 4) 1917 Nag 207 (208).

[5] Mere provision in an agreement for execution of a formal document, does not make agreement merely executory. (Vol 21) 1934 Mad 418 (419, 420): 57 Mad 760 (DB) ✠ (Vol 17) 1930 Bom 210 (212, 213) ✠(Vol 12) 1925 Cal 1087 (1093) : 52 Cal 695 ✠ (Vol 17) 1930 Pat 530 (532) (DB).

[6] Even where possession is allowed to be taken under the agreement it may amount only to a personal agreement not creating any present interest in the property. ('06) 33 Cal 502 (504, 505) (DB). (Reclamation licence with agreement for lease.) ✠(Vol 11) 1924 Cal 558 (560) (DB) ✠(Vol 17) 1930 Pat 356 (357).

[7] Executory agreement for lease—Possession taken by promisee — Ejectment suit by owner — Doctrine of equitable interest does not apply in India—Promisee may however obtain stay of suit and sue for specific performance. (Vol 18) 1931 P C 79 (82) : 58 Cal 1235 : 58 Ind App 91 (P C)

[8] Specific performance of an agreement for lease cannot be enforced unless the terms of the lease can be ascertained with reasonable certainty from agreement. (Vol 31) 1944 Mad 518 (524) : I L R (1945) Mad 355 (D B) ✠ (Vol 11) 1924 Cal 346 (347, 348) ✠(Vol 9) 1922 Bom 404 (404) (D B).

[9] A person entering into possession under a mere agreement for lease may be liable for damages for use and occupation. ('12) 15 Ind Cas 432 (432) (Mad).

[10] Person entering into possession under mere agreement for lease may be liable for damages for breach of contract where he vacates the property before the end of the period for which he has agreed to be in possession by paying rent. (Vol 14) 1927 Cal 275 (277) (D B).

4. "Right to enjoy." — [1] Fresh lease of property during continuance of its previous lease—Such a lease has no effect and no rent can be recovered on its basis. (Vol 22) 1935 Cal 193 (195).

[2] A valid lease cannot be granted by a person not in possession of the lands leased. ('74) 1 Ind App 76 (81) (P C).

[3] The transfer of a bare right of possession without the right to the usufruct is not a lease. ('99) 9 Mad L Jour 290 (295) (D B).

[4] There must be a transfer of the exclusive right of possession of the leased property in order to constitute a lease. ('97) 20 Mad 58 (65) (F B).

[5] Hukumnama granting right to dig mica mines with 105 kudalis — Grantor retaining right to use and enjoy mines—Held, hukumnama could not be regarded as a lease as it was a grant of a partial and limited interest and was in the nature of an easement. (Vol 31) 1944 Pat 261 (266) : 23 Pat 115 (D B).

[8] A transfer of "rents and profits" of the land without any words of limitation is construed as a transfer of the land itself (Vol 27) 1940 Pat 516 (525, 526, 535, 536) : 19 Pat 433 (D B).

[2] Rent note not intended to be acted upon — No lease ('92) 19 Bom 133*n* (134*n*).

[3] Tenancy cannot be created by implication or acquiescence. (Vol 16) 1929 Nag 13 (13).

[4] Suit for rent of ferry tolls—Defendant not having entered into any contract with plaintiff but having collected the tolls—Lower Court passing decree for rent holding that the defendant has made himself plaintiff's tenant in respect of the ghats by use and occupation—Held that this was wrong and no decree for rent could be passed. (1900) 27 Cal 239 (242) (D B).

[5] A mere entry in a khasra does not create a contract of tenancy with the persons entered therein. The mere fact of a person's holding lands in a zemindari estate is not a sufficient proof that he is a tenant. (Vol 4) 1917 Pat 345 (347 349) (D B).

[6] On terms of lease deed lessor having option, on expiry of 10 years, to enter into contract of tenancy with person in occupation—Plaintiff-lessor giving notice to defendant who was in occupation but defendant not replying — Held, this amounted merely to an offer of tenancy but as there was no acceptance by defendant there was no contract of tenancy. (Vol 31) 1944 Nag 141 (142) : I L R (1944) Nag 267.

[7] Admission of a lease by the person in possession or by the owner will not by itself create a lease. ('80) 5 Cal 864 (865) (D B).

[8] Tenant openly breaking up waste land and cultivating it with knowledge of landlord and without any objection by him — Cultivator is licensee first but when improvement and cultivation have continued for a number of years and the cultivator is shown in the village records as tenant a tenancy may be implied. (Vol 4) 1917 Nag 36 (36).

[9] When a lease is contained in writing it can be contained in more than one document. (Vol 17) 1930 Rang 210 (212) ✠ (Vol 4) 1917 Mad 274 (276) (D B).

[2] Payment and acceptance of rent is an element of evidence going to prove the existence of a tenancy. (1900) 27 Cal 156 (164, 165) : 26 Ind App 216 (P C) ✠ ('76) 1 Cal 391 (399) : 3 Ind App 92 (P C) ✠ ('85) 11 Cal 434 (446) (F B).

[3] Marfatdari receipts i. e., receipts granted in the name of payer on behalf of another, do not constitute any relationship of landlord and tenant between the payer and the payee, nor any recognition of the payee's right as tenant. (Vol 13) 1926 Pat 465 (467) : 5 Pat 415 (D B).

[4] Cases not governed by this Act — Payment and acceptance of rent may be sufficient to prove a tenancy even in regard to agricultural land, notwithstanding the presumption as to its being one from year to year. (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 881 (882) (D B).

[5] A tenancy can arise from payment and acceptance of rent, only where the person, to whom the rent is paid, is the owner of the property (Vol 7) 1920 Cal 693 (693, 694) (D B) ✠ (Vol 6) 1919 Cal 796 (797).

[6] Grant of lease by trespasser — Owner accepting rent from lessee — Creation of fresh tenancy may be implied. (1900) 27 Cal 156 (164, 165) : 26 Ind App 216 (P C).

7. Kabuliat, rent-note, etc., whether lease. — [1] Kabuliat or rent note itself does not operate as a lease. (Vol 31) 1944 All 221 (222) : I L R (1944) All 346 (DB) ✠ (Vol 30) 1943 Lah 127 (128) : I L R (1943) Lah 695 (F B) ✠ (Vol 29) 1942 All 330 (330) ✠ (Vol 27) 1940 Nag 143 (144)

[See however (Vol 33) 1946 Pat 22 (24) : 24 Pat 439 (D B). (In Bihar, an agricultural lease may be created by a kabulrat executed by the lessee and accepted by the lessor.)]

[2] Rent-note or a kabuliat can evidence a lease subject to its admissibility in evidence. ('11) 14 Cal L Jour 614 (615, 616) (D B) ✠ ('06) 9 Oudh Cas 296 (298, 299) (D B).

[3] An application for the grant of a lease with the endorsement of sanction on such application may be sufficient to create a lease ('04) 27 Mad 43 (44) (D B) ✠ ('81) 7 Cal 703 (707) (F B) ✠ ('06) 33 Cal 502 (504, 505) (D B).

[4] Rent-note or a kabuliat can be enforced as a contract against the person executing it (Vol 31) 1944 All 221 (222) : I L R (1944) All 346 (D B) ✠ (Vol 29) 1942 All 330 (330).

8. Agreement varying rent or other terms of lease, whether lease. — [1] An agreement merely varying the amount of rent payable under an existing lease is not itself a lease. ('97) 24 Cal 20 (24) (D B) ✠ Vol 9) 1922 Cal 511 (512) (D B).

[But see (Vol 16) 1929 Lah 291 (292) : 10 Lah 685 (D B). (Where a compromise varies the terms of a registered lease with regard to the rate of rent, the variation amounts to a fresh lease.)]

14. Market rights. — [1] Where grant of a right to hold a fair or a market on a piece of land gives the grantee the right of exclusive occupation of the land and there is no sufficient reason to hold that only a personal right and not an interest in the property was intended to be granted the grant amounts to a lease. (Vol 17) 1930 Cal 739 (742, 743) : 57 Cal 655 (DB) ✠ (Vol 16) 1929 Cal 197 (199, 200, 201) : 55 Cal 1328 (DB) ✠ (Vol 27) 1940 Cal 89 (91) : I L R (1939) 2 Cal 254.

[3] Lease which merely says that the lessor will be entitled to eject the tenant in case of non-payment of rent does not necessarily imply that the tenant could not be ejected so long as he paid his monthly rent. (Vol 15) 1928 Lah 937 (938).

23. Lease for a term certain with a provision for continuation thereafter. — [1] Lease granted for a term certain—After expiry of the term lessee entitled, at his option, to continue to hold for a further period—Lease is only for the term fixed and the further period is not to be counted as a part of the term. [6] A characteristic of periodical tenancy is that as each period commences, it is not a new tenancy : it is really an accretion to the old tenancy. (Vol 30) 1943 Bom 306 (309) : I L R (1943) Bom 553 (DB).

[3] A tenancy at will arises by implication of law in cases of permissive occupation—Where the tenancy is created by express contract between the parties there is no scope for characterising the tenancy as one at will. (Vol 29) 1942 Cal 341 (341, 342) (DB).

[4] Terms of holding as between landlord and tenant are matter of contract—In the absence of express agreement, if the owner lets another into possession and the latter pays rent a tenancy at will or from year to year is created. ('78) 3 Cal 696 (699) (D B).

[5] Where in a lease deed besides the use of the expression 'bemiadi thica patta' the lease is granted to the lessee and his heirs and they are to pay rent to the lessor and to his disciples and the rent payable is referred to as 'a fixed rent' and moreover the lease permits the lessee not only to enjoy the property himself in any manner he thinks proper by holding it in direct possession by planting orchards cultivating it, building houses but also to let to tenants as he thinks fit the lease is a permanent lease and does not create tenancy terminable at the will of the landlord by a notice to quit. (Vol 20) 1933 Cal 477 (480) (DB)

[8] Lessee being in a position to enforce covenant for renewal on the expiry of first lease — Fact that lease was not renewed may, in the absence of an explanation, raise a presumption that lessee abandoned his right of renewal (Vol 6) 1919 Cal 972 (973) (DB)

[9] Execution of fresh lease dependent on re-assessment at the instance of lessor — It is for the lessor to make re-assessment and then call upon tenant to exercise his option— Lessor bound to give notice to the lessee for exercising the option before he can treat the lease as determined. [13] There is no presumption that, unless a contrary intention is shown, the lessee will have an option of renewal. (Vol 2) 1915 P C 59 (63) : 39 Bom 625 : 42 Ind App 229 (P C).

[16] A perpetual lease and a lease with a clause for perpetual renewal are not the same. (Vol 25) 1938 Cal 724 (726) (DB)

[17] The right of renewal is a privilege granted to the lessee and therefore the renewal can only be of the contract as made. For example, if the contract is made with tenants, one of them cannot enforce the contract, or where the position of the parties changes, the renewal cannot be enforced. (Vol 16) 1929 Cal 50 (55) : 55 Cal 841 (DB).

[18] Covenant for renewal in a lease for 99 years "upon such terms and conditions as shall be judged reasonable" held not too vague to be enforced. (Vol 14) 1927 Mad 513 (521) : 50 Mad 595 (DB).

[19] A lease of land provided, among other things, "this lease shall and may be renewed for a further term of 99 years upon such terms and conditions as shall be deemed reasonable". Before expiry of the term the lessees transferred their interest in a portion of the property and after expiry claimed renewal in virtue of the above clause: Held on construction that the covenant only applied to the premises as a whole and that since lessees lost interest in a portion of the property, the circumstances did not justify a renewal of the lease. (Vol 15) 1928 P C 258 (260) : 51 Mad 885 : 55 Ind App 423 (P C). ((Vol 14) 1927 Mad 513 : 50 Mad 595, Reversed.)

[20] A covenant for renewal does not operate as a present demise but is a mere contract which can be given effect to, by enforcing specific performance only, in case of refusal to perform it by the lessor, and as the contract of lease and the covenant for renewal are two separate contracts the ratification of the lease does not necessarily amount to a ratification of the covenant for renewal. (Vol 16) 1929 Cal 50 (54, 55) : 55 Cal 841 (DB).

[21] Where the covenant in a lease as to further settlement with the lessee after the expiration of the lease, was subject to the pleasure of the lessor, it was held that covenant was not one for renewal. (Vol 34) 1947 Cal 378 (381) (DB).

[2] Tenancy by sufferance is merely a fiction to avoid continuance in possession operating as a trespass — It cannot be created by contract and arises by implication of law when a person who has been in possession under a lawful title continues in possession after that title has determined without the consent of the person entitled. (Vol 29) 1942 Cal 341 (341) (DB).

[3] Expression "tenant by sufferance" does not imply any existing tenancy (1900) 24 Bom 504 (508) (DB) ✠ ('09) 31 All 514 (517) (DB).

[2] Where lessor seeks to turn out lessee before expiry of period for renewal, following views have been expressed:

(a) Lessee can compel lessor to renew lease. ('77-78) 5 Ind App 164 (168) (PC).

(b) Lessee in such cases has an estate in the property. (Vol 18) 1931 Bom 178 (181) (DB)✠(Vol 14) 1927 Cal 725 (730) : 54 Cal 813 (DB).

(c) Lessee is in the same position as if promised renewal has been made (Vol 10) 1923 Pat 236 (238) (DB) ✠ (Vol 8) 1921 Cal 574 (575) (DB) ✠ ('12) 16 Cal L Jour 217 (224) (DB).

[3] Where a lessee has been allowed to be in possession of the property for the full term for which renewal had been promised, he cannot thereafter rely on the covenant for renewal in defence to the suit for ejectment by the lessor. ('78) 5 Ind App 164 (169) (PC).

[4] Where a lessee holds over after the expiry of his term and the landlord assents to his doing so, the effect is not to renew the lease for the full period provided under the covenant for renewal but only from year to year or from month to month according to the purpose of the tenancy. (Vol 14) 1927 Cal 725 (729) : 54 Cal 813 (DB).

32. Lessee holding over after expiry of lease—Basis of liability for compensation. — [1] Where a lessee holds over after a lease has expired, and the landlord has not assented to such holding over, lessee is liable for mesne profits from the date of the determination of the lease. [3] Lessee entitled to remain in possession after expiration of lease till payment of value of improvements — He is liable not for mesne profits but only for rent at rate fixed under the lease. (Vol 17) 1930 Mad 434 (438, 439).

[4] Lessee holding over after expiry of lease — Landlord not assenting — Liability for compensation is ex delicto (Vol 22) 1935 Mad 307 (308)✠(Vol 4) 1917 Mad 901 (902) : 39 Mad 54 (DB) ✠ ('99) 26 Cal 338 (347) (SB).

33. Permanent tenancy — Onus of proof.—[1] Where the relationship of landlord and tenant is established between two persons and the tenant claims that the tenancy is a permanent one, it is for the tenant to establish that by agreement, custom or law his tenancy is permanent. (Vol 7) 1920 P C 67 (69) : 43 Mad 567 : 47 Ind App 76 (PC) ✠ (Vol 16) 1929 P C 156 (157): 52 Mad 549: 56 Ind App 248 (PC) ✠(Vol 11) 1924 P C 65 (66) : 47 Mad 337 : 51 Ind App 83 (PC) ✠(Vol 34) 1947 Mad 88 (89).

[2] Where the entire evidence on both sides is once before the Court, the question as to onus of proof is not material and the issue as to permanence will be determined on the evidence before the Court. (Vol 9) 1922 P C 292 (302) : 45 Mad 586 : 49 Ind App 286 (PC) ✠ (Vol 7) 1920 P C 67 (69) : 43 Mad 567 : 47 Ind App 76 (PC).

[3] Where a tenant sets up a permanent tenancy but fails to establish his claim, he can fall back upon any lesser title which may be proved. ('90) 13 Mad 249 (253) (DB).

34 Permanent tenancy—Construction of leases. —[1] Where the document creating tenancy is ambiguous or of doubtful import, the Court is entitled to take into consideration the surrounding circumstances and the mode of enjoyment of the property and the actings of the parties in coming to a conclusion that a permanent interest has been granted. ('75) 24 Suth W R 176 (177) (PC).

[2] Where the meaning of the document creating tenancy is clear, the Court must confine itself to the words used in the instrument. (Vol 16) 1929 Pat 376 (381) (DB) ✠ (Vol 18) 1931 Cal 160 (162) (DB) ✠ (Vol 6) 1919 Mad 338 (339) (DB).

[4] Absence of words providing that lessee is to enjoy property from generation to generation, is a factor against permanence. ('67) 11 Moo Ind App 433 (463, 466) (PC) ✠ (Vol 17) 1930 Mad 434 (435, 436, 437).

[5] Presence or absence of words providing that lessee was to enjoy property from generation to generation is not conclusive (Vol 13) 1926 Oudh 72 (74) ✠ (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 732 (733)✠(Vol 13) 1926 Oudh 260 (261)✠('86) 12 Cal 117 (130) : 12 Ind App 205 (PC).

[6] The fact that a lease has been granted for the purpose of reclamation does not necessarily prove the lease to be permanent. ('82) 8 Cal 664 (673):9 Ind App 33 (PC).

[7] Where a lease has been granted for the purpose of erecting buildings, the fact may indicate that the lease is a permanent one. ('05) 32 Cal 648 (651) (DB)✠ (Vol 22) 1935 All 492 (493) (DB)✠(Vol 1) 1914 Cal 300 (300) (DB).

[8] Where the terms of a lease and other circumstances indicate on the whole the grant of a permanent lease, the mere fact that the lease contains a provision for forfeiture in case of non-payment of rent or for other reason does not make the lease not permanent. ('10) 37 Cal 918 (927) : 37 Ind App 198 (PC).

[9] Though a clause restraining transfer is prima facie inconsistent with the grant of a permanent right, it is not conclusive. (Vol 19) 1932 Cal 764 (766) : 59 Cal 1282 (DB) ✠ (Vol 13) 1926 Cal 533 (535) : 53 Cal 270 (DB)✠(Vol 4) 1917 Cal 746 (783):43 Cal 332 (SB)✠ ('89) 13 Bom 373 (375) (DB).

35. Permanent tenancy — Circumstantial evidence as to—General.—[1] Long possession, transfers by succession or sale, buildings of pacca structures with landlord's permission, the landlord having acquiesced in or having knowledge of the successive transfers, etc. All these raise the presumption of permanency, although the origin of the tenancy may not be known. (Vol 6) 1919 P C 11 (11) : 47 Cal 1 : 1919 Pun Re No. 81 : 46 Ind App 131 (PC).

[2] The question whether a permanent tenancy can be inferred from circumstances is a question of law (Vol 28) 1941 Pat 228 (231) : 20 Pat 115 (DB) ✠ (Vol 14) 1927 P C 102 (105) : 8 Lah 573 : 54 Ind App 178 (PC).

36. Circumstantial evidence as to permanent tenancy — Long and undisturbed possession at fixed rent. — [1] Long and undisturbed possession at fixed rent is not by itself sufficient to establish a claim of permanent tenancy. [2] When the origin of the tenancy is not known, long and uninterrupted possession at unvarying rent is not sufficient by itself to give rise to an inference of permanency. (Vol 16) 1929 Cal 37 (42) : 56 Cal 738 (DB)✠('98) 25 Cal 896 (908) (FB).

[3] Length of possession at a fixed rent when it co exists with other factors may give rise to an inference of permanence of tenancy, especially if the origin of the tenancy is not known. (Vol 31) 1944 Pat 109 (110) ✠ (Vol 26) 1939 Pat 448 (450, 451) : 18 Pat 571 (DB) ✠ (Vol 7) 1920 Cal 325 (326)(DB)✠ Vol 6) 1919 Mad 1135 (1137, 1138) (DB).

[4] Where the value of the property in the locality has gone up very high and the rent fixed is comparatively low, the fact that it has not been raised may suggest that the tenancy is a permanent one. ('07) 34 Cal 902 (907, 908) : 34 Ind App 160 (PC).

[5] The fact that the rent paid has not been uniform or that the possession of the tenant has been interrupted, is a factor which will weaken a claim of permanent tenancy. (Vol 14) 1927 P C 102 (105) : 8 Lah 573 : 54 Ind App 178 (PC).

37. Circumstantial evidence as to permanent tenancy — Lease for dwelling or residential purpose.—[1] Lease for building a gola house and a platform for rice mill—Lease for indefinite period—Lessee not to sell residential rights without permission of landlord—Lease was held to be permanent. (Vol 27) 1940 Pat 24 (25) : 18 Pat 805 (DB).

[2] Land leased for residential purposes—Unaltered rent paid for 57 years—Pucca structures—Presumption of permanent tenancy. (Vol 15) 1928 Cal 315 (320) : 55 Cal 355 (DB).

[3] Origin not known — Lessee constructing pucca house — Tenancy transferred from time to time and landlord acquiescing in the transactions — Landlord's suits against other tenants dismissed on ground that tenancies were permanent — Inference is that tenancy is permanent. (Vol 10) 1923 All 486 (487).

[4] Permanent works beyond those agreed upon at time of the lease constructed — Landlord encouraging their erection in circumstances leading lessees to believe that they are accepted as permanent tenants — New erection would raise an equitable estoppel against ejectment. (Vol 6) 1919 Nag 144 (147).

[5] Lease originally granted for building and manufacturing purposes at fixed annual rent—Lessee and his successors in possession for long time during which transfers taking place without objection by zamindar—Lease must be deemed to be perpetual with transferable and heritable rights — Mere fact of land being subsequently cultivated does not affect nature of original lease (Vol 28) 1941 All 51 (54, 55) : I L R (1941) All 27 (DB).

[6] Tenancy created before Transfer of Property Act — Permanent structures standing on land for many years—Transfers in past—No change in rent—Tenancy is permanent and transferable. (Vol 24) 1937 Cal 373 (374).

[7] Lease for 99 years— There is nothing strange if pacca structures are built by grantee because in such a case the structures would be built in the expectation that the lease would be renewed even though at a higher rent on the termination of the period. (Vol 29) 1942 Bom 161 (171): I L R (1942) Bom 357 (DB).

[8] Land let out by Government for building without mention of duration of terms — Tenancy is at will — It becomes one from year to year on payment of rent. (Vol 24) 1937 Pat 399 (406) (DB).

[9] Tenancy found to be for residential purposes — Origin of tenancy unknown — Rent not varied—Proof of one or two transfers — Inference that tenancy was in its origin of a permanent character does not arise. (Vol 23) 1936 Cal 100 (101).

[10] A constructing building on B's land knowing that it belongs to B in the expectation that building would be occupied by C—This does not give C permanent right of occupancy as against B unless it can be proved that before its construction B agreed with A that C should have such a permanent right. (Vol 29) 1942 Rang 11 (12) (DB).

38. Circumstantial evidence as to permanent tenancy—Successions and transfers.— [1] The fact that a tenancy has been held in the same family from generation to generation would be some indication that tenancy is permanent. ('26) 96 Ind Cas 315 (315) (DB) (Cal).

[See also (Vol 16) 1929 Cal 37 (40): 55 Cal 738 (DB). (Held not a strong indication.)]

[3] Fact that there have been transfers of the holding which have been recognised by the landlord is strong indication of the tenancy being permanent. ('07) 34 Cal 902 (907) : 34 Ind App 160 (P C)⁂ ('05) 32 Cal 51 (60, 61) : 31 Ind App 149 (P C.) (Reversing (02) 6 Cal W N 352,) ⁂ ('05) 32 Cal 41 (49, 50) : 31 Ind App 144 (PC).

[4] Documents reciting transfers and sub-leases are admissible to show that lease is permanent. (Vol 27) 1940 Cal 393 (394).

[5] The mere retention of the name of the old tenant for the purpose of identifying the holding in the sherista of the landlord is not in itself sufficient to indicate that there was no recognition by the landlord that the tenancy was heritable and transferable. ('12) 15 Ind Cas 110 (115) (DB) (Cal)

[6] Where the transfers are recent and not such as to have come to the notice of the landlord they will not be evidence against him suggesting a permanent tenancy. (Vol 16) 1929 P C 156 (158): 56 Ind App 248: 52 Mad 549 (PC).

39. Consideration for lease.—[1] Where the consideration for the transfer is not either premium or rent as defined by the section the transaction will not be a lease. (Vol 24) 1937 Mad 882 (893) : I L R (1937) Mad 638 (FB)⁂(Vol 9) 1922 Oudh 201 (201) : 25 Oudh Cas 39.

[2] Where a lease is granted in consideration of the lessee buying certain goods or accepting certain services from the lessor and paying for them at a certain rate, the lease is not granted in consideration of the money to be so paid and such money is not rent. [3] Lease by Municipality in favour of electric company—Annual rent—Provision that a certain sum due from Municipality to Government must be paid by lessee by annual instalments and that on such payment it would become the owner of part of the premises—Held that the whole of this sum at any rate cannot be treated as premium. (Vol 21) 1934 Cal 803 (807) : 61 Cal 556 (SB).

[4] A grant in lieu of maintenance, where no definite sum of money is due as maintenance is not, therefore a lease (Vol 24) 1937 Mad 882 (892, 893): ILR (1937) Mad 638 (FB).

[5] 'Premium" should be regarded as the equivalent of the vernacular nazarana. (Vol 8) 1921 Nag 137 (138).

[6] Rent, if it is to be paid in money, is a periodical payment (Vol 21) 1934 Cal 803 (805): 61 Cal 556 (SB).

[7] Where, looking at the substance of the transaction the payment is premium and not rent, it will not cease to be such merely because it is styled as "advance rent" (Vol 16) 1929 Cal 433 (434) : 56 Cal 252.

[8] A lessor has no lien for unpaid premium. (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 55 (56) : 48 Mad 821 (DB).

[9] Forfeiture of lease does not entitle the lessee to a refund of the premium. ('94) 18 Mad 32 (33) (DB).

[10] Where a part of the premium is paid and it is agreed that if the balance is not paid within a fixed time, the lessor is to be entitled to cancel the lease and recover possession and on the default of the lessee the lessor proceeds to do so, the lessee is not entitled to a refund of the part of the premium paid by him. (Vol 21) 1934 All 293 (294).

[3] Suit for recovery of possession of a tank—Defendant pleading that he was a tenant under a patta and was liable to pay only mukarrari rent of Rs. 3—Parties arriving at a compromise to the effect that as long as plaintiff possessed the village in which the tank was situate defendant and his heirs were to pay Rs. 12 over and above the mukarrari rent but if he transferred the village by sale or gift the defendant would not be bound to pay Rs 12, held the stipulation was a personal obligation and the payment bargained for was not rent. (Vol 31) 1944 Pat 293 (296) : 23 Pat 334 (DB).

[4] Where the lessee has agreed to accept, in consideration of the lease, certain goods to be supplied by the lessor or certain services to be rendered by him and to pay for such goods or services, such payment is not consideration for the lease. [5] Grant by holder of an impartible estate for maintenance of a junior member of the family—Grantee required under the grant to pay to the grantor annually a certain sum of money—Such sum held was not rent. (Vol 24) 1937 Mad 882 (891, 892) : I L R (1937) Mad 638 (FB).

1. Contract to the contrary.—[1] Where a lease is expressly made determinable by the lessor without any previous notice there is clearly a contract to the contrary under this section. ('06) 16 Mad L Jour 557 (558) (DB) ✠ (Vol 15) 1928 Mad 687 (689) (DB) ✠ (Vol 11) 1924 All 726 (727) ✠ (Vol 5) 1918 Cal 665 (665) (DB) ✠ (Vol 12) 1925 Pat 256 (257) (DB).

[2] Where a lease is expressed to be determinable by notice but the notice is not of the kind required by this section there is a contract to the contrary within this section. (Vol 12) 1925 Rang 206 (206). (One month's notice in lease of house property.)✠(Vol 6) 1919 Cal 54 (55) (DB). (Three months' notice in lease of homestead land.) ✠ ('02) 5 Oudh Cas 113 (114, 115). [4] Where a contract of tenancy simply provides for a notice of a certain period which is different from the period of notice under this section, the notice need not expire with a year or month of the tenancy (Vol 11) 1924 Nag 220 (220) ✠ (Vol 6) 1919 Cal 54 (55) (DB) ✠ (Vol 15) 1928 Lah 348 (348, 349). [5] Where after the termination of a lease, the lessee holds over with the assent of the landlord and the lease is renewed from year to year or from month to month, a covenant in the original lease making it determinable without notice will also hold good in the case of the lease formed by holding over. Section 106 — Note 1 (contd.)

[6] Unless there is some indication to the contrary, the term 'ordinary tenant' would in Calcutta mean monthly tenant, even though there was no reference to payments of monthly rent, and such a tenancy would be terminable on 15 days' notice expiring with the end of the month of the tenancy. (Vol 26) 1939 P C 11 (13): I L R (1939) Kar P C 90 (PC).

[7] In a suit for ejectment by a landlord against a tenant on the allegation of the tenancy having been determined by notice to quit the onus of proving that the tenancy is not determinable by notice is on the tenant (Vol 23) 1936 Cal 351 (352) ✠ (Vol 4) 1917 Cal 37 (38) (DB).

2. Lease for a term certain — Notice. — [1] Where a definite period is fixed as the term of a lease the lease will automatically come to an end by efflux of the time limited thereby. A notice will not be necessary to determine the lease. (Vol 20) 1933 All 756 (757, 758) (DB) ✠ (Vol 12) 1925 Nag 48 (48) ✠ (Vol 13) 1926 Nag 201 (202) ✠ ('05) 2 Cal L Jour 343 (351) (DB) ✠ (Vol 19) 1932 All 314 (315) (DB).

[2] Where a definite period is fixed as term of a lease, it cannot be determined before the end of the term fixed, by a notice to quit. (Vol 6) 1919 Oudh 124 (125) ✠ (Vol 1) 1914 Mad 301 (303).

[3] After the expiration of the term fixed by the lease, the lessee continuing in possession, will, in the absence of an assent by the lessor or his representative in interest, only be a tenant by sufferance. He can be sued in ejectment at any time without any previous notice or demand of possession (Vol 16) 1929 Pat 444 (446) (DB) ✠ (Vol 6) 1919 Pat 254 (256) (DB) ✠ (Vol 14) 1927 Bom 192 (193, 194) : 51 Bom 149 (DB)✠(Vol 17) 1930 Lah 386 (388) (DB) ✠ (Vol 27) 1940 Lah 410 (412) (DB).

[4] Where a lease for a term certain is granted in favour of A and then another lease is granted in favour of B to commence on the expiration of A's lease, B can sue A for possession after the period of A's lease has expired without a previous notice to quit (Vol 19) 1932 All 314 (315) (DB) ✠ (Vol 18) 1931 All 649 (650, 651) (D B).

[5] Where on the expiry of the term of a lease for 7 years the lessor as a result of a compromise in the suit for ejectment, allowed the lessee to remain in possession upto a certain date on certain conditions, it was held that the lessee did not become a year to year tenant or a tenant holding over and was not entitled to six months' notice ('47) 1947 All W R (HC) 167 (168).

3 Lease for life.—[1] In a lease for the life-time of the tenant, a notice will not be necessary for bringing a suit for ejectment against the tenant's representatives, where the lease has terminated on the death of the tenant. ('94) 18 Bom 256 (259) (DB) ✠ (08) 7 Cal L Jour 90 (95) (DB).

4. Perpetual lease.— [1] A perpetual lease is not determinable by notice under this section. ('86) 9 Mad 307 (319) : 13 Ind App 32 (PC).

[2] Where a person alleges a perpetual lease for building purposes but there is no registered instrument the oral agreement accompanied by delivery of possession operates only to create a month to month tenancy under this section. (Vol 31) 1944 Pat 30 (31, 33) : 22 Pat 554 (D B).

5. Tenancy at will.—[1] Where it was provided in a lease that the tenant would pay the monthly rent regularly and that in case of default for three months he would vacate the property, it was held that as soon as rent for three months fell into arrears the tenancy was reduced to one at will and that from that date the tenant could be ejected without any notice to quit. (Vol 25) 1938 Nag 506 (509) : I L R (1940) Nag 269 (DB).

[2] Notwithstanding transferability, a lease may be only a tenancy at will. ('80) 6 Cal L Rep 117 (118) (DB).

[3] A tenancy at will can be determined by a notice to quit. (Vol 15) 1928 Cal 279 (280) (DB).

[4] A notice to quit will not be necessary to determine a tenancy at will. (Vol 12) 1925 Pat 256 (258) (DB)✠ (Vol 20) 1933 Pat 561 (562) (DB)✠(Vol 27) 1940 Oudh 401 (403) : 16 Luck 44 (DB).

[5] A mere demand for possession will be sufficient to put an end to the tenancy at will. (Vol 23) 1936 Oudh 102 (105) (DB) ✠ (Vol 33) 1946 Oudh 144 (145) : 21 Luck 292✠('37) 62 Cal L Jour 201 (204) (DB)✠(78) 2 Mad 346 (351) (DB).

[6] A reasonable notice will be quite sufficient to determine the tenancy at will, where a notice is given. ('05) 2 Cal L Jour 343 (349) (DB). (Five months' notice held reasonable)✠(Vol 5) 1918 Cal 355 (356) (DB).

[7] A tenancy at will is ordinarily determined by the death of the lessor, or lessee. (1900) 10 Mad L Jour 201 (202) (DB) (Lessor)✠(Vol 25) 1938 Nag 506 (509): I L R (1940) Nag 269 (DB). (Lessee.)

6. Lease for indefinite period.—[1] Lease for indefinite period — Lessor serving notice to quit and after lessee's refusal suing for ejectment — Held, lessee had lease for life and therefore lessor was not entitled to eject him. (Vol 13) 1926 Cal 379 (379) (DB).

7. Possession under agreement to grant lease for a term certain.—[1] A agreed to take a lease of lands for ten years and entered into possession of the lands. He paid rent but no lease was executed. It was held that the agreement to grant a lease for ten years amounted to a contract to the contrary. (05) 2 Cal L Jour 343 (346) (DB).

8. Law to the contrary.—[1] Where the right of a landlord to eject his tenant after determining the tenancy under the general law is interrupted by temporary enactments, the right is revived on such enactment ceasing to be in force. (Vol 15) 1928 Cal 436 (437) (DB).

9. Usage to the contrary —[1] The presumption as to the duration of a tenancy and its mode of determinability under this section will not apply to cases, where there is a usage to the contrary. (78) 3 Cal 696 (699) (DB).

[2] A month's notice will be necessary to determine a tenancy of building in the city of Bombay. (Vol 12) 1925 Bom 167 (167).

[3] Where local custom requires a monthly tenancy to be determined by a month's notice, it need not be served in the manner prescribed by this section. (Vol 14) 1927 Sind 24 (25).

10. Immovable property.—[1] A jalkar or right of fishery is "immovable property." ('93) 20 Cal 446 (448) (DB).

11. Presumption of yearly or monthly tenancy under this section. — [1] Where there is no satisfactory evidence as to the period for which a lease has been granted, it will be deemed to be one from year to year or one from month to month according to the purpose of the lease (Vol 30) 1943 Mad 311 (312) (Year to year tenancy.)✠(Vol 7) 1920 Nag 62 (62) (Do.)✠(Vol 8) 1921 Bom 224 (224) : 45 Bom 350 (DB) (Do.) ✠ ('05) 32 Cal 243 (246) (DB) (Month to month tenancy.) ✠ (Vol 13) 1926 Nag 147 (148). [2] A lease of shops in the Punjab was held to be one from month to month. ('13) 1913 Pun L R No. 180, p. 604 (608) (DB) ✠ ('98) 1898 Pun Re No. 33, p. 113 (114) (DB).

[3] A lease which is not for agricultural or manufacturing purposes must be presumed to be one from month to month. This presumption will apply even to a building lease. (Vol 28) 1941 All 399 (399, 400) ✠ (Vol 25) 1938 All 42 (43): I L R (1938) All 53 (DB) ✠ (Vol 6) 1919 Cal 400 (400) ✠(Vol 26) 1939 Pat 296 (303) ✠(Vol 26) 1939 Mad 247 (249).

[See however (Vol 23) 1936 All 385 (385, 386) (DB).]

12. Lease for agricultural or manufacturing purposes. — [1] In the case of agricultural leases, the presumption of yearly tenancy under this section will apply only if the section has been made applicable to such leases by special notification. (Vol 6) 1919 Pat 254 (256) (DB).

[2] It has been held that the question, whether a lease was for a manufacturing purpose is one of fact. (Vol 10) 1923 Rang 13 (15) (DB).

[3] Hosiery manufacture—Lessee carrying on knitting and cutting operations on leased premises though yarn from raw material was produced on another premises — Lease held to be for manufacturing purposes. (Vol 33) 1946 Cal 317 (318) (DB).

[4] Where a lease is for a manufacturing purpose but the landlord gives only a notice of one month to terminate the lease and the tenant in his reply to that notice admits that he is a monthly tenant, this does not estop him from contending in a subsequent suit for ejectment against him, that the notice is not sufficient and that he is entitled to six months' notice. (Vol 11) 1924 Bom 115 (116) : 48 Bom 38.

13. Reservation of yearly or monthly rent—Effect. — [1] The reservation of a yearly rent would prima facie imply that a lease is not one from month to month but one from year to year. (Vol 30) 1943 Cal 474 (474) : I L R (1943) 1 Cal 34 (DB) ✠ (Vol 13) 1926 Cal 558 (558) : 53 Cal 95 (DB).

[2] Where a lease is not for an agricultural or manufacturing purpose but a yearly rent is reserved under the lease if the lease is made by an oral agreement and delivery of possession and not by a registered deed, the lease can be presumed to be one from month to month under this section notwithstanding the reservation of a yearly rent. (Vol 3) 1916 Cal 338 (339) (DB) ✠(Vol 7) 1920 Cal 858 (858) (DB)✠(Vol 8) 1921 Pat 307 (308) (DB).

[3] It has been held that where in a lease not for an agricultural or manufacturing purpose a yearly rent is reserved but there is no registered deed, there would be a valid lease for the first year and if after expiry of the first year the lessor accepts rent from the lessee and assents to his continuing in possession the lease would be renewed from month to month terminable by fifteen days' notice. (Vol 30) 1943 Cal 474 (474): I L R (1943) 1 Cal 34 (DB).

[4] A tenancy may well be a monthly tenancy though the rent may be mentioned as so much per year. (Vol 28) 1941 Pat 488 (490) (DB).

[5] The expression "ordinary tenant" used in a lease-deed with reference to house property in Calcutta prima facie indicates a monthly tenancy although there is no reference to payment of monthly rent. (Vol 26) 1939 P C 11 (13) : I L R (1939) Kar (P C) 90 (P C).

14. Lease from year to year.—[1] A lease from year to year is intended to go on indefinitely, till it is determined by either party by a proper notice at the end of any year of the tenancy. ('04) 8 Cal W N 139 (140)✠(Vol 1) 1914 Bom 152 (153) : 38 Bom 240 (DB).

[2] A lease from year to year is a single lease for the whole period till it is terminated. Although liable to be determined at the end of any year by a valid notice, it does not ipso facto come to an end at the end of every year. ('35) 62 Cal L Jour 201 (204) (DB).

[3] A periodic lease like a yearly tenancy is not determined by the death of the tenant. His legal representatives cannot be evicted from the land without a proper notice to quit. ('89) 1889 Bom P J 79 (DB).

15. Lease from month to month.—[1] A joint monthly lease is liable to partition among the co-lessees (Vol 16) 1929 Cal 710 (713): 57 Cal 715 (DB).

[2] A monthly tenancy under this section is a heritable interest and is not determined by the death of the tenant. (Vol 27) 1940 Cal 89 (91): I L R (1939) 2 Cal 254 ✠('02) 5 Oudh Cas 113 (114, 115).

16. Possession under invalid lease—Presumption. —[1] Where a lease for a term of years or in perpetuity is granted but is invalid and the lessee enters into possession under such a lease, a tenancy may arise by implication from the payment of rent by the tenant and its acceptance by the landlord. The presumption of a yearly or monthly tenancy under this section may apply to such leases. (Vol 6) 1919 Mad 1186 (1187) (DB) ✠(Vol 15) 1928 All 617 (619): 51 All 285 (DB).

[2] The invalid lease itself cannot be treated as a yearly or monthly tenancy under this section. (Vol 16) 1929 All 387 (387).

[3] Oral contract of lease of residential quarters—Tenant to occupy premises at least for one year and thereafter tenancy to be terminated on month's notice — Lease held invalid for want of registered deed — Lease should be deemed to be from month to month. (Vol 34) 1947 Cal 351 (352).

17. Notice to quit—General principles.—[1] A notice to quit must be a clear and unambiguous intimation to the lessor or lessee, as the case may be, of the intention of the party giving the notice that the lease is to terminate at a certain time. No particular form is necessary. ('85) 7 All 899 (902, 904) (FB) ✠ ('85) 11 Cal 533 (538) (DB).

[2] A notice to quit ought not to be construed with a view to find fault with it but with a view to its validity. (Vol 30) 1943 Bom 306 (307): I L R (1943) Bom 553 (DB) ✠(Vol 5) 1918 P C 102 (106, 107): 46 Cal 458: 45 Ind App 222 (PC).

[3] The validity of a notice to quit ought not to turn on the splitting of a straw. ('38) 68 Cal L Jour 411 (412) ✠(Vol 18) 1931 Mad 352 (353, 354).

[4] Notices to quit, though not strictly accurate or consistent in the statement embodied in them, may still be good in law. The test of their sufficiency is not what they would mean to a stranger but what they would mean to tenants presumably conversant with all those facts and circumstances. (Vol 5) 1918 P C 102 (106, 107, 110): 46 Cal 458: 45 Ind App 222 (P C).

[5] A tenancy can be determined only as a whole or not at all. It cannot be determined piecemeal. ('21) 33 Cal L Jour 518 (518, 519) (DB).

[6] A notice to quit with reference to a portion of the holding is bad. (Vol 26) 1939 Cal 291 (292) (DB).

[7] It is open to the Court, notwithstanding certain features in a notice which may suggest that it is an attempt to terminate the tenancy partially, to hold, on the construction of the notice in the light of all the facts and circumstances of the case, that the notice is not of this kind and is valid. (Vol 5) 1918 P C 102 (110): 46 Cal 458: 45 Ind App 222 (P C).

[8] A notice is not invalid merely because the landlord treats the person to whom the notice is given as a trespasser and not as a tenant. (Vol 20) 1933 Cal 260 (262) (DB) ✠('08) 7 Cal L Jour 107 (109) (DB).

[9] Where a notice to quit is invalid or insufficient it will not have the effect of determining the lease. (Vol 8) 1921 Pat 334 (335) ✠('91) 15 Bom 415*n* (415*n*) (DB) ✠('10) 6 Nag L R 17 (18).

[10] Where an invalid notice is accepted and acted upon by the party to whom it is given, the tenancy would be determined. (Vol 12) 1925 Rang 206 (206).

[11] Where a lease is really determinable only by six months' notice under this section but the lessor gives only a month's notice, the mere fact that the lessee in his reply notice erroneously admits that he is a monthly tenant will not estop him from contending that the notice was insufficient. (Vol 11) 1924 Bom 115 (115): 48 Bom 38.

[12] A notice to quit is necessary under this section before a suit for ejectment can be brought only where the defendant is a tenant of the plaintiff. (Vol 26) 1939 Pat 167 (168).

[13] A notice to quit will not give a cause of action for a suit for ejectment against a person where the relationship of landlord and tenant between the parties has been created not by a lease but by a decision of Court. (Vol 29) 1942 Cal 406 (407).

18. Notice to quit with an option to continue on different terms. — [1] A notice giving the lessee an option either to vacate the property by a certain date or to pay enhanced rent from such date will be bad. ('85) 11 Cal 533 (537, 538) (DB).

[2] It has been held that a notice which merely informs the lessee that if he wants to keep the premises after a certain date, he will have to pay enhanced rent at a certain rate is bad. ('12) 16 Cal L Jour 561 (563) (DB).

[3] Where a notice clearly expresses an intention to terminate a lease by a certain date, the mere fact that it is coupled with an intimation that if the lessee continued in possession after such date he would be liable for enhanced rent does not make the notice bad. (Vol 8) 1921 Pat 334 (335) ✠('04) 1904 Pun Re No. 5, p. 27 (29) (DB) ✠(Vol 8) 1921 All 194 (194, 195): 43 All 330 (DB) ✠(Vol 6) 1919 Lah 304 (305): 1919 Pun Re No. 34.

[4] Where a notice to quit clearly conveys the intention to terminate the lease by a certain date, the mere fact that the notice provides for its abandonment in case the other party agrees to an enhancement or reduction of the rent, does not affect the validity of the notice. (Vol 22) 1935 Bom 247 (251) (DB) ✠ ('09) 2 Ind Cas 548 (548) (DB) (Cal) ✠('96) 22 Bom 241 (243) (DB) ✠('13) 19 Ind Cas 758 (759) (All).

[5] A notice to quit is not bad, merely because it provides that if the tenant fails to vacate the property by the date fixed in the notice, he will be liable for damages at a certain rate. ('08) 12 Cal W N 1059 (1063) ✠(Vol 12) 1925 All 199 (199).

19. Notice required under other sections for determining lease.—[1] A notice under S. 108, cl. (e) expressing the lessee's intention of avoiding a lease on account of the destruction of the property, which is the subject matter of the lease, need not comply with the requirements prescribed by this section. (Vol 3) 1916 Cal 707 (707) (DB).

[2] The notice under S. 111, clause (g) given by the lessor or his transferee determining a lease on forfeiture being incurred need not comply with the requirements laid down in this section. (Vol 9) 1922 Mad 349 (349) (DB).

20. Notice by lessee—Duty to give up possession.—[1] Although, under S. 108, cl. (q), the lessee is bound to put the lessor into possession of the property on the determination of the lease, a failure to do so will only entitle the lessor to damages and will not make the determination of the lease by notice by the lessee ineffective or incomplete. ('96) 22 Bom 348 (353, 354) (DB).

21. Waiver of notice.—[1] Landlord accepting rent from tenant for period after expiry of notice—In order to succeed in an ejectment suit landlord must show that another proper notice to quit had been duly served on the tenant. (Vol 28) 1941 Pat 495 (497).

[2] Lessor giving another notice to quit after expiry of first notice—This is a waiver of first notice. (Vol 22) 1935 Bom 247 (251) (DB).

[3] Merely allowing tenant to continue in possession after expiry of notice to quit—No waiver. (Vol 10) 1923 Nag 129 (130).

[4] Giving notice and then claiming arrears of rent up to institution of suit is not waiver of notice. (Vol 4) 1917 Pat 469 (470): 2 Pat L Jour 595 (DB).

[5] Acceptance of rent for period before expiry of notice is not waiver. (Vol 8) 1921 Cal 126 (127) (DB).

[6] Acceptance of rent for period after expiry of notice is waiver. ('05) 29 Bom 580 (613) (DB).

22. Suit for ejectment — Notice to quit. — [1] Where the defendant in a suit for ejectment has been a tenant under the plaintiff, a decree for ejectment cannot be passed against him, unless it is established that the tenancy has been lawfully determined. ('21) 13 Mad L W 397 (399) (DB)✠('03) 13 Mad L Jour 475 (476) (DB)✠(Vol 4) 1917 Cal 426 (426) (DB).

[2] Where a lease is determinable by a notice to quit and has not been determined in any other manner according to law, ejectment cannot be decreed against a tenant, unless a sufficient and valid notice to quit has been served upon him. ('11) 9 Ind Cas 19 (20) (DB) (Cal)✠('95) 1895 Bom P J 321 (DB)✠('94) 18 Bom 110 (114) (DB).

[3] Where the determination of the lease by notice is not complete by the expiration of a valid notice to quit before the institution of the suit the suit itself cannot be treated as a notice to quit. Nor can the Court in such a case pass a decree for ejectment against the tenant fixing a certain time within which he must vacate the property. [10] Even after a lease has been determined, a lessee cannot be ejected by the lessor by force. The lessee can only be evicted in due course of law. (Vol 16) 1929 Oudh 529 (534) : 4 Luck 619 (DB).

23. Denial of lessor's title by lessee and notice to quit — [1] In the case of a lease from year to year the disclaimer of title by the lessee will make the lessee liable to ejectment without notice. (Vol 6) 1919 P C 1 (4) : 42 Mad 589 : 46 Ind App 109 (P C).

[2] Different views are held as to whether the denial of title by the defendant in the suit for ejectment itself will be sufficient for the purpose of obviating the necessity of a notice to quit.

(a) Denial of title in the suit itself is enough. ('92) 17 Bom 631 (636) (DB) ✠ ('94) 18 Bom 256 (259) (DB)✠('91) 1 Mad L Jour 218 (220) (DB).

[3] Different views are held as to whether the assertion of a permanent tenancy by a tenant who is not entitled to such a right will amount to a denial of title

(a) Such claim will amount to a disclaimer of title. ('83) 8 Bom 228 (230) (DB) ✠ (1900) 24 Bom 426 (434) (DB).

(b) Such claim will not amount to a disclaimer of title. ('93) 1893 Bom P J 292 (294) (DB) ✠ ('03) 27 Bom 515 (550) (DB) ✠ ('94) 17 Mad 218 (220) (DB)✠('03) 27 Mad 23 (24) (DB).

24. Other modes of determination of lease. — [1] Where a lease has been determined according to the law without any notice to quit, such a notice is not necessary before a suit for ejectment against the tenant. (Vol 8) 1921 Cal 574 (575) (DB) ✠ ('77) 1877 Bom P J 177 (DB) ✠ (Vol 7) 1920 Pat 803 (804) ✠ ('13) 11 All L Jour 981 (985).

[2] Where a lease is voidable under the law and has been avoided according to the law, the position is the same as if the lease has been lawfully determined and the quondam lessee can be ejected without any previous notice to quit. ('09) 36 Cal 675 (691) (DB).

[3] A lease of joint land is not ipso facto determined by partition among the co-owners and the allotment of the leased land to one of them, so as to dispense with the necessity of a notice to quit before a suit for ejectment by him against the tenant. ('82) 6 Bom 70 (72) (DB)✠('81) 6 Bom 67 (69) (DB).

[4] Where the monthly tenant of a house is obliged to vacate the house under an order from the Plague Authority acting under statutory powers, the tenant is not thereby absolved from liability to give the usual notice to quit, if he desires to put an end to the tenancy. ('99) 1 Bom L R 739 (741, 742) (DB).

25 Effect of giving notice where it is not necessary. — [1] Where a notice to quit is given by the landlord although such notice is not necessary for evicting a person from certain immovable property, no tenancy is created merely by reason of such notice. ('03) 30 Cal 883 (900)✠(Vol 4) 1917 Cal 219 (220, 221) (DB).

26. Notice by lessor undertaking to pay compensation for improvements — Effect — [1] Where a lessor in his notice to quit has undertaken to pay compensation to the tenant for the improvements effected by him before compelling him to vacate the property the lessor cannot enforce his right to possession, unless he has paid or tendered such compensation, although there may be no provision for it in the lease. (Vol 23) 1936 Cal 581 (581, 582).

27. Determination of main lease by notice — Effect on sub-lease. — [1] The determination of a lease by a valid notice by the lessor will automatically put an end to any sub-lease granted by the lessee ('97) 21 Bom 311 (313) (DB)✠(Vol 19) 1932 Cal 241 (242) : 59 Cal 739 (DB).

28. Redemption of possession by landlord without giving notice — Effect. — [1] A tenure was resumable by the grantor thereof after notice but the latter took possession of the land without giving notice and the grantee acquiesced in such resumption and did not raise any objection on the ground of want of notice; it was held that he could not afterwards contend that the resumption was unlawful for want of notice. ('03) 13 Mad L Jour 209 (210) (DB)✠(Vol 1) 1914 Bom 152 (153) : 38 Bom 240 (DB).

29. Lessee giving up possession before termination of lease — Liability for damages or rent. — [1] Where a tenant gives notice determining a lease but such notice is invalid but the tenant gives up possession and the landlord re-enters on the premises, the lessee will not be liable for rent. But he will be liable for damages for premature determination of the lease in breach of the contract of tenancy. (Vol 10) 1923 Cal 524 (527) (DB)✠(Vol 10) 1923 Cal 63 (65) : 49 Cal 345 (DB)

[2] Where the lessee of a house under a monthly tenancy is obliged to vacate the house under the orders of the Plague Authority, he is not thereby absolved from the duty of giving notice to quit for the usual period if he wishes to terminate the lease or from the liability to pay rent till the lease is so determined. ('99) 1 Bom L R 739 (741, 742) (DB).

30 Lessee holding over after expiry of notice to quit — Effect. — [1] Where a lessee continues to be in possession of the property after the lease has been determined by a valid notice, he will not be liable for rent (Vol 1) 1914 All 1 (2).

[2] Where a lessee continues in possession after the lease has been determined by a valid notice, he will be liable for damages The amount awardable as damages is within the discretion of the Court to be exercised according to the circumstances of the case. (Vol 11) 1924 Lah 643 (643 644).

[3] Where a notice to quit given by a lessor to the lessee is coupled with a demand of rent at a higher rate if the lessee should continue in possession after the date fixed in the notice, and the notice to quit is valid and terminates the tenancy on the date mentioned therein, the demand of rent at higher rate is virtually an offer of a fresh tenancy on new terms. If the tenant has not accepted the offer, he will not be liable for the enhanced rent. But he will be liable for mesne profits and damages (Vol 24) 1937 All 36 (38) (DB)✠(Vol 20) 1933 Oudh 465 (466) : 9 Luck 112 (DB)✠(Vol 11) 1924 Lah 643 (643, 644).

[10] A sub-lessee is not entitled to any notice before he can be ejected by the superior lessor. ('97) 1897 Bom P J 188 (188) (DB).

[11] Where a tenancy is purchased by one person benami in the name of another, a notice to the real purchaser is enough to determine the lease. (Vol 13) 1926 Cal 634 (637).

36. Notice to or by agent.—[1] A notice to quit can be given by a duly authorised agent so as to bind the principal. (Vol 22) 1935 Cal 577 (578).

[2] Where an unauthorised person gives a notice to quit on behalf of another, the notice will be invalid. It cannot be ratified by the person on whose behalf it purports to be given. (Vol 4) 1917 Cal 621 (624) (SB).

[3] An authority to give a notice to quit need not be in writing. The authority to sue in ejectment includes an authority to give notice to quit. (Vol 16) 1929 Cal 651 (652, 653): 57 Cal 10 (D B).

[4] Section 229 of the Contract Act applies to notices to quit. (Vol 14) 1927 Sind 24 (25).

37. Period of notice.—[1] If the period of the notice is shorter than that prescribed such notice will not be sufficient to terminate the lease. ('93) 3 Mad L Jour 222 (223) (D B) ✠(Vol 16) 1929 Nag 332 (333) ✠(Vol 12) 1925 Rang 206 (206) ✠(Vol 8) 1921 Pat 334 (335) ✠('08) 12 Cal W N 724 (725) (DB).

[2] The notice may be for a longer period than required. (Vol 19) 1932 P C 279 (280): 59 Ind App 414 (P C).

[3] Where a notice falls short of the requisite period the mere fact that the tenant is actually allowed to hold the property for the full length of the period for which notice ought to have been given and a suit for ejectment against him is brought only afterwards, will not cure the defect in the notice so as to make it effectual for the purpose of terminating the tenancy. ('91) 15 Bom 407 (411) (DB).

[4] Where the party to whom a notice is given accepts it and acts upon it, the fact that it is not of the requisite length will not matter. (Vol 12) 1925 Rang 206 (206).

[5] To terminate a tenancy under this section the notice must be of fifteen clear days or six clear months according as the tenancy may be a monthly or a yearly one. (1900) 28 Cal 118 (122) (DB).

[6] The day on which the notice is served must be excluded but not the day on which the tenancy is purported to be terminated. (Vol 2) 1915 Cal 313 (315) (DB).

[7] Where a notice is prescribed by the contract of lease itself but the contract does not specify the length of the notice, it has been held that at least a notice of six months must be given in the case of a tenancy from year to year. (Vol 6) 1919 Pat 108 (111) (DB).

38. Expiring with end of year or month of tenancy. — [1] A letting to a monthly tenant is not a letting which expires at the end of first month or at the end of each succeeding month. Nor is there re-letting at the commencement of each month of the tenancy. It is a letting for the period which is determinable by due notice. (Vol 32) 1945 Pat 385 (385) (DB).

[2] A notice which does not expire at the end of a year or month of the tenancy will be invalid under this section. (Vol 31) 1944 Cal 84 (86) (DB) ✠ ('85) 7 All 899 (902, 903, 904) (FB) ✠(Vol 15) 1928 Cal 392 (395): 55 Cal 435 (DB).

[3] A notice terminating the tenancy before the end of the current year or month of the tenancy, in which such notice is given, will be bad. ('10) 6 Nag L R 17 (18, 19) ✠ ('91) 4 C P L R 32 (32) ✠ (Vol 32) 1945 Pat 463 (464) : 24 Pat 454 (DB).

[4] Where a notice to quit does not expire with the end of a month or year of the tenancy as required by this section, the mere fact that the notice is for a longer period than is required under this section will not validate the notice. (Vol 31) 1944 Cal 84 (85, 87) (DB) ✠(Vol 7) 1920 All 104 (105) (DB) ✠('98) 1898 Bom P J 206 (206, 207) (DB) ✠ (Vol 10) 1923 Cal 524 (527) (DB).

[5] Where a notice under this section does not expire with the end of a year or month of the tenancy, the mere fact that the tenant is allowed to hold on till the end of such a period and the suit for ejectment is brought against him only afterwards cannot cure the defect in the notice so as to make it effective for the purpose of terminating the tenancy. ('85) 7 All 899 (902, 904) (FB).

[6] It is immaterial whether a notice is to quit on the last day of a month or year of the tenancy or on the next day after that. (Vol 19) 1932 P C 279 (280) : 60 Cal 380 : 59 Ind App 414 (PC) ✠ (Vol 18) 1931 Mad 352 (354). (Notice to quit on the next day after last day.) ✠ ('38) 68 Cal L Jour 411 (412). (Do.)

[7] A notice requiring a yearly tenant to vacate before the expiry of the last day of the year is good. (1900) 27 Cal 570 (577, 578) (DB).

[8] A notice to quit by the last day of a year or month of the tenancy is valid. (Vol 24) 1937 Nag 139 (140) : ILR (1937) Nag 214 ✠ (Vol 8) 1921 All 194 (194) : 43 All 330 (DB) ✠ (Vol 34) 1947 Cal 244 (245). (Notice requiring tenant to vacate as last day of month came to an end.)

[9] A notice requiring tenant to vacate immediately on the expiry of a month was held valid. (Vol 32) 1945 Pat 463 (464) : 24 Pat 454 (DB).

39. Year or month of tenancy. — [1] A year or month of the tenancy at the end of which a notice under this section is required to expire is the year or month calculated with reference to the commencement of the tenancy. (Vol 31) 1944 Cal 84 (85, 87) (DB) ✠ ('94) 7 C P L R 150 (151).

[2] Where a month to month tenancy is expressed to commence on a certain day that day need not be excluded in computing the period of the month of the tenancy. (Vol 30) 1943 Bom 306 (309, 310): ILR (1943) Bom 553 (DB).

[3] Where it is uncertain from what day of the month, a tenancy from month to month began, it may be presumed that it began from the 1st day of a calendar month. (Vol 24) 1937 All 36 (38) (DB) ✠ ('06) 10 Cal W N 841 (844) (DB).

[4] An agreement between the lessor and the lessee that the period of the tenancy should only run from the beginning of the calendar month, may be implied from the date fixed for the payment of the rent. [5] Where the original lease was for a definite term of a year or years, the tenancy by holding over will commence from the next day after such anniversary, and a month of the tenancy must be determined with reference to such commencement. (Vol 19) 1932 P C 279 (280) : 60 Cal 380 : 59 Ind App 414 (PC).

40. Calendar for calculation of time. — [1] Though the year, month etc., are to be interpreted according to the British calendar, there may be a contract to the contrary under which some other calendar may be prescribed. Such contract may be express or implied. Where there is such contract, the calendar prescribed thereby will determine the reckoning of time. (Vol 3) 1916 Cal 576 (577) (DB) ✠ (Vol 31) 1944 Cal 84 (86) (DB). (The same principle applies to month to to month tenancy.)

41. Form of notice. — [1] Where there is no statutory provision for the determination of a tenancy by a written notice, a notice to quit may be oral. ('07) 34 Cal 57 (63, 64) (DB).

[2] A notice under this section may be signed by a party personally or by his authorised agent. (Vol 2) 1915 Cal 313 (315) (DB) ✠ (Vol 12) 1925 All 199 (200).

[3] The mere institution by the lessor of proceedings for the possession of the leased property under S. 145, Criminal P. C., will not be a notice to quit. ('79) 4 Cal 339 (341) (DB).

[4] A mere resolution passed by a Municipal Council deciding to determine a lease granted by the municipality will not, in itself, amount to a notice to quit under this section. (Vol 15) 1928 All 95 (95, 96).

42. Mode of service. — [1] The mode of service mentioned last in this section is not to be resorted to when the second or the third mode is practicable. (Vol 26) 1939 P C 11 (13) : I L R (1939) Kar (PC) 90 (PC).

[2] The sender of the notice is free to adopt any of the first three modes of service mentioned in the section as he may think fit. (Vol 10) 1923 Cal 682 (684) (DB).

[3] The sender of the notice can get the notice served by delivery or tender to a member of the addressee's family or to one of his servants at his residence though service of the notice personally on the addressee is not impracticable. (1900) 4 Cal W N 572 (573) (DB).

[4] Where a notice is not sent by post the delivery or tender of the notice must be made to the addressee personally except when such delivery or tender is made at his residence, in which case it may be made to one of his family or servants. (Vol 10) 1923 Cal 682 (684) (DB).

[5] Vicarious service can only be at residence of the addressee. (Vol 5) 1918 P C 102 (110) : 46 Cal 458 : 45 Ind App 222 (PC).

[6] Where a notice is desired to be served at the residence of the addressee it must be delivered or tendered to him or to one of his family or servants. In the absence of such delivery or tender, merely beating a drum and affixing the notice to the wall of the house wherein the addressee resides will not be enough. (Vol 6) 1919 Cal 400 (401).

[7] The tender and refusal of a notice is as good as delivery of the notice for the purpose of this section, even where the refusal is not by the addressee himself but by one of his family or servants at his residence. ('10) 14 Cal W N 372 (374) (DB) ✠ ('12) 16 Ind Cas 213 (214) (DB) (Cal).

43. Service by post. — [1] If a letter properly directed, containing a notice to quit, is proved to have been put into the post office, it is presumed that the letter reached its destination at the proper time according to the regular course of business of the post office, and was received by the person to whom it was addressed. That presumption would apply with still greater force to letters which the sender has taken the precaution to register and is not rebutted by the fact that a receipt for the letter is produced signed on behalf of the addressee by some person other than the addressee himself. (Vol 5) 1918 P C 102 (111, 112): 46 Cal 458 : 45 Ind App 222 (PC).

[2] The presumption of due service applies only in cases in which it is shown that the notice was properly addressed. ('08) 7 Cal L Jour 251 (258, 259) (DB).

[3] The express provision that the notice may be sent by post only contemplates the sending by post to the correct address. (Vol 26) 1939 P C 11 (13) : I L R (1939) Kar (P C) 90 (P C).

[4] A notice is sent by registered post but is returned as having been refused by the addressee. This will be sufficient service of the notice for the purpose of this section. (Vol 7) 1920 All 104 (105) (D B) ✠ ('98) 1898 Bom P J 206 (206, 207) (D B) ✠ ('12) 16 Ind Cas 213 (214) (D B) (Cal).

[But see (Vol 22) 1935 Bom 247 (251) (D B).]

[5] The production in Court of the cover, in which the notice was sent, with the endorsement of the postal official to the effect that it was refused by the addressee, would be sufficient to prove tender and refusal by the addressee. (Vol 25) 1938 All 388 (389, 390)✠(Vol 7) 1920 Cal 287 (288) (D B).

[But see (Vol 2) 1915 Cal 313 (315, 320) (D B).]

[6] The provision that the notice must be delivered or tendered personally to the addressee or to one of his family or servants at his residence will not apply to service of notice by post. (Vol 25) 1938 All 388 (389, 390).

44. Service of notice on party's pleader or solicitor.—[1] It has been held that, if a notice is sent to a party's pleader or solicitor and is sent by such pleader or solicitor to the party, this would be tantamount to a personal service on the party, though it is an indirect mode of service. (Vol 14) 1927 Sind 24 (25)✠ ('96) 22 Bom 754 (757).

45. Leases by Government.—[1] A lease by the Government for building purposes fixing no term must be presumed to be a yearly tenancy determinable by six months' notice expiring with a year of the tenancy. (Vol 24) 1937 Pat 391 (395) (D B) ✠ (Vol 24) 1937 Pat 444 (446) (D B).

[2] A notice to quit given on behalf of the Government need not be signed by the Secretary of State for India himself. A notice signed by the Collector will be enough. ('08) 8 Cal L Jour 34 (37) (D B).

46. Lease by municipality. — [1] A lease by a municipality cannot in the absence of a contract to the contrary, be determined by a mere resolution passed by the Municipal Council and without any notice being served on the lessee in accordance with the provisions of this section. (Vol 15) 1928 All 95 (95, 96).

47. Notice in cases not governed by this section.—[1] In cases in which a lease is not governed by this section, it will be regarded, in the absence of a contract, local law or usage to the contrary, as determinable by a sufficient notice given by either party to the other. The lease will not be determinable without such notice. (Vol 20) 1933 Mad 165 (165, 166).

[2] The requirements of this section as to the validity of a notice will not apply to leases not governed by this section. (Vol 15) 1928 Lah 348 (348, 349)✠(Vol 12) 1925 Mad 346 (346).

[3] The question of the sufficiency of notice in the case of leases not governed by this section will have to be determined according to the principles of justice, equity and good conscience. It will have to be seen in each case whether the notice given is a reasonable one with regard both to the length of such notice and the time at which it is to expire. ('80) 15 Bom 415*n* (415*n*) (D B)✠(Vol 15) 1928 Pat 354 (355) : 7 Pat 496 (D B)✠ ('04) 8 Cal W N 774 (778) (F B)✠(Vol 5) 1918 Nag 210 (211, 212)✠(Vol 20) 1933 Mad 165 (165, 166)✠ (Vol 16) 1929 Mad 617 (621) (D B).

[4] In cases in which a lease is not governed by this section, local custom will have to be given due consideration in determining the reasonableness of a notice. (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 346 (346).

[5] The provisions of this section may be kept in view as a guide to what may be a reasonable notice in a lease not governed by this section. ('13) 17 Cal W N 1073 (1074) (D B).

4. ('35) 62 Cal L Jour 201 (204) (DB).

[2] Period of lease not specified in deed — Provision for payment of annual rent does not imply that lease is from year to year — Period is to be determined under S. 106 (Vol 8) 1921 Pat 307 (308) (DB) ✠ (Vol 4) 1917 Pat 46 (46) : 2 Pat L Jour 180 ✠ (Vol 22) 1935 Oudh 90 (90) : 10 Luck 490 (DB)✠(Vol 7) 1920 Cal 858 (858) (DB)✠(Vol 7) 1920 Cal 581 (583) (DB).

SECTION 108, CLAUSE (c)—SYNOPSIS

1. Scope.
2. "Without interruption."
3. Interruption by holder of paramount title.
4. Interruption by trespasser.
5. "Shall be deemed to contract."
6. Benefit of covenant runs with the land.
7. Crown grants.
8. Effect of breach of covenant.

1. Scope.—[1] This clause protects the lessee against interruption by whomsoever it is occasioned (Vol 7) 1920 Lah 390 (391) ✠(Vol 10) 1923 Cal 41 (43) : 50 Cal 68 (DB) ✠ (Vol 16) 1929 Cal 272 (275) (DB)✠ (Vol 22) 1935 Mad 973 (975) ✠(Vol 25) 1938 Nag 439 (440) ✠('01) 25 Bom 269 (273) (DB) ✠(Vol 4) 1917 Pat 549 (550) : 2 Pat L Jour 713 (DB).

[But see ('05) 7 Bom L R 713 (722, 723). (To constitute a breach of covenant for quiet enjoyment on landlord's part there must be some act of interruption by him or those claiming under him.)]

[3] The words "if the latter pays the rent reserved by the lease and performs the contracts binding on the lessee" do not make the payment of rent and the performance of the contracts conditions precedent to the enforceability of the obligation to secure quiet enjoyment ('12) 23 Mad L Jour 119 (124) (D B).

[4] An express covenant for quiet enjoyment holds good during the whole of the term expressed to be granted by the lease and not merely during the actual continuance of the estate of the lessor. (Vol 22) 1935 Mad 973 (975).

[6] Strictly speaking, S. 108 (c) which embodies the principle of quiet enjoyment does not come into operation where the lessees were never put in possession by the lessor, the actual physical possession being already with the lessees in pursuance of the sale in their favour. (Vol 32) 1945 All 425 (426) : I L R (1945) All 412 (DB).

SECTION 108, CLAUSE (e)—SYNOPSIS

1. Scope.
2. "Flood."
3. "Substantially and permanently unfit."
4. "At the option of the lessee."
5. Proviso.
6. Effect of repudiation.

1. Scope.—[1] The clause has no reference to the case of the property becoming unprofitable or unfit for cultivation through the failure of its ordinary water supply or through something not happening which was expected to happen. (Vol 1) 1914 Sind 75 (77): 8 Sind L R 222 (DB).

[2] The failure of rain is not a ground under this clause for avoiding the lease. ('10) 8 Ind Cas 471 (473): 1 Upp Bur Rul 2nd Qr. 22.

[3] Principle embodied in the section is not a principle which was ever applied by the Courts of Chancery in England and appears to have been borrowed from the Roman Law or from some other system of law, such as the law of Scotland which is largely derived or based on the Roman Law. (Vol 32) 1945 Pat 300 (305): 24 Pat 197 (DB).

[4] Section 108 (e) cannot be invoked except in cases where the parties to a lease have not themselves provided for the contingencies referred to. (Vol 32) 1945 Pat 300 (305): 24 Pat 197 (DB).

2. "Flood."—[1] The word "flood" in this clause is restricted to sea-water flooding and not fresh water flooding. (Vol 7) 1920 Mad 584 (584): 43 Mad 132 (DB).

[But see (Vol 23) 1936 Mad 664 (665).]

3. "Substantially and permanently unfit."—[1] The words "substantially and permanently unfit" imply that the damage must be so great that the land could not be rendered fit for cultivation at a reasonable expenditure during any portion of the remaining period of the lease. ('28) 109 Ind Cas 243 (243) (Mad).

[2] The onus is on the lessee to establish that the demised property was rendered substantially and permanently unfit. ('28) 109 Ind Cas 243 (243) (Mad).

[3] Part of house rendered dangerous for habitation by earthquake shock — That cannot be said to render house "substantially and permanently unfit" for residence. ('10) 7 Ind Cas 201 (202) (DB) (All).

[4] Godown burnt down so badly that it could not be repaired within three months — Godown held was rendered substantially and permanently unfit for use. ('99) 23 Bom 15 (19).

[5] An eviction of the tenant by the Plague Authorities under the Epidemic Diseases Act (1897) could not be said to render the demised premises permanently unfit. ('99) 1 Bom L R 739 (742) (DB).

[6] The inability of the lessee of salt works to carry on his work owing to the workers' strike cannot be said to have rendered the leased property substantially unfit. (Vol 15) 1928 Bom 61 (63): 52 Bom 142 (DB).

[7] Lease for agricultural purposes—Lands leased silted up by floods, it being possible to put them right by means of certain expenditure: Held tenancy could not be put an end to. (Vol 16) 1929 Mad 575 (576).

4. "At the option of the lessee."—[1] Destruction etc., of premises—Lease does not ipso facto become void —Only exercise of option by lessee will render it void

(f) if the lessor neglects to make, within a reasonable time after notice, any repairs which he is bound to make to the property, the lessee may make the same himself, and deduct the expense of such repairs with interest from the rent, or otherwise recover it from the lessor :

(g) if the lessor neglects to make any payment which he is bound to make, and which, if not made by him, is recoverable from the lessee or against the property, the lessee may make such payment himself, and deduct it with interest from the rent or otherwise recover it from the lessor;

[5] There is no valid exercise of option until the lessee delivers possession of the property to the lessor. ('10) 35 Bom 333 (338) (DB). (('10) 12 Bom L R 474, Affirmed.)

[6] Lessee not exercising option to avoid lease—That will not render him liable, in absence of contract to contrary, to restore property to lessor in its original state by repairing or re-building premises. (Vol 15) 1928 Mad 1140 (1141, 1142): 51 Mad 994 (DB).

13. [5] The doctrine of suspension of rent on lessor's failure to put lessee in possession of part of demised property or secure possession of part of property as applicable in England, does not apply to this country. If the tenant continues in possession of a part of the property, he will be liable to an abated share of the rent. [8] The English doctrine of suspension of rent is not to be rigidly applied in this country, but should be applied only as a rule of justice, equity and good conscience. (Vol 14) 1927 Cal 737 (738, 739) : 55 Cal 689 (DB)✠(Vol 21) 1934 Pat 653 (665) : 13 Pat 396 (D B).

[9] Where possession of a part of the property is not given, but the tenant has acquiesced in the non-delivery by payment of rent, or the non-delivery was due to some bona fide mistake, there should be an apportionment and not a suspension of rent. (Court should consider whether failure to put tenant in possession of entire area was due to mistake as to extent of boundaries or some other bona fide act.)✠(Vol 12) 1925 Cal 1187 (1188) (DB). (Acquiescence.)

[10] The doctrine of suspension rests upon the fact that the tenure is an entire and indivisible one, the rent being fixed as a lump sum for the entire land. (Vol 22) 1935 Cal 134 (137, 139) (D B) ✠ (Vol 21) 1934 Pat 653 (655) : 13 Pat 396 (DB).

[12] The doctrine of suspension of rent, where the tenant has not been put in possession of part of the subject leased, applies where the rent is a lump rent for the whole land leased treated as an indivisible subject. It has no application where the stipulated rent is so much per acre or bigha. (Vol 12) 1925 P C 97 (99) : 52 Cal 417 : 52 Ind App 160 (P C). (The facts as explained in (Vol 18) 1931 P C 104 : 58 Cal 1281: 58 Ind App 141 (PC) (which was also in connexion with same matter) show that it is a case of eviction by paramount title.)

[14] Eviction by landlord—No question as to rental being lump rental or so much per acre or bigha arises — Doctrine of suspension applies provided there is indivisibility of tenure. (Vol 20) 1933 Cal 566 (570, 571).

[15] In Bengal, even where the rent is fixed as a lump sum for the whole area leased, the doctrine of suspension of rent does not apply to cases of failure of the lessor to give possession of a part of the land leased. (Vol 30) 1943 P C 24 (28, 29) : 70 Ind App 18 : I L R (1943) 1 Cal 372: I L R (1943) Kar (P C) 39 (PC).

[16] In order to constitute an eviction by the lessor for the application of the doctrine of suspension of rent the act done by the lessor must be a wrongful or tortious act of dispossession. [17] To constitute eviction for the application of the doctrine of suspension of rent the act done by the lessor must not be a mere trespass but must be something of a grave and permanent character done with the intention of depriving the tenant of the enjoyment of the demised property (Vol 28) 1941 Pat 417 (417) ✠(Vol 23) 1936 Cal 135 (138) ✠(Vol 29) 1942 Pat 266 (267).

[18] To constitute eviction for the application of the doctrine of suspension of rent, there must be a substantial interference by the lessor with the enjoyment of the property though actual physical expulsion is not necessary. (Vol 23) 1936 Cal 135 (138) ✠(Vol 4) 1917 Cal 177 (178, 179) (DB).

[3] Even in cases of transfers of property leased out for agricultural purposes, the principle underlying the section is applicable. ('06) 29 Mad 29 (35, 36) (DB).

2. "Transfers the property."—[1] The section assumes that there has been a valid transfer of property. (Vol 9) 1922 All 45 (46) (DB).

3. "The property leased or any part thereof." —[1] The transfer may be of a part of such property or a part of the lessor's interest in such property. (Vol 14) 1927 Lah 188 (189). (Mortgage of the leased property.) ✠ (Vol 6) 1919 Lah 31 (32) : 1 Lah 241. (Lease of reversion.)

[2] A, the owner of property leases the property to B, and thereafter usufructuarily mortgages it to C. A cannot after the mortgage accept any surrender from the lessee or enforce a forfeiture clause against him. (Mortgagee in possession can determine a lease without consent of the mortgagor.)

[3] A, the owner of property, executes a lease thereof to B, and subsequently, executes another lease of the same property in favour of C. A cannot, after the date of the second lease, give B any notice to quit or recover any rent due after the date of the second lease from B. 5. Election by lessee.—[1] Once the lessee does make his election, he cannot thereafter turn round and charge the original lessor in respect of his liabilities. (Vol 21) 1934 Mad 658 (662).

6. Notice.—[1] The section provides no penalty for want of notice to lessee of such transfer except the loss of rent which might be paid by the lessee to the original lessor in ignorance of the transfer. 7. Arrears of rent.—[1] A transferred to B his property "together with the arrears of past years' due" by the tenants of such property. It was held that the words "arrears of past years' due" did not pass to the purchasers decrees for arrears of rent held by the vendors. ('75) 7 N W P H C R 88 (91) (DB).

8. Apportionment of rent.—[1] Where the lessor, the transferee and the lessee have agreed as to the amount of rent payable to the transferee, the lessor or the transferee can sue for the rent payable to him without impleading the other. (Vol 29) 1942 Pat 120 (126) (DB).

[2] A transferee of a specific portion of a lease-hold holding is not liable for the entire rent but only that portion of the rent which could be apportioned to the area in his exclusive possession. (Vol 31) 1944 Pat 129 (133, 134) (DB).

[1] Per Rau J. — This section applies whether the lease is a written one or oral—Per Mukherjea J.— The section only applies to written leases. (Vol 31) 1944 Cal 84 (85, 87) (DB) ✠ (Vol 33) 1946 Cal 460 (461). (Opinion of Rau J., Followed.)

[2] The section has no application to a case of an oral lease by which no time is limited. (Vol 33) 1946 Cal 460 (461).

[3] Per Rau, J.—(Obiter). The rule laid down in this section is not inflexible, and the section must be read as qualified by some such phrase as "unless the context otherwise requires." (Vol 31) 1944 Cal 84 (86) (DB).

[6] Where the parties to an agreement to grant a lease intend that the lease is to run from the date of its execution, the provisions of S. 110 can be applied to Determination of lease.

111. A lease of immoveable property determines—

(a) by efflux of the time limited thereby:

(b) where such time is limited conditionally on the happening of some event—by the happening of such event:

(c) where the interest of the lessor in the property terminates on, or his power to dispose of the same extends only to, the happening of any event—by the happening of such event:

(d) in case the interests of the lessee and the lessor in the whole of the property become vested at the same time in one person in the same right:

(e) by express surrender; that is to say, in case the lessee yields up his interest under the lease to the lessor, by mutual agreement between them:

(f) by implied surrender:

(g) by forfeiture; that is to say, (1) in case the lessee breaks an express condition which provides that on breach thereof the lessor may re-enter [a][* * * *]; or (2) in case the lessee renounces his character as such by setting up a title in a third person or by claiming title in himself; [b][or (3) the lessee is adjudicated an insolvent and the lease provides that the lessor may re-enter on the happening of such event]; and in [c][any of these cases] the lessor or his transferee [d][gives notice in writing to the lessee of] his intention to determine the lease:

(h) on the expiration of a notice to determine the lease, or to quit, or of intention to quit, the property leased, duly given by one party to the other.

Illustration to clause (f).

A lessee accepts from his lessor a new lease of the property leased, to take effect during the continuance of the existing lease. This is an implied surrender of the former lease, and such lease determines thereupon.

SECTION 111 — SYNOPSIS (contd.)

21. Clause (h).
22. Tenancy at will.
23. Leases not governed by the Act.
24. Joint lessors—Termination of lease.
25. Possession after determination of tenancy.

1. Scope.—[1] This section does not apply to a lease created by devise. (Vol 11) 1924 Oudh 305 (305, (306) : 27 Oudh Cas 1.

[2] This section does not apply in terms to agricultural leases which are exempted from its operation by S. 117. (Vol 24) 1937 Cal 669 (669) : ILR (1937) 1 Cal 679 (D B).

[3] This section does not apply to leases executed before the Act was passed. (Vol 25) 1938 Cal 128 (129) (D B).

[4] So long as a tenancy is not determined in one of the ways known to law, a tenant cannot be ejected as a trespasser. ('28) 112 Ind Cas 257 (258) (DB) (Mad) ✠ (Vol 6) 1919 Mad 1135 (1136) (D B) ✠ (Vol 13) 1926 Nag 253 (255) ✠ ('32) 11 Cal L Rep 387 (388) (DB).

[5] The determination of a lease determines also, with one exception, all interests derived from the lessee. (Vol 13) 1926 Nag 62 (63) ✠ (Vol 14) 1927 Oudh 339 (340) : 2 Luck 612 ✠ (Vol 19) 1932 Nag 107 (109) : 28 Nag L R 93 ✠ (Vol 4) 1917 Cal 236 (241) (D B) ✠ (Vol 11) 1924 Mad 776 (777) (DB).

[See however (Vol 12) 1925 All 580 (582, 583) : 47 All 589 (DB).]

[6] A lease for a term is not determined merely by the lessor unlawfully entering on the leased property before the expiry of the term. (Vol 14) 1927 Lah 1 (4): 7 Lah 423 (D B).

2. Clause (a).—[1] A lease from year to year does not terminate at the end of each year, though it is terminable by a notice to quit at the end of any year. ('02) 12 Mad L Jour 194 (196) (D B) ✠ (Vol 13) 1926 Nag 201 (202).

[2] A lease for a term of years prima facie implies that the lessee's right to the property demised ends with the term. It does not prima facie import any right of renewal. (Vol 2) 1915 P C 59 (66) : 39 Bom 625 : 42 Ind App 229 (P C).

[3] No act either by the lessor or by the lessee such as a notice to quit is necessary to determine a lease for a term of years. (Vol 18) 1931 All 649 (650) (D B) ✠ (Vol 27) 1940 Lah 410 (412) (DB) ✠ (Vol 13) 1926 Nag 201 (202) ✠ (Vol 19) 1932 All 314 (315) (DB).

[4] Where a lease for a term of years provides expressly that after the expiry of the term the tenancy is terminable by a notice, the lease is not determined until such notice is given. (Vol 1) 1914 Mad 301 (303).

3. Renewal of lease.—[1] A covenant for renewal in a lease will, as a general rule, be construed as a covenant for a single renewal and not as a perpetual renewal. (Vol 26) 1939 Cal 77 (78) ✠ ('33) 7 Bom 109 (115) ✠ (Vol 13) 1926 Cal 1065 (1067): 53 Cal 590 (DB) ✠ (Vol 24) 1937 All 328 (331) (DB).

[2] Where a lessee has an option to ask for a renewal but does not ask for it before the expiry of the term and merely continues in possession he becomes merely a tenant from year to year after the termination of the original tenancy. (Vol 31) 1944 Bom 210 (213) ✠ (Vol 7) 1920 Bom 215 (215) (DB).

[3] If the covenant for renewal in a lease itself requires the lessee to exercise his option before the expiry of the term he will lose his right if he does not exercise it within time. (Vol 5) 1918 Cal 59 (61) (DB) ✠ (Vol 16) 1929 Cal 407 (407) (DB).

[4] Where a lease is for 3 years with an agreement to grant a further lease for 5, 7, 14 or 21 years, the lessee will be entitled, even after the expiry of the 3 years and while continuing in possession as a tenant from year to year, to call upon the lessor to renew the lease for 5, 7, 14 or 21 years. But the lessor may, at any time, call upon the lessee to exercise his option and may, in default, determine the lease. ('05) 27 All 696 (699) ✠ (Vol 25) 1938 Cal 724 (726) (D B).

[5] Where the option for renewal does not state the terms of the renewal, the new lease would be for the same period and on the same terms as the original lease in respect of all essential conditions except as to the covenant for renewal itself. (Vol 26) 1939 Cal 77 (78) ✠ (Vol 25) 1938 Cal 724 (727) (DB) ✠ (Vol 5) 1918 Cal 591 (592) (DB).

[6] A covenant 'that the lease shall, and may, be renewed" under certain circumstances means the lease as a whole. (Vol 15) 1928 P C 258 (260): 51 Mad 885: 55 Ind App 423 (PC). (Reversing (Vol 14) 1927 Mad 513 (516): 50 Mad 595.)

[7] A covenant for renewal in a lease by a Hindu widow having only a limited estate has been held to be not binding on the estate after her death. (Vol 24) 1937 All 328 (331) (DB).

[8] A lease contained the clause "After my enjoyment of the said bazar taken settlement of, and on my being in possession thereof for the full term under the lease you will be at liberty to lease out this bazar afresh at an appropriate jama and I shall be entitled to take settlement again at your will, otherwise I will relinquish the ijara in your favour"—Held that the covenant was not in essence a covenant for renewal with the lessee On the other hand any renewal which might be made with him was entirely subject to the pleasure of the lessor. (Vol 34) 1947 Cal 378 (381) (DB).

4. Clause (b).—[1] It has been held that a service tenancy under which the tenant holds the land on condition that if he refuses to render service the lease will determine, may fall within clause (b). (Vol 4) 1917 Cal 116 (117) (DB).

5. Clause (c).—[1] Where the interest of the lessor in the property terminates or his power to dispose of the same extends only to the happening of any event, the lease will terminate on the happening of such event. (1900) 27 Cal 156 (162): 26 Ind App 216 (PC) ✠ (Vol 6) 1919 Oudh 278 (283) (DB).

[2] Where a mortgagee grants a lease, the lease will determine on the redemption of the mortgage. (Vol 8) 1921 Mad 393 (393) (DB) ✠ ('10) 8 Ind Cas 466 (467): 1 Upp Bur Rul 14 ✠ ('06) 1906 All W N 241 (241).

[3] A sub-lease by a lessee for a term of years will be determined by the expiry of the period of the head lease. (Vol 2) 1915 Cal 64 (65) (DB).

[4] A lease by a Hindu widow or other limited owner in Hindu law does not necessarily terminate with her death. The reversioners may, at their option, treat it as valid for the full term leased or may treat it as determined on the death of the limited owner. ('07) 34 Cal 329 (333): 34 Ind App 87 (PC) ✠ ('01) 28 Cal 532 (539) (DB).

[5] Where the reversioners treat the lease by a limited owner under Hindu law as determined after the death of the limited owner, the tenancy will be determined without any further act being necessary to determine it. (Vol 10) 1923 Pat 130 (131): 2 Pat 171 (DB).

6. Death of lessor and lessee.—[1] The death of the lessor does not determine the lease, except in cases where his own interest ceases on his death or it is provided in the lease that the lease shall terminate on his death. (Vol 16) 1929 Nag 23 (26) ✠ ('33) 5 All 191 (194) (DB).

[2] A lease is a heritable right. (Vol 27) 1940 Cal 89 (91): I L R (1939) 2 Cal 254 ✠ (Vol 29) 1942 Oudh 325 (326): 17 Luck 712.

[3] The death of a lessee does not terminate the lease but the interest survives to his legal representatives. (Vol 16) 1929 Nag 23 (26) ✠ ('82) 5 All 191 (194) (DB) ✠ (Vol 27) 1940 Cal 89 (91): I L R (1939) 2 Cal 254 ✠ (Vol 14) 1927 Lah 423 (423) ✠ (Vol 15) 1928 Lah 937 (938).

[4] The death of one of the joint lessees will not determine the lease until both of them are dead without leaving any legal representative. (Vol 12) 1925 Pat 228 (236).

[5] A lease for an indefinite period is determinable by the death of the lessee. (Vol 14) 1927 Cal 179 (181) (DB).

[6] A lease for five years with an agreement that the lessor would continue to give the land at the same rent, should the tenant require the land, is a lease for the life of the tenant. (Vol 18) 1931 Bom 178 (180, 181) (DB).

[7] A lease to a company for a specific purpose would come to an end when the company becomes defunct. (Vol 10) 1923 Nag 243 (245, 246).

7. Clause (d) —[1] In cases outside the Act, it has been held that merger is a matter of intention of the parties and not a thing which occurs ipso jure upon the acquisition of a superior with inferior right. (Vol 9) 1922 P C 94 (95): 48 Ind App 485 (P C).

[2] By virtue of S. 2, clause (c), this clause will not apply where a lease is created before the Act, even though the union of interests is after the Act, and the question of merger in such cases must be decided with reference to the rule of intention. (Vol 31) 1944 Cal 282 (283) (DB).

[But see ('09) 36 Cal 802 (806) (DB) ✠ (Vol 1) 1914 Cal 489 (493).]

[5] A lessee of the entire interest in certain properties acquiring one-eighth interest in the proprietary rights thereof does not cause merger. (Vol 24) 1937 Mad 398 (399).

[6] The purchase by the tenant of a fractional share of the property does not cause a merger. (Vol 18) 1931 P C 63 (64): 6 Luck 197: 58 Ind App 75 (PC).

[7] The taking by the tenant of a usufructuary mortgage of the holding does not effect a merger. ('19) 52 Ind Cas 236 (236) (All) ✠ ('02) 24 All 487 (491) (DB).

[8] Where a merger takes place, subordinate interests derived from the lessee will also come to an end unless the holder of such subordinate interest can show some equity in his favour. ('06) 2 Nag L R 29 (30) ✠ (Vol 34) 1947 All 240 (242).

[9] Governor-General in Council taking possession of a person's land under S. 16, Land Acquisition Act and leasing same to railway — Possession not given by such person — Management of Railway passed to Governor-General in Council — Latter held had right to maintain suit for ejectment against the person. (Vol 34) 1947 Pat 263 (264) (DB).

8. Surrender — General.—[1] Where there are more lessors than one, a surrender must be made to all of them. (Vol 1) 1914 Nag 84 (86) : 10 Nag L R 93 ✠ (Vol 8) 1921 Pat 341 (343).

[5] A surrender cannot be made so as to prejudice the rights of a third person. ('99) 12 C P L R 134 (136) ✠ (Vol 23) 1936 Nag 171 (174) ✠ (Vol 12) 1925 Cal 1238 (1240) (DB).

[5] It is open to a tenant to show that his acknowledgment of a person as a landlord was due to fraud, coercion or misrepresentation. (Vol 4) 1917 Mad 789 (797, 799): 40 Mad 561 (FB) ✠ (Vol. 25) 1938 Rang 227 (228) ✠ ('13) 11 All L Jour 341 (343).

18. Re-entry on forfeiture.—[1] Where a right of re-entry has accrued to the landlord on breach of condition if the lessee resists the plaintiff's entry, the lessor's remedy is to sue in ejectment and not to make a forcible entry. ('12) 15 Oudh Cas 295 (300) ✠ (Vol 2) 1915 Oudh 218 (219) (DB).

19. Who can enforce forfeiture.—[1] A transfer of the lessor's interest carries with it the right to enforce a forfeiture and the transferee can enforce the same even if the forfeiture was incurred before the transfer was made. (Vol 5) 1918 Bom 79 (80): 43 Bom 28 (DB) ✠('87) 14 Cal 176 (183).

[2] A usufructuary mortgagee of the lessor of his interest can enforce a forfeiture clause in the lease given by the mortgagor. (Vol 23) 1936 Mad 116 (117).

[3] Where after a notice to determine the lease had been given, the lessor granted a new lease in favour of a third person it was held that the latter could enforce the forfeiture against the previous lessee. (Vol 11) 1924 Lah 49 (51, 52) (D B).

20. Forfeiture of service tenures.—[1] In cases to which the Act does not apply, the refusal to perform service will terminate the service tenure even without any overt act being done by the lessor to terminate the lease. (Vol 19) 1932 Cal 221 (225): 58 Cal 1359 (D B) ✠ (Vol 10) 1923 Nag 163 (163) ✠('05) 2 Cal L Jour 403 (406) (DB).

[2] A notice to quit is not necessary for determining a lease where a forfeiture has been incurred for refusal to perform service. (Vol 4) 1917 Cal 116 (117) (DB) ✠(Vol 14) 1927 Cal 561 (562) (DB) ✠(Vol 2) 1915 Mad 1135 (1136) (DB).

[3] The dismissal of a ghatwal has been held to carry with it the forfeiture of his tenure. (Vol 19) 1932 Cal 77 (80) (DB).

21. Clause (h).—[1] In the case of a lease from year to year or from month to month, it is, in the absence of a contract or local law or usage to the contrary, terminable by a notice to quit under S. 106. (Vol 7) 1920 Nag 62 (62) ✠(Vol 4) 1917 Mad 141 (141) (DB).

[2] Where there is no tenancy at all no notice to quit or determine lease is necessary. (Vol 26) 1939 Pat 167 (168).

[3] Where the tenancy is denied no notice to quit or determine the lease is necessary. (Vol 6) 1919 Mad 897 (900) (DB).

[4] Where a lease is cancelled on the ground of fraud no notice to quit or determine the lease is necessary before suing for ejectment. (Vol) 20 1933 Mad 67 (69) ✠ ('09) 36 Cal 675 (691) (DB).

[5] A lease if not determined in any of the modes provided by clauses (a) to (g) can be determined only by a proper notice to quit or to determine the lease. ('90) 1890 All W N 175 (176) (D B) ✠('96) 6 Mad L Jour 59 (61) (DB) ✠('84) 8 Bom 164 (166) (DB) ✠(Vol 8) 1921 Pat 334 (335) ✠(Vol 24) 1937 Pat 391 (395) (DB).

[6] An invalid notice does not determine the lease or render the possession of the tenant wrongful. (Vol 23) 1936 Cal 581 (582) ✠(Vol 15) 1928 All 95 (96).

112. A forfeiture under section 111, clause (g), is waived by acceptance of rent which has become due since the forfeiture, or by distress for such rent, or by any other act on the part of the lessor showing an intention to treat the lease as subsisting:

Waiver of forfeiture.

Provided that the lessor is aware that the forfeiture has been incurred:

Provided also that, where rent is accepted after the institution of a suit to eject the lessee on the ground of forfeiture, such acceptance is not a waiver.

[11] Plea of want of notice cannot be raised for first time in appeal. (Vol 31) 1944 Pat 77 (86): 22 Pat 513 (DB).

22. Tenancy at will.—[1] It has been held that a tenancy at will is not a lease as defined by the Act and this section has, therefore, no application to such tenancy. (Vol 27) 1940 Cal 89 (91): I L R (1939) 2 Cal 254.

[But see (Vol 23) 1936 Bom 98 (98).]

[3] No formal notice is necessary to terminate a tenancy at will. (Vol 20) 1933 Pat 561 (562) (DB).

[4] A verbal demand for possession is enough to terminate a tenancy at will. (Vol 12) 1925 Pat 256 (257) (DB) ✠('07) 34 Cal 57 (64) (DB).

23. Leases not governed by the Act.—[1] The principles underlying this section may be applied to leases not governed by the Act. ('03) 26 Mad 157 (160) (DB) ✠(Vol 14) 1927 Nag 50 (51) ✠ (Vol 6) 1919 Mad 1106 (1107): 41 Mad 629 ✠(Vol 13) 1926 Sind 71 (74, 75): 21 Sind L R 185 (DB) ✠ ('45) 47 Pun L R 87 (88). (Section 111 (g).)

[2] A tenancy not governed by the Act and not determined on any grounds referred to in clauses (a) to (g) can only be determined by a reasonable notice to quit. ('79) 4 Cal 339 (341) (DB) ✠('04) 8 Cal W N 774 (778) (FB).

[4] This section does not apply to N. W. F. Province. (Vol 32) 1945 Pesh 16 (18) (DB).

24. Joint lessors—Termination of lease.—[1] All joint lessors must act in determining a lease. (Vol 1) 1914 All 160 (161) ✠(Vol 22) 1935 Cal 577 (577) ✠(Vol 11) 1924 Mad 771 (772) (DB) ✠('06) 29 Mad 29 (34) (DB) ✠(Vol 21) 1934 Cal 127 (128) (DB).

[But see ('87) 11 Bom 644 (648).]

[2] It has been held that where a lease is granted by several joint lessors, containing a clause for forfeiture for non-payment of rent and subsequent to the lease the lessors become divided, each of them can enforce the forfeiture clause for non-payment of his share of the rent. (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 813 (814): 38 Mad 445 (DB).

[3] Where once a lease has been properly determined one of the lessors may maintain a suit in ejectment, making the others parties to the suit. (Vol 4) 1917 Mad 151 (153): 39 Mad 1049 (DB).

25. Possession after determination of tenancy. — [1] The possession of a tenant who holds over after the determination of the tenancy, without the consent of the landlord is wrongful though not adverse. [2] As a person in wrongful possession, a tenant holding over will be liable to pay damages to the lessor for such unlawful occupation. (Vol 15) 1928 Cal 436 (438) (DB).

[3] The words "damages for use and occupation" imply an occupation by a person with the permission of the owner in which case the law implies a contract to pay compensation for such occupation. ('99) 26 Cal 338 (347).

SECTION 112—SYNOPSIS.

1. Scope.
2. Acceptance of rent.
3. "Any other act."
4. Knowledge of breach.
5. Effect of waiver.
6. Second proviso.

1. Scope. — [1] The Courts always lean against forfeiture. (Vol 11) 1924 Mad 649 (650) (D B).

[2] If the lessor, knowing that a forfeiture has been incurred, does any act whereby he acknowledges the continuance of the tenancy, at a later period, he will be regarded in law as having waived the forfeiture. (Vol 27) 1940 Pat 478 (478, 479) (D B) ✠ (Vol 23) 1936 Mad 252 (255).

[3] A lessor cannot proceed on the footing that a lease subsists and at the same time claim that it has been forfeited. (Vol 7) 1920 P C 190 (195) (P C).

[4] Where once the forfeiture is waived, the lessor cannot be allowed to retract from it. (1864) 122 E R 865 (866): 5 B & S 359, Ward v. Day ✠(1778) 98 E R 1371 (1371): Cowp 803, Goodright v. Davids ✠ ('13) 24 Mad L Jour 263 (265) (S B). (Per Walis J.)

[5] No question of waiver arises where a lease has been determined by the landlord taking advantage of forfeiture. (Vol 18) 1931 Pat 240 (240) (D B) ✠ ('10) 20 Mad L Jour 555 (558) (D B). (Per Munro J.) ✠ ('13) 24 Mad L Jour 263 (264) (S B).

[6] Waiver of forfeiture is different from waiver of notice to quit. The former is matter of election of landlord alone while latter cannot be done without assent of both, landlord and tenant. (Vol 32) 1945 Bom 132 (134): I L R (1945) Bom 68 (D B).

[7] Principle of section applies to the Punjab and Delhi province. (Vol 33) 1946 Lah 330 (338) (F B).

2. Acceptance of rent. — [1] The acceptance of rent accruing due after the forfeiture operates as a matter of law to waive all forfeitures then known to the lessor. (Vol 32) 1945 Nag 255 (256): I L R (1945) Nag 629 (D B) ✠ (Vol 32) 1945 Pat 260 (262): 24 Pat 109 (FB) ✠ (Vol 27) 1940 Pat 478 (479) (D B) ✠ ('35) 18 Nag L Jour 159 (163) ✠ ('97) 1897 Bom P J 182 (DB) ✠ (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 914 (915) ✠ (Vol 7) 1920 Cal 655 (657) (D B) ✠ (Vol 1) 1914 All 460 (461).

113. A notice given under section 111, clause (h), is waived, with the express or implied consent of the person to whom it is given, by any act on the part of the person giving it showing an intention to treat the lease as subsisting.

Waiver of notice to quit.

Illustrations.

(a) A, the lessor, gives B, the lessee, notice to quit the property leased. The notice expires. B tenders, and A accepts, rent which has become due in respect of the property since the expiration of the notice. The notice is waived.

(b) A, the lessor, gives B, the lessee, notice to quit the property leased. The notice expires, and B remains in possession. A gives to B as lessee a second notice to quit. The first notice is waived.

[2] It operates as a waiver even though it is accepted under protest or conditionally without prejudice to the forfeiture. (Vol 26) 1939 Oudh 257 (268) : 14 Luck 723 (D B) ✠ (Vol 2) 1915 Cal 454 (456) (D B) ✠ (Vol 7) 1920 P C 190 (195, 197) (P C). (Conditional acceptance.) ✠ (Vol 22) 1935 Mad 454 (455) (D B). (Do.)

[3] Even if the lease provides that a waiver must be expressed in writing receipt of rent operates as waiver. (Vol 7) 1920 P C 190 (195) (P C).

[4] The fact that the rent received is credited to a suspense account will not prevent it from operating as a waiver of forfeiture. ('83) 9 Cal 843 (846) (D B).

[5] Lessee after forfeiture of lease remitting amount as rent but lessor accepting it as damages for use and occupation — Acceptance is of rent and operates as waiver of forfeiture. (Vol 32) 1945 Pat 260 (261, 262) : 24 Pat 109 (F B).

[6] Acceptance of rent due prior to forfeiture, though made after forfeiture does not operate as a waiver. (Vol 33) 1946 All 328 (329) ✠ (Vol 32) 1945 Nag 255 (256) : 1 L R (1945) Nag 629 (D B) ✠ (Vol 3) 1916 Cal 931 (933) (D B) ✠ (Vol 11) 1924 Cal 520 (522) (D B) ✠ (1863) 33 L J Q B 3 (10) : 11 W R (Eng) 948, Ward v. Day.

[7] Acceptance of rent from any person in possession will operate as a waiver. ('25) 90 Ind Cas 832 (833) (D B) (Cal). (Sub-lessee.) ✠ ('96) 20 Bom 439 (446). (Assignee.)

3. "Any other act." — [1] As instances of other acts may be mentioned the following:

(a) Demand for rent due after forfeiture. ('87) 14 Cal 176 (184).

(c) A fresh notice to terminate a tenancy is waiver of prior forfeiture. (Vol 11) 1924 Bom 454 (456) : 48 Bom 541 (D B).

[2] It is not sufficient that the lessor, knowing that a forfeiture has been incurred, is merely silent. (Vol 10) 1923 Nag 129 (130).

[But see (Vol 32) 1945 All 293 (297) : I L R (1945) All 248. (Disclaimer of lessor's title — No action for several years—Forfeiture held waived.) ✠ (Vol 11) 1924 Lah 281 (285). (Do.)]

[3] Where the lessor in granting a receipt for rent due prior to forfeiture, described the grantee of the receipt as a "tenant," it was held that this was not a waiver. (Vol 3) 1916 Cal 931 (934) (D B).

4. Knowledge of breach. — [1] The lessor must have notice or knowledge of the forfeiture at the time of the supposed waiver. (Vol 19) 1932 Cal 787 (789) : 60 Cal 47 (D B) ✠ ('91) 1891 Bom P J 107 (D B).

5. Effect of waiver.—[1] A waiver of a forfeiture operates as regards all prior causes of forfeiture. ('12) 16 Cal W N 104 (106) (D B).

[2] Waiver does not preclude the lessor from taking advantage of subsequent causes of forfeiture. (Vol 23) 1936 Pat 493 (495) : 15 Pat 673 (D B) ✠ (Vol 3) 1916 Lah 403 (404) ✠ ('92) 1892 Bom P J 553 (D B) ✠ (Vol 11) 1924 Mad 776 (777) (D B).

[3] Where the breach is of a continuing nature the waiver of any forfeiture up to a certain day will afford no defence to an ejectment for a subsequent breach. ('67) 8 Suth W R 138 (139) (D B). (Covenant to keep premises in repair.)

[4] Non-payment of rent at a stipulated rate month after month is a continuing breach — The landlord's conduct in having waived his right to forfeit on such a breach for any particular month or months does not destroy his right to forfeit on similar breaches in a subsequent month. (Vol 8) 1921 Bom 307 (308, 309) : 45 Bom 535.

[5] A waiver once made is irrevocable as to the forfeiture waived, and the lessor cannot subsequently claim to enforce the forfeiture. (Vol 7) 1920 P C 190 (195) (P C).

6. Second proviso. — [1] An acceptance of rent after the institution of a suit for ejectment on the ground of forfeiture is not a waiver. (Vol 33) 1946 Lah 330 (338) (F B) ✠ ('10) 8 Mad L Tim 99 (99) (D B) ✠ ('66) 2 Bom H C R 66 (69).

[1] The section will not apply where the landlord claims to treat the tenant as a tenant from year to year but the latter asserts a permanent tenancy. (Vol 14) 1927 Pat 305 (308) (DB).

[2] Sections 113 and 116 have not made the Indian law different from the English law on the question whether the acceptance of payments by the landlord after the notice to quit amounts to waiver of the notice. (Vol 32) 1945 Bom 132 (135) : I L R (1945) Bom 68 (DB).

[3] The acceptance of rent accrued due before the date of the notice to quit is not a waiver of the notice to quit. (Vol 8) 1921 Cal 126 (127) (DB)

[4] The acceptance of rent accrued due subsequent to the notice is a waiver of the notice. (Vol 13) 1926 Cal 763 (763).

[5] It is not in every case that the payment and acceptance of rent by the landlord after the notice to quit of necessity waives the notice. The question whether the act of the landlord was one from which one can impute to him the intention of creating a renewal of the tenancy or treating the tenancy as still subsisting is a question of fact. (Vol 32) 1945 Bom 132 (134) : ILR (1945) Bom 68 (DB).

[7] Mere abortive negotiations between the parties with regard to the payment of rent subsequent to the notice do not constitute a waiver. (Vol 14) 1927 Rang 276 (276, 277) (DB).

114. Where a lease of immoveable property has determined by forfeiture for non-payment of rent, and the lessor sues to eject the lessee, if, at the hearing of the suit the lessee pays or tenders to the lessor the rent in arrear, together with interest thereon and his full costs of the suit, or gives such security as the Court thinks sufficient for making such payment within fifteen days, the Court may, in lieu of making a decree for ejectment, pass an order relieving the lessee against the forfeiture: and thereupon the lessee shall hold the property leased as if the forfeiture had not occurred.

Relief against forfeiture for non-payment of rent.

[8] The acceptance of rent due subsequent to the notice to quit, even after the institution of a suit for ejectment, will operate as a waiver of such notice. (Vol 13) 1926 Cal 763 (763).

[9] Where, pending a suit for ejectment, the Court passed an order by consent of parties by which certain payments were made by the defendant and accepted by the plaintiff, it was held that such acceptance would not constitute a waiver of the notice. (Vol 21) 1934 Cal 837 (837, 838).

[10] The fact that the lessor accepts the rent under protest will not prevent it from operating as a waiver of the notice. (Vol 10) 1923 Cal 663 (664) (DB).

[11] A party who denies having given a first notice to quit, cannot on being found against on that point, plead that his second notice was a waiver of the first. (Vol 14) 1927 Pat 305 (308) (DB).

[12] The fact that no suit is filed for ejectment immediately on the expiry of the notice does not operate as a waiver. (Vol 10) 1923 Nag 129 (130).

[13] In the case of cosharers, the acceptance of rent by one of them will operate as a waiver only in so far as he is concerned. The others will not be affected thereby. (Vol 19) 1932 Pat 259 (260, 261) (DB).

[14] The effect of waiver is that the tenancy is not regarded as having been at all determined, but is regarded as continuing. (Vol 10) 1923 Cal 663 (665) (DB).

[See however (Vol 3) 1916 Mad 680 (684): 39 Mad 834 (DB).]

[3] The general principle on which this section is based will be applicable to the Punjab. ('12) 17 Ind Cas 991 (992): 1912 Pun Re No. 6 (Rev) ✠ (Vol 11) 1924 Lah 49 (51, 52) (DB). (Section 114 inapplicable under S. 2, cl. (c)—Contract before 1882.)

[4] General principle on which this section is based applied to case — Courts are not bound by conditions laid down in section. (Vol 14) 1927 Mad 239 (240).

[5] Under S. 114 there must be an actual payment or tender before the Court. Mere readiness to pay is not sufficient. (Vol 33) 1946 All 328 (329).

2. "Lessor." — [1] If, in a suit by an assignee of the lessor for ejectment on the ground of forfeiture, the tenant pays up the rent in arrears the Court can grant relief against forfeiture. (Vol 23) 1936 Mad 116 (117).

3. "Lessee." — [1] The word "lessee" must be liberally construed as including transferees from him and such transferees can claim relief under this section. (Vol 1) 1914 All 411 (413) ✠ (Vol 34) 1947 Bom 86 (87) (DB).

4. "At the hearing of the suit." — [1] The word "suit" would include an appeal also, and consequently the payment or tender may be made at the hearing of the appeal. (Vol 31) 1944 Nag 229 (231): ILR (1944) Nag 877 (DB) ✠ ('13) 21 Ind Cas 405 (406) (DB) (Mad).

[2] No relief can be granted to the tenant after an order for ejectment has been passed. (Vol 18) 1931 Cal 457 (458): 58 Cal 311 ✠ (Vol 3) 1916 Mad 680 (681, 682): 39 Mad 834 (DB) ✠ (Vol 15) 1928 Mad 193 (194): 51 Mad 157 (DB).

5. "Rent in arrear." — [1] "Rent in arrear" must be taken to mean all the rent due up to the date of relief and not merely the rent for the non-payment of which the forfeiture of the lease had occurred. (Vol 18) 1931 Cal 457 (458): 58 Cal 311.

[2] "Rent in arrear" will include the rent which the lessor may be unable to recover under the law relating to limitation. (Vol 8) 1921 Mad 418 (419): 44 Mad 629 (DB) ✠ (Vol 23) 1936 Mad 116 (117).

6. "The Court may pass an order." — [1] The Court has a discretion under this section which it may exercise according to the circumstances of the case. (Vol 18) 1931 Cal 457 (457): 58 Cal 311 ✠ (Vol 34) 1947 Bom 86 (87) (DB).

[2] In the absence of special circumstances which would go against the lessee, the Court will generally exercise its discretion in favour of granting relief. (Vol 14) 1927 Cal 908 (910): 54 Cal 485 ✠ (Vol 1) 1914 All 805 (806) ✠ (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 919 (921) ✠ ('95) 1895 Bom P J 206 (DB).

[3] The mere fact that the lessee sets up a plea of payment which he fails to prove will not, in itself, disentitle him to relief. (Vol 1) 1914 Mad 706 (708) (DB) ✠ ('88) 13 Bom 323 (325) (DB).

[4] Failure of lessee to prove plea of payment may along with other circumstances, disentitle him to the relief. (Vol 10) 1923 Nag 193 (195): 19 Nag L R 50 ✠ ('05) 15 Mad L Jour 210 (210) (DB).

[5] Where the conduct of a tenant qua tenant has been such that it would be unreasonable that the landlord should be compelled to keep him as a tenant, relief against forfeiture will not be granted. (Vol 14) 1927 Cal 908 (910): 54 Cal 485 ✠ (Vol 10) 1923 Nag 193 (195): 19 Nag L R 50.

[6] The relief against forfeiture is subject to other equities that may have arisen between the date of the forfeiture and the application for relief. (Vol 14) 1927 Cal 908 (910): 54 Cal 485.

[7] Landlord, between date of forfeiture and application for relief, re-letting premises to third party or otherwise dealing with them — Relief under this section will not be given. (Vol 14) 1927 Cal 908 (910): 54 Cal 485.

[1] The section is not retrospective in its operation. (Vol 26) 1939 Lah 330 (338) (DB).

[2] The Act does not provide for relief against forfeiture when lessee renounces his character by setting up a title in himself or in a person other than the lessor — Courts cannot therefore import into the Act such a provision which is not there. (Vol 30) 1943 All 279 (280) ✠ (Vol 33) 1946 Lah 330 (338) (FB).

[3] Lease for agricultural purposes — Forfeiture incurred by reason of breach of express condition in the lease-deed — Relief against forfeiture can be given on equitable principles if notice of forfeiture is not in accordance with this section. (Vol 34) 1947 Mad 119 (120) (FB).

[4] This section merely defines the form in which the notice under S. 111 (g) is to be issued in cases where the breach of the condition is capable of being remedied and a single notice is sufficient. (Vol 25) 1938 Cal 589 (593) : I L R (1938) 2 Cal 434 (DB).

[5] The object of the notice is to give the lessee precise information of what is alleged against him and what is demanded of him. (1899) 47 W R (Eng) 644 (646) : (1899) 2 Q B 79, Horsey Estate, Ltd. v. Steiger.

[6] Number of houses let with a covenant to "keep them in good condition and complete tenantable repairs" — On breach notice served upon the lessee stating "I hereby give you notice that you have broken the covenents for repairing the inside and outside of a the houses contained in the lease and I require you to repair them forthwith" : Held that there was nothing in the notice to show in respect of which house the breach had been committed and that the notice was not valid. (1897) 45 W R (Eng) 471 (472) : (1897) 1 Ch 271, Flecher v. Nokes.

[7] Where a breach of more conditions than one is complained of, a notice to remedy those breaches is not bad merely because in respect of one or more of them the breach cannot be established. (1900) 48 W R (Eng) 264 (265, 266) : (1900) 1 Ch 496, Pann'l v. City of London Brewery Co.

[8] Where two covenants are broken and a notice in respect of only one of them is given and afterwards that breach is waived, the lessor cannot take advantage of the notice in respect of the other breach. (1900) 48 W R (Eng) 441 (442, 443) : (1900) 2 Ch 156, Jacob v. Down.

[9] Where a vast number of repairs were to be made and a suit for ejectment was filed only two days after the service of notice upon the lessee, it was held that reasonable time had not been allowed to remedy the breach. (1899) 47 W R (Eng) 644 (646) : (1899) 2 Q B 79, Horsey Estate, Ltd. v. Steiger.

115. The surrender, express or implied, of a lease of immoveable property does not prejudice an under-lease of the property or any part thereof previously granted by the lessee, on terms and conditions substantially the same (except as regards the amount of rent) as those of the original lease; but unless the surrender is made for the purpose of obtaining a new lease, the rent payable by, and the contracts binding on the under-lessee, shall be respectively payable to and enforceable by the lessor.

Effect of surrender and forfeiture on under-leases.

The forfeiture of such a lease annuls all such under-leases except where such forfeiture has been procured by the lessor in fraud of the under-lessees, or relief against the forfeiture is granted under section 114.

116. If a lessee or under-lessee of property remains in possession thereof after the determination of the lease granted to the lessee, and the lessor or his legal representative accepts rent from the lessee or under-lessee, or otherwise assents to his continuing in possession, the lease is in the absence of an agreement to the contrary, renewed from year to year, or from month to month, according to the purpose for which the property is leased, as specified in section 106.

1. Scope.
2. "Remains in possession."
3. More lessees than one — Only some remaining in possession—Effect of.
4. Effect of lessee's legal representative remaining in possession.
5. Legal representative of the lessor.
6. "Accepts rent or otherwise assents to his continuing in possession."
7. Acceptance by only one of several lessors.
8. Clause for enhancement of rent in a quit notice, whether amounts to an assent.
9. Suit for rent for the period of lessee's possession after determination, whether amounts to assent.
10. Clause for renewal.
11. "In the absence of an agreement to the contrary."
12. Effect of renewal.
13. Nature of possession of tenant holding over without consent.
14. Possession under a lease valid for a part of the term only.

1. Scope.—[1] The effect of holding over with the consent of the lessor under this section is, firstly, that in the absence of an agreement to the contrary the lease is renewed as to all terms except the duration of the lease, and, secondly, that the duration of the renewed lease is from year to year or from month to month according to the purpose for which the property is leased as specified in S. 106. (Vol 21) 1934 Mad 458 (459, 460): 58 Mad 75 (D B).

[2] It is the assent of the lessor or his legal representative that effects a renewal of the lease under this section. The lessee's assent is not necessary. (Vol 11) 1924 Bom 322 (323, 324): 48 Bom 341 ✠ (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 566 (567) ✠ (Vol 16) 1929 Cal 553 (555) : 57 Cal 338 (D B).

[3] The doctrine of holding over contained in this section involves the position that there existed a relationship of landlord and tenant between the parties. Where there was no contract of tenancy between the parties, this section has no application. (Vol 31) 1944 Nag 141 (142): I L R (1944) Nag 267.

[4] The principle underlying this section is applicable to agricultural leases on the ground of justice, equity and good conscience, in the absence of any special reason for not doing so. (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 1071 (1072) (D B)✠(Vol 6) 1919 Nag 88 (89)✠(Vol 4) 1917 Low Bur 37 (38) (D B) ✠ (Vol 11) 1924 Pat 560 (563) : 3 Pat 403 (D B)✠('02) 27 Bom 262 (265) (D B) ✠ ('17) 40 Ind Cas 116 (117) (Oudh) ✠(Vol 13) 1926 Cal 1239 (1239) (D B).

[5] Section 116 does not apply to the N. W. F. Province. (Vol 32) 1945 Pesh 16 (18) (D B).

[6] The principle of this section has been applied to cases arising in Punjab. ('28) 112 Ind Cas 651 (652) (Lah).

[7] Section 116 has to be read along with S. 111 cl. (a). The section does not affect the rights of landlord and tenant as contained in Ss. 112 and 113. (Vol 32) 1945 Bom 132 (135): I L R (1945) Bom 68 (D B).

2. "Remains in possession." — [1] Where the lessee remained in possession for six days after the determination of the lease, it was held that he had become a lessee from month to month and liable for the rent of the whole month. (Vol 11) 1924 Bom 322 (322, 324): 48 Bom 341.

[2] There must be a continuity of possession by the lessee without any break at the determination of the original lease. (Vol 13) 1926 Cal 696 (697) (D B).

[3] Lease determined—Lessee dispossessed and again admitted on property by lessor—There is no renewal of old lease. ('12) 24 Mad L Jour 263 (264) (F B).

[4] Lease for seven years expiring in 1935 —Tenant holding over—Suit by landlord for ejecting tenant filed in 1939—Pending suit, landlord entering into new contract with tenant allowing latter to remain in possession —Contract not registered —Tenant held was not lessee holding over after expiry of first lease. ('47) 1947 All W R (H C) 167 (168).

3. More lessees than one—Only some remaining in possession—Effect of. —[1] More lessees than one — Only some remaining in possession — Lease is renewed only in favour of latter — Rest are not liable for rent for period during which others remained in possession after determination of lease. ('05) 9 Cal W N 340 (342).

4 Effect of lessee's legal representative remaining in possession. — [1] Lease determined by death of lessee—Consent of lessor to lessee's legal representative remaining in possession does not operate as renewal of lease in his favour (Vol 25) 1938 Nag 506 (510): I L R (1940) Nag 269 (D B) ✠ (Vol 14) 1927 Pat 305 (306, 307) (D B) ✠ (Vol 12) 1925 Pat 357 (361, 362) (D B).

[2] Renewal of lease in lessee's favour—Subsequently lessee's representative coming in possession of property — Representative gets benefit of renewal. (Vol 20) 1933 Cal 822 (824) (D B).

[3] A continuing in possession after expiry of lease without lessor's consent - A dying and B, his legal representative, continuing in possession — B held was mere trespasser and lessor could not by his assent effect renewal of original lease. ('07) 31 Mad 163 (166, 167) (D B). (('85) 8 Mad 424 not followed.) ✠ (Vol 16) 1929 All 610 (612).

5. Legal representative of the lessor.—[1] The term "legal representative" implies a person who occupies the same position as the lessor. (Vol 2) 1915 Cal 64 (66) (D B).

[2] A grants a lease to B who in turn sub-lets the property to C. After the determination of B's lease, C continues in possession. A leases the same property to D who accepts rent from C. D, who holds only a fraction of the interest held by A, cannot be called his legal representative and acceptance of rent by him from C does not renew the lease of C. (Vol 2) 1915 Cal 64 (66) (D B).

6. "Accepts rent or otherwise assents to his continuing in possession." — [1] The consent, express or implied, of the lessor has to be shown before the lessee is entitled to a renewal. (Vol 30) 1943 Oudh 392 (395) (D B).

[2] The acceptance of rent is only one form of the assent of the lessor to the lessee's remaining in possession of the property ('67) 7 Suth W R 152 (152) (D B)✠ (Vol 21) 1934 Mad 458 (459): 58 Mad 75 (D B).

[3] The acceptance must be of rent as such. (Vol 8) 1921 Cal 789 (791, 792) (DB).

[4] Acceptance must be voluntary. ('09) 3 Ind Cas 100 (100) (Cal).

[5] The payment of the rent by the lessee must be in the capacity which he held under the original lease. ('02) 26 Mad 535 (537) (DB).

[6] Mere delay or passive failure on the part of the lessor in taking steps to eject a lessee who remains on the property after the determination of the lease does not by itself amount to an assent on the part of the lessor to the lessee's remaining in possession of the property. ('07) 34 Cal 396 (398) (DB) ✠ (Vol 4) 1917 Mad 735 (737) (DB).

7. Acceptance by only one of several lessors. —[1] Where there are more lessors than one and one of them accepts rent from the tenant with respect to his share in the property, the lease is renewed in respect of that lessor's share only. (Vol 6) 1919 Cal 110 (110) (D B).

8. Clause for enhancement of rent in a quit notice, whether amounts to an assent.—[1] Where the clause in the quit notice was : "In default of so vacating I write this, with a pure mind that Rs. 75 per month will be collected from the tenancy along with the costs of Court," it was held that no consent on the part of the lessor could be inferred from the clause. (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 566 (566, 567).

10. Clause for renewal.—[1] If there is a clause for renewal in the original lease but after the determination thereof no fresh lease is formally executed under the covenant for renewal, but the lessee remains in possession with the assent of the lessor, he can claim the benefit of this section. (Vol 31) 1944 Bom 210 (213) ✠ (Vol 14) 1927 Cal 725 (730) : 54 Cal 813 (D B).

[2] The tenant continuing in occupation under a special agreement for a further lease is a different case from the tenant holding over merely by consent but if for any reason his agreement has to be disregarded he can fall back upon the landlord's consent and claim his rights under S. 116. (Vol 14) 1927 Cal 725 (730) : 54 Cal 813 (DB).

[3] Lease for term of years—Lessee to deliver possession at expiry of term without notice—In case of failure to deliver possession, lessee liable to pay rent at double rate till delivery — Clause held was merely penal and did not confer on lessee option to continue in possession after expiry of term. (Vol 30) 1943 Oudh 392 (394, 395) : 19 Luck 265 (D B).

11. "In the absence of an agreement to the contrary."— [1] The agreement to the contrary may be express or implied. ('13) 17 Cal L Jour 167 (171, 172) (DB).

[2] The fact that the original lease reserves an annual rent is no objection to holding that the tenancy by holding over under this section is one from month to month where the purpose of the lease is not agricultural or manufacturing. Nor does this fact imply an agreement that the tenancy by holding over should be one from year to year. ('04) 32 Cal 123 (127) (S B) ✠ (Vol 20) 1933 Cal 260 (261) (DB).

[3] The fact that the original lease contains a clause that the lessee may be ejected without notice is no ground for holding that notice as per Ss. 106 and 116 is not necessary for determining the new tenancy by holding over that arises by the tenant continuing in possession with the lessor's assent. (Vol 21) 1934 Cal 135 (135) (D B).

[4] If rent is to be paid annually there is the presumption of annual tenancy. (Vol 6) 1919 Cal 529 (531) (D B).

12. Effect of renewal.—[1] The effect of a renewal is that there comes into existence a new lease between the parties. ('22) 65 Ind Cas 589 (591) (DB) (Cal) ✠(Vol 21) 1934 Cal 135 (136) (DB) ✠ (Vol 18) 1931 Lah 675 (675).

[2] The renewal is, in the absence of an agreement to the contrary, on the same terms as those contained in the expired lease. SECTION 118 — SYNOPSIS

1. Distinction between sale and exchange.
2. Transfer partly for money—Nature of.
3. Mutual transfer of ownership.
4. Partition is not exchange.
5. Two sale deeds, whether exchange.
6. "Ownership of one thing."
7. Mode of effecting exchange.
8. Remedy of parties to exchange.

1. Distinction between sale and exchange. — [1] An exchange is similar to a sale in so far as it is also a mutual transfer of ownership of one thing for the ownership of another, but it differs from a sale in that neither of the things transferred is the price of the other. (Vol 11) 1924 All 390 (391) : 46 All 359 (DB).

[2] Where A, a muktyar gave an eight anna court-fee stamp to B, his client, and was going to have another eight-anna stamp from B in exchange : Held, it was not a sale of stamp. ('03) 30 Cal 921 (922) (DB).

[3] Transfer of cotton for cotton seeds is an exchange. ('01) 25 Bom 696 (698) (S B).

[4] A gives B one hundred rupee currency note and B gives one hundred rupees in coins in return. In this case also neither of the things transferred can be said to be the price of the other. ('78) 3 Cal 379 (382) (DB).

[5] The distinction between a transfer by way of sale and a transfer by way of exchange lies in the nature of the consideration for such transfer. (Vol 25) 1938 All 229 (230, 231) (DB)✠(Vol 7) 1920 Oudh 182 (183).

[6] The provisions of Ss. 118, 119 and 120 show that the Legislature has put an exchange on the same footing with a sale in almost every respect. (Vol 10) 1923 Lah 456 (457).

[7] Where the transaction otherwise amounts to an exchange, the fact that one of the parties to the transaction intends to sell the land which he takes in exchange after the exchange or that he has contracted to do so before the exchange takes place does not affect the real nature of the transaction. (Vol 31) 1944 Pesh 5 (16).

2. Transfer partly for money — Nature of. — [1] Where the consideration for a transfer of property is partly money and partly other property, and it is not possible to divide the transaction into separate transactions of sale and exchange, it has been held that the transaction would be an exchange and not a sale for the purposes of pre-emption and that this would be so even if the purpose of adding the non-pecuniary portion of the consideration is to defeat the right of pre-emption. (Vol 25) 1938 All 229 (231) (DB)✠(Vol 24) 1937 All 665 (667) (DB) ✠ ('07) 3 Nag L R 138 (139, 140).

[3] If the value of the non-pecuniary consideration forms only a negligible portion of the total consideration, the transaction would be a sale (Vol 23) 1936 Lah 234 (234)✠(Vol 21) 1934 Lah 823 (824).

[4] If the parties, in substance, intended to make an exchange of properties, the mere fact that a small sum of money was paid by one to the other by way of adjusting the values, would not alter the nature of the transaction as an exchange. ('13) 1913 Pun L R No. 199, page 676 (679) ✠ (1900) 1900 Pun Re No. 97, page 391 (392)✠(Vol 12) 1925 Lah 326 (327).

[5] Right of equity of redemption over property transferred for proprietary rights over another property — Transaction is not sale — No right of pre-emption. (Vol 2) 1915 Oudh 149 (151) : 18 Oudh Cas 109 (DB).

[6] In case of a custom to that effect, pre-emption is allowed, even in cases of exchange. ('85) 7 All 626 630, 631, 632) (FB).

3. Mutual transfer of ownership.—[1] A transaction which is a family arrangement is not an exchange. (Vol 15) 1928 All 641 (643) : 51 All 79 (FB).

[2] Where A allowed B to cultivate his occupancy holding X and B allowed A to cultivate his occupancy holding Y but the record remained unchanged and each paid rent for the land he cultivated in the name of the other, it was held that the transaction was not an exchange. (Vol 10) 1923 Nag 144 (144, 145).

[3] Where A and B hold decrees against each other and settle their claims by a document under which A transfers a property to B, and B merely gives up his claim against A under his decree, the transaction is not an exchange. ('07) 11 Cal W N 342 (344) (DB).

[4] Where A surrenders his lease-hold interest to his landlord in consideration of another lease given by the latter of other property, there is no mutual transfer of ownership. (1900) 6 Cal W N 905 (910, 911) (DB).

[5] Where a husband transfers land to his wife for use by her during her life-time, and she gives up her right to future maintenance the transaction is not an exchange. (Vol 9) 1922 Mad 311 (313) : 45 Mad 612 (FB).

4. Partition is not exchange.—[1] A partition is not an "exchange". ('98) 25 Cal 210 (215) (DB)✠(Vol 2) 1915 Mad 103 (104) : 43 Mad 849 (D B).

[2] Where A and B were co-owners of property X, and B was the sole owner of property Y, and B transferred to A property Y in consideration for A giving up his rights in property X in favour of B, it was held that the transaction was an exchange. ('01) 5 Cal W N 724 (726) (DB).

[3] The transaction contemplated by the section is a mutual transfer brought about in pursuance of an agreement between the parties and a partition is not such a transaction. (Vol 7) 1920 Oudh 182 (183).

[4] Where, under a compromise decree, co-owners of undivided property take specific portions therein in lieu of their undivided interest in the whole property, the compromise does not amount to any transfer of property at all and therefore is not an exchange. (Vol 24) 1937 Pat 232 (234) (DB).

5. Two sale deeds, whether exchange.—[1] The question must be decided having regard to all the circumstances of the case. (Vol 6) 1919 Lah 246 (247).

[2] Where the deeds form part of the same transaction, and no cash consideration passes between the parties, the deeds really constitute only a mutual transfer of ownership of one property for another, and therefore constitute only an exchange. (Vol 25) 1938 All 229 (230) (DB)✠(Vol 6) 1919 Lah 246 (247).

[3] The fact that the value of the properties mutually transferred were fixed by the parties does not necessarily make the transaction mutual sales of property. (Vol 25) 1938 All 229 (231) (DB)✠(Vol 6) 1919 Lah 246 (247).

[But see (Vol 1) 1914 Mad 489 (492) : 37 Mad 422 (DB). (No longer good law in view of the Full Bench decision in (Vol 9) 1922 Mad 311 : 45 Mad 612.)]

[4] Section 92 of the Evidence Act does not preclude the admissibility of extrinsic evidence to show that two documents purporting to be separate sale deeds are in reality part and parcel of the same transaction. (Vol 14 1927 All 696 (697) : 50 All 59 (DB).

[But see ('06) 8 Bom L R 283 (287) (DB). (Case before Transfer of Property Act applied to Bombay.)]

6. "Ownership of one thing." — [1] The word "thing" includes both tangible and intangible things and hence the transfer of a proprietary interest in certain land for the equity of redemption in respect of another land is an "exchange" within this section. (Vol 2) 1915 Oudh 149 (150) : 18 Oudh Cas 109 (DB).

[2] The transfer of a debt in consideration of the transfer of the equity of redemption in certain property is an exchange. (Vol 1) 1914 Mad 489 (492) : 37 Mad 423 (DB).

[3] The transfer of a right to enforce a charge for maintenance for the transfer of ownership of the property has been held to be an exchange (Vol 15) 1928 All 204 (205) (DB).

[4] A transfer of property in consideration of the transferee forbearing to sue to set aside a certain sale is not a mutual transfer of property and is therefore not an exchange. (Vol 18) 1931 Mad 140 (143); 54 Mad 163 (DB).

7. Mode of effecting exchange.—[1] Where the law prescribes a particular mode of transfer, such transfer can be effected only in that mode. ('11) 33 All 728 (731) (DB).

[2] In the case of tangible immovable property of the value of one hundred rupees and upwards, or in the case of a reversion or other intangible thing, the transfer by way of exchange can be made only by a registered instrument. (Vol 3) 1916 Mad 821 (821); 38 Mad 519 (DB) ✠(Vol 12) 1925 Mad 1174 (1174)✠(Vol 1) 1914 Lah 108 (108)✠(Vol 27) 1940 Lah 311 (312)✠(Vol 1) 1914 Mad 489 (492, 493) : 37 Mad 423 (DB)

[3] In the case of tangible immoveable property of a value less than one hundred rupees, a transfer by way of exchange can be made either by a registered instrument or by delivery of the property. (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 543 (544)✠(Vol 19) 1932 Oudh 135 (136) (DB).

[a][119. If any party to an exchange or any person claiming through or under such party is by reason of any defect in the title of the other party deprived of the thing or any part of the thing received by him in exchange, then, unless a contrary intention appears from the terms of the exchange, such other party is liable to him or any person claiming through or under him for loss caused thereby or at the option of the person so deprived, for the return of the thing transferred, if still in the possession of such other party or his legal representative or a transferee from him without consideration.]

Right of party deprived of thing received in exchange.

[4] Delivery to validate exchange must be physical and not constructive—Intangible property — Exchange not possible. (Vol 33) 1946 All 125 (126).

[5] An exchange may be effected by a single instrument. It is not necessary that there should be two separate deeds of transfer of property. (Vol 16) 1929 All 63 (64).

[6] If A and B agree to execute separate sale deeds by way of exchange, title will pass to B as soon as A has duly executed his deed in favour of B, notwithstanding that B has not executed a similar deed in favour of A. (Vol 7) 1920 Oudh 182 (184) ✠ (Vol 16) 1929 All 63 (64).

[7] A deed which simply recites a transaction of exchange that has already taken place and provides for a penalty for failure to carry out the arrangement as agreed, is not itself a deed of exchange. ('91) 1891 Pun Re No. 26, p 148 (149).

8. Remedy of parties to exchange.—[1] On the completion, by mutual transfer, of the transaction of exchange the party who has failed to obtain possession must sue for possession of the property and not for the specific performance of a contract (Vol 16) 1929 All 63 (64).

[2] Where A performs his part of the contract by executing a transfer of his property to B, but B fails to execute a transfer of his property to A, A's remedy is only to sue B for the specific performance of the contract or for damages for breach of the contract. He cannot sue B for recovery of possession of the property transferred to B. ('67) 3 Agra H C R 394 (395) (DB).

[3] Neither party performing his part of the contract —Neither of them can sue for specific performance of the contract—One of the parties deprived of possession of his property by the other—Former is entitled to sue for a declaration of title to and for possession of the property. (Vol 3) 1916 Cal 325 (326) (DB).

[1] The principles of this section have been applied to cases arising in the Province of Punjab. (Vol 21) 1934 Lah 934 (935) ✠ (Vol 4) 1917 Lah 164 (165) : 1917 Pun Re No. 51 (DB).

[2] Where A and B exchanged certain properties, and the property got by A was entered upon by a mortgagee from B's brother under a mortgage given before the date of exchange, A's dispossession is not complete and permanent. A is still owner of the property and the section has therefore no application. (Vol 21) 1934 Lah 934 (935).

[3] If the other party is deprived of the property by reason of defect in title he would have the remedy provided for by this section, namely, to the return of the thing transferred by him or to compensation, but until such deprivation the exchange remains valid. (Vol 16) 1929 All 63 (64) ✠ (Vol 27) 1940 All 478 (480).

[4] Where the title of a party to an exchange is initially defective, but subsequent to the exchange, such party acquires a full title to the property, the other party is, by virtue of S. 43, entitled to the benefit of such acquisition. (Vol 8) 1921 Cal 748 (749) (DB).

[5] The amount of compensation would ordinarily be the value of the property of which the party was deprived. If the property has been valued in the deed of exchange itself, such value would furnish a basis for fixing the amount of compensation. (Vol 4) 1917 Lah 164 (166) : 1917 Pun Re No. 51 (DB).

[6] Where a party is deprived of a portion of the property got by him, he must, if he wishes to obtain return of the thing transferred by him, give up the portion of the thing got by him of which he was not deprived. If he retains such portion, his only remedy is to claim compensation for the loss of the other portion. ('99) 9 Mad L Jour 137 (138) (DB). (Obiter.) ✠ (Vol 4) 1917 Lah 164 (165, 166) : 1917 Pun Re No. 51 (DB).

[7] Where the guardian of a minor exchanges his property for another, and he is subsequently deprived of the property got by him, the remedy of the minor is to claim that the thing transferred by the guardian should be returned to him or that he should be compensated for the loss. (Vol 11) 1924 Bom 517 (518) (DB).

[8] Where a transaction of exchange is completed and the transferor fails to give possession to the transferee, the latter's remedy is to sue for possession on the basis of his title. He cannot sue for the specific performance of a contract. (Vol 16) 1929 All 63 (64).

[9] Where properties have been mutually transferred by parties by way of exchange, and the exchange is for some reason void, either of them can ordinarily recover from the other the property transferred by him. But where the exchange is void as being prohibited by law, the Court will help neither party in getting back his property from the other. (Vol 8) 1921 Oudh 132 (133)

[10] Where in an exchange between X and Y, Y executed a security bond in favour of X binding himself to pay an amount not exceeding Rs. 4014-8 6 at the rate of Re. 1-4-0 per kuli for the land that might go out of X's possession, and X, being deprived of the land transferred to him, sued Y to recover his own land, it was held that the express terms of the above security bond superseded the rights of the parties under this section and hence X was not entitled to claim the return of the land given by him. ('98) 21 Mad 69 (73) (DB).

[11] Where a clause in a deed of exhange was to the effect that "neither party would have any claim against the other contrary to the terms of the exchange" it was held that the clause did not amount to a clear expression of a contrary intention and did not take away the warranty implied by the section (Vol 4) 1917 Lah 164 (165) : 1917 Pun Re No 51 (DB).

[12] A suit for a return of the thing exchanged will be governed by Art. 143, Limitation Act ('07) 30 Mad 316 (319) (DB) ✠ (Vol 7) 1920 Mad 812 (812) : 42 Mad 690 (DB).

[13] A suit for compensation for the loss suffered by the deprivation of the thing exchanged is governed by Art. 83, Limitation Act, or, where the exchange is by a registered document, by Art 116 read with Art. 83 of that Act. ('08) 31 Mad 452 (453) (DB).

120. Save as otherwise provided in this Chapter, each party has the rights and is subject to the liabilities of a seller as to that which he gives and has the rights and is subject to the liabilities of a buyer as to that which he takes.

Rights and liabilities of parties.

Exchange of money.

121. On an exchange of money, each party thereby warrants the genuineness of the money given by him.

CHAPTER VII.

OF GIFTS.

"Gift" defined.

122. "Gift" is the transfer of certain existing moveable or immoveable property made voluntarily and without consideration, by one person, called the donor, to another, called the donee, and accepted by or on behalf of the donee.

Acceptance when to be made.

Such acceptance must be made during the lifetime of the donor and while he is still capable of giving.

If the donee dies before acceptance, the gift is void.

[14] Where there is an express contract in the deed of exchange between A and B that each should make good to the other any loss that may be sustained by the other, by giving him other property of equal value, a suit by A, on being deprived of his property, against B for compelling the latter to give him other property in performance of the contract will be governed by Art 113, Limitation Act. ('99) 9 Mad L Jour 137 (140) (DB) ✠ ('88) 11 All 27 (31) (FB)

[15] This section does not affect the terms and incidents of any exchange made or effected before the 1st April 1930 or any right, title, or obligation or liability acquired, created or incurred before such date. (Vol 27) 1940 Mad 426 (427).

[1] Where there was a custom among cotton dealers that dealers delivering cotton to owners of cotton presses with or without a special contract were entitled to get in return the same quality and weight of duly pressed clean cotton, it was held that so soon as the cotton was delivered to the owners of the press, the property in the cotton passed to them and that if it was destroyed by fire thereafter, they should bear the loss, and should pay to the dealers the price of the cotton delivered by them. ('88) 11 Mad 459 (468, 469) (DB).

[2] The fact that under this section the liability of a party who takes in an exchange is the same as that of a buyer in a sale, will not enable a third person to claim a right of pre-emption against such party. (Vol 11) 1924 All 390 (391) : 46 All 359 (DB) ✠ (Vol 24) 1937 All 665 (667) (DB).

[3] No party can claim under this section a charge over other's property as provided for in S. 55, sub-s. (6), cl. (b). (Vol 3) 1916 Mad 821 (822) : 38 Mad 519 (DB).

[4] A party to an exchange cannot invoke the principle of S. 55, sub-s (4), cl (b) and claim a charge for any money that may be due under such exchange. ('12) 16 Ind Cas 109 (109) (DB) (Mad).

Section 121 — Note 1

[1] The mere delivery of money to a person conveys a perfectly valid and indefeasible title to it. ('01) 25 Bom 702 (705) (DB) ✠ ('90) 1890 Pun Re No. 83, p. 259 (261) (DB).

[2] "Money" does not include anything which is not legal tender. It includes current coin of the realm and all things which are "accustomably transferable in the country in the same manner as cash." ('01) 25 Bom 702 (705) (DB).

[3] Badashahi coins of Baroda have not by law been made legal tender in British India and are therefore not "money" in British India. ('01) 25 Bom 702 (705, 706) (DB).

[4] It is not necessary in order to constitute a thing "money" that it should be a legal tender receivable at a value in rupees fixed by law. Where a coin has a current value, attaching to it as coin, and not merely by weighing them as lumps of gold or silver, it is money. ('73) 5 N W P H C R 187 (188) (DB).

[3] A release of a security in favour of the mortgagor is not a transfer of property and hence not a gift. (Vol 13) 1926 Cal 170 (171) (DB).

[4] In the following case, a relinquishment by one of the two coparceners forming a joint Hindu family, of all his interests, was held to amount to a gift. (Vol 30) 1943 Sind 177 (181) : I L R (1943) Kar 227 (DB).

2. "Voluntarily."—[1] The presence of undue influence does not necessarily show that the transfer was not made voluntarily, and that the gift is, therefore, void—if the donor has acted voluntarily, the presence of undue influence would render the gift only voidable. (Vol 32) 1945 P C 54 (56): I L R (1945) Bom 440: I L R (1945) Kar P C 115 : 72 Ind App 21 (PC).

3. "Without consideration."—[1] A transfer in consideration of natural love and affection is a gift. So also is a transfer in consideration of an expectation of spiritual and moral benefit. (Vol 16) 1929 Pat 591 (592, 593) (DB)

[2] The abandonment of a person's right to future maintenance is a "consideration" and a transfer for

[4] A transfer for services rendered will, if the services are merely the motive for the transfer, be a gift. (Vol 15) 1928 Bom 250 (252) (DB) ✠ (Vol 34) 1947 Bom 198 (202) (DB) ✠ ('10) 34 Bom 287 (290) (DB) ✠ (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 458 (458) (DB).

4. Competency to give. — [1] A minor cannot make a valid gift. ('03) 30 Cal 539 (547, 548) : 30 Ind App 114 (PC).

[2] In the case of a gift by a pardanashin lady, it is necessary to show very clearly that the lady fully understood the transaction. [3] Gift was alleged to have been made by an old and infirm woman. It was held that the burden of proving that it was executed with full knowledge of its contents, willingly and without any pressure or undue influence is on the donee. ('12) 15 Ind Cas 529 (532) (DB) (Bom).

[4] A leper is not incompetent to make a gift under the Hindu law. ('66) 6 Suth W R 68 (68) (DB).

5. Competency to receive. — [1] Under the Hindu law also the donee must be in existence at the time the gift takes effect. ('72) 18 Suth W R 359 (367) (PC).

[See however (Vol 4) 1917 All 94 (94) (DB). (Transfer to "Dharam Samaj" : Held, invalid.)]

[4] Gift in favour of two or more persons—Presumption is that they take only as tenants-in-common. (Vol 4) 1917 Mad 484 (484) (DB) ✠ (Vol 13) 1926 Nag 48 (49).

[5] Where a gift is to two persons only one of whom is capable of taking, the former will take the whole of the property. ('89) 16 Cal 677 (682) : 16 Ind App 44 (PC).

SECTION 123—SYNOPSIS

1. Scope.
2. Gifts of immovable property.
3. Registration and operation of gift.
4. "Signed by or on behalf of the donor."
5. "Attested by at least two witnesses."
6. Donee's possession under invalid gift of immovable property.
7. Gifts in Cantonment areas.
8. Delivery of property.
9. Gifts of actionable claims.
10. Law in places to which Transfer of Property Act is not extended.

1. Scope.— [1] With regard to immovable property the section provides that irrespective of the value of the property, the transfer must be effected only by a registered instrument signed by or on behalf of the donor and attested by at least two witnesses. (Vol 3) 1916 All 351 (351) : 38 All 212 ✠ (Vol 26) 1939 Rang 76 (78) : 1938 Rang L R 678 ✠ (Vol 21) 1934 Cal 772 (773) : 61 Cal 525 ✠ (Vol 11) 1924 Pat 657 (660) : 3 Pat 842 (D B) ✠ (Vol 25) 1938 All 452 (454) : I L R (1938) All 633 (D B) ✠ ('99) 1 Bom L R 495 (497) (D B) ✠ (Vol 11) 1924 Nag 214 (215) ✠ (Vol 26) 1939 Mad 290 (290).

[2] With regard to moveable property the section provides two modes of transfer, i. e., it may be effected either by a registered instrument as aforesaid or by delivery of the property. (Vol 30) 1943 Bom 453 (454) ✠ ('87) 14 Cal 446 (449) (D B) ✠ (Vol 28) 1941 Mad 154 (157, 158) : I L R (1941) Mad 232 (D B) ✠ (Vol 9) 1922 All 467 (469) : 45 All 115 (F B) ✠ (Vol 10) 1923 Pat 165 (170) (D B) ✠ (Vol 11) 1924 Pat 657 (660) : 3 Pat 842 (D B) ✠ (Vol 18) 1931 All 596 (597) : 53 All 632 (D B) ✠ (Vol 11) 1924 Bom 88 (88).

[3] The provisions laid down in the section are mandatory and must be strictly fulfilled. (Vol 15) 1928 All 699 (702) (D B). (Gift of immovable property by Hindu by way of sankalap is not valid.)

2. Gifts of immovable property.— [1] A gift which is not registered and signed as required by the section is bad and cannot pass any title to the donee. (Vol 30) 1943 Sind 177 (180) : I L R (1943) Kar 227 (D B) ✠ (Vol 6) 1919 P C 44 (46) : 43 Mad 234 : 46 Ind App 285 (P C) ✠ (Vol 21) 1934 P C 67 (68) : 12 Rang 238 (P C).

[2] A mere delivery of possession without a registered instrument will not cure the defect. (Vol 30) 1943 Sind 177 (181) : I L R (1943) Kar 227 (D B).

[3] Under S. 49 of the Registration Act a deed of gift not registered as required by this section may be used in evidence for collateral purposes. (Vol 30) 1943 Mad 15 (19) (D B).

3. Registration and operation of gift. — [1] Fact of registration of gift does not render gift complete without acceptance—Donor can revoke gift before acceptance. (Vol 26) 1939 Mad 290 (290, 291) ✠ (Vol 11) 1924 Pat 657 (660, 661) : 3 Pat 842 (D B).

[3] The mere custody by the donor of the gift deed does not lead to any adverse conclusion against the donee, especially where the entire conduct of the donee shows that he accepted the gift and the document was kept in the family box to which the donee also had access. (Vol 34) 1947 Mad 127 (128).

4. "Signed by or on behalf of the donor."— [1] The words "signed by or on behalf of the donor" have been loosely used in the section, and must be construed as meaning only a signature by a person duly authorised by the donor. ('02) 24 All 319 (325, 327) (F B). (Per Stanley C. J.)

5. "Attested by at least two witnesses."— [1] If there is no attestation as required by the section the deed of gift is null and void. (Vol 12) 1925 Pat 151 (152) ✠ (Vol 29) 1942 Pat 120 (125) (D B).

[2] No attestation of gift as required by section — Deed cannot affect property gifted. (Vol 21) 1934 Cal 772 (775) : 61 Cal 525 ✠ (Vol 9) 1922 Pat 514 (524, 525) : 2 Pat 52 (D B).

7. Gifts in Cantonment areas. — [1] Oral gift by Mahomedan to another in Cantonment area: Held that inasmuch as only S. 123 was extended to Cantonment area and not S. 129, Mahomedan law was inapplicable and gift invalid. (Vol 7) 1920 Lah 249 (251).

8. Delivery of property.—[1] Delivery of moveable property under this section is the delivery described in S. 33 of the Sale of Goods Act, 1930 (old S. 90 of the Contract Act, 1872). (Vol 10) 1923 Pat 165 (170, 171) (D B). (Section 90, Contract Act, 1872) ✠ (Vol 1) 1914 Cal 566 (567) (D B). (Do.)✠('84) 6 All 634 (636) (D B). (Do.)

[3] The delivery of the cheque by the Railway Company to the Mercantile Bank, though coupled with the request to send the amount to their London Office to be paid to defendants is not equivalent to delivery to the defendants. (Vol 11) 1924 Bom 88 (88).

[4] Sum sanctioned as gratuity in favour of deceased railway servant — Amount credited to his Provident Fund account— Held there was no delivery of possession. (Vol 30) 1943 Bom 453 (455).

[5] Where the property gifted is handed over to the Court of Wards on account of a minor donee and the Court of Wards assumed superintendence of the property, there is a sufficient delivery so as to pass the property to the donee. (Vol 30) 1943 Sind 177 (181) : I L R (1943) Kar 227 (D B).

[6] Where the property gifted is in the possession of a third person and the third person consents to hold the property on behalf of the donee when asked by the donor to deliver the property to the donee, there is no sufficient delivery of the property to the donee if the third person is not authorised by the donee to hold the property on his behalf. In such a case, the transaction does not operate to transfer the property to the donee. (Vol 10) 1923 Pat 165 (170, 171) (D B) ✠ ('84) 6 All 634 (636) (D B) ✠ (Vol 11) 1924 Bom 88 (88).

[8] Deposit of money in joint names of husband and wife — Deposit payable to wife only after husband's death— Held that the deposit did not operate as a gift to the wife. (Vol 30) 1943 Bom 7 (9) (D B).

9. Gifts of actionable claims.— [1] A deed of gift of immovable property and actionable claims which fails as a gift of immovable property for non-compliance with the requirements of this section does not fail also as a gift of actionable claims unless the gift of the latter is made conditional on the gift of the former taking place (Vol 8) 1921 Mad 137 (139, 140) : 44 Mad 196 (D B).

[2] The making of a gift of a fixed deposit in a bank is not the making of a gift of movable property but is the gift of an actionable claim. The handing over of the fixed deposit receipt would not be enough; it will be necessary to have a document in writing signed by the transferor. (Vol 32) 1945 All 409 (418, 419) (D B).

10. Law in places to which Transfer of Property Act is not extended.— [1] This section will not affect gifts effected in places to which the Transfer of Property Act is not extended. (Vol 8) 1921 Cal 647 (649) (DB) ✠ ('37) 39 Pun L R 1014 (1015)✠(Vol 13) 1926 Lah 286 (287).

126. The donor and donee may agree that on the happening of any specified event which does not depend on the will of the donor a gift shall be suspended or revoked; but a gift which the parties agree shall be revocable wholly or in part, at the mere will of the donor, is voild wholly or in part, as the case may be.

When gift may be suspended or revoked.

A gift may also be revoked in any of the cases (save want or failure of consideration) in which if it were a contract, it might be rescinded.

SECTION 126—SYNOPSIS

1. Scope.
2. Agreement for revocation.
3. Conditional assignment of insurance policy.
4. Gift revocable at the will of the donor.
5. Paragraph 2—General.
6. Who may suspend or revoke gifts.
7. Revocation, if need be express.
8. "Save as aforesaid, a gift cannot be revoked"—Paragraph 3.
9. "Transferees for consideration without notice"—Paragraph 4.

1. Scope.—[1] Section 126 enumerates some of the conditions under which the donor may revoke the gift; but this section is not exhaustive. (Vol 17) 1930 All 669 (674) (DB).

[2] Before the amendment of S. 129 in 1929, this section did not affect any rule of Hindu law. Under that law, if a person made a gift to another in expectation that the donee will do some work in consideration of the gift, and the donee failed to do it, the gift was revocable. (Vol 17) 1930 All 669 (674) (DB).

[3] Apart from this section a person can make conditional gifts. The conditions in such cases must be valid conditions under the various sections of Chapter II. (Vol 21) 1934 Rang 129 (131) (DB)⁂ ('32) 4 Mad 200 (202, 203) (DB).

2. Agreement for revocation.—[1] A making gift of funds for founding college—Founding of college becoming impossible by passing of University Act—Held that promoters of scheme and donors must be deemed to have agreed that on failure of scheme gift shall be revoked. (Vol 21) 1934 Oudh 329 (333) (DB).

3. Conditional assignment of insurance policy.—[1] Where a policy of life insurance is assigned with the provision that if the assignee should predecease the assignor, the benefit under the policy should revert to the assignor and form part of his estate the latter provision is valid under this section. The contingency on which the assignment is to be revoked not depending on the assignor's will, is covered by the first part of the first paragraph of this section. (Vol 31) 1944 Nag 185 (186, 187): I L R (1944) Nag 871.

4. Gift revocable at the will of the donor.—[1] Where the gift is revocable wholly or in part at the mere will of the donor the gift is void wholly or in part as the case may be. ('10) 34 Bom 604 (617) ⁂('82) 5 Mad 173 (179) (DB).

5. Paragraph 2—General.—[1] A gift can be revoked on the ground of coercion, fraud, misrepresentation or undue influence. (Vol 5) 1918 Cal 615 (617): 45 Cal 434 (DB).

[2] Where a husband attempted to commit suicide in consequence of which he obtained a deed of release from his wife and the son, it was held that his act amounted to "coercion" and the deed was liable to be set aside. (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 414 (416): 41 Mad 33 (SB).

[3] There are many classes of influence in which the donee from his position is presumed to be likely to have exercise special influence over the mind of the donor. (Vol 14) 1927 P C 148 (150) (P C).

(a) Influence of solicitor over his client. ('88) 10 Suth W R 469 (472) (DB) ⁂(Vol 17) 1930 Mad 317 (320, 321) (DB).

(b) Influence of medical attendant over his patient. ('37) 1937 All L Jour 1027 (1029) (P C).

(c) Influence of spiritual adviser over his disciple. ('90) 12 All 523 (529) (DB).

(d) Influence of a trustee over his cestui que trust. ('06) 30 Bom 578 (589) (DB).

(e) Influence of an executor over the beneficiary under the will. (1893) 1893 W N (Eng) 128 (128), Wheeler v. Sargent.

(f) Influence of a parent over his child. ('05) 30 Mad 169 (174) (FB).

(g) Influence of an agent over his principal. (Vol 14) 1927 P C 148 (150) (P C).

(h) Influence of a paramour over his mistress. (Vol 25) 1938 Bom 304 (306) (DE).

[5] Where the donee is in a position to exercise undue influence over the donor, the burden is on the donee to show that there was no such influence. He can discharge the burden by showing that the gift was the spontaneous act of the donor, acting under circumstances which enabled the donor to exercise an independent will and which justifies the Court in holding that the gift was the result of the free exercise of the donor's will. (Vol 16) 1929 P C 3 (6) (P C) ⁂(Vol 14) 1927 P C 148 (150) (P C).

[6] There is no rule of law that the gift is invalid in the absence of competent independent advice. (Vol 25) 1938 P C 38 (40): 32 Sind L R 285 (P C) ⁂ ('14) 36 All 81 (91, 92): 41 Ind App 23: 16 Oudh Cas 378 (P C) ⁂(Vol 16) 1929 P C 3 (7) (P C) ⁂(Vol 5) 1918 Cal 363 (371) (S B) ⁂ (Vol 12) 1925 P C 204 (209): 47 All 709: 28 Oudh Cas 338: 52 Ind App 342 (P C).

[7] If upon review of the facts, the conclusion is reached that the obtaining of independent advise would not have made any difference in the result, then the deed ought to stand even when no independent advice was obtained. ('14) 36 All 81 (92): 16 Oudh Cas 378: 41 Ind App 23 (P C)⁂ (Vol 5) 1918 Cal 363 (371) (S B).

[8] The absence of the power of revocation in the gift deed is merely a circumstance to be weighed with

127. Where a gift is in the form of a single transfer to the same person of several things of which one is, and the others are not, burdened by an obligation, the donee can take nothing by the gift unless he accepts it fully.

Onerous gift.

Where a gift is in the form of two or more separate and independent transfers to the same person of several things, the donee is at liberty to accept one of them and refuse the others, although the former may be beneficial and the latter onerous.

A donee not competent to contract and accepting property burdened by any obligation is not bound by his acceptance. But if, after becoming competent to contract and being aware of the obligation, he retains the property given, he becomes so bound.

the other circumstances of the case. ('12) 15 Ind Cas 529 (533) (DB) (Bom).

[9] Questions which a Court should consider in deciding the issue of undue influence are, (a) whether the gift in question is one which a right minded person might be expected to make; (b) whether the gift is or is not an improvident act on the donor's part; (c) whether the gift is such as to have required advice if not obtained by the donor; and (d) whether the intention to make the gift originated with the donor. ('88) 15 Cal 684 (698, 700): 15 Ind App 81 (P C).

[10] In the case of deeds taken from pardanashin ladies the burden of proof rests on those who found their claim on them (Vol 9) 1922 P C 14 (16): 43 All 525: 48 Ind App 381 (P C) ✠('91) 18 Cal 545 (548): 18 Ind App 144 (P C) ✠('95) 17 All 1 (12): 21 Ind App 148 (P C).

[11] The Courts have been careful to see that the strongest and most satisfactory proof is given by the person who claims under a sale or gift from pardanashin ladies that the transaction was a real or bona fide one and fully understood by the woman whose property is dealt with. (Vol 31) 1944 All 42 (53) (DB). (Sale.) ✠('12) 34 All 455 (462): 16 Oudh Cas 271: 39 Ind App 156 (P C) ✠(Vol 25) 1938 P C 38 (40): 32 Sind L R 285 (P C) ✠(Vol 12) 1925 P C 204 (209): 47 All 703: 28 Oudh Cas 338: 52 Ind App 342 (P C).

[12] While it is important to maintain the principles of law laid down for the protection of pardanashin ladies, it is also important not to transmute such a legal protection into a legal disability. (Vol 31) 1944 All 42 (53, 54) (DB) ✠(Vol 15) 1928 P C 303 (305) (P C) ✠('14) 36 All 81 (92): 41 Ind App 23: 16 Oudh Cas 378 (P C).

6. Who may suspend or revoke gifts.—[1] A right to revoke a gift under the provisions of this section may be exercised by the donor himself. It also survives after his death to his legal representatives who may therefore revoke the gift (Vol 12) 1925 All 437 (438): 47 All 619 (DB) ✠(Vol 14) 1927 Bom 384 (387): 51 Bom 133 (DB).

7. Revocation, if need be express.—[1] In the absence of any express reservation of a power of revocation in the gift-deed, a donor does not continue to have the right to revoke a gift. (Vol 34) 1947 Mad 127 (128).

[2] If the donor has the power of revocation, an exercise of that power cannot be inferred from the mere fact that he conveyed the property to a stranger; an express act of revocation would at least be necessary. (Vol 2) 1915 Low Bur 86 (87): 8 Low Bur Rul 185.

[3] A document styled as "a deed of gift" and executed and registered as such conferred on the donee a complete and immediate title to the property subject to the right of the donor to enjoy it during his lifetime. It was held that the document was a deed of gift and not a will and could not be revoked. (Vol 34) 1947 Bom 49 (51, 52).

8. "Save as aforesaid a gift cannot be revoked"—Paragraph 3.—[1] Where a gift is complete and the donor has done all in his power to give effect to it, it is irrevocable except in the circumstances mentioned in the section. ('99) 23 Bom 131 (134) (DB). ✠(Vol 5) 1918 Cal 615 (617): 45 Cal 434 (DB) ✠(Vol 20) 1933 Rang 418 (422) (DB) ✠('86) 1886 All W N 86 (89) (DB).

9. "Transferees for consideration without notice"—Paragraph 4.—[1] A right of revocation under this section cannot be exercised against a transferee for consideration without notice of the existence of such right. (Vol 25) 1938 Cal 157 (160) (DB).

[2] A volunteer or a person who takes with notice of the existence of the right, cannot get the benefit of the saving clause. (Vol 25) 1938 Bom 97 (106) (DB) ✠('07) 30 Mad 169 (178) (S B) ✠(Vol 10) 1923 Mad 67 (69) (DB).

[1] Where the thing gifted is itself not burdened by any obligation, but the instrument of gift imposes a condition that the donee should discharge certain liabilities, the donee accepting the gift will take it subject to the condition and is bound to perform the condition. (Vol 20) 1933 Cal 488 (489) (DB) ✠ (Vol 12) 1925 Nag 29 (30).

[2] The third paragraph of this section shows that even a gift subject to a burden can be accepted by a person incompetent to contract without the intervention of a guardian. (Vol 3) 1916 Nag 55 (55): 13 Nag L R 18.

[3] The fact that the donee, after accepting the gift, dies before becoming competent to contract, will not affect the completeness of the gift. ('97) 20 Mad 147 (148) (DB).

128. Subject to the provisions of section 127, where a gift consists of the donor's whole property, the donee is personally liable for all the debts due by [a][and liabilities of] the donor at the time of the gift to the extent of the property comprised therein.

Universal donee.

[a] Inserted by the Transfer of Property (Amendment) Act, 1929 (20 [XX] of 1929), S. 60.

129. Nothing in this Chapter relates to gifts of moveable property made in contemplation of death, or shall be deemed to affect any rule of Muhammadan law [a][* * * *]

Saving of donations mortis causa and Muhammadan law.

[a] The words "or, save as provided by section 123, any rule of Hindu or Buddhist law" were repealed by the Transfer of Property (Amendment) Act, 1929 (20 [XX] of 1929), S. 61.

[4] Until the donee actually repudiates his acceptance of the gift, he will be liable to fulfil the obligation imposed by the gift. (Vol 24) 1937 Oudh 517 (520) (DB).

[5] Once onerous gift is accepted the donee becomes bound to fulfil the obligation by which the property gifted is burdened. (Vol 24) 1937 Oudh 517 (520) (DB) ✠ (Vol 23) 1936 Oudh 47 (48) (DB).

[6] Sections 122 and 123 of the Succession Act correspond to this section.

[1] Position of universal donee and universal legatee is practically the same. (Vol 32) 1945 All 433 (439): I L R (1946) All 1 (DB).

[2] Even if a deed of trust comprises all the property of the author of the trust, the trustees would not be liable personally for the debts of the author of the trust. (Vol 26) 1939 Oudh 161 (174): 14 Luck 548 (DB).

[3] A surrender by a Hindu widow in favour of the next reversioner is not a gift and this sanction cannot apply to such a transaction. ('36) 18 Nag L Jour 179 (182).

[But see (Vol 24) 1937 Cal 226 (228, 229).]

[4] Where a Hindu widow purported to surrender her interest in favour of a person who was not the next reversioner jointly with the next reversioner, it was held that the transaction was really a universal gift. ('36) 18 Nag L Jour 179 (182). (Surrender in favour of daughter and her son.)

[5] Portion of donor's property excluded from gift—Section will not apply irrespective of value of property excluded or whether it is moveable or immovable. [See however (Vol 31) 1944 Nag 225 (227): I L R (1945) Nag 194 (DB).]

[6] Gift of whole of properties—Compromise between donor and donee giving back a land for which donor was to pay rent to donee, and was to return it to donee in the event of donor dying without issue, —Held, donee was a universal donee. (Vol 20) 1933 All 146 (147).

[7] The liability of the universal donee is limited to the extent of the property received by him. (Vol 20) 1933 All 146 (147) ✠ (Vol 22) 1935 Oudh (432, 433): 11 Luck 199 (DB) ✠ (Vol 27) 1940 Lah 285 (288) (DB) ✠ (Vol 15) 1928 All 234 (235) (DB).

[8] A universal donee cannot escape liability by reason merely of the fact that the donor has, after the date of the gift, made part payments towards the debt or acknowledged it, and thus kept the debt alive. ('37) 1937 Mad W N 395 (396). (Renewal of pronote after gift.)

[9] Donor owing to the same person, a mortgage-debt and unsecured debt—Donee of whole property seeking to redeem the mortgage debt only—Held, mortgagee was entitled to tack on unsecured debt also to mortgage-debt and claim both. ('83) 7 Bom 101 (106) (DB).

[10] Donor adjudicated insolvent after valid gift of his whole property—Court acting under S. 4 of the Provincial Insolvency Act, cannot sell properties in the hands of donee for payment of debts. (Vol 17) 1930 Pat 305 (306) (DB).

[11] Hindu widow giving her whole property to her reversioners—Donee making part payment towards her mortgage-debt—Held, donee cannot take advantage of the widow's death and challenge the mortgage as reversioners. (Vol 31) 1944 Nag 225 (227, 228): I L R (1945) Nag 194 (DB).

[12] The section applies to gifts by Muhammadans or in favour of Muhammadans. (Vol 17) 1930 Oudh 268 (270) (DB) ✠ (Vol 22) 1935 Oudh 432 (433): 11 Luck 199 (DB).

[14] The onus of showing that a transaction in favour of a particular person is a universal gift is on the person setting it up. (Vol 15) 1928 All 500 (502, 503): 50 All 818 (DB).

Section 129—Note 1

[1] Where there is no rule of Muhammadan law inconsistent with any of the provisions of the chapter, those provisions will directly apply even where the transaction is between Muhammadans. (Vol 17) 1930 Oudh 268 (270) (DB).

[2] Where a rule of the Muhammadan law is in conflict with any provision in this chapter, the former will prevail over the latter. ('34) 147 Ind Cas 504 (505) (DB) (Pat).

[3] A gift in contemplation of death is the middle point between a gift inter vivos and a legacy. ('71) 6 Mad H C R 270 (278) (DB).

[4] A gift in expectation of suicide is not one made in contemplation of death. (1925) 1925 Ch 553 (555): 95 L J Ch 204, In re Dudman.

[5] Whatever strictness is required in the proof of a testamentary disposition is at least equally required in cases of gifts in contemplation of death. ('66) 11 Moo Ind App 139 (168) (PC)

[6] This section does not except from the operation of the chapter those rules of Muhammadan law which were applied by Courts only as being in accordance with justice equity and good conscience. (Vol 23) 1936 Rang 430 (433): 14 Rang 439 (FB) ✠ ('01) 24 Mad 513 (520) (DB) ✠ (Vol 25) 1938 Rang 435 (437) (DB).

[See however (Vol 24) 1937 Rang 240 (244) (DB).]

[7] Where the Muhammadan law was, under the Bengal, Agra and Assam Civil Courts Act, 1887, declared applicable, this section was held not to affect any rule of Muhammadan law so declared applicable. (Vol 16) 1929 Pat 417 (419) (DB).

CHAPTER VIII[a].

OF TRANSFERS OF ACTIONABLE CLAIMS.

Transfer of actionable claim.

130. (1) The transfer of an actionable claim [b][whether with or without consideration] shall be effected only by the execution of an instrument in writing signed by the transferor or his duly authorized agent, [c][* * *] shall be complete and effectual upon the execution of such instrument, and thereupon all the rights and remedies of the transferor, whether by way of damages or otherwise, shall vest in the transferee, whether such notice of the transfer as is hereinafter provided be given or not:

Provided that every dealing with the debt or other actionable claim by the debtor or other person from or against whom the transferor would, but for such instrument of transfer as aforesaid, have been entitled to recover or enforce such debt or other actionable claim, shall (save where the debtor or other person is a party to the transfer or has received express notice thereof as hereinafter provided) be valid as against such transfer.

(2) The transferee of an actionable claim may, upon the execution of such instrument of transfer as aforesaid, sue or institute proceedings for the same in his own name without obtaining the transferor's consent to such suit or proceedings and without making him a party thereto.

Exception. — Nothing in this section applies to the transfer of a marine or fire policy of insurance, [d][or affects the provisions of section 38 of the Insurance Act, 1938].

Illustrations.

(i) A owes money to B, who transfers the debt to C. B then demands the debt from A, who, not having received notice of the transfer, as prescribed in section 131, pays B. The payment is valid, and C cannot sue A for the debt.

(ii) A effects a policy on his own life with an Insurance Company and assigns it to a Bank for securing the payment of an existing or future debt. If A dies, the Bank is entitled to receive the amount of the policy and to sue on it without the concurrence of A's executor, subject to the proviso in sub-section (1) of section 130 and to the provisions of section 132.

[c] The words "and notwithstanding anything contained in section 123" were omitted, ibid. [d] Added by the Insurance Act, 1938 (4 [IV] of 1938), S. 121. [26-2-1938.]

1. Scope.
2. "Transfer."
   3. There must be present transfer of an existing actionable claim.
   4. Assignment of rents and profits and assignment of lessor's right of reversion under a lease.
   5. Assignment of part of debt.
   6. Debts due to a joint Hindu family.
   7. Transfer by operation of law.
8. "Whether with or without consideration."
9. Form of assignment.
   10. No particular words are necessary to constitute assignment.
   11. Registration not necessary.
   12. Agreement between debtor and creditor that debts would be paid from a fund in the hands of a third person, if assignment.
13. "Duly authorized agent."
14. Completeness of the transfer and notice to the debtor.
   15. Transfer of mortgage debt — Equities between mortgagor and mortgagee, if available against transferee.
   16. "All the rights and remedies of the transferor whether by way of damages or otherwise, shall vest in the transferee."
   17. Assignor's liability after the assignment.
   18. The right of a tenant in Malabar to compensation.
19. Sub-section (2).
20. Exception.
21. The principle of 'caveat emptor' applies to the purchase of an actionable claim.
22. Law in the Punjab.

1. Scope. — [1] The section contains a special scheme which has some of the features both of the English Common Law and of the principles of equity. (Vol 10) 1923 Cal 719 (722) (DB) ✠ (Vol 22) 1935 Cal 218 (219, 220): 62 Cal 1 (DB).

[2] This section is not inapplicable to Muhammadans so as to take a gift by a Muhammadan of an actionable claim, out of the operation of the section (Vol 4) 1917 Mad 20 (26) (DB) ✠ (Vol 23) 1936 Pat 527 (530) ✠ (Vol 29) 1942 Pat 210 (211): 20 Pat 798 (DB).

2. "Transfer."—[1] The word "transfer" is used in this section in the same wide sense as that which is attributed to the word "convey" by the definition to be found in S. 205 (11), English Law of Property Act 1925. (Vol 25) 1938 Rang 1 (3).

[2] The section covers absolute transfers of actionable claims as well as transfers by way of security. ('13) 37 Bom 198 (210): 40 Ind App 24 (PC) ✠ (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 1031 (1031): 38 Mad 297 (FB) ✠ (Vol 32) 1945 Bom 11 (12) ✠ (Vol 28) 1941 Mad 147 (148): ILR (1941) Mad 378 (DB).

[3] The transfer of an actionable claim may also be made conditionally. (Vol 31) 1944 Nag 185 (187): ILR (1944) Nag 871.

[4] An endowment policy was assigned by the assured in favour of his wife by an endorsement on it and the assignment was duly communicated to the insurance company. The endorsement recited that in the event of the wife predeceasing the assured or in the event of his surviving the date on which the policy was to become mature, the benefits of the policy together with the rights to recover thereunder would revert to the assured. It was held that this section applied to such a transfer. (Vol 26) 1939 Mad 411 (413): ILR (1939) Mad 415 (DB).

Section 130 (contd.)

3. There must be present transfer of an existing actionable claim. — [1] The word "transfer" means a present transfer. (Vol 13) 1926 Nag 206 (207).

[2] A promise by the debtor to pay money to his creditor, when he, the debtor, might receive a debt due to him by a third person, does not constitute an assignment of the debt so as to charge the debt in the hands of the third person. ('73) 1873 Pun Re No. 63, p. 99 (100) (DB) ✠ ('84) 1884 Pun Re No. 60, p. 158 (160) (DB).

[3] An undertaking by the debtor to deposit at the creditor's shop all the cheques that he might get from the P. W. Department or to give him cheques in satisfaction of money due to the creditor does not constitute a present assignment of the debt. (Vol 13) 1926 Nag 206 (207).

[4] It is necessary not only that there should be a present transfer, but also that the actionable claim transferred is in existence, at the time of the transfer. (Vol 25) 1938 Rang 1 (4).

[5] A share of a partner in a partnership and the right to recover it is an actionable claim which is assignable but not a right of a partner to a rendition of accounts. (Vol 28) 1941 Sind 73 (78) (DB).

[6] A vendor's right to recover purchase-money from the purchaser is an actionable claim. (Vol 29) 1942 Mad 209 (210).

[7] The buyer's right under S. 61 of the Sale of Goods Act, 1930, to recover back the price paid under a contract of sale on failure of its consideration is an actionable claim. (Vol 30) 1943 Nag 332 (332): I L R (1943) Nag 762.

4. Assignment of rents and profits and assignment of lessor's right of reversion under a lease.— [1] In the case of an assignment of rents and profits the assignee will be entitled to only the right to realize the rents and profits by virtue of the assignment in his favour, but in the case of a reversion, the rights which the lessor had on the date of the reversion will also be transferred to him. (Vol 25) 1938 Mad 100 (102) (DB).

5. Assignment of part of debt. — [1] There is nothing in this section which prohibits the transfer of a part of a debt. (Vol 15) 1928 Mad 1201 (1207): 52 Mad 465 (DB). ((Vol 12) 1925 Mad 753, Not approved.) ✠ (Vol 27) 1940 Mad 258 (265) ✠ (Vol 28) 1941 Lah 337 (338) (DB).

6. Debts due to a joint Hindu family. — [1] If there are debts due to a joint Hindu family from a certain person, the member renouncing his share in the debts need not execute a formal deed of transfer in favour of the remaining members. ('36) 63 Cal 194 (204).

[2] Where in a partition of a joint Hindu family a debt evidenced by a pronote falls to the share of a particular member, he can sue to recover the amount due under the pronote without an assignment under this section. ('37) 1937 Mad W N 134 (134) ✠ (Vol 21) 1934 Mad 529 (532): 57 Mad 1082 (DB).

[But see ('07) 17 Mad L Jour 393 (393) (DB).]

7. Transfer by operation of law. — [1] The section does not affect a transfer of an actionable claim by operation of law or by, or in execution of, a decree or order of Court, as such transfers are expressly saved by S. 2, cl. (d). (Vol 30) 1943 Pat 218 (223): 22 Pat 114 (DB) ✠ (Vol 26) 1939 Sind 288 (289): ILR (1939) Kar 344 (DB) ✠ (Vol 13) 1926 Sind 78 (79, 80).

8. "Whether with or without consideration." —[1] The words "whether with or without consideration" make it clear that a gift of an actionable claim can validly be made under this section. (Vol 25) 1938 Mad 236 (238) (DB).

[2] A dedication of an actionable claim to an idol is not governed by this section and may be made orally. (Vol 13) 1926 Nag 469 (470).

[But see (Vol 24) 1937 All 424 (425) (DB).]

[2] An assignment by way of a trust deed is valid. (Vol 31) 1944 Cal 335 (339): I L R (1943) 2 Cal 325.

[3] The object of reducing the transfer to writing is to put the arrangement entered into between the parties beyond dispute. (Vol 26) 1939 Mad 543 (546) (DB).

[4] As transfers by way of charge on or hypothecation of actionable claim fall under this section, such transfers must be effected by execution of an instrument in writing. ('13) 37 Bom 198 (210): 40 Ind App 24 (P C).

[5] A mere deposit of a life policy will not create any charge on the life policy. ('13) 37 Bom 198 (210): 40 Ind App 24 (P C) ✠(Vol 28) 1941 Mad 147 (148): I L R (1941) Mad 378 (DB).

[6] A deposit of securities lying with the creditor, by the creditor will not create any charge on the debts due by the debtor. (Vol 16) 1929 Rang 318 (319): 7 Rang 365 (D B). (('13) 37 Bom 198: 40 Ind App 24 (P C), Followed.)

[7] A fixed deposit is a debt or an actionable claim and transfer of the same can only be made by an instrument in writing signed by the transferor. (Vol 32) 1945 All 409 (411): I L R (1945) All 315 (DB).

10. No particular words are necessary to constitute assignment. — [1] A transfer of an actionable claim need not be in any particular form or be couched in technical language. But the words used must sufficiently indicate the transferor's intention to transfer the claim. (Vol 25) 1938 Mad 236 (238) (DB) ✠('84) 1884 Pun Re No. 60, p. 158 (159) (DB) ✠(Vol 11) 1924 Lah 684 (685) ✠(Vol 13) 1926 Cal 447 (448, 449) (D B) ✠(Vol 24) 1937 All 424 (427) (DB) ✠(Vol 28) 1941 Mad 147 (148): I L R (1941) Mad 378 (DB).

[2] The following are all illustrations of valid assignment of actionable claim:

(a) Endorsement on an instrument which represents the debt. (Vol 22) 1935 All 837 (838) ✠(Vol 24) 1937 Sind 181 (183): 31 Sind L R 93 (DB).

(b) Endorsement on a money bond to the effect, 'I have sold the document', or to the effect, 'the balance due should be paid into the hands of my son'. (Vol 11) 1924 Lah 684 (685).

(c) A direction in writing to pay the amount due on an instrument endorsed on the instrument by the payee thereof coupled with the delivery of the instrument so endorsed to the person to whom the payment is directed. (Vol 13) 1926 Cal 447 (449) (DB) ✠('06) 30 Mad 75 (77, 78) (DB) ✠(Vol 8) 1921 Mad 122 (124) (D B). (But mere acknowledgment of payment by payee is not assignment.)

(d) A partition list allotting a pronote to a particular member of a joint family. ('10) 21 Mad L Jour 80 (82) (DB).

(e) An assignment by way of an entry made in a statement of accounts is sufficient. (Vol 6) 1919 Mad 1076 (1076) (DB).

Section 130—Note 10 (contd.)

(f) A letter given by a person to another, directing the latter to receive from the former's debtor the amount due to him under an instalment bond. ('12) 13 Mad L Tim 77 (79) (DB)

(g) Where there is a verbal transfer of an actionable claim on a certain date and the transfer is reduced to writing the next day and the instrument refers to the transfer as having been made on the previous day, the instrument is a deed of transfer and cannot be held otherwise simply because it is expressed in the past tense. No Judge, legal practitioner or officer connected with any Court of Justice shall buy or traffic in, or stipulate for, or agree to receive any share of, or interest in, any actionable claim, and no Court of Justice shall enforce at his instance, or at the instance of any person claiming by or through him, any actionable claim, so dealt with by him as aforesaid.

Saving of negotiable instruments, etc.

137. Nothing in the foregoing sections of this Chapter applies to stocks, shares or debentures, or to instruments which are for the time being, by law or custom, negotiable, or to any mercantile document of title to goods.

Explanation. — The expression "mercantile document of title to goods" includes a bill of lading, dock warrant, warehouse-keeper's certificate, railway receipt, warrant or order for the delivery of goods, and any other document used in the ordinary course of business as proof of the possession or control of goods, or authorizing or purporting to authorize either by endorsement or by delivery, the possessor of the document to transfer or receive goods thereby represented.

[1] Any transfer in defiance of the prohibition contained in this section is void. (Vol 19) 1932 All 345 (347): 54 All 499 (D B).

[2] A purchase by a pleader of an actionable claim under a life insurance policy in execution of a decree is not vitiated by this section. (Vol 14) 1927 Cal 691 (692) (D B).

[3] A sale or an assignment by way of security of an actionable claim to any of the persons named in the section comes within the prohibition and is therefore void. [5] The section does not prohibit a mere sale by any of the persons named. (Vol 14) 1927 Pat 2 (4) (D B).

1. Shares.
2. "Instruments which are negotiable."
3. Transfer of negotiable instruments.
4. "Any mercantile document of title to goods."

1. Shares.—[1] A share is not a chose in action in India. It is a moveable property within the meaning of the Indian Companies Act, 1913, and is transferable in the manner stated in that Act (Vol 13) 1926 P C 38 (40): 50 Bom 360 : 53 Ind App 92 (P C)✠(Vol 30) 1943 Mad 74 (76) : I L R (1943) Mad 115 (D B). (Reversing (Vol 28) 1941 Mad 394: I L R (1941) Mad 419.)

2. "Instruments which are negotiable" — [1] The two essentials of negotiability are (i) that the instrument is transferable like cash, merely by delivery, and (ii) that the person holding it is able to sue, in due course, in his own name. (Vol 25) 1938 Sind 24 (27) : 32 Sind L R 640.

[2] A bona fide transferee for value of negotiable instrument acquires a good title thereto, even though his transferor had none. (Vol 5) 1918 Low Bur 122 (128) : 9 Low Bur Rul 143 (D B).

[3] A negotiable instrument partakes of the nature of a contract also, as it contains either an order or a promise to pay money. (Vol 21) 1934 Cal 549 (549) : 61 Cal 425 (D B).

[4] Promissory notes, bills of exchange and cheques are "negotiable" within the meaning of Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881, when they are payable either to order or to bearer. ('70) 14 Suth W R (O C) 5 6) (D B). (A bill of exchange)✠(Vol 21) 1934 Bom 356 (358) (DB). (Pronote payable to bearer or order.)✠(Vol 7) 1920 Low Bur 42 (43) : 10 Low Bur Rul 96 (Do) ✠ (Vol 18) 1931 Cal 387 (388) : 58 Cal 752 (D B) (Do.) ✠ ('93) 17 Mad 85 (86) (D B) (Do)✠(Vol 22) 1935 Rang 156 (157) (Do).

[5] Instruments such as various kinds of hundis, debentures payable to bearer, or scripts or bonds, have been regarded as negotiable instruments by the custom of trade (Vol 6) 1919 Lah 85 (86): 1919 Pun Re No 29 (D B) ✠ (1898) 67 L J Q B 986 (995): (1898) 2 Q B 658, Bachunaland Exploration Co. v. London Trading Co. ✠(Vol 5) 1918 Low Bur 122 (128): 9 Low Bur Rul 143 (D B).

[6] "Pahunch" is ordinary receipt and not negotiable instrument. (Vol 25) 1938 Sind 24 (27) : 32 Sind L R 640.

[7] A document of title to goods cannot be negotiable in the strict sense of the word as the endorsee of it does not get a better title than his assignor. (Vol 5) 1918 Low Bur 122 (128): 9 Low Bur Rul 143 (D B).

[8] A promissory note made payable simply to the payee is not negotiable. ('75) 1 All 732 (734) (D B) ✠ (97) 7 Mad L Jour 231 (232) (D B)✠('06) 1906 Pun Re No 144, p. 516 (518).

[9] A deposit receipt is not a negotiable instrument. (Vol 1) 1914 Bom 286 (287): 38 Bom 618 (D B).

[10] A railway receipt is not a negotiable instrument unless by special custom. (Vol 10) 1923 Rang 1 (3, 4): 11 Low Bur Rul 341 (D B).

3. Transfer of negotiable instruments.—[1] The usual mode of transfer of a negotiable instrument is by endorsement or by delivery. (Vol 22) 1935 Bom 343 (346) : 59 Bom 573 ✠ (Vol 24) 1937 Pat 100 (102) : 16 Pat 74 (F B)

[3] Negotiable Instruments Act does not prohibit assignment in any of the several ways allowed by law. (Vol 20) 1933 Mad 133 (133).

[4] Negotiable instruments are actionable claims and as such they can also be transferred by assignment under S. 130 ('05) 28 Mad 544 (545, 546) (D B)✠(Vol 1) 1914 Cal 566 (566) (D B) ✠ (Vol 8) 1921 Low Bur 92 (93, 94) 11 Low Bur Rul 174 ✠(Vol 20) 1933 Mad 133 (133) (D B) ✠ (Vol 22) 1935 Bom 343 (346) : 59 Bom 573 ✠ (Vol 19) 1932 Nag 23 (24) : 27 Nag L R 327 ✠ (Vol 21) 1934 Cal 549 (549): 61 Cal 425 (D B)✠ (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 1031 (1031, 1032): 38 Mad 297 (F B)✠('06) 9 Oudh Cas 174 (177) (D B)✠(Vol 13) 1926 Nag 206 (207).

[5] The incidents, of a transfer by assignment and of a transfer by endorsement are different. In the former case, the assignee acquires all the right, title and interest of the assignor, while an endorsee is clothed with the rights and advantages of a holder in due course (Vol 22) 1935 Bom 343 (346) : 59 Bom 573 ✠ (Vol 19) 1932 Nag 23 (25) : 27 Nag L R 327 ✠ (Vol 25) 1938 Mad 377 (379) : I L R (1938) Mad 568 (FB) ✠ ('01) 24 Mad 654 (656) (DB) ✠ (Vol 6) 1919 Lah 85 (86) : 1919 Pun Re No. 29.

[6] The assignment being subject to the rules in chap VIII the transfer is subject to all the equities and liabilities to which the transferor was subject, while in case of endorsement it is not. (Vol 21) 1934 Cal 549 (549, 550) : 61 Cal 425 (DB).

[7] The assignee being an assignee of the debt, can sue all the persons liable for the debt, while an endorsee who gets only the property in the "instrument" by the endorsement, has merely the rights on the instrument and therefore, can sue only the person whose name appears thereon. (Vol 25) 1938 Mad 377 (379) : I L R (1938) Mad 568 (FB) ✠ (Vol 21) 1934 Cal 549 (550) : 61 Cal 425 (DB)

[8] Where the endorsement is in blank, it only operates to transfer the property in the instrument and not as an assignment of the debt. (Vol 22) 1935 Mad 240 (242, 243). (Approved in (Vol 25) 1938 Mad 377 : I L R (1938) Mad 568 (FB).)

(Act XXVI of 1917.)[a]

1. (1) This Act may be called the Transfer of Property (Validating) Act, 1917.

(2) It shall extend, in the first instance, to the United Provinces of Agra and Oudh, provided that the [a][Provincial Government of any Province] may, by notification[b] in the [c][Official Gazette], extend it to [d][the whole or any part of that Province].

Validation of certain transfers made prior to the 1st of January, 1915.

2. Where a mortgage or gift purports to have been effected by an instrument executed prior to the 1st of January, 1915, and such instrument is required by the Transfer of Property Act, 1882, to be attested, such mortgage or gift shall not be deemed to be invalid by reason only that any person who purported to attest such instrument as a witness did not see the executant sign it, provided that such person before signing his name on the instrument received from the executant a personal acknowledgment of his signature to the same.

Restoration of certain claims.

3. Where a claim under any such instrument executed prior to the 1st of January, 1915, has been wholly or in part dismissed, rejected, or withdrawn, after the 30th day of July, 1912 and before the commencement of this Act, in a Court of first instance or of revision or appeal, by reason only of the fact that some person who purported to attest such instrument as a witness, on having received before signing his name thereon a personal acknowledgment from the executant of his signature to the same, did not see the executant sign it, the case may, if the dismissal, rejection or withdrawal has had the effect of invalidating, in whole or in part, the said instrument as between persons claiming thereunder, be restored on review in accordance with the procedure provided by the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, for review of judgment, on application in writing made within six months from the commencement of this Act; and on such restoration, the provisions of section 2 shall apply to such instrument :

Provided nevertheless—

(1) that every Court to whom such an application is made shall have a discretion to refuse the same if it is of opinion that such restoration would prejudice the rights of any transferee for value in good faith under any transfer made subsequent to the said 30th day of July, 1912;

(2) that in the event of a decree being passed upon such application in favour of the applicant or his legal representative, interest shall only be allowed under such instrument at the contractual rate up to the date of the original dismissal, rejection or withdrawal of such claim, and for a period of six months therefrom, and at the rate of 6 per cent. thereafter until realization; and

(3) that in the event of the case being so restored the Court shall be bound by the finding of the former Court, by or before whom the case was dismissed, rejected or withdrawn, on any issue of fact which was heard and finally determined by it.

[1] Where under S. 3 an appellate Court grants a review of its order dismissing an appeal, the effect of such order is to restore the appeal to the pending file and the Court must determine the appeal upon the merits, including an issue which had not been finally determined. (Vol 7) 1920 All 90 (91) : 42 All 430 (DB). (Former Court refers to the Court which grants the review).

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

"The law of treasure-trove is in a very unsatisfactory state. At present, there is one law in Madras and another in Bengal, while it is doubtful what the law is in Bombay, and in the three Presidency towns probably the English law prevails. Moreover, the law everywhere is bad and ineffective, and gives every inducement to finders to conceal or make away with their discoveries; and yet there is a good deal of treasure buried in India, and much of it of very high antiquarian and historical interest.

Under these circumstances, the present Bill has been prepared. It provides, among other things, that—

(a) the finder shall give notice to the Collector of the District of the discovery of treasure, and either deposit the treasure in the Government Treasury, or give security for producing it when required;

(b) notice shall be given by the Collector to the owner or owners of the land where the treasure was found;

(c) the discovery of the treasure shall be advertised, and all claimants desired to come forward within six months;

(d) if there is reason to believe that the treasure was hidden or deposited more than a hundred years previously, no claim of any outside person shall be admitted;

(e) in the case of treasure found in a public place, such as in digging a road, a railway, or a canal, such treasure shall vest, if more than a hundred years old, or if unclaimed, in the proportion of three-fourths in the finder and one-fourth in Government; and

(f) if the land or other property on which the treasure is found belongs to a private party, then the latter shall receive the Government share, unless the finder has made any previous agreement with such owner or owners, in which case the division shall be regulated according to that agreement.

The Bill adopts the principle of certain recent legislation in the north of Europe, which has practically worked well."

Notice by finder of treasure.

(a) of the nature and amount or approximate value of such treasure ;

(b) of the place in which it was found ;

(c) of the date of the finding ;

and either deposit the treasure in the nearest Government Treasury, or give the Collector such security as the Collector thinks fit, to produce the treasure at such time and place as he may from time to time require.

(a) he shall publish a notification in such manner as the [a][Provincial] Government from time to time prescribes in this behalf to the effect that on a certain date (mentioning it) certain treasure (mentioning its nature, amount and approximate value) was found in a certain place (mentioning it), and requiring all persons claiming the treasure or any part thereof to appear personally or by agent before the Collector on a day and at a place therein mentioned, such day not being earlier than four months, or later than six months, after the date of the publication of such notification ;

[1] The meaning of the word "treasure" as given in the Dictionary denotes previous ignorance as to the existence of the thing at or near the place where it comes to light. (Vol 33) 1946 Nag 362 (363) : I L R (1946) Nag 815 : 47 Cri L Jour 674.

[1] The word "finder" used in S. 4 must be understood as discovery by chance and that connotes ignorance on the part of the finder before the discovery. (Vol 33) 1946 Nag 362 (364) I L R (1946) Nag 815 : 47 Cri L Jour 674. (Woman with knowledge that her ornaments had been hidden by her husband digging it out—She is not a finder but the labourers whom she engaged to dig are 'finders'.)✠(Vol 2) 1915 Mad 78 (79) : 15 Cri L Jour 632. (Labourers engaged to dig out a treasure are finders.')

[2] Impossibility of the 'finder' to discharge the obligation to deposit the treasure will absolve him from the performance of it. (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 78 (79) : 15 Cr L Jour 632 ✠ (Vol 33) 1946 Nag 362 (365) : I L R (1946) Nag 815 : 47 Cri L Jour 674 (Obligation to deposit a treasure in the treasury does not rest on a person who has not the physical control over the property.)

[1] Possession of land carries with it possession of everything which is attached to under that land and in the absence of a person with a better title to what is found under the land, the possessor of the land has the right to possess that also. ('08) 31 Mad 397 (399, 400) (D B).

(b) when the place in which the treasure appears to the Collector to have been found was at the date of the finding in the possession of some person other than the finder the Collector shall also serve on such person a special notice in writing to the same effect

[a] Substituted by A. O. for "Local".

[1] Section 6 contemplates persons having rights as owners of the place where the property is found but does not declare a substantive law that the owner of the soil is entitled to the treasure-trove. ('95) 19 Bom 668 (672) (DB).

[2] Person accused of theft pointing out the place where the stolen property was buried — While unearthing the same another bag containing some money and ornaments also unearthed — Magistrate suspecting the commission of offence in respect of it calling for claimants to come forward under S. 523 of Criminal P. C.—Talukdar and owner of the field claiming the same — Suit on claim being rejected — Held that the Treasure-Trove Act did not apply to the case as no notice was given by the finder under it. ('95) 19 Bom 668 (672) (DB).

If the finder and the person so claiming have not entered into any agreement then in force as to the disposal of the treasure, three-fourths of the treasure shall be allotted to such finder, and the residue to such person. If such finder and such person have entered into any such agreement the treasure shall be disposed of in accordance therewith:

Provided that the Collector may in any case, if he thinks fit, instead of dividing any treasure as directed by this section,—

(a) allot to either party the whole or more than his share of such treasure, on such party paying to the Collector for the other party such sum of money as the Collector may fix as the equivalent of the share of such other party, or of the excess so allotted, as the case may be; or

(b) sell such treasure or any portion thereof by public auction, and divide the sale-proceeds between the parties according to the rule hereinbefore prescribed.
